LEASE PROBE NEARING CLIMAX

VOTE MONDAY ON RESOLUTION AGAINST DENBY

(International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The naval oil leasing scandal labored today toward a climax and new sensations.

To the mass of revelations already unearthed by the senate investigating committee today was added the charge by Fred G. Bonfils, Denver publisher, that Harry F. Sinclair, the Pioneer Oil company, the Midwest Refining company, the Standard Oil company of Indiana and other allied concerns worked "in harmony" to transfer Teapot Dome to Sinclair interests and force out other bidders. To this end, it was said, Sinclair paid millions of dollars in satisfying rival claims.

At the same time, Bonfils indignantly denied that the policy of his newspaper had been influenced by any of the payments made by Sinclair to silence other claims, as charged by Senator Lenroot, republican of Wisconsin, in a heated colloquy with the publisher.

Other developments were:

1.—The senate, after a week of debate, reached an agreement to vote not later than 5 p. m., Monday on the resolution requesting the resignation of Secretary of the Navy Denby. A poll of the senate by International News Service indicates its passage.

2.—Information reached by the public lands committee that 8,000,000 barrels of oil are in storage at Teapot Dome ready to be shipped away if possible before injunction suits are started to prevent further extraction of oil from the reserve.

3.—William Gibbs McAdoo was notified to appear before the committee Monday to explain his connection with the Doheny oil interests.

To Take Up Nominations.

4.—The public lands committee will consider Monday, also, the nominations of Silas H. Strawn and Atlee Pomerene, as special counsel to prosecute the oil cases. There will be opposition to the confirmation.

5.—Stock brokers under subpoena were notified to be on hand next week for examination as to what high federal officials profited in deals in Sinclair and Doheny stock.

6.—Senator Jones, republican of Washington, introduced an amendment to the Robinson resolution eliminating the "demand upon President Coolidge," that Denby be ousted, substituting instead that "it is the sense of the senate that the public interest would be served by the resignation of Secretary Denby."

Bonfils declared Leo Stack, wealthy Denver oil man, told him that "Doheny, Sinclair, the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Midwest crowd agreed to let Sinclair get Teapot Dome. And because they had no interests in California they were willing to let Doheny have the naval reserves out there. They entered into this agreement and the leases were made that way."

Bonfils said this led to institution of suit by Stack to recover on a contract made with the Midwest group whereby Stack agreed to get the Teapot Dome lease for them. Stack had claims in Teapot Dome.

Senator Walsh, democrat of Montana, however, read documents showing that the government on two occasions had repudiated his claims upon the naval reserve.

Fight Is Brewing.

It was learned tonight that the fight brewing in democratic and insurgent ranks over the appointments of Strawn and Pomerene would be directed along two main lines:

1.—That neither are sufficiently experienced to handle the type of legal proceedings demanded in the government's oil cases, and.

2.—That both men in virtually all their professional work have been connected with "big business."

Whether the opposition will be strong enough to block confirmation of the appointments could not be definitely ascertained in the absence of any formal action by the committee.

The suggestion was advanced in reliable quarters that confirmation would be forthcoming, despite known objections, if only for the reason that the senates is particularly anxious that injunction suits be started immediately in view of the report that 8,000,000 barrels of oil are above ground at Teapot Dome ready to be distributed.

Speeches upon the Denby ouster resolution by Senators Shortridge, republican of California, and Walsh, democrat of Massachusetts, blocked a vote on that measure today. Shortridge held the floor for four hours in a defense of Denby; Walsh demand-

Denby Not to Quit His Post

EDWIN DENBY.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—"I have no intention whatsoever of resigning."

With these words, Edwin Denby, secretary o fthe navy, flatly denied tonight reports that he would tender his resignation to President Coolidge Monday night, immediately after passage by the sentae of the Robinson resolution calling for his dismissal from the cabinet because of his connection with the leasing of the naval oil reserves.

Five Injured In A Bus Accident

GULFPORT, Miss., Feb. 9.—Five persons were reported injured, two seriously, when a southland Gulf and Ship Island railroad train struck a northbound Hattiesburg bus at Landon, Miss., late today.

The inured: E. J. Granton, Gatesville; Amelia Green, negress; H. Cassn, S. Hamburger, and Earl rison.

CHIEF SUSPENDS GROSS FOR WEEK

Motorcycle Officer Said to Have Shot and Killed Pet Dog.

Motorcycle Officer Major Gross was suspended for one week, starting Feb. 10, for "conduct unbecoming an officer.," according to an order issued Saturday night by Chief of Police Johnstone.

Gross is said to have shot and killed a dog Friday afternoon which he thought was attempting to bite him while riding his motorcycle. Only humane society officers are allowed to do this, according to Chief Johnstone, and police officers are forbidden to do so.

The dog belonged to Lucius I. Frisble, 3269 Starr street, according to the chief, and was a family pet.

Henry Ford Is Youngster For A Single Night

SOUTH SUDBURY, Mass., Feb. 9.—Henry Ford, the richest man in the world, became a youngster again tonight, the most mischevious sport in a party that danced the dances of another day at the "house warming" in Longfellow's wayside inn.

Hundreds stood along the road and craned their necks for a glimpse of Ford as he whirled and dipped and called the figures in old fashioned dances to the strains of an old fashioned fiddlers' bow.

NEW PLAN TO SETTLE DEBT

Paris Newspaper Quoted As Saying United States Willing to Accept French West Indies As Payment Of War Obligation.

(International News Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 10.—A Paris dispatch to the Sunday Express quotes the French newspaper Excelsior as saying it has information that the United States is willing to accept the French West Indies as payment of the French war debt.

The French newspaper stated that negotiations have been in progress for some time.

It was learned in London from good authority that Great Britain is unwilling to negotiate a debt settlement upon any such basis.

THOMPSON OUT FOR JUDGESHIP

MOVE SURPRISE IN POLITICAL CIRCLES

Decision Leaves Arthur F. Mullen Clear Field for Committee Job and Paves Way for Harmony Slate in The Primaries.

Announcement that W. H. Thompson of Grand Island, present democratic national committeeman for Nebraska and hitherto a candidate for re-election to that place, would enter the race for supreme judge in the Fifth district and leave Arthur F. Mullen of Omaha a clear field for national committeeman, came as a surprise development in state political circles late Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Thompson's move was made following a conference between himself and Governor Bryan at the latter's office two or three days ago, and similar conferences with some of his Omaha friends. It not only puts the Grand Island man in line for a judicial position with a salary of $7,500 a year attached, but it averts an impending factional contest in the democratic state primary which might have been embarrassing to Governor Bryan and other candidates.

With Mr. Thompson eliminated as a bidder for his old place on the national committee, the prospect of a fight over that post disappears. Thompson was the Bryan candidate for the committeeship four years ago, defeating Arthur Mullen, who had the Hitchcock endorsement. Now that he has quit the race, everything is in good shape for a harmony slate in the primaries, headed by Bryan for governor, Mullen for national committeeman, and whomever the leaders

GIRL'S HAIR IS CLIPPED BY THIEF

Man Cuts Tresses of Fourteen Year Old Norma Klein, of Milford.

Grabs High School Girl Near Home of Her Aunt In South Lincoln.

Darting from behind a clump of bushes near Seventeenth and South streets, an unknown "hair-thief" clipped a braided strand of hair from the head of Norma Klein, 14-year-old Milford high school girl, about 7:15 Saturday night, escaping down the alley. The girl was hysterical following the attempt to steal her hair and coud give no description of the man.

Norma had taken a music lesson in Lincoln during the afternoon, and had missed her train home at 6:30 p. m. She was on her way to the home of her aunt, Mrs. Emma J. Lautzenheiser, at 1720 South street.

"When she got to the door she pushed the button she could hardly speak she was so hysterical," her aunt said.

"She got off of the street car two blocks north and after stopping in a grocery store came on to our place.

Is Badly Frightened.

"Norma was terribly frightened and cutting across the street ran in here. She had some of the hair she had picked up," the aunt said, showing the sewved tresses.

The girl was unable to tell whether the man was large or small or what had been used to cut the hair.

Officers were not notified until about 10:25, police stated.

Lieutenant of Detective Joe Rymer and Detective N. F. Schneible made an investigation, but said they were unable to secure an adequate decription of the man from the girl and that no trace of him had been found in south Lincoln.

The officers were of the opinion that the man probably escaped by running back up the alley.

The girl is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Klein, of Milford. Mr. Klein is proprietor of a hardware store there.

The parents were notified by telephone and drove to Lincoln Saturday night, before the police were called, according to Lieutenant Rymer.

PLAN SPEEDY TRIAL.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—Plans are underway tonight for speedy trial for twenty-seven men indicted by a federal grand jury Friday as conspirators in a million dollar mail order bootlegging plot to "flood the nation" with synthetic booze, it was learned at the United States attorney's office.

To Seek Place On High Bench

W. H. Thompson of Grand Island, democratic national committeeman for Nebraska, who has withdrawn as a candidate for re-election to that place, and entered the race for supreme judge in the Fifth district.

SAY OUTLOOK IS BRIGHTER

Fewer Dark Clouds In Business Skies In Nebraska for 1924 Than Any Time For Three Years Past.

REPORTS INDICATE CONDITIONS BETTER

OMAHA, Feb. 9.—The business outlook in Nebraska for 1924, as seen by managers of building, savings and loan associations, holds fewer shadows than have been observed for three years past. Reports received by T. J. Fitzmorris, secretary of the state league, from men in daily touch wth saving and home-buying people indicate impoved conditions and greater confidence in the communities heard from.

Out of thirty-three reports from cities outside of Omaha fourteen declare "business prospects good;" seven regard the outlook as "very fine;" five report "prospects exceptionally fine;" three say "the outlook is better than a year ago.' one says "prospects not as good as in 1923;" another says "outlook even better than last year;" and one "slow."

The cities included in the reports are Lincoln, Nebraska City, Beatrice, Tecumseh, Seward, Hastings, David City, Grand Island, North Platte, Columbus, Fremont, Norfolk, Hartington, Ord, Aurora and Wahoo.

With only two exceptions the reports are uniformly optimistic and confident. Among the co-operative associations of Omaha the outlook is equally cheerful and satisfactory.

The business development of Nebraska associations during 1923 surpassed the post-war boom year of 1920. Reports from forty leading associations compiled by the league secretary show assets totaling $105,000,000, a gain of $14,000,000, or 15 per cent, in twelve months. If the associations not reporting have maintained the average percentage gain th eassets of all associations in the state on the first of the year approximated $114,000,000, indicating a fiscal year total around $122,000,000, on June 3 next, compared with $18,798,989 last June.

RIEFSCHNEIDER JURY DISCHARGED

Defendant's Second Trial On Forgery Charge—Once Convicted.

After deliberating more than forty-eight hours without reaching a verdict, the jurymen in the case of John Riefschneider, charged with forgery, were discharged, with them Clarence W. Cook, who was informed of the death of his 10 year old son while the jury was still out.

This was Riefschneider's second trial. He was once before convicted of the charge and was granted a new trial on grounds of newly discovered evidence. Jurymen stated that the ballot stood six to six throughout the deliberations.

HI JOHNSON COMING HERE

TO CONFER WITH NEBRASKA WORKERS

Campaign Manager Says Senator May Be Billed to Give Banquet Speech at Omaha and Address at York.

Hiram Johnson, rival of Calvin Coolidge for the republican presidential nomination, will speak in Lincoln at the Auditorium on the afternoon of Monday, February 18, and may give other addresses in Nebraska on that date and the 19th. His coming was announced Saturday evening by Frank A. Harrison, his state campaign manager.

Senator Johnson will conclude a speaking tour in Illinois and Missouri with a meeting in St. Louis next Saturday evening, and from there will come to Lincoln either Sunday or on an early train Monday. His further itinerary in Nebraska, if there is to be any, will be arranged by Manager Harrison after communicating with the senator.

If Johnson's time will permit, he may be billed for a banquet speech at Omaha on Monday evening, the 18th, and possibly at York or some other

MEXICANS HOLD UP WOMEN AND OBTAIN MONEY

Use Bayonet As Weapon and Bind Three Victims While Making Search.

Using a bayonet as a weapon, two Mexicans entered a house at 430 South First street about 9 p. m. Saturday, and after binding the hands of Mrs. Francisco Baracias and Enricta Barags and forcing Besente Sandobal to lie on a bed, ransacked the house, taking a check for $56 and a $10 bill. Two wrist watches were taken from the women.

The victims are Mexicans.

The two Mexicans had been boarding at the house, but their names were unknown to the occupants, Sandobal said. They overlooked $210 in postal savings stamps.

One of the holdups was tall and the other short. The taller wore a moustache. Both wore caps and overcoats.

Officers had not located them early Sunday morning.

"They entered the house and told me to give up my money," Sandobal said, "but I told them I didn't have any. Then they swore at me and opened the trunks."

The wrists of the two women, were chafed by the ropes with which they were bound and one had marks on the throat where she had been choked. Neither of the two women can speak English, having been in the United States only about half a year. They are sisters.

The robbers were unmasked, according to the three victims.

'Bobbed Hair' Girl Bandit Of Brooklyn Makes a New Haul

Two men confederates aided in the holdup.

FIVE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Machine Overturns and Occupants Thrown Out—Not Seriously Hurt.

Five persons received were injured Saturday night when a Dodge touring car driven by Emil Bauer, collided with the truck in which they were riding, over-turning the truck and throwing the occupants out. The truck was driven by Charles Hansen, 1600 Burr street, according to the report received by the police. The accident occurred about 8:45 at the corner of Thirteenth and Washington streets.

According to State Sheriff Tom Carroll the injured persons were Mrs. Minnie Hansen, Charles Hansen's mother, 715 Washington, her two daughters, Ruth and Freida, and her mother, Mrs. S. Schultz and Miss Lena Schultz of Walton. Mr. Carroll lives within a block of where the accident took place and helped care for the injured persons. All except Mr. Hansen received cuts and bruises. Mrs. Schultz' hand was injured and Miss Frieda Hansen received an injury to her jaw. They were taken to Mrs. Schultz' home.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Attempts to interview Captain Robert Goelet, against whom dispatches say divorce proceedings were begun in Paris today by his wife the former Princess Fernanda Riabouchinsky, failed tonight when it was learned that he was out of the city.

Wisconsin Faces A New Blockade

(United Press.)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 9.—Wisconsin tonight faces anothers tieup as the result of a heavy snow which has been falling in northern and central Wisconsin during the day and which continued tonight.

Manitowoc, Stevens Point and Berlin all reported heavy snowfall during the day. At Milwaukee snow fell at intervals during the day while tonight the fall was steady and heavy.

Streets, roadways and railroad tracks, which were blocked by the blizzard of Monday and Tuesday, were again threatened by the snow and there was every indication that many cities of the state would be snowbound by morning if the fall continues.

TROOPS PATROL HERRIN STREETS

Militiamen Prepared for Further Outbreaks---Adjutant General Advised Situation More Serious.

(United Press.)

Three companies of state militia, brought here on order of Adjutant General Carlos Black, patrolled the dimly lighted streets, ready for action in case of further outbreaks between the Ku Klux Klan and "Knights of the Flaming Circle," a rival organization. Dry raids precipitated the present trouble.

Mayor C. E. Anderson, Sheriff George Galligan and nine men whom S. Glenn Younk, "dry chief," charged are professional gunmen deputized by Galligan were arrested by military authorities. They are charged with the murder of Constable Caesar Cagle, Klan leader, shot and killed last night when he entered a hall where a meeting was held by anti-klan forces.

Martial law in "Egypt" will be declared as soon as more troops arrive. Five companies are in the county now and ten more are enroute.

Young stated tonight he had been sworn in as chief of police after Chief John Ford was spirited away from the city by Galligan's men who said they feared mob violence.

A prominent citizen killed, a deputy sheriff near death from a bullet wound, the sheriff of the county charged with the murder. S. Glenn Young, dapper "prohibition czar" of Williamson county, proclaimed acting law enforcement officer, the town made notorious by the Herrin mine riots of June, 1922, welcomed the troops as the only hope for peace.

George Galligan, sheriff of Williamson county, was arrested by Young and his aides and held in jail here on a charge of killing Cagle, Young's "first lieutenant." Cagle was attacked by a mob last night, severely beaten and then killed by rifle fire. Gilligan, according to Young, was the leader of the mob.

Recovery Doubtful.

John Layman, chief deputy sheriff, also accused of participating in the attack upon Cagle, was later wounded in a gun battle. He was taken to the hospital where his chances for recovery were considered slim.

The second outbreak of violence occurred at the hospital when a group of Layman's friends called to inquire of his condition. Young and his followers came at the same moment to arrest them. Shots were exchanged between the two groups but none was seriously wounded.

Warfare in Williamson county was precipitated by Young, who took over enforcement of the prohibition laws when he declared Sheriff Galligan was failing in his duty. Young led hundreds of klansmen on scores of raids throughout the county. The klan raiders, according to Galligan and his followers, looted and pillaged property.

Three companies of troops are now quartered in the city hall and the Elks club. Several other companies are on their way to add to the state's forces.

Young Issues Charge.

Young charged in a statement this evening that "assassins sent Cagle's 9-year-old son to tell him he was wanted at Masonic hall and when he arrived downtown, he was shot down like a dog."

Young's statement described the battle at the hospital.

"After I arrived in Herrin following the assassination of Cagle, a deputy sheriff, some deputized citizens and myself went to the Herrin hospital, armed with warrants for eight men charged with Cagle's murder.

"We knocked at the front door and said we were officers of the law.

"To this, a volley of shots from inside the door was the answer. There were several volleys. It was a mystery to me why none of us was injured.

"We backed off and fire was opened on us from upstairs. We fired shots in but from fear of injuring patients, we refrained from answering further shots and placed a guard around the hospital which we maintained until the arrival of troops."

The statement admitted it was Young who swore out the warrant charging Sheriff Galligan with the murder of Cagle.

More Troops Are Sent to Trouble Zone

(United Press.)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 9.—Ten additional national guard units which were ordered to mobilize this morning are on their way to Herrin.

The order to proceed to Williamson County was issued latethis afternoon by Adjutant General Carlos Black after he had been advised that the situation was growing more serious.

The 132nd infantry of Chicago, commended by Col. William Swanson, was ordered to mobilize and be prepared to go to Williamson county on short notice. Companies from Peoria, Canton, Quincy, Delevan and Jacksonville, attached to the 130th infantry, were also ordered to mobilize.

A special train carrying two hundred soldiers from Springfield left for Herrin at 5 o'clock and was scheduled to arrive thereat 11 p. m. Adjutant General Black was aboard the troop train and probably will assume command upon his arrival at Herrin.

FORBES SCORED IN NEW REPORT

Wretched Incompetence, Waste And Dishonesty Charged In Findings Of Committee Which Investigates Veterans' Bureau.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Denunciation of "wretched incompetence, waste and dishonesty" in the veterans' bureau during the administration of former Director Charles R. Forbes, was made in a second report submitted to the senate today by the committee that spent nine months investigating the bureau.

Accompanying the committee report was a separate report made by General John F. O'Ryan, committee counsel, in which Forbes was denounced in strong terms as a "buccaneer."

"The disheartening truth," the committee's report said, "is that many o fthe men who had charge of the bureau during that period flouted the sacred trust that had been imposed in them and their treatment of disabled soldiers and sailors was harsh, unfair and often brutal."

New Move to Extend Credit

(International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The senate late this afternoon adopted a resolution extending the powers of the war finance corporation for nine months from February 29, the date on which the agency otherwise would have gone out of existence.

Adoption of this measure is the first step in the Coolidge administration's plan for relieving the stringent credit situation in the northwest.

Says Wife Wed For His Money; Seeks Divorce

Within a few months after she married him, Hilda Rosendahl Jones left her husband, taking with her his clothes and valuable papers, with the statement that "she married him for his money and intended to get it," according to a divorce petition filed in district court Saturday by the husband, Clarence I. Jones.

Jones also cains that his wife told him she was not married but that a few days after their marriage she brought two little Rosendahl children to the home and told him that she had been married twice before.

They were married at Council Bluffs, May 9, 1923, the petition says.

LEASE PROBE NEARING CLIMAX

(International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The naval oil leasing scandal labored today toward a climax and new sensations.

To the mass of revelations already unearthed by the senate investigating committee today was added the charge by Fred G. Bonfils, Denver publisher, that Harry F. Sinclair, the Pioneer Oil company, the Midwest Refining company, the Standard Oil company of Indiana and other allied concerns worked "in harmony" to transfer Teapot Dome to Sinclair interests and force out other bidders. To this end, it was said, Sinclair paid millions of dollars in satisfying rival claims.

5.—Stock brokers under subpoena were notified to be on hand next week for examination as to what high federal official profited in deals in Sinclair and Doheny stock.

6.—Senator Jones, republican of Washington, introduced an amendment to the Robinson resolution eliminating the "demand upon President Coolidge," that Denby be ousted, substituting instead that "it is the sense of the senate that the public interest would be served by the resignation of Secretary Denby."

Bonfils declared Leo Stack, wealthy Denver oil man, told him that "Doheny, Sinclair, the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Midwest crowd agreed to let Sinclair get Teapot Dome. And because they had no interests in California they were willing to let Doheny have the naval reserves out there. They entered into this agreement and the leases were made that way."

Bonfils said this led to institution of suit by Stack to recover on a contract made with the Midwest group whereby Stack agreed to get the Teapot Dome lease for them. Stack had claims in Teapot Dome.

Senator Walsh, democrat of Montana, however, read documents showing that the government on two occasions had repudiated his claims upon the naval reserve.

Fight Is Brewing.

It was learned tonight that the fight brewing in democratic and insurgent ranks over the appointments of Strawn and Pomerene would be directed along two main lines:

1.—That neither are sufficiently experienced to handle the type of legal proceedings demanded in the government's oil cases, and,

2.—That both men in virtually all their professional work have been connected with "big business."

GIRL'S HAIR IS CLIPPED BY THIEF

Man Cuts Tresses of Fourteen Year Old Norma Klein, of Milford.

Grabs High School Girl Near Home of Her Aunt In South Lincoln.

Darting from behind a clump of bushes near Seventeenth and South streets, an unknown "hair-thief" clipped a braided strand of hair from the head of Norma Klein, 14-year-old Miford high school girl, about 7:15 Saturday night, escaping down the alley. The girl was hysterical following the attempt to steal her hair and coud give no description of the man.

Norma had taken a music lesson in Lincoln during the afternoon, and had missed her train home at 6:30 p. m. She was on her way to the home of her aunt, Mrs. Emma J. Lautzenheiser, at 1720 South street.

"When she got to the door she pushed the button she could hardly speak she was so hysterical," her aunt said.

"She got off of the street car two blocks north and after stopping in a grocery store came on to our place.

Is Badly Frightened.

"Norma was terribly frightened and cutting across the street ran in here. She had some of the hair she had picked up," the aunt said, showing the severed tresses.

The girl was unable to tell whether the man was large or small or what had been used to cut the hair.

Officers were not notified until about 10:25, police stated.

Lieutenant of Detective Joe Rymer and Detective N. F. Schneible made an investigation, but said they were unable to secure an adequate description of the man from the girl and that no trace of him had been found in south Lincoln.

The officers were of the opinion that the man probably escaped by running back up the alley.

The girl is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Klein, of Milford. Mr. Klein is proprietor of a hardware store there.

The parents were notified by telephone and drove to Lincoln Saturday night, before the police were called, according to Lieutenant Rymer.

PLAN SPEEDY TRIAL.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—Plans are underway tonight for speedy trial for twenty-seven men indicted by a federal grand jury Friday as conspirators in a million dollar mail order bootlegging plot to "flood the nation" with synthetic booze, it was learned at the United States attorney's office.

CHIEF SUSPENDS GROSS FOR WEEK

Motorcycle Officer Said to Have Shot and Killed Pet Dog.

Motorcycle Officer Major Gross was suspended for one week starting Feb. 10, for "conduct unbecoming an officer," according to an order issued Saturday night by Chief of Police Johnstone.

Gross is said to have shot and killed a dog Friday afternoon which he thought was attempting to bite him while riding his motorcycle. Only humane society officers are allowed to do this, according to Chief Johnstone, and police officers are forbidden to do so.

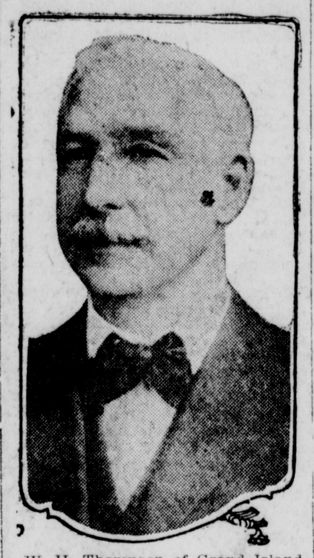

The dog belonged to Luicius I. Frisbie, 3269 Starr street, according to the chief, and was a family pet.

Henry Ford Is Youngster For A Single Night

SOUTH SUDBURY, Mass., Feb. 9.—Henry Ford, the richest man in the world, became a youngster again tonight, the most mischevious sport in a party that danced the dances of another day at the "house warming" in Longfellow's wayside inn.

Hundreds stood along the road and craned their necks for a glimpse of Ford as he whirled and dipped and called the figures in old fashioned dances to the strains of an old fashioned fiddlers' bow.

W. H. Thompson of Grand Island, democratic national committeeman for Nebraska, who has withdrawn as a candidate for re-election to that place, and entered the race for supreme judge in the Fifth district.

SAY OUTLOOK IS BRIGHTER

Fewer Dark Clouds In Business Skies In Nebraska for 1924 Than Any Time For Three Years Past.

REPORTS INDICATE CONDITIONS BETTER

OMAHA, Feb. 9.—The business outlook in Nebraska for 1924, as seen by managers of building, savings and loan associations, holds fewer shadows than have been observed for three years past. Reports received by T. J. Fitzmorris, secretary of the state league, from men in daily touch with saving and home-buying people indicate impoved conditions and greater confidence in the communities heard from.

Out of thirty-three reports from cities outside of Omaha fourteen declare "business prospects good;" seven regard the outlook as "very fine;" five report "prospects exceptionally fine;" three say "the outlook is better than a year ago.' one says "prospects not as good as in 1923;" another says "outlook even better than last year;" and one "slow."

The cities included in the reports are Lincoln, Nebraska City, Beatrice, Tecumseh, Seward, Hastings, David City, Grand Island, North Platte, Columbus, Fremont, Norfolk, Hartington, Ord, Aurora and Wahoo.

With only two exceptions the reports are uniformly optimistic and confident. Among the co-operative associations of Omaha the outlook is equally cheerful and satisfactory.

The business development of Nebraska associations during 1923 surpassed the post-war boom year of 1920. Reports from forty leading associations compiled by the league secretary show assets totaling $105,000,000, a gain of $14,000,000, or 15 per cent, in twelve months. If the associations not reporting have maintained the average percentage gain th eassets of all associations in the state on the first of the year approximated $114,000,000, indicating a fiscal year total around $122,000,000, on June 3 next, compared with $18,798,989 last June.

RIEFSCHNEIDER JURY DISCHARGED

Defendant's Second Trial On Forgery Charge—Once Convicted.

After deliberating more than forty-eight hours without reaching a verdict, the jurymen in the case of John Riefschneider, charged with forgery, were discharged, with them Clarence W. Cook, who was informed of the death of his 10 year old son while the jury was still out.

This was Riefschneider's second trial. He was once before convicted of the charge and was granted a new trial on grounds of newly discovered evidence. Jurymen stated that the ballot stood six to six throughout the deliberations.

HI JOHNSON COMING HERE

TO CONFER WITH NEBRASKA WORKERS

Campaign Manager Says Senator May Be Billed to Give Banquet Speech at Omaha and Address at York.

Hiram Johnson, rival of Calvin Coolidge for the republican presidential nomination, will speak in Lincoln at the Auditorium on the afternoon of Monday, February 18, and may give other addresses in Nebraska on that date and the 19th. His coming was announced Saturday evening by Frank A. Harrison, his state campaign manager.

Senator Johnson will conclude a speaking tour in Illinois and Missouri with a meeting in St. Louis next Saturday evening, and from there will come to Lincoln either Sunday or on an early train Monday. His further itinerary in Nebraska, if there is to be any, will be arranged by Manager Harrison after communicating with the senator.

If Johnson's time will permit, he may be billed for a banquet speech at Omaha on Monday evening, the 18th, and possibly at York or some other

LISBON, Feb. 9.—The American steamer Pacific with a cargo of oil, sank today after being driven upon the rocks of Lisbon bar. The entire crew was rescued.

After a breakdown of her engines the ship drifted helplessly and was driven by wind on the rocks.

MEXICANS HOLD UP WOMEN AND OBTAIN MONEY

Use Bayonet As Weapon and Bind Three Victims While Making Search.

Using a bayonet as a weapon, two Mexicans entered a house at 430 South First street about 9 p. m. Saturday, and after binding the hands of Mrs. Francisco Baracias and Enriceta Barags and forcing Besente Sandobal to lie on a bed, ransacked the house, taking a check for $56 and a $10 bill. Two wrist watches were taken from the women.

The victims are Mexicans.

The two Mexicans had been boarding at the house, but their names were unknown to the occupants, Sandobal said. They overlooked $210 in postal savings stamps.

One of the holdups was tall and the other short. The taller wore a moustache. Both wore caps and overcoats.

Officers had not located them early Sunday morning.

"They entered the house and told me to give up my money," Sandobal said, "but I told them I didn't have any. Then they swore at me and opened the trunks."

The wrists of the two women, were chafed by the ropes with which they were bound and one had marks on the throat where she had been choked. Neither of the two women can speak English, having been in the United States only about half a year. They are sisters.

The robbers were unmasked, according to the three victims.

'Bobbed Hair' Girl Bandit Of Brooklyn Makes a New Haul

Two men confederates aided in the holdup.

Five persons received were injured Saturday night when a Dodge touring car driven by Emil Bauer, collided with the truck in which they were riding, over-turning the truck and throwing the occupants out. The truck was driven by Charles Hansen, 1600 Burr street, according to the report received by the police. The accident occurred about 8:45 at the corner of Thirteenth and Washington streets.

According to State Sheriff Tom Carroll the injured persons were Mrs. Minnie Hansen, Charles Hansen's mother, 715 Washington, her two daughters, Ruth and Freida, and her mother, Mrs. S. Schultz and Miss Lena Schultz of Walton. Mr. Carroll lives within a block of where the accident took place and helped care for the injured persons. All except Mr. Hansen received cuts and bruises. Mrs. Schultz' hand was injured and Miss Frieda Hansen received an injury to her jaw. They were taken to Mrs. Schultz' home.

INTERVIEWERS FAIL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Attempts to interview Captain Robert Goelet, against whom dispatches say divorce proceedings were begun in Paris today by his wife the former Princess Fernanda Riabouchinsky, failed tonight when it was learned that he was out of the city.

Wisconsin Faces A New Blockade

(United Press.)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 9.—Wisconsin tonight faces anothers tieup as the result of a heavy snow which has been falling in northern and central Wisconsin during the day and which continued tonight.

Manitowoc, Stevens Point and Berlin all reported heavy snowfall during the day. At Milwaukee snow fell at intervals during the day while tonight the fall was steady and heavy.

Streets, roadways and railroad tracks, which were blocked by the blizzard of Monday and Tuesday, were again threatened by the snow and there was every indication that many cities of the state would be snowbound by morning if the fall continues.

TROOPS PATROL HERRIN STREETS

Militiamen Prepared for Further Outbreaks---Adjutant General Advised Situation More Serious.

(United Press.)

HERRIN, Ill., Feb. 9.—"Bloody Herrin" kept the peace tonight at the point of the bayonet.

Three companies of state militia, brought here on order of Adjutant General Carlos Black, patrolled the dimly lighted streets, ready for action in case of further outbreaks between the Ku Klux Klan and "Knights of the Flaming Circle," a rival organization. Dry raids precipitated the present trouble.

More Troops Are Sent to Trouble Zone

(United Press.)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 9.—Ten additional national guard units which were ordered to mobilize this morning are on their way to Herrin.

The order to proceed to Williamson County was issued latethis afternoon by Adjutant General Carlos Black after he had been advised that the situation was growing more serious.

The 132nd infantry of Chicago, commended by Col. William Swanson, was ordered to mobilize and be prepared to go to Williamson county on short notice. Companies from Peoria, Canton, Quincy, Delevan and Jacksonville, attached to the 130th infantry, were also ordered to mobilize.

A special train carrying two hundred soldiers from Springfield left for Herrin at 5 o'clock and was scheduled to arrive thereat 11 p. m. Adjutant General Black was aboard the troop train and probably will assume command upon his arrival at Herrin.

Mayor C. E. Anderson, Sheriff George Galligan and nine men whom S. Glenn Younk, "dry chief," charged are professional gunmen deputized by Galligan were arrested by military authorities. They are charged with the murder of Constable Caesar Cagle, Klan leader, shot and killed last night when he entered a hall where a meeting was held by anti-klan forces.

Martial law in "Egypt" will be declared as soon as more troops arrive. Five companies are in the county now and ten more are enroute.

Young stated tonight he had been sworn in as chief of police after Chief John Ford was spirited away from the city by Galligan's men who said they feared mob violence.

A prominent citizen killed, a deputy sheriff near death from a bullet wound, the sheriff of the county charged with the murder. S. Glenn Young, dapper "prohibition czar" of Williamson county, proclaimed acting law enforcement officer, the town made notorious by the Herrin mine riots of June, 1922, welcomed the troops as the only hope for peace.

George Galligan, sheriff of Williamson county, was arrested by Young and his aides and held in jail here on a charge of killing Cagle Young's "first lieutenant." Cagle was attacked by a mob last night, severely beaten and then killed by rifle fire. Gilligan, according to Young, was the leader of the mob.

Recovery Doubtful.

John Layman, chief deputy sheriff, also accused of participating in the attack upon Cagle, was later wounded in a gun battle. He was taken to the hospital where his chances for recovery were considered slim.

The second outbreak of violence occurred at the hospital when a group of Layman's friends called to inquire of his condition. Young and his followers came at the same moment to arrest them. Shots were exchanged between the two groups but none was seriously wounded.

Warfare in Williamson county was precipitated by Young, who took over enforcement of the prohibition laws when he declared Sheriff Galligan was failing in his duty. Young led hundreds of klansmen on scores of raids throughout the county. The klan raiders, according to Galligan and his followers, looted and pillaged property.

Three companies of troops are now quartered in the city hall and the Elks club. Several other campanies are on their way to add to the state's forces.

Young Issues Charge.

Young charged in a statement this evening that "assassins sent Cagle's 9-year-old son to tell him he was wanted at Masonic hall and when he arrived downtown, he was shot down like a dog."

Young's statement described the battle at the hospital.

"After I arrived in Herrin following the assassination of Cagle, a deputy sheriff, some deputized citizens and myself went to the Herrin hospital, armed with warrants for eight men charged with Cagle's murder.

"We knocked at the front door and said we were officers of the law.

"To this, a volley of shots from inside the door was the answer. There were several volleys. It was a mystery to me why none of us was injured.

"We backed off and fire was opened on us from upstairs. We fired shots in but from fear of injuring patients, we refrained from answering further shots and placed a guard around the hospital which we maintained until the arrival of troops."

The statement admitted it was Young who swore out the warrant charging Sheriff Galligan with the murder of Cagle.

FORBES SCORED IN NEW REPORT

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Denunciation of "wretched incompetence, waste and dishonesty" in the veterans' bureau during the administration of former Director Charles R. Forbes, was made in a second report submitted to the senate today by the committee that spent nine months investigating the bureau.

Accompanying the committee report was a separate report made by General John F. O'Ryan, committee counsel, in which Forbes was denounced in strong terms sa a "buccaneer."

"The disheartening truth," the committee's report said, "is that many o fthe men who had charge of the bureau during that period flouted the sacred trust that had been imposed in them and their treatment of disabled soldiers and sailors was harsh, unfair and often brutal."

New Move to Extend Credit

(International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The senate late this afternoon adopted a resolution extending the powers of the war finance corporation for nine months from February 29, the date on which the agency otherwise would have gone out of existence.

Adoption of this measure is the first step in the Coolidge administration's plan for relieving the stringent credit situation in the northwest.

Says Wife Wed For His Money; Seeks Divorce

Within a few months after she married him, Hilda Rosendahl Jones left her husband, taking with her his clothes and valuable papers, with the statement that "she married him for his money and intended to get it," according to a divorce petition filed in district court Saturday by the husband, Clarence I. Jones.

Jones also caims that his wife told him she was not married but that a few days after their marriage she brought two little Rosendahl children to the home and told him that she had been married twice before.

They were married at Council Bluffs, May 9, 1923, the petition says.

Making Good Showing.—The Continental Gas and Electric company of New York has recently distributed over the United States, a piece of high class advertising matter in which several of the cities where it owns plants are shown in airplane views. A section of the business district of Lincoln appears side by side with a similar view of Kansas City. The picture makes Lincoln's business district look twice as large as that of the Missour town. The picture was furnished by the Lincoln chamber of commerce.

$1,000 Collected from Nurses.—The sum of $1,000 or more has been received by the state board of nurse examiners in payment of the annual renewal fee by registered nurses in Nebraska, collected this year for the first time under authority of a law enacted last winter. This act requires every registered nurse to pay an annual fee of $1 to the state board, which will go to its three members for additional compensation and various expenses. Heretofore, nurses have paid only the initial examination fee of $5, or the reciprocal registration fee of $10 when coming from other states, which entitled them to practice permanently in Nebraska. Now, if they fail to pay the additional $1 per year they will be subject to suspension. Considerable complaint has been voiced by nurses over having to make the extra contribution to the state board. Some of those who are not practising their profession at present have been excused from paying, but if they resume that line of work at any future time they must pay up all arrears before being reinstated.

Department Makes Run. — Firemen extinguished a small blaze in a street car at Twenty-second and O streets Saturday afternoon. The damage was slight.

"Stop Light" Up Monday.—Among the numerous resolutions which will be brought before the city council at the Monday afternoon session is the Cowgill "stop light" proposal. The resolution of the street commissioner was read at the meeting last Monday and laid over for a week.

Starts Clean-Up Soon. — Spring house cleaning by the street department will soon be under way if the weather holds warm for a few weeks, City Commissioner Allen P. Cowgill announced Saturday. He has a force of men at work getting the street cleaning equipment ready to begin as soon as the weather will permit.

Holds Luncheon — The Lincoln branch of the National council of primary education held a luncheon at the chamber of commerce Saturday noon. Miss Fay Bonnell presided. Mrs. Velia Volmer Wiley of the Wesleyan university and Miss Margaret Cleland of the Elliott school each related a story of the project carried out under her supervision. Miss Frances McNabb was elected a new member of the board.

Will Ask For Bids.—The Lincoln City Hospital association Saturday filed with City Clerk Theo Berg detailed plans and specifications for the plumbing and heating equipment needed in the new building now under construction. A communication filed with the plans asks the city council to advertise for bids for the furnishing of the equipment, the bids to be opened February 12. Ventilators, sterilizers and laboratory equipment were included in the plans.

Loses Arm in Accident. — Oscar Deinert, Jr., formerly of Lincoln, suffered the loss of his right arm in an accident near Mitchell, S. D., where he is now residing, according to word received here Saturday. Mr. Deinert's arm was badly crushed in a corn sheller and it was found necessary to amputate the limb between the elbow and shoulder. Mr. Deinert's parents live near Emerald. He moved to Mitchell about seven years ago. One of his brothers will leave Sunday afternoon for Mitchell.

Schaeffer to Speak.—Dave Schaeffer of the Rudge and Guenzel company will address the Lincoln Ad club at its regular luncheon at the chamber of commerce Monday on "Window Trimming."

Want Street Vacated. — Woods Bros., Harvey Rathbone and other owners of property along Summit boulevard—Thirty-second street from the south line of Sheridan boulevard to the north line of Melrose avenue—have filed a petitin asking that the street be losced. The petition specifies that the city shall retain all rights and privileges in the street for the purpose of laying water and sewer mains as would obtain should the boulevard not be closed.

Making Good Showing.—The Continental Gas and Electric company of New York has recently distributed over the United States, a piece of high class advertising matter in which several of the cities where it owns plants are shown in airplane views. A section of the business district of Lincoln appears side by side with a similar view of Kansas City. The picture makes Lincoln's business district look twice as large as that of the Missour town. The picture was furnished by the Lincoln chamber of commerce.

$1,000 Collected from Nurses.—The sum of $1,000 or more has been received by the state board of nurse examiners in payment of the annual renewal fee by registered nurses in Nebraska, collected this year for the first time under authority of a law enacted last winter. This act requires every registered nurse to pay an annual fee of $1 to the state board, which will go to its three members for additional compensation and various expenses. Heretofore, nurses have paid only the initial examination fee of $5, or the reciprocal registration fee of $10 when coming from other states, which entitled them to practice permanently in Nebraska. Now, if they fail to pay the additional $1 per year they will be subject to suspension. Considerable complaint has been voiced by nurses over having to make the extra contribution to the state board. Some of those who are not practising their profession at present have been excused from paying, but if they resume that line of work at any future time they must pay up all arrears before being reinstated.

RETAIL TRADING SHOWS A GAIN

Improvement Noted In Western States And Wheat Prices Higher.

(International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Feb 9.—Except in the northwest, retail trade is improving in western states. The trend of wheat prices was upward as a result of the proposed government assistance for the wheat growers in the northwest. The farmer's income has improved somewhat, but higher prices have annulled this advantage. The textile industry has struck a period of stagnation. Money remains fairly plentiful. Commercial failures decreased and good days loom ahead for the steel industry and railway lines have just placed orders for $30,000,000 worth of rolling stock.

All issues of United Sttaes Liberty bonds declined in price this week from one to eight cents The new bonds declined in price this week from one to eight cents. The new bonds issued by banks, foreign governments and domestic corporations totalled $165,398,000

The rate of money for call loans in New York ranged from 5½ to 4 per cent Three months loans were made at 4 3-4 per cent.

Bradstreet's reported 377 commercial failures in the United Sttaes this week against 474 last week. Most of them were in southern states.

The average price of twenty representative industrial issues on the New York stock exchange was 100.38 compared with 100.64 last week The average price of twenty representative railway issues was 84.20 against 85 12 last week.

Bank Clearings.

Bank clearings in the United States this week were estimtaed at $7,951,424,748 compared with $8,254,737,775 last week.

Cotton held around 33 cents a pound this week. The amount of the crop brought into sight was 139,568 bales against 175,195 bales last week. The week's exports totalled 79,745 bales against 146,536 bales last week. The visible supply of United States cotton was estmated at 3,030,418 bales against 3,030,084 last week.

The visible supply of United States wheat decreased 1,120,000 bushels, whereas this time last year it increased 1,221,000 buhsels

The visible supply of Canadian wheat increased 204,000 bushels. Prices were firm. The visible supply of United States corn increased 62,000 bushels against 964,000 bushels this week last year.

Bishop to Address Mass Meeting Today At St. Paul Church

Bishop John L Nuelson, who at the present time is associated with Dr. Adolph Keller of Switzerland, in bringing to the American Protestant churches the story of the desperate plight of Protestants of the central European countries, will address the Lincoln Ministerial association at 11, Monday in the city library building

He will occupy the pulpit Sunday at 2 o'clock at St. Paul Methodist church at a mass meeting of citizens of Lincoln.

Bishop Nuelson was for eight years a representative of the Methodist church in central Europe and since the war has been engaged in relief work for all the Protestant agencies there He brings first hand information about conditions. He comes as spokesman for the committee on relife and mercy of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America

Woman Graduate of University Enters Race as Candidate for Membership on Regent Board

Alumni of the University of Nebraska are interested in the candidacy of Mrs. Fred Deweese, formerly Miss Alice Towne, for university regent, maintaining a woman should be represented on the board.

Mrs. Deweese was born in Enfield, Mass., April 3, 1884, moving to Nebraska four years later. Since her graduation from the Omaha high school in 1901, she has been vitally interested in the Nebraska educational system. Mrs. Deweese graduated from the university in 1905, teaching there in her junior and senior years During the summer sessions of 1904 and 1905, she taught at the Chautauqua School of Physical Education

In 1905, Mrs. Deweese was elected an instructor in the physical education department at the university, which position she held until two years later, when she went abroad to study physical education in the Royal Central Gymnastic institute at Stockholm, and in other schools and institutes of Germany and Great Britain. In 1908-1909, Mrs. Deweese was adjunct professor of physical education and director of the womens gymnasium at the university.

Active in School Affairs.

While atending the university, Mrs. Deweese was active in all school affairs. She was one of the founders of Black Masque, was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the English club, the Latin club, the basketball team, and was editor-in-chief of the senior annual. Mrs Deweese served five years as a membe of the board of directors of the alumnia association and is at present a member of the executive committee.

Mrs. Deweese was married in 1909 and for ten years she and Mrs. Deweese resided on a farm near Dawson, during which time her interests were kept alive by her active enthusiasm for rural affairs She was one of the organizers and the first president of a strong county womans club near Dawson, "The Golden Rod Study Club, and was a member of the Farmers union Mrs. Deweese moved to Lincoln three years ago and is the mother of three children.

Eighteen state universities now have women on their controlling boards, but Nebraska has never had a woman regent Mrs. Dewessee has been closely affiliated with the university through a number of years, as a student, as an instructor, and as an actively interested alumna.

During the world war, Mrs Deweese served as state chairman of food production on the womans committee of the state council of defense In this capacity, she directed a state wide speaking and letter campaign in the interests of increased food production. Six years ago Mrs. Deweese was vice president of the Nebraska Home Economics assocation.

Peru State Normal

Pres. W. R. Pate attended a meeting of the county superintendents held at Lincoln, Wednesday. The president returned to Peru, Friday.

Miss Lois Hacker, ex-Peruvian and graduate of the Misner school of expression, is coaching classes for declamatory contests at Cromwell and Orient, Iowa. She has given recitals at Cromwell, Orient, and Centerville, Iowa.

J W. Crabtree '96, is one of the judges in the new Bok educational contest Mr. Crabtree is secretary of the National Educational association.

All activities were stopped for two minutes at 2 p. m. Wednesday in honor of Woodrow Wilson. The old bell that has rung in Peru for fifty years, rang again.

Peru Teachers college enrolled thirty-two new students the second semester. The school has one of the largest collegiate enrollments in the history of the institution

The Pedagogian has changed its staff George R. Willy, of Hebron, remains as editor; and David Costello, of Julian, remains as business manager. The other members of the staff include: campus editors, Emelia Novotny, Barinard, and Marion Marsh, Brownville; organization editors, Crystal Meyer, Peru, and Myrl Emrick, Fairbury; personals editors, Ruth Sandell, Omaha, and Helyn Humbert, Omaha; classes editors, Mildred Pate, Alliance, and Grace Mettz, Falls City; circulation manager, Dorothy Wade, Nebraska City; special reporters, Lucy Armstrong, Bethel, E. Lyle Laughlin, Peru, Bernice Lewis, Peru, Helen Jones, Nemaha, and John Shuster, Julian.

The pupils of Miss Royce gave two recitals recently. The piano numbers were especially well done. The Peru orchestra has appeared at Auburn and Shubert recently The music department of Peru includes besides Miss Royce, Prof. H. V. Jindra, formerly of Wilber, who is director of band and orchestra, and Miss Esther E. Blankenship, who is in charge of the department of public school music.

Professor A. Crago has a class of forty in mental measurements. The interest in mental measuring has increased in teachers colleges in general. Peru is no exception The methods classes under Miss Tea and the theory class under Supt. Gilkeson are also filled.

Olin Elliott, of Peru, was elected to succeed H. R. Tackett, of Rulo, as president of the freshman class. Mr. Tackett resigned, being unable to attend the meetings regularly.

The new auditorium is now seated and lighted. It is one of the finest college auditoriums in the state. The stage is large and well equipped. The "P" club Orpheum was the first show held in the building.

Prof. A. E. Holch will conduct a study center at Nebraska City for the following weeks of the semester. Mr. Holch is offering a course in nature study. The enrollment is good.

The week of February 18 is Peru athletic week. Chapel exercises will be in charge of the departments of athletics. Beginning Feb. 21 the high schools of southeastern Nebraska will stage the second annual basketball tournament. Last year Gretna won Class A from Peru Neither Gretna nor Peru is among the favorites in 1924. Nebraska City, Plattsmouth, and Talmage have been mentioned Dunbar, which won Class B in 1923, is going well and will be dangerous in Class A. The Class B teams have not been announced.

The "P" club Orpheum played to a full house Saturday night. The triple M revue was especially well received. Conway and Graf in their vaudeville sketch received much applause. The proceeds of the show went to the sweater fund As a result the football boys are wearing bright new sweaters.

RETAIL TRADING SHOWS A GAIN

(International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Feb 9.—Except in the northwest, retail trade is improving in western states. The trend of wheat prices was upward as a result of the proposed government assistance for the wheat growers in the northwest. The farmer's income has improved somewhat, but higher prices have annulled this advantage.The textile industry has struck a period of stagnation. Money remains fairly plentiful. Commercial failures decreased and good days loom ahead for the steel industry and railway lines have just placed orders for $30,000,000 worth of rolling stock.

All issues of United Sttaes Liberty bonds declined in price this week from one to eight cents The new bonds declined in price this week from one to eight cents. The new bonds issued by banks, foreign governments and domestic corporations totalled $165,398,000.

The rate of money for call loans in New York ranged from 5½ to 4 per cent. Three months loans were made at 4 3-4 per cent.

Bradstreet's reported 377 commercial failures in the United Sttaes this week against 474 last week. Most of them were in southern states.

The average price of twenty representative industrial issues on the New York stock exchange was 100.38 compared with 100.64 last week. The average price of twenty representative railway issues was $4.20 against 85.12 last week.

Bank Clearings.

Bank clearings in the United States this week were estimtaed at $7,951,424,748 compared wth $8,254,737,775 last week.

Cotton held around 33 cents a pound ths week. The amount of the crop brought into sight was 139,568 bales against 175,195 bales last week. The week's exports totalled 79,745, bales against 146,536 bales last week. The visible supply of United States cotton was estmated at 3,030,418 bales against 3,030,084 last week.

The visible supply of United States wheat decreased 1,120,000 bushels, whereas this time last year it increased 1,321,000 buhsels.

The visible supply of Canadian wheat increased 204,000 bushels.Prices were firm. The visible supply of United States corn increased 62,000 bushels against 964,000 bushels this week last year.

Bishop to Address Mass Meeting Today At St. Paul Church

Bishop John L. Nuelson, who at the present time is associated with Dr. Adolph Keller of Switzerland, in bringing to the American Protestant churches the story of the desperate plight of Protestants of the central European countries, will address the Lincoln Ministerial association at 11, Monday in the city library building.

He will occpuy the pulpit Sunday at 2 o'loke at St. Paul Methodist church at a mass meeting of citizens of Lincoln.

Bishop Nuelson was for eight years a representative of the Methodist chruch in central Europe and since the war has been engaged in relief work for all the Protestant agencies there. He brings first hand information about conditions. He comes as spokesman for the committee on relife and mercy of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Woman Graduate of University Enters Race as Candidate for Membership on Regent Board

Mrs. Fred D. Dewesee, who is to file at the primaries as a candidate for regent of the University of Nebraska. Eighteen state universities now have women on their controlling boards, but Nebraska has never had a woman regent. Mrs. Dewessee has been closely affiliated with the university through a number of years, as a student, as an instructor, and as an actively interested alumna.

Alumni of the University of Nebraska are interested in the candidacy of Mrs. Fred Deweese, formerly Miss Alice Towne, for university regent, maintaining a woman should be represented on the board.

Mrs. Deweese was born in Enfield, Mass., April 3, 1884, moving to Nebraska four years later. Since her graduation from the Omaha high school in 1901, she has been vitally interested in the Nebraska educational system. PIONEER NEBRASKA WOMAN IS CALLED

Mrs. Betty Gerrard Passes Away Suddenly at Columbus.

(Special to The Star)

COLUMBUS, Neb, Feb 9—Mrs. Betty Gerrard, 71, resident of Columbus since 1857, donor of the public library site in this city, and widow of the late eLander Gerrard, died at St. Marys hospital Thursday night. Death came unexpectedly to Mrs. Gerrard. As she sat up in bed to eat her evening meal she was stricken with apoplexy and death came within a few moments

As Elizabeth C Weaver, Mrs Gerrard was born in Columbus, Ohio, April 5, 1852 She was five years old when her parents set out from Ohio with their three children in a prairie schooner, migrating to Nebraska. Arriving here in 1857 they became one of the pioneer families of Columbus and Platte county

On May 15, 1870, she was married to Leander Gerrard, pioneer attorney, banker, and capitalist and one of the republican party leaders in the state Two sons and two daughters were born to them, Clarence L Gerrard of Columbus, Ernest A Gerrard, London, England, Mrs J A. Barkley of Lincoln, and Mrs Roscoe Pound of Bellmont, Mass

Mrs. Betty Gerrard Passes Away Suddenly at Columbus.

(Special to The Star.)

COLUMBUS, Neb., Feb. 9.—Mrs. Betty Gerrard, 71, resident of Columbus since 1857, donor of the public library site in this city, and widow of the Itae eLander Gerrard, died at St. Marys hospital Thursday night. Death came unexpectedly to Mrs. Gerrard. As she sat up in bed to eat her evening meal she was stricken with apoplexy and death came within a few moments.

As Elizabeth C. Weaver, Mrs. Gerrard was born in Columbus, Ohio, April 5, 1852. She was five years old when her parents set out from Ohio with their three children in a prairie schooner, migrating to Nebraska. Arriving here in 1857 they became one of the pioneer families of Columbus and Platte county.

On May 15, 1870, she was married to Leander Gerrard, pioneer attorney, banker, and capitalist and one of the republican party leaders in the state. Two sons and two daughters were born to them, Clarence L. Gerrard of Columbus, Ernest A. Gerrard, London, England, Mrs. J. A. Barkley of Lincoln, and Mrs. Roscoe Pound of Belmont, Mass.

Mrs. Gerrard was for a great many years intensely interested in W. C. T. U. work, and one of the early members of the Presbyterian church, and took active interest in the Federated church, following the consolidation of the local Congregational and Presbyterian congregations. In 1914 she donated the site to the public library in Columbus.

1600 ACCIDENTS, 24 FATALITIES, IN THREE YEARS

Ninety-One Injured In Lincoln During Same Period, Report Shows.

Sixteen hundred accidents, resulting in ninety-one injuries and twenty-four fatalities are on the records of Lincoln police in the last three years.

These are part of the figures given out at the meeting last week of the Lincoln Auto club, by Roy Pepperberg, chairman of the traffic committee. Autos driven by men figured in most collisions, the statistics showed

Eleventh and O streets was the most dangerous intersection in that time, thirty-six accidents being recorded as having occurred there. To travel the length of O streets was by far the most perilous adventure offered to motormen, but certain outlying intersections were the scenes of collision after collision

Not All Accidents.

These figures do not show a fourth of the accidents in the city in that period, declared Mr. Pepperberg in commenting on them. Not only that, but al lof the fatalities are probably not written into the police accident book.

The report favored the traffic ordinance which has now been on trial for one year as the most sensible that has ever been in effect in the city. It has been well enforced without any additional expense to the police department, has kept traffic moving with less confusion, and has actually saved the city money by adding to its school fund by means of the fines imposed.

From the records of Judge E. B. Chappell, it was reported that 917 arrests were made for violations of the two hour parking laws, 565 for violations of the speeding laws, and 347 for other causes.

Of the 1604 accidents reported, 163 were caused by trucks, 22 by taxis, 64 by autos street cars, 94 by auto and pedestrians, 20 by autos and motorcycles, 57 by autos and bicycles, 27 b yautos and horses, 11 by autos and trains, 21 by two women in autos, 928 by two men in autos, and 98 by autos driven one by a man and the other by a woman.

Dangerous Places.

The places where accidents happen are so well defined that Mr. Pepperberg suggested that drivers could learn them easily and avoid them. Not only would lives and money be saved, but time. Several times as much speed can be made, he declared on one of the outlying streets as on O street or N or P.

Following are intersections at which ten or more accidents have been reported in the last three years:

Eleventh and O, 36; Tenth and O, 31; Tenth and P 31, Seventeenth and O 30, Fourteenth and O 29, Twelfth and O, 28; Thirteenth and O, 25; Sixteenth and O, 22; Eighteenth and O, 20, Eleventh and N, 17; Seventeenth and Vine 16, Thirty-third and O, 14; Twenty-seventh and Randoph, 13; Nineteent hand O, 12; Ninth and O, 12; O street viaduct, 12; Twelfth and N, 12; Seventeenth and P, 13; Eleventh and P, 11; Fourteenth and N, 11 ;Sixteenth and N, 10; Sixteenth and P, 10; Twenty-seventh and O, 10.

STATE RED CROSS RECORD IS GOOD

State Director Reports Large Increase In Chapter Memberships.

Nebraska has made a record for itself in the national organization of the American Red Cross according to a report issued by L W. Trester, Omaha, state director for the last annual roll call. Chapters reporting 35,245 members last year have increased that number to 36,159 members this year

Mr. Trester feels that the people of this state are convinced of the importance of maintaining an active chapter of the Red Cross in every community and that their response in the recent membership drive is evidence that adequate membership will be maintained.

The total membership in the ten states of central division of which this state is a part has reached 500,000, seven of the ten states having increased over last year's memberships. Chapters throughout the division have begun the new year with renewed interest and activity.

District directors in the state who in Mr. Trester's estimation were largely responsible for the success of the roll call are Dr. R. L Brush, Norfolk; Woodruff Ball, Valentine, Mrs. A. H Brooks, Hastings.

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S. S. S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S.S.S. builds blood-power, it builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-blood. Fighting-blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 557 15th street, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S. S. S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S. S. S. that did it."

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

PLAN FILING FOR FULLERTON WOMAN

Secretary of State Pool, the Coolidge state organization for Nebraska has arranged to ake a filing in behalf of Mrs. E. B. Penney of Fullerton for republican national committeewoman, to be elected in the primary at the same time when delegates to the national cnovention are chosen.

Pool's holding is that women candidates may file for the position of national committeewoman" in each party and have their names printed under that heading, so that they will not be required to run against male candidates for "national committeeman." Mrs Jennie Califas of Omaha has already filed for that place in the democratic primary

The following announcement on the subject was given out by Campaign Director Corrick of the Coolidge state committee, Saturday afternoon:

"The Coolidge headquarters committee has had under consideration for several days the question of filing a candidate for national committeewoman to be voted on at the April primary, and after a conference with officers of the republican state central committee and other prominent republicans, the matter was taken up with Mrs E B. Penney of Fullerton, who is at the present time a member of the republican national advisory committee, by appointment, and who is also a cordial supporter of President Coolidge

"Mrs Penney has consented to the use of her name as a candidate for the position Petitions will be prepared at once and circulated throughout the state, and, in due time, filed with the secretary of state."

Miss Gladys Dana Made President of Art Association

FREMONT, Neb, Feb. 9.—A meeting of the Nebraska state teacher's art association was held Saturday at the Pathfinder hotel. It was decided at the meeting to make it an annual event to be held in the early spring of every year. The exact date will be determined by the officers of that year.

The meeting was presided over by Stella LaMond of Fremont, president. The following were the officers elected for the coming year: Miss Gladys Dana, Lincoln, president; Miss Grace Sylla, Hastings, vice president; Miss Charlotte Kizer, secretary and treasurer.

A general discussion followed the business meeting. A number of good projects were described and illustrated by finished plates Robert Syrll demonstrated the problem of color cement.

Seeks Naturalization.—Ernest Lubitsch, the famous German director who has just produced "The Marriage Circle" for Warner Brothers, has announced his intention of becoming a full-fledged United States citizen and making California his permanent home

COMMUNITY TO HONOR LINCOLN

General Celebration to Be Held Here On Birthday Anniversary.

Foreign War Veterans Arrange Dinner at Chamber of Commerce.

In honor of the one hundred and fifteenth anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, a banquet will be held at the chamber of commerce Tuesday under the auspices of the local Sons of Veterans.

Dr. A. A. Brooks will deliver the address on Abraham Lincoln, and there will be other interesting entertainments in harmony with the spirit of the occasion.

Observation of Lincoln's birthday here has before this time been general among different organizations, but the Veterans of Foreign Wars hope that this banquet will combine all of the interests of the city. In order to accommodate members of the Grand Army of the Republic, to whom the occasion is in part complimentary, the dinner will begin at 6 o'clock. Tickets may be reserved with Fenton B. Fleming, or the secretary of the chamber of commerce before Tuesday noon Sale of tickets will be strictly limited to the capacity of the chamber of commerce, and all those purchasing will be assured of being accomodated

Denies Coolidge Forces Fighting Senator Norris

Chairman E. P. Brown of the Nebraska Coolidge organization gave out a statement Saturday evening, denying a report published in one of the Omaha newspapers that "much of the opposition to Senator Norris is coming from the Coolidge headquarters at Lincoln."

Mr. Brown asserts that his organization is not mixing in the fight for senator, directly or indirectly, and that it is neither supporting nor opposing any candidate for senator, governor or any other such office The committee and its employes, the chairman declares, are working solely in the interest of President Coolidge's renomination.

Bergdoll Asks A Large Sum

BERLIN, Feb. 9—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft dodger, wants $150,000 for injuries he received during the attempt to kidnap him by a party headed by American Lieutenant Corliss Hooven Griffis of Ohio.

Griffis recently was released from a erman prison, where he served a sentence for the attempted kidnaping.

Bergdoll also seeks $10,000 damages for the proprietor of the hotel in Baden where he was stopping at the time of the attempted kidnaping He says the hotel keeper was hurt in the frav.

MAKES STUDY OF FARMERS' PRICES

Analysis of Conditions During Fifty Years Blasts Old Theories.

Some commonly accepted ideas regarding the influences affecting prices of farm products have been upset by an extensive investigation covering a period of fifty years and just completed by Professor H. C. Filley of the sitae agricultural college. Some of the outstanding facts contained in the bulletin follow:

Prices of farm products have risen very rapidly during war periods, but have fallen more rapidly than the prices of other products after a war.

While advertising campaigns have been successful in increasing the demand fo specialized products such as frutis and nuts, it is doubtful if the demand for staple crops such as wheat could be profitably increased in this way. It would mean a lessened consumption of some other staple product.

While market strategy on the board of trade may influence prices, it does so to a less extent than in the case of farm products sold locally or irregularly or of goods sold at retail

Fifty-two per cent of the wheat sold at Omaha is received in the four months following threshing.

A study of the average monthly prices paid for cash wheat at Chicago for 42 years shows that the average spread in price was but 10 cents, or less than the cost of holding wheat for 10 months in a public warehouse.

In only 8 out of 19 years at Omaha has the price of wheat been high enough in May to return a profit for holding from the preceding August after paying commercial charges. Four of the eight years were exceptional, being war years.

In only 6 out of 18 years has the price of oats at Omaha been high enough in May to make its storage from the preceding August profitable.

A farmer who holds corn from December to May is apparently paid for his costs of storage, but he does not ordinarily receive a large profit.

Profitable production of hogs requires curtailment of production when most men are increasing and increase when most men are curtailing

Makes Fat People Slim

New Yrk Physician Perfects Harmless Methd of Reducing Weight.

The loss of as much as a pound of excess fat a day with no harmful results is the record made by many patients of Dr. R Newman, a licensed practicing physician of 286 Fifth Avenue, New York, who announces that he has perfected a treatment which has quickly rid fat people of excess weight What is more remarkable is the Doctor's statement that he has successfully treated thousands of patients for fat reduction without change of diet or unnecessary exercise It is also said that fat people who suffer from chronic rheumatism, gout, asthma and high blood pressure obtain great relief from the reduction of their superfluous flesh Realizing, that this sounds almost too good to be true, the Doctor has offered to send without charge to anyone who will write him a free trial treatment to prove his claims as well as his "Pay-when-reduced" plan. If you want to rid yourself of superfluous fat, write him today, addressing Dr. R. Newman, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City, Dept. R 445—Advertisement.

VARNISH AS AN INVESTMENT

Dear Sir:

As a car owner, you like to have your car looking good at all times. As a business man, you want to keep costs as low as possible provided you get the results desired.

In painting a car, a certain number of coats of material are used as a surfacer (to make your car smooth), a certain number for color; then one or two more coats which serve both to add to the surface and to give depth to the color. Finally one coat of finishing varnish brings out the beauty of the color and the surface, and this is the ONLY WEARING COAT ON YOUR CAR.

The thing that makeS finishing varnish wear is that it is made of special gums and oils which when compounded properly, are very elastic and have qualities which resist the sun, rain, snow etc.— but THERE IS A LIMIT TO WHAT EVEN THE BEST FINISHING VARNISH WILL DO. Since the finishing varnish is the only wearing coat on your car, won't your job last twice as long if you apply the second coat at the proper time in the proper manner? However, the very thing that makes for wear also makes this coat slow to harden, so that some time, preferably from five to eight weeks, should elapse before this second coat is applied. This is to eliminate checking. In the whole automobile paint structure each coat must be thoroughly dry or, technically speaking, oxidized before another coat is applied or the whole thing is apt to break down.

Here's another thing. If every car owner who buys a new car, excepting enameled cars such as Dodge, would drive his car a month or two and have a reliable painter revarnish it with a good varnish, double the time would elapse before the car would need painting and the cost would be about half — which brings us now from the car owner to the business man.

IF AT HALF THE COST YOUR JOB LASTS TWICE AS LONG, ISN'T THAT 50% AS AGAINST 200%? Again, if every man or woman who buys a new car would drive it a month or two and then have it varnished, provided that the car was properly painted at the factory, only half the painting would be necessary that is necessary today.

This is an ideal time for refinishing, since that stickiness, which is always noticeable on newly painted or newly varnished cars in the hot weather, is not present now. We would be glad to call any place you might wish and look over your car and advise you whether it is in condition for varnishing. If so, in view of the above facts, we believe it will prove a good investment for you.

Your's truly,

John Bracelen

1600 ACCIDENTS, 24 FATALITIES, IN THREE YEARS

Ninety-One Injured In Lincoln During Same Period, Report Shows.

Sixteen hundred accidents, resulting in ninety-one injuries and twenty-four fatalities are on the records of Lincoln police in the last three years.

These are part of the figures given out at the meeting last week of the Lincoln Auto club, by Roy Pepperberg, chairman of the traffic committee. Autos driven by men figured in most collisions, the statistics showed.

Eleventh and O streets was the most dangerous intersection in that time, thirty-six accidents being recorded as having occurred there. To travel the length of O streets was by far the most perilous adventure offered to motormen, but certain outlying intersections were the scenes of collision after collision.

Not All Accidents.

These figures do not show a fourth of the accidents in the city in that period, declared Mr. Pepperberg in commenting on them. Not only that, but al lof the fatalities are probably not written into the police accident book.

The report favored the traffic ordinance which has now been on trial for one year as the most sensible that has ever been in effect in the city. It has been well enforced without any additional expense to the police department, has kept traffic moving with less confusion, and has actually saved the city money by adding to its school fund by means of the fines imposed.

From the records of Judge E. B. Chappell, it was reported that 917 arrests were made for violations of the two hour parking laws, 565 for violations of the speeding laws, and 347 for other causes.

Of the 1604 accidents reported, 163 were caused by trucks, 22 by taxis, 64 by autos street cars, 94 by auto and pedestrians, 20 by autos and motorcycles, 57 by autos and bicycles, 27 b yautos and horses, 11 by autos and trains, 21 by two women in autos, 928 by two men in autos, and 98 by autos driven one by a man and the other by a woman.

Dangerous Places.

The places where accidents happen are so well defined that Mr. Pepperberg suggested that drivers could learn them easily and avoid them. Not only would lives and money be saved, but time. Several times as much speed can be made, he declared on one of the outlying streets as on O street or N or P.

Following are intersections at which ten or more accidents have been reported in the last three years:

Eleventh and O, 36; Tenth and O, 31; Tenth and P 31, Seventeenth and O 30, Fourteenth and O 29, Twelfth and O, 28; Thirteenth and O, 25; Sixteenth and O, 22; Eighteenth and O, 20; Eleventh and N, 17; Seventeenth and Vine 16; Thirty-third and O, 14; Twenty-seventh and Randoph, 13; Nineteent hand O, 12; Ninth and O, 12; O street viaduct, 12; Twelfth and N, 12; Seventeenth and P, 12; Eleventh and P, 11; Fourteenth and N, 11 ;Sixteenth and N, 10; Sixteenth and P, 10; Twenty-seventh and O, 10.

STATE RED CROSS RECORD IS GOOD

State Director Reports Large Increase In Chapter Memberships.

Nebraska has made a record for itself in the national organization of the American Red Cross according to a report issued by L. W. Trester, Omaha, state director for the last annual roll call. Chapters reporting 35,245 members last year have increased that number to 36,159 members this year.

Mr. Trester feels that the people of this state are convinced of the importance of maintaining an active chapter of the Red Cross in every community and that their response in the recent membership drive is evidence that adequate membership will be maintained.

The total membership in the ten states of central division of which this state is a part has reached 500,000, seven of the ten states having increased over last year's memberships. Chapters throughout the division have begun the new year with renewed interest and activity.

District directors in the state who in Mr. Trester's estimation were largely responsible for the success of the roll call are Dr. R. L. Brush, Norfolk; Woodruff Ball, Valentine; Mrs. A. H. Brooks, Hastings.

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S. S. S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S.S.S. builds blood-power, it builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-blood. Fighting-blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 557 15th street, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S. S. S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S. S. S. that did it."

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

PLAN FILING FOR FULLERTON WOMAN

Secretary of State Pool, the Coolidge state organization for Nebraska has arranged to ake a filing in behalf of Mrs. E. B. Penney of Fullerton for republican national committeewoman, to be elected in the primary at the same time when delegates to the national cnovention are chosen.

Pool's holding is that women candidates may file for the position of "national committeewoman" in each party and have their names printed under that heading, so that they will not be required to run against male candidates for "national committeeman." Mrs. Jennie Callfas of Omaha has already filed for that place in the democratic primary.

The following announcement on the subject was given out by Campaign Dirctor Corrick of the Coolidge state committee, Saturday afternoon:

"The Coolidge headquarters committee has had under consideration for several days the question of filing a candidate for national committeewoman to be voted on at the April primary, and after a conference with officers of the republican state central committee and other prominent republicans, the matter was taken up with Mrs. E. B. Penney of Fullerton, who is at the present time a member of the republican national advisory committee, by appointment, and who is also a cordial supporter of President Coolidge.

"Mrs. Penney has consented to the use of her name as a candidate for the position. Petitions will be prepared at once and circulated throughout the state, and, in due time, filed with the secretary of state."

Miss Gladys Dana Made President of Art Association

FREMONT, Neb., Feb. 9.—A meeting of the Nebraska state teacher's art association was held Saturday at the Pathfinder hotel. It was decided at the meeting to make it an annual event to be held in the early spring of every year. The exact date will be determined by the officers of that year.

The meeting was presided over by Stella LaMond of Fremont, president. The following were the officers elected for the coming year: Miss Gladys Dana, Lincoln, president; Miss Grace Syfla, Hastings, vice president; Miss Charlotte Kizer, secretary and treasurer.

A general discussion followed the business meeting. A number of good projects were described and illustrated by finished plates. Robert Syrll demonstrated the problem of color cement.

Seeks Naturalization.—Ernest Lubitsch, the famous German director who has just produced "The Marriage Circle" for Warner Brothers, has announced his intention of becoming a full-fledged United States citizen and making California his permanent home.

COMMUNITY TO HONOR LINCOLN

General Celebration to Be Held Here On Birthday Anniversary.

Foreign War Veterans Arrange Dinner at Chamber of Commerce.

In honor of the one hundred and fifteenth anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, a banquet will be held at the chamber of commerce Tuesday under the auspices of the local Sons of Veterans.

Dr. A. A. Brooks will deliver the address on Abraham Lincoln, and there will be other interesting entertainments in harmony with the spirit of the occasion.

Observation of Lincoln's birthday here has before this time been general among different organizations, but the Veterans of Foreign Wars hope that this banquet will combine all of the interests of the city. In order to accommodate members of the Grand Army of the Republic, to whom the occasion is in part complimentary, the dinner will begin at 6 o'clock. Tickets may be reserved with Fenton B. Fleming, or the secretary of the chamber of commerce before Tuesday noon. Sale of tickets will be strictly limited to the capacity of the chamber of commerce, and all those purchasing will be assured of being accomodated.

Denies Coolidge Forces Fighting Senator Norris

Chairman E. P. Brown of the Nebraska Coolidge organization gave out a statement Saturday evening, denying a report published in one of the Omaha newspapers that "much of the opposition to Senator Norris is coming from the Coolidge headquarters at Lincoln."

Mr. Brown asserts that his organization is not mixing in the fight for senator, directly or indirectly, and that it is neither supporting nor opposing any candidate for senator, governor or any other such office. The committee and its employes, the chairman declares, are working solely in the interest of President Coolidge's renomination.

Bergdoll Asks A Large Sum

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft dodger, wants $150,000 for injuries he received during the attempt to kidnap him by a party headed by American Lieutenant Corliss Hooven Griffis of Ohio.

Griffis recently was released from a erman prison, where he served a sentence for the attempted kidnaping.

Bergdoll also seeks $10,000 damages for the proprietor of the hotel in Baden where he was stopping at the time of the attempted kidnaping. He says the hotel keeper was hurt in the fray.

MAKES STUDY OF FARMERS' PRICES

Analysis of Conditions During Fifty Years Blasts Old Theories.

Some commonly accepted ideas regarding the influences affecting prices of farm products have been upset by an extensive investigation covering a period of fifty years and just completed by Professor H. C. Filley of the sttae agricultural college. Some of the outstanding facts contained in the bulletin follow:

Prices of farm products have risen very rapidly during war periods, but have fallen more rapidly than the prices of other products after a war.

While advertising campaigns have been successful in increasing the demand fo specialized products such as frutis and nuts, it is doubtful if the demand for staple crops such as wheat could be profitably increased in this way. It would mean a lessened consumption of some other staple product.

While market strategy on the board of trade may influence prices, it does so to a less extent than in the case of farm products sold locally or irregularly or of goods sold at retail.

Fifty-two per cent of the wheat sold at Omaha is received in the four months following threshing.

A study of the average monthly prices paid for cash wheat at Chicago for 42 years shows that the average spread in price was but 10 cents, or less than the cost of holding wheat for 10 months in a public warehouse.

In only 8 out of 19 years at Omaha has the price of wheat been high enough in May to return a profit for holding from the preceding August after paying commercial charges. Four of the eight years were exceptional, being war years.

In only 6 out of 18 years has the price of oats at Omaha been high enough in May to make its storage from the preceding August profitable.

A farmer who holds corn from December to May is apparently paid for his costs of storage, but he does not ordinarily receive a large profit.

Profitable production of hogs requires curtailment of production when most men are increasing and increase when most men are curtailing.

Jackie Coogan's Greatest. — Jackie Coogan's picture following "A Boy of Flanders" will be a screen adaptation of a script by Willard Mack, written especially for Master Jackie. It is said to be different in character from anything Jackie has ever done, and will be his greatest, not excepting "The Kid," "Oliver Twist" and 'Long Live the King."

LINCOLN K. OF C. HOLD CELEBRATION

To Oserve Twentieth Anniversary of Instbitution of Fitzgerald Council.

Fitzgerald council, Knights of Columbus, will celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the institution of the council Sunday evening at a dinner for members and their friends at Knights of Columbus hall.

State Deputy Francis P. Matthews of Omaha and District Deputy John W. Delehant of Beatrice will be the guests of honor. J. A. Trumble is to be toastmaster. Other speakers listed are Grand Knight John A. Beha, Rev. A. Brennan, Sam C. Zimmerman. Several musical numbers will fill out the program.

The arrangements are in charge of Lecturer J. P. McDermott, assisted by a committee composed of E. B. Foster, James Riordan, Gerald Desmond, J. J. Bogan and Dr. E. G. Zimmerer.

English Teachers Of State to Meet During Convention

The state branch of the National Council of English Teachers will meet and will give a series of special programs in connection with the meeting of the State Teachers' association in Lincoln March 12 and 13. The meeting is under the direction of Miss Evelyn Babcock of Scottsbluff, president of the Nebraska branch, and Miss Sarah T. Muir of Lincoln, state director.

Dr. Louise Pound will talk on "The College Professor and Secondary Schools" at the opening meeting on Wednesday afternoon, March 12. At the same meeting, C. F. Hobson of Kearney will discuss "The Objective for English Composition Teachers." Dr. H. B. Alexander and Miss Jessie Towne of the Omaha high school will speak at the dinner planned for the English teachers March 13.

Makes Fat People Slim

New Yrk Physician Perfects Harmless Methd of Reducing Weight.

The loss of as much as a pound of excess fat a day with no harmful results is the record made by many patients of Dr. R. Newman, a licensed practicing physician of 286 Fifth Avenue, New York, who announces that he has perfected a treatment which has quickly rid fat people of excess weight. What is more remarkable is the Doctor's statement that he has successfully treated thousands of patients for fat reduction without change of diet or unnecessary exercise. It is also said that fat people who suffer from chronic rheumatism, gout, asthma and high blood pressure obtain great relief from the reduction of their superfluous flesh. Realizing, that this sounds almos' too good to be true, the Doctor has offered to send without charge to anyone who will write him a free trial treatment to prove his claims, as well as his "Pay-when-reduced" plan. If you want to rid yourself of superfluous fat, write him today, addressing Dr. R. Newman, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City, Dept. R 445—Advertisement.

ARRANGE WILSON MEMORIAL AT UNI

Prof. F. M. Fling to Give Principal Address at Services Tuesday.

Memorial services for Woodrow Wilson will be held Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock at Ellen Smith hall. Emma Beckman will lead the services, and Prof. Fred Morrow Fling will give the principal address.

The Chopin funeral march played by Miss Elda Jedlicka, with a 'cello accompaniment by Miss Mary Creekpaum will open the program. "Day is Dying in the West," one of the favorite hymns of the ex-president will be sung by the audience, and the burial service will be read by Miss Beckman. Amy Martin will sing the requiem, and Professor Fling will speak on "President Wilson and World Peace." After the silent benediction, the Chopin march will be repeated.

Bishop Nuelsen Speaks at Mass Meeting Sunday

Bishop John L. Nuelsen will speak on the condition of protestant churches in Europe at a mass meeting at St. Paul's church at 3 p. m. Sunday.

The speaker, who has recently returned from abroad, is a representative of the department of international justice and good will of the council of churches. The meeting is under the auspices of the Lincoln council.

VARNISH AS AN INVESTMENT

Dear Sir:

As a car owner, you like to have your car looking good at all times. As a business man, you want to keep costs as low as possible provided you get the results desired.

In painting a car, a certain number of coats of material are used as a surfacer (to make your car smooth), a certain number for color; then one or tWo more coats which serve both to add to the surface and to give depth to the color. Finally one coat of finishing varnish brings out the beauty of the color and the surface, and this is the ONLY WEARING COAT ON YOUR CAR.

The thing that makeS finishing varnish wear is that it is made of special gums and oils which when compounded properly, are very elastic and have qualities which resist the sun, rain, snow etc.— but THERE IS A LIMIT TO WHAT EVEN THE BEST FINISHING VARNISH WILL DO. Since the finishing varnish is the only wearing coat on your car, won't your job last twice as long if you apply the second coat at the proper time in the proper manner? However, the very thing that makes for wear also makes this coat slow to harden, so that some time, preferably from five to eight weeks, should elapse before this second coat is applied. This is to eliminate checking. In the whole automobile paint structure each coat must be thoroughly dry or, technically speaking, oxidized before another coat is applied or the whole thing is apt to break down.

Here's another thing. If every car owner who buys a new car, excepting enameled cars such as Dodge, would drive his car a month or two and have a reliable painter revarnish it with a good varnish, double the time would elapse before the car would need painting and the cost would be about half — which brings us now from the car owner to the business man.

IF AT HALF THE COST YOUR JOB LASTS TWICE AS LONG, ISN'T THAT 50% AS AGAINST 200%? Again, if every man or woman who buys a new car would drive it a month or two and then have it varnished, provided that the car was properly painted at the factory, only half the painting would be necessary that is necessary today.

This is an ideal time for refinishing, since that stickiness, which is always noticeable on newly painted or newly varnished cars in the hot weather, is not present now. We would be glad to call any place you might wish and look over your car and advise you whether it is in condition for varnishing. If so, in view of the above facts, we believe it will prove a good investment for you.

Your's truly,

John Bracelen

Abraham Lincoln.
Born February 12, 1809.
Died April 15, 1865.
Sixteenth president of the United States.
"Lincoln the Great."

These three words in the broadest and fullest sense of their meaning but feebly express the sentiment running through the heart of every American and throughout the length and breadth of the nation, whenever the name of the martyr president, Abraham Lincoln, is spoken.

More particularly is this true at this time of the year than at any other. One hundred fifteen years ago Abraham Lincoln was born. Tuesday a nation will bow its head in remembrance of him who more than any other is responsible for a nation united; a people that knows no north, no south, no east, no west. And a world also will bow its head in solemn and reverential memory of the man it has learned to love, for with the passing of the years the peoples of the entire universe have come to appreciate the emancipator for his true worth.

Born of humble parentage, Abraham Lincoln of his own efforts became the outstanding figure of his period. From railsplitting as a boy he became president of the greatest nation of the earth, only to be laid low by an assassin's bullet at a time when his loss to the country he loved was incalculable. The people whom the assassin would have helped were the ones he injured the most.

The marked characteristic of Abraham Lincoln was the accuracy with which he understood the people of the United States, and to him, and him alone belonged the problem of bringing order from the chaos wrought by the war, and again uniting two sections torn assunder by the bitterness of armed strife; a problem more difficult than was the conducting of the war.

But Lincoln was a man with charity such as few possess, and it was just such charity as was his that was needed at the close of the war; at the time when he was slain by John Wilkes Booth, an actor both temperamental and radical. Conquering always by the power of truth he would have been able to weld again into a unity the two peoples whom he loved more than he loved his own life.

With the passing years since his death, the greatness of Abraham Lincoln has grown, and more and more have people come to appreciate his greatness until today there are few places where his name and deeds are not known and reveared.

In Honor of Abraham Lincoln

Next Tuesday will be the one hundred fifteenth birthday of a man whose glorious rise from obscurity to greatness is not forgotten, even though more than a half century has elapsed since his martyrdom.

Born of humble parents, in a little cabin near Hodgenville, Larue County, Kentucky, Abraham Lincoln grew up in an environment which required a steadfastness of purpose and strength of character which it is not easy for us to understand in these days of automobiles, aeroplanes, submarines, radio and the like. He had the indomitable spirit of the pioneers and the ability to overcome obstacles His rise from farm hand to country lawyer and from country lawyer to President of the United States is a story which every youth should read.

It is not possible—and not desirable—that we should turn back the wheels of time and revert to the primitive conditions of 1809. But we need not depart from the rugged integrity which characterizes the pioneers, and is so marked in the life of Abraham Lincoln. Notable inventions have made life less strenuous than in his day, but they have not deprived us of honesty and a desire for helpful service toward our fellow men.

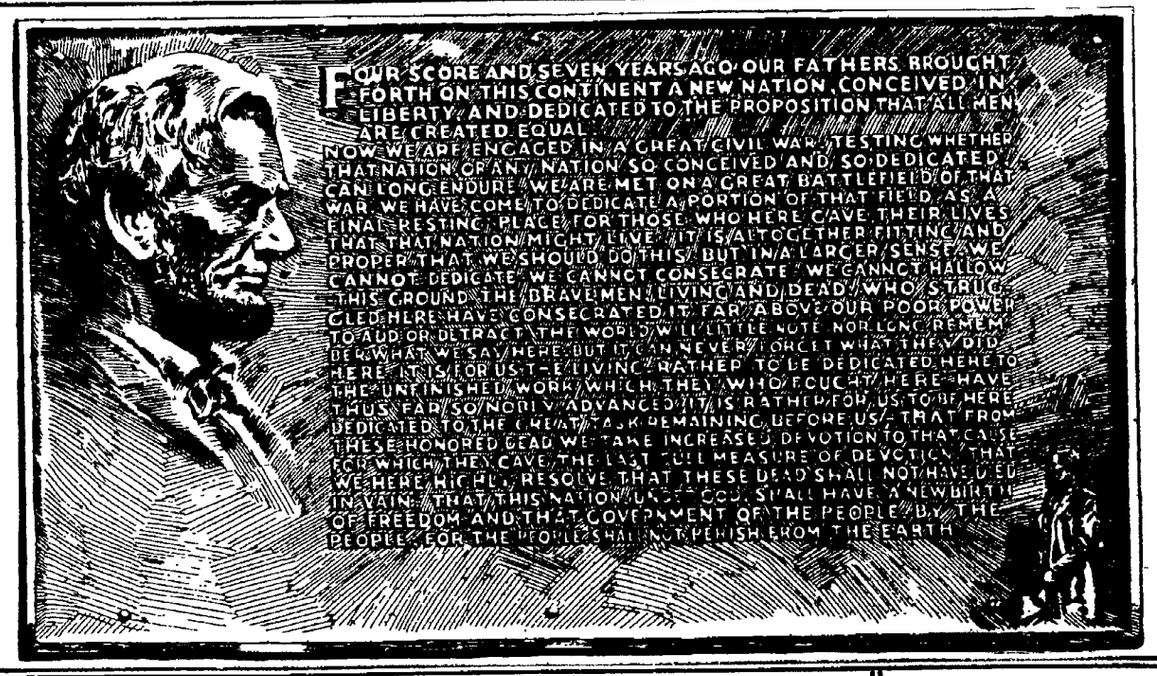

Sunday is the day our Company has dedicated to talks on the subject of Wills, Estates and Trusts; but we could not miss the opportunity to join with other Lincoln houses in honoring the memory of Abraham Lincoln, and, incidentally, to call attention to the gigantic strides made by our country in the century since Lincoln was a lad of fifteen.

Just as progress has been made in labor-saving mechanical devices, so in the business and professional world great progress has been made in methods of handling affairs. It would take too long to recount even a tithe of these; but the growth of Trust Company service is, naturally, of especial interest to us. Acting as Executor, Administrator, Trustee, Receiver and the like, the Trust Company has a number of advantages over any individual, no matter how competent. It fills a need exactly as labor-saving machinery did in the industrial world.

Let us send you our booklet, "Safeguarding Your Family's Future," which explains these advantages. The booklet is free.

It is not possible—and not desirable—that we should turn back the wheels of time and revert to the primitive conditions of 1809. But we need not depart from the rugged integrity which characterizes the pioneers, and is so marked in the life of Abraham Lincoln. Notable inventions have made life less strenuous than in his day, but they have not deprived us of honesty and a desire for helpful service toward our fellow men.

Sunday is the day our Company has dedicated to talks on the subject of Wills, Estates and Trusts; but we could not miss the opportunity to join with other Lincoln houses in honoring the memory of Abraham Lincoln, and, incidentally, to call attention to the gigantic strides made by our country in the century since Lincoln was a lad of fifteen.

Just as progress has been made in labor-saving mechanical devices, so in the business and professional world great progress has been made in methods of handling affairs. It would take too long to recount even a tithe of these; but the growth of Trust Company service is, naturally, of especial interest to us. Acting as Executor, Administrator, Trustee, Receiver and the like, the Trust Company has a number of advantages over any individual, no matter how competent. It fills a need exactly as labor-saving machinery did in the industrial world.

Let us send you our booklet, "Safeguarding Your Family's Future," which explains these advantages. The booklet is free.

Soft Drink King's Bride Of Less Than Year Liberated On Bail.

Two Men Prominent In Atlanta Business Circles Also Arrested.

(International News Service.)

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 9.—Mrs. Asa G. Candler, bride of less than a year of the multimillionaire Coca Cola king, was arrested here late today in a fashionable apartment charged with "occupancy of a dive."

Two men prominent in Atlanta business circles also were taken. She was later liberated on $100 bail.

Mrs Candler was arrested by Chief of Police Beavers himself, accompanied by one of his assistants, after neighbors had lodged complaints with the police.

The officers carried their prisoners to the police station where the name "Mrs. Asa G. Candler, sr., aged 34," was written down in bold letters Along side of it were two others, "W. J. Stoddard," and G. W. Keeling."

Stoddard is an Atlanta capitalist of repute and is well known in eastern social circles, Keeling is a prominent Atlantan.

The arrests were made in what Chief Beavers termed a "raid," on fashionable apartments on exclusive Juniper street. He said the "raid" followed complaints of neighbors that a "liquor party" was being staged in the apartment.

Liquor Found By Police.

A quart of Scotch liquor was found, Chief Beavers said, and he is attempting to determine ownership of it. As soon as this is done, charges will be made for violating the prohibition law.

Members of the party told officers that a "Mrs Kibler," owned the apartment, but that she was out. This woman is being sought tonight and Chief Beavers said she will be charged with "operating a disorderly house," if found.

Mrs. Candler plead for mercy when she was arrested, he said, declaring the publicity and "scandal" would ruin her. He said that although he was a personal friend of "Mr. Asa's" he must do his duty, so he took her with him.

Wants Story "Killed."

"I know nothing about it," he said. "Kill the story. Kill it That's what I want done."

He then was asked if Mrs. Candler was at home.

"No, she is not," he said.

"Will she be there tonight?"

"No—well, I can't say, I don't know where she is I haven't seen her."

Only this week Candler won a suit in which Mrs. Onezima De Bouchel, New Orleans beauty, sued him for a half million dollars, charging breach of promise. After a week's reading of fervid love letters which he was alleged to have written to her, the jury returned a verdict in his favor.

He was married to his present wife several months ago The wedding announcement shocked Atlanta's "elite" and came without warning. After a brief honeymoon the two returned here where they have been living in the Candler mansion since. His wife has twin girls by a former marriage, not yet in their 'teens.

ONE KILLED IN CHICAGO CLASH

CHICAGO, Feb. 9. — Trouble between rival factions of the "Checker Taxicab company broke out afresh here today and a score of men "shot it out," in the company's office, resulting in one death and injury to others.

George Rapp, a chauffeur, was killed and an unidentified man, believed a member of the raiding party, was perhaps fatally injured. Police tonight questioned company officials and cab drivers.

A dozen men, thought by police to be sluggers hired by one faction, attacked the main garage and office building of the company. Gaining entrance they fired at a group of chauffeurs and other employes, killing Rapp.

TWO FLIERS KILLED.

Sister of Harry K. Thaw Faces Alienation Suit of Half a Million

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Burning letters from the Countess De Perigny, sister of Harry K. Thaw, to a young automobile salesman, married, whom she showered with attentions, were introduced in the supreme court here today as part of a $500,000 suit for alienation of affections.

Mrs. Madeline Helen Modica, is bringing the suite, alleging from the time of her marriage to Modica in 1922 until November of last year, when the countess married her present husband, the defendant constantly pursued and sought to alienate the affections of the young and stalwart Italian who is is father of Mrs. Modica's six months' old baby.

Attorney Files Order.

The story came out when Frank P. Walsh, attorney for Mrs. Modica, filed an order to snow cause, directing the countess to show why she should not appear before Justice Bijur on Tuesday next, to testify regarding certain letters and telegrams alleged to have been sent by her to Emanuel Victor Modica at various times.

She is also to be questioned if the order is granted, concerning her own handwriting.

The complaint alleges that Madeline Helen Modica and Emanuel Victor Modica were married in 1923 and have one child, a daughter, six months old. It alleges that the Modicas lived happily in Brooklyn at the time Countess De Perigny's alleged alienation began and was carried to a successful conclusion.

It was in July, 1922, says the complainant, that the now Countess De Perigny crossed her path. The complaint declares there was an immediate malicious and wrongful effort by Countess De Perigny to win Emanuel Victor's affections from his wife. The result was that by means of gifts of money as set out in the complaint, of automobiles and other valuable things, to say nothing of acts and demonstrations of love, Emanuel Victor was won away from his wife.

The progress of the affair continued uninterruptedly, the complaint alleges, until July, 1923 when the husband deserted the wife, and she alleges, later went to Paris with the defendant. She says she has not seen him since and he has not contributed anything to her support since his desertion.

At the Brooklyn home of Mrs. Modica's father, William D. Martine, wealthy coal dealer, where the plaintiff has been living, it was said Mrs. Modica was with friends in Connecticut.

"We have no idea where Mr. Modica is at present," was the reply to inquiries as to the husband's whereabouts.

Mother Refuses Comment.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb 9.— Mrs. William K. Thaw, mother of the Countess Perigny mentioned in a $500,000 suit for alienation of affections filed against her in New York, today denied all knowledge of the affair.

"You'll see later," was the cryptic comment given to interviewers.

MAY ASK A PROBE OF ALASKAN ROAD

Labor Leaders Hint At "Next Great American Scandal."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Congressional investigation of the government's Alaskan railroad may be demanded as the result of data being gathered by labor leaders who last summer made a secret trip to Alaska to study the railroad, it was learned here tonight.

This, it was intimated, was what Timothy Healy, New York, president of the firemen's and oilers' union, meant when he said today in Cleveland, that the "Alaskan railroad steal will be the next great American scandal."

Healey refused to explain his statement, and labor leaders here were equally reticent.

Dan Sutherland, delegate in congress from Alaska, said he had "an inkling of what is coming It might cause a lot of trouble," Sutherland said.

Dinner will be served at 6.30 p. m., followed by the usual discussion of reports and clinical experiences Dr. George W. Covey is to present the paper of the evening.

LINCOLN MAN TO HEAD ENGINEERS

Elect Roy Cochran President of Nebraska Section of National Society.

Roy Cochran of Lincoln was elected president of the Nebraska Section of the American Society of Civil Engineers at the annual meeting and dinner Saturday evening at the Lincoln hotel D L. Erickson of Lincoln and H. E. Cotton of Omaha were elected vice presidents, and Homer C. Krause of Omaha was chosen secretary-treasurer.

The engineer mut be considered a business man and not a professional man, declared George T Prince of Omaha, the retiring president, in an address on that subject. Attempts to bring engineering up to the dignity of a profession in the last few years, with similar codes of ethics and practices have failed, he said, in spite of the efforts of organizations. Sealed bids demanded by corporations has contributed to this state of affairs.

William H. Campen of Omaha presented a technical paper on "The Development of a Maximum Density Curve and its Application to Bituminous Aggregate." George L. Campen, William Grant, R. CONFEREES FAVOR GERMAN CONTROL

Experts Feel Nation Must Have Economic Supervision Of Rhine and Ruhr.

Berlin Government Also Understands Moratorium And Loans Favored.

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—According to the government understanding here tonight, the committee or experts headed by General Charles G. Dawes has agreed that Germany must have economic control of the Rhine and the Ruhr.

Other important agreements reached by the committee, as the Berlin government understands it, are:

Germany must have a moratorium.

Germany must have outside loans, the proceeds of which shall be devoted directly and exclusively to payment of French reparations.

The committee announced tonight its agreement with the plan for a gold bank put forward by Herr Schacht, director of the reichbank. The committee's plan is slightly different, however, since it proposes cooperation with the rentenbank and the reichsbank This disposes of Schacht's own proposal, but he informed the committee he considers it quite applicable to conditions in Germany.

It is assumed that the committee will recommend Germany be required to make a heavy cut in the war budget as well as to cut heavily the appropriations at the present time for unemployment. While it has been learned that the government has decided to continue to pay the occupation costs in the Rhineland it is reported that the experts will agree that the gold bank plan should not b etroubled with the occupation payments.

A SUCCESSOR TO ANDERSON SOUGHT

Stiff Fight Within Directors Of Anti-Saloon League Probable.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The resignation of William H. Anderson, superintendent of the Anti-saloon league of New York, who has been convicted of forgery, was accepted Tuesday by the board of directors of the league, it was learned this afternoon.

Anderson's resignation was submitted by him after his conviction. His successor has not been selected. A stiff fight within the board of directors and possibly a split among its members is possible, it was indicated today.

One faction will try to make a "clean sweep" of Anderson's colleagues and oust them from the Anti-saloon league., Another faction has indicated a determination of firm support both of Anderson's ideas and Anderson's men.

Anderson's appeal to a higher court against his one to two year sentence will be heard next Friday in the criminal branch of the supreme court.

Experts Feel Nation Must Have Economic Supervision Of Rhine and Ruhr.

Berlin Government Also Understands Moratorium And Loans Favored.

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—According to the government understanding here tonight, the committee or experts headed by General Charles G. Dawes has agreed that Germany must have economic control of the Rhine and the Ruhr.

Other important agreements reached by the committee, as the Berlin government understands it, are:

Germany must have a moratorium.

Germany must have outside loans, the proceeds of which shall be devoted directly and exclusively to payment of French reparations.

The committee announced tonight its agreement with the plan for a gold bank put forward by Herr Schacht, director of the reichbank. The committee's plan is slightly different, however, since it proposes cooperation with the rentenbank and the reichsbank. This disposes of Schacht's own proposal, but he informed the committee he considers it quite applicable to conditions in Germany.

It is assumed that the committee will recommend Germany be required to make a heavy cut in the war budget as well as to cut heavily the appropriations at the present time for unemployment. While it has been learned that the government has decided to continue to pay the occupation costs in the Rhineland it is reported that the experts will agree that the gold bank plan should not b etroubled with the occupation payments.

A SUCCESSOR TO ANDERSON SOUGHT

Stiff Fight Within Directors Of Anti-Saloon League Probable.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The resignation of William H. Anderson, superintendent of the Anti-saloon league of New York, who has been convicted of forgery, was accepted Tuesday by the board of directors of the league, it was learned this afternoon.

Anderson's resignation was submitted by him after his conviction. His successor has not been selected. A stiff fight within the board of directors and possibly a split among its members is possible, it was indicated today.

One faction will try to make a "clean sweep" of Anderson's colleagues and oust them from the Anti-saloon league. Another faction has indicated a determination of firm support both of Anderson's ideas and Anderson's men.

Anderson's appeal to a higher court against his one to two year sentence will be heard next Friday in the criminal branch of the supreme court.

ONE KILLED IN CHICAGO CLASH

CHICAGO, Feb. 9. — Trouble between rival factions of the "Checker Taxicab company broke out afresh here today and a score of men "shot it out," in the company's office, resulting in one death and injury to others.

George Rapp, a chauffeur, was killed and an unidentified man, believed a member of the raiding party, was perhaps fatally injured. Police tonight questioned company officials and cab drivers.

A dozen men, thought by police to be sluggers hired by one faction, attacked the main garage and office building of the company. Gaining entrance they fired at a group of chauffeurs and other employes, killing Rapp.

TWO FLIERS KILLED.

Hi School Teams of Nebraska Gather In Lincoln March 6, 7, 8

ENTRY BLANKS OUT TO STATE HIGH SCHOOLS

Nebraska Youths to Congregate in the Capital City March 6, 7 and 8 for Their Annual Basket Tourney.

Entry blanks for the annual Nebraska interscholastic basketball tournament in Lincoln, March 6, 7 and 8, have been placed in the mails, according to Supt. W. G Brooks, secretary of the Nebraska high school athletic board. Secretary Brooks announced Saturday night that entry blanks have been forwarded to 325 Nebraska high schools, all members of the state association

The entry books on the 1924 classic will close Saturday night, February 23. According to the announcement made Saturday night by Secretary Brooks, the members of the state high school control board will gather in Lincoln, February 29, to classify the high school teams. Last March the teams competed in fifteen classes.

Reduced Rail Rates.

Reduced rates will be awarded the high school teams on the identification plan. Close to four thousand certificates for identification have been requested by the athletic board. The reduced rate which the high school basketeers will receive is one fare and one-half for the round trip.

In addition to the reduced fare, high school teams journeying to Lincoln will be refunded a share of their travel expenses. Competing schools will be pro-rated a share of the proceeds derived from the tournament play. All money taken in at the tournament, after expenses have been deducted, will be turned back to the high school teams.

The University of Nebraska athletic department makes no profit, whatever, from the tourney Members of the "N" club donate their services in helping stage the games and looking after the high school tossers while they are in Lincoln

Predicts Record Smasher.

The 1924 tournament will probably top all previous tourneys from the standpoint of teams competing. Last year more than 225 teams entered the cage carnival and Secretary Brooks reports that interest in the cage sport is keen in all sections of the state this winter and he expects the number of entries this month to set a new record in state basket circles. A new Nebraska record would be equivalent to a world's record, as the Cornhusker high tourney is the world's greatest cage carnival.

CLAY CENTER HI DEFEAT CRETE

Haylett's Athletes Go Two Full Games Without Allowing a Score.

(Special to The Star.)

CLAY CENTER, Neb., Feb. 9.—Clay Center high school defeated rete in a fast game here last night, 18 to 11.

Burt, with six baskets, led the Clay Center scoring by a wide margin. Ellis and Borland put up a great defensive game for the locals. Vasataka and Horney with six and five points, respectively, accounted for the Crete total.

At Minden last week, Minden scored two long baskets in less than a minute of play. This wound up the Minden scoring. On the following night the Clay Center team shut out Nelson. Last night the Crete team did not score until Clay Center had established a record of not being scored upon in the equivalent of two full games. Summary:

FIRPO CHAMPION HOT DOG EATER

Trainer Puzzled Until Got Next to Sharp Trick By Wild Bull.

Hairy Man Decidedly Over Weight From Habit of Stuffing Food.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—Before Luis Angel Firpo sailed for South America last fall with about $300,000, Tex Rickard warned him that he should stay in training and keep his weight down if he had any serious intentions of staying in the fight game.

Rickard and other advisers who had an interest in Firpo feared he would forget about the ring when he returned home and that he would fill up if he started to lead the life of a millionaire gentleman.

Firpo, according to cable reports, went right into the easy life and put on so much flesh that he now weighs more than 250 pounds

Cable from Gartland.

Billy McCarney, the South American New York agent, admitted as much today

"Gartland cabled me that Firpo had gone all to fat since he left the United States and that they were going to have an awful time getting him back in good shape," McCarney said

Gartland is McCarney's business partner, who went to South America some time ago to handle him in his fights with Farmer Lodge and Erminio Spalla, the European heavyweight champion.

Lodge, of course, is a pushover and Spalla is only a setup unless he has developed a million per cent since he was mixing around the hams in this county several years ago

Knock On Bouts in U. S.

It is feared, however, that Firpo may be so heavy on his feet and so slow that he may not be able to polish off the two setups in a round or two and if he doesn't it will not help the ballyhoo for his American bouts this summer.

"If Firpo has filled out inside, he's through and he might as well quit," one of the foremost trainers in the country said today. "I know Firpo and I know that he will need do hard work. He can't get his flesh off unless he does a lot of work on the road and he should have been doing it every day. He even hates to do work in a gymnasium and he probably will not live on a diet. I know when he got away from the few advisers in whom he had some faith, he would go right into fat"

Trained On Hot Dogs.

Firpo never did train in this country according to the rules prescribed by American trainers. Jimmy DeForest tried to hold him on a diet when he first startted working with him and he wondered why his charge did not take off weight. He discovered later that Firpo was having huge quantities of "hot dogs" smuggled into his shack by boys in the neighborhood and that the food on the training table was only being used as an appetizer.

Travis Jackson, twenty years old and virtually a newcomer with the champion Giants, faces an herculean task the coming season. McGraw counts on him to play shortstop regularly, the post at which the Giant fans have seen Bancroft, Art Fletcher, Al Bridwell and Bill Dahlen win fame. Jackson must deliver the class of infielding set by these former stars to make a hit with Gotham fans. Jackson was a freshman in college when the Giants signed him.

LINCOLN ELEVEN BOOKS GRID CARD

Central, Tech, York, Beatrice, South and Des Moines To Play Here.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHEDULES.

Sept. 27—South Omaha at Lincoln. (Tentative.)
Oct. 4—Kearney at Kearney.
Oct. 11 or 17—Omaha Central at Lincoln.
Oct. 25—Beatrice at Lincoln.
Nov. 1—Grand Island at Grand Island.
Nov. 8—Omaha Tech at Lincoln.
Nov. 15—York at Lincoln.
Nov. 22—North Des Moines at Lincoln.
Nov. 27—Open. Possibly St. Joseph at St. Joseph.

BY GREGG M'BRIDE.

Followers of Lincoln high school sport will have opportunity to inspect the Red and Black football eleven in an attractive array of home games when football season rolls around next fall. The capital city slate will include at least six home games, every one of which has the ear-marks of a real contest There is a possibility that a seventh home game will be added to the list.

Omaha Central, the team that put Lincoln out of the state championship running last fall and Omaha Tech, the aggregation that later tossed cold water on Central's championship hopes, will both do their stuff on the Lincoln high school stadium field

Central and Tech Here.

This is Lincoln's year to journey to Omaha for the game with Central, but a satisfactory date could not be arranged for the Omaha gridiron and Coach J. G. Schmidt consented to bring his proteges here next fall. The Central contest will be played October 11 or 17. The Lincoln high school authorities will probably fill the alternate date, meeting a Nebraska high school team at Lincoln or away.

Omaha Tech will invade Lincoln, November 8. The Techsters fell before the Lincoln attack last fall, but later in the season triumphed over Omaha Central.

Beatrice will play a return game at Lincoln October 25, while York will journey to the capital city November 15. Coach Johnston has laid the foundation for a strong team at Beatrice next fall while York gave Lincoln plenty to think about in the game at York last fall.

The Lincoln schedule will open September 27 with South Omaha as the probable opponent.

Des Moines at Lincoln.

The capital city eleven will play at Kearney October 4. Kearney lost the state title game to Lincoln in 1922 Lincoln will journey to Grand Island November 1.

The Thanksgiving game away from home has not been definitely signed, although it is probable the Lincoln athletes will journey to St. Joseph Alliance high is another bidder for the Turkey day date.

CARD COMPLETE FOR GLOVE SHOW

Five Bouts, Including Over Thirty Rounds of Boxing, Make Up Slate.

Hudkins-Strayer Main Event Feature of National Guard Bill.

TUESDAY'S FIGHT CARD.

Six rounds—Kid Slaughter (colored), Lincoln, vs. One-Step Watson (colored), Omaha; 145 pounds.

Four rounds—Bill Riley, Lincoln, v. Harry Pollard, Lincoln; 113 pounds.

Five bouts, including thirty-two rounds of mitten-whirling, are on the program for next Tuesday night at the City auditorium, under the sponsorship and promotion of Lincoln's National Guard company Matchmaker Billy Hale, acting for the Guardsmen, added the Riley-Pollard fourrounder to his book Saturday, completing the Tuesday program, and the fist-slingers are all set and ready for the gong.

Fight fans of Lincoln quite properly are looking forward to a feverish combat when Hudkins and Strayer square off in the main event, contending for the lightweight glove championship of the state. Strayer is the more experienced exponent of the mauling art, but Ace generally gets credit for possessing a sleep-producing sock. Rivalry in the camps of the two local battlers is keen and the stage, to all appearances, has been duly set and prepared for a torrid exchange of padded knuckles

The brisk advance sale of seats points to a turnout of glove fans of sufficient proportions to pack the big town shed. In fact, a record-breaking mob is in prospect for the Tuesday show.

Final workouts by the leather-pushing gents are scheduled for this afternoon and again on Monday at the Business Men's gym on South Twelfth street Fans will be privileged to give the battlers the once-over beginning at 3 p m. each day, no admission to be collected at the door.

LOCAL HUSTLERS STICKING ON JOB

Baseball Drive to Continue Until Membership Goal Has Been Reached.

Boosters at the Three-Quarter Mark; Wakefield Ready To Go After Talent.

Baseball boosters of Lincoln, seeking to bring the Western league article back to the capital city, edged up Saturday to the three-quarter mark in their drive to put over the purchase of Landis Field and, with the 200 membership goal in sight, positive announcement was made by the committee of hustlers that the campaign would go forward until the list is complete

Driven to cover early in the week by an Arctic blast, the hustlers reorganized their forces Friday and Saturday and approximately fifty subscribers to the park association plan were added to the list during the week With a more responsive interest in commercial circles, a determination by the boosters to proceed with their drive and the receipt of information from league headquarters in Chicago that the Tearney loop is holding the gate open for Lincoln's entry, the campaign will be pushed this week with renewed energy

Globe Employes Chip In.

Employes of the Globe Laundry came to bat yesterday with a subscription of one share, inspiring the hope within the ranks of the boosting committee that employes of other local concerns may take example from the action of the Globe workers, pooling their resources and doing their bit toward putting Lincoln back on the Western league map

Howard Wakefield, Chicago man and former big league catcher, who stands ready to take over the Sioux City franchise and relocate the team in this city, departed late Saturday afternoon for his home. While Mr. Wakefield is awaiting the final result of Lincoln's drive he will proceed with plans for the acquisition of playing talent and the selection of a southern city for spring training headquarters.

Ready to Go After Players.

"I intend to be ready for active business the moment word reaches me that the drive has been put over and that Lincoln has a park in which my club may operate," Wakefield said before going on train. "The very next move I shall make is to hit the road to the east, calling on Miller Huggins of the Yankees Bill McKechnie of the Pirates, Clark Griffith of the Senators and Bobby Quinn of the Red Sox is bidding for players I know these men personally In fact, I played ball for two of them, and am confident I can arrange for the release of several desirable players, either on option or by purchase outright.

Wakefield His Own Manager.

Wakefield, in event Lincoln qualifies for a place on the Western circuit, will not be content to be an owner-magnate of the Tearney loop An active professional pastime nearly ten seasons, four of which were spent in the majors, Wakefield will don a baseball suit, managing his club from the bench. The Chicago man has had experience as a manager in the diamond pastime Several years ago, when in his last professional year, Wakefield managed the Rockford, Ill, club in the Three-Eye loop and piloted the Watchmakers to the pennant

College Star To Big League

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 3.—"Hoge" Workmen, star football player and leading pitcher on the Ohio State baseball team, may accept one of a number of major league offers, it was learned today.

If workman accepts he will be the third Ohio state pitcher to go direct from the campus to the big line. Wayne Wright, captain of the 1917 baseball team, went to the St. Louis Browns and Johnny Stuart left the university to join the St. Louis Cardinals.

Wright, Stuart and Workman are all residents of Huntington, W. Va., which was also the home of Wayland Dean, the pitcher recently purchased by the New York Giants.

*Split season, Hutchinson won playoff of second half from Joplin in three straight games and then lost playoff with Des Moines for league championship, 4 games to 2.

BY CHARLES J. BRILL.

A whipping race right up to the wire—that's what thrills the fan and sends the turnstiles whirling at a merry rate And the Western league has had its share of such during its quarter of a century in organized baseball.

It also has had its share of the other kind, too— those races which are walk-overs for the leaders. In nearly every instance of this kind, however, there has been a fighting finish among the other clubs which landed in first division. Consequently, financial difficulties in which the league has found itself from time to time never would have come had it not been for the enormous stretch of territory over which it has spread, for, generally speaking, Western league fans have been loyal to the game.

Half a dozen times the pennant winner has not been determined until within a day or two of the close of the season.

Sooners Nosed Out Oilers.

Most recent among the last-day champions is Oklahoma City, which did not cinch the 1923 pennant until the closing day With Tulsa only half a game behind and a double-header scheduled for the Oilers, the championship still hung in the balance as the final day was ushered in. Oklahoma City needed its game with Denver to cinch the pennant. Tulsa could have won had Oklahoma City lost while it was winning two And Oklahoma City won without taking the field. Rain that morning, on top of a field already covered with water in many places, made the Oklahoma City games impossible. Tulsa, its hope of the pennant already blasted when it went into its final doubleheader, lost both.

Three years previously Wichita and Tulsa had come as near running a dead heat as is possible and yet decide the race Each won 92 games, but Tulsa lost only 61 while Wichita lost 62, giving Tulsa half a game margin

Kansas City Beat Omaha.

A similar finish was that of 1902, when Kansas City nosed out Omaha by three percentage points. This was strictly a two-horse race from the start. Omaha got away to a flying start, with Kansas City right at its heels. By the end of May these two teams were 211 points ahead of their nearest competitors. They fought a sensational race all the way, and while Omaha won two more games than Kansas City, it also lost two more, which in the final analysis threw its percentage three points under that of Kansas City.

In 1908 the Western provided the most thrilling race of the entire minor league field. Six weeks from the finish Omaha seemed to have the pennant sewed up. Then Sioux City broke loose with a dozen straight victories which put a different aspect on things, the final series finding these two teams locking horns for the championship. As generally happens, the challengers swept through the series, winning four of the five games, three being shutouts, and Sioux City had a two-game margin at the finish.

Sioux City Scalped Omaha.

The next year was another thriller. Sioux City, this time was not so lucky. It looked like a cinch up to the last day. On that day, Omaha, already out of the running, got revenge for Sioux City's triumph of the year before by knocking the Sioux over in both games of a doubleheader, while Des Moines, by beating Lincoln in a single game, slipped under the wire first by a one-game margin

In addition to that sensational drive of the Sioux in 1908, the Western league has seen two other dark horses cop by great drives in the last month of the season.

Omaha made one of these in 1901. As in the year before, Colorado Springs was the early pacemaker. As the field went into the stretch, Denver was closing in like a sure winner. But, overlooked until the last thirty days, Omaha gained steadily and finally won out by a game and a half.

Des Moines Had Long Lead.

Wildest of the wild races in the Western was that of 1906, in which Des Moines won with a margin of twenty-three games over its nearest rival, Lincoln. These were the only teams to win more games than they lost, and Lincoln had just one on the right side of the ledger with seventy-five victories to seventy-four defeats.

Jack Hendricks led Denver on a walk-over campaign in 1911, winning 111 games, the most victories ever recorded by a Western league team. When the final figures were in, it was discovered that the Bears had a full eighteen-game margin over St Joseph, the runner-up. This same team had had the race all to itself the year before after July.

Iowa Capital Repeated.

Though its margin at the wind-up was only three and one-half games, Des Moines set the pace in 1915 from June, being out of first place only one day in August when Denver went up for twenty-four hours. On the last day Des Moines beat Sioux City in the second game of a doubleheader, after losing the first in ten innings.

One of the most peculiar finishes was that of Omaha in 1916, when it lost six of its last seven games, yet had a five and one-half advantage over Lincoln, its contender, at the windup.

ENTRY BLANKS OUT TO STATE HIGH SCHOOLS

Nebraska Youths to Congregate in the Capital City March 6, 7 and 8 for Their Annual Basket Tourney.

Entry blanks for the annual Nebraska interscholastic basketball tournament in Lincoln, March 6, 7 and 8, have been placed in the mails, according to Supt. W. G. Brooks, secretary of the Nebraska high school athletic board. Secretary Brooks announced Saturday night that entry blanks have been forwarded to 325 Nebraska high schools, all members of the state association.

The entry books on the 1924 classic will close Saturday night, February 23. According to the announcement made Saturday night by Secretary Brooks, the members of the state high school control board will gather in Lincoln, February 29, to classify the high school teams. Last March the teams competed in fifteen classes.

Reduced Rail Rates.

Reduced rates will be awarded the high school teams on the identification plan. Close to four thousand certificates for identification have been requested by the athletic board. The reduced rate which the high school basketeers will receive is one fare and one-half for the round trip.

In addition to the reduced fare, high school teams journeying to Lincoln will be refunded a share of their travel expenses. Competing schools will be pro-rated a share of the proceeds derived from the tournament play. All money taken in at the tournament, after expenses have been deducted, will be turned back to the high school teams.

The University of Nebraska athletic department makes no profit, whatever, from the tourney. Members of the "N" club donate their services in helping stage the games and looking after the high school tossers while they are in Lincoln.

Predicts Record Smasher.

The 1924 tournament will probably top all previous tourneys from the standpoint of teams competing. Last year more than 225 teams entered the cage carnival and Secretary Brooks reports that interest in the cage sport is keen in all sections of the state this winter and he expects the number of entries this month to set a new record in state basket circles. A new Nebraska record would be equivalent to a world's record, as the Cornhusker high tourney is the world's greatest cage carnival.

FIRPO CHAMPION HOT DOG EATER

Trainer Puzzled Until Got Next to Sharp Trick By Wild Bull.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Before Luis Angel Firpo sailed for South America last fall with about $300,000, Tex Rickard warned him that he should stay in training and keep his weight down if he had any serious intentions of staying in the fight game.

Rickard and other advisers who had an interest in Firpo feared he would forget about the ring when he returned home and that he would fill up if he started to lead the life of a millionaire gentleman.

Firpo, according to cable reports, went right into the easy life and put on so much flesh that he now weighs more than 250 pounds.

Cable from Gartland.

"Gartland cabled me that Firpo had gone all to fat since he left the United States and that they were going to have an awful time getting him back in good shape," McCarney said.

Gartland is McCarney's business partner, who went to South America some time ago to handle him in his fights with Farmer Lodge and Erminio Spalla, the European heavyweight champion.

Lodge, of course, is a pushover and Spalla is only a setup unless he has developed a million per cent since he was mixing around the hams in this county several years ago.

Knock On Bouts in U. S.

It is feared, however, that Firpo may be so heavy on his feet and so slow that he may not be able to polish off the two setups in a round or two and if he doesn't it will not help the ballyhoo for his American bouts this summer.

"If Firpo has filled out inside, he's through and he might as well quit," one of the foremost trainers in the country said today. "I know Firpo and I know that he will not do hard work. He can't get his flesh off unless he does a lot of work on the road and he should have been doing it every day. He even hates to do work in a gymnasium and he probably will not live on a diet. I knew when he got away from the few advisers in whom he had some faith, he would go right into fat."

Trained On Hot Dogs.

Firpo never did train in this country according to the rules prescribed by American trainers. Jimmy DeForest tried to hold him on a diet when he first startted working with him and he wondered why his charge did not take off weight. He discovered later that Firpo was having huge quantities of "hot dogs" smuggled into his shack by boys in the neighborhood and that the food on the training table was only being used as an appetizer.

GIANT ROOKIE HAS MAN-SIZED JOB

Travis Jackson, twenty years old and virtually a newcomer with the champion Giants, faces an herculean task the coming season. McGraw counts on him to play shortstop regularly, the post at which the Giant fans have seen Bancroft, Art Fletcher, Al Bridwell and Bill Dahlen win fame. Jackson must deliver the class of infielding set by these former stars to make a hit with Gotham fans. Jackson was a freshman in college when the Giants signed him.

LOCAL HUSTLERS STICKING ON JOB

Baseball Drive to Continue Until Membership Goal Has Been Reached.

Boosters at the Three-Quarter Mark; Wakefield Ready To Go After Talent.

Baseball boosters of Lincoln, seeking to bring the Western league article back to the capital city, edged up Saturday to the three-quarter mark in their drive to put over the purchase of Landis Field and, with the 200 membership goal in sight, positive announcement was made by the committee of hustlers that the campaign would go forward until the list is complete.

Driven to cover early in the week by an Arctic blast, the hustlers reorganized their forces Friday and Saturday and approximately fifty subscribers to the park association plan were added to the list during the week. With a more responsive interest in commercial circles, a determination by the boosters to proceed with their drive and the receipt of information from league headquarters in Chicago that the Tearney loop is holding the gate open for Lincoln's entry, the campaign will be pushed this week with renewed energy.

Globe Employes Chip In.

Employes of the Globe Laundry came to bat yesterday with a subscription of one share, inspiring the hope within the ranks of the boosting committee that employes of other local concerns may take example from the action of the Globe workers, pooling their resources and doing their bit toward putting Lincoln back on the Western league map.

Howard Wakefield, Chicago man and former big league catcher, who stands ready to take over the Sioux City franchise and relocate the team in this city, departed late Saturday afternoon for his home. While Mr. Wakefield is awaiting the final result of Lincoln's drive he will proceed with plans for the acquisition of playing talent and the selection of a southern city for spring training headquarters.

Ready to Go After Players.

"I intend to be ready for active business the moment word reaches me that the drive has been put over and that Lincoln has a park in which my club may operate," Wakefield said before going on train. "The very next move I shall make is to hit the road to the east, calling on Miller Huggins of the Yankees. Bill McKechnie of the Pirates, Clark Griffith of the Senators and Bobby Quinn of the Red Sox is bidding for players. I know these men personally. In fact, I played ball for two of them, and am confident I can arrange for the release of several desirable players, either on option or by purchase outright.

Wakefield His Own Manager.

Wakefield, in event Lincoln qualifies for a place on the Western circuit, will not be content to be an owner-magnate of the Tearney loop. An active professional pastimer nearly ten seasons, four of which were spent in the majors, Wakefield will don a baseball suit, managing his club from the bench. The Chicago man has had experience as a manager in the diamond pastime. Several years ago, when in his last professional year, Wakefield managed the Rockford, Ill., club in the Three-Eye loop and piloted the Watchmakers to the pennant.

LINCOLN ELEVEN BOOKS GRID CARD

Central, Tech, York, Beatrice, South and Des Moines To Play Here.

Sept. 27—South Omaha at Lincoln. (Tentative.)
Oct. 4—Kearney at Kearney.
Oct. 11 or 17—Omaha Central at Lincoln.
Oct. 25—Beatrice at Lincoln.
Nov. 1—Grand Island at Grand Island.
Nov. 8—Omaha Tech at Lincoln.
Nov. 15—York at Lincoln.
Nov. 22—North Des Moines at Lincoln.
Nov. 27—Open. Possibly St. Joseph at St. Joseph.

BY GREGG M'BRIDE.

Followers of Lincoln high school sport will have opportunity to inspect the Red and Black football eleven in an attractive array of home games when football season rolls around next fall. The capital city slate will include at least six home games, every one of which has the ear-marks of a real contest. There is a possibility that a seventh home game will be added to the list.

Omaha Central, the team that put Lincoln out of the state championship running last fall and Omaha Tech, the aggregation that later tossed cold water on Central's championship hopes, will both do their stuff on the Lincoln high school stadium field.

Central and Tech Here.

This is Lincoln's year to journey to Omaha for the game with Central, but a satisfactory date could not be arranged for the Omaha gridiron and Coach J. G. Schmidt consented to bring his proteges here next fall. The Central contest will be played October 11 or 17. The Lincoln high school authorities will probably fill the alternate date, meeting a Nebraska high school team at Lincoln or away.

Omaha Tech will invade Lincoln, November 8. The Techsters fell before the Lincoln attack last fall, but later in the season triumphed over Omaha Central.

Beatrice will play a return game at Lincoln October 25, while York will journey to the capital city November 15. Coach Johnston has laid the foundation for a strong team at Beatrice next fall while York gave Lincoln plenty to think about in the game at York last fall.

The Lincoln schedule will open September 27 with South Omaha as the probable opponent.

Des Moines at Lincoln.

The capital city eleven will play at Kearney October 4. Kearney lost the state title game to Lincoln in 1922. Lincoln will journey to Grand Island November 1.

The Thanksgiving game away from home has not been definitely signed, although it is probable the Lincoln athletes will journey to St. Joseph. Alliance high is another bidder for the Turkey day date.

CLAY CENTER HI DEFEAT CRETE

Haylett's Athletes Go Two Full Games Without Allowing a Score.

(Special to The Star.)

Burt, with six baskets, led the Clay Center scoring by a wide margin. Ellis and Borland put up a great defensive game for the locals. Vasataka and Horney with six and five points, respectively, accounted for the Crete total.

At Minden last week, Minden scored two long baskets in less than a minute of play. This wound up the Minden scoring. On the following night the Clay Center team shut out Nelson. Last night the Crete team did not score until Clay Center had established a record of not being scored upon in the equivalent of two full games. Summary:

CARD COMPLETE FOR GLOVE SHOW

TUESDAY'S FIGHT CARD.

Six rounds—Kid Slaughter (colored), Lincoln, vs. One-Step Watson (colored), Omaha; 145 pounds.

Four rounds—Bill Riley, Lincoln, v. Harry Pollard, Lincoln; 113 pounds.

Five bouts, including thirty-two rounds of mitten-whirling, are on the program for next Tuesday night at the City auditorium, under the sponsorship and promotion of Lincoln's National Guard company. Matchmaker Billy Hale, acting for the Guardsmen, added the Riley-Pollard fourrounder to his book Saturday, completing the Tuesday program, and the fist-slingers are all set and ready for the gong.

Fight fans of Lincoln quite properly are looking forward to a feverish combat when Hudkins and Strayer square off in the main event, contending for the lightweight glove championship of the state. Strayer is the more experienced exponent of the mauling art, but Ace generally gets credit for possessing a sleep-producing sock. Rivalry in the camps of the two local battlers is keen and the stage, to all appearances, has been duly set and prepared for a torrid exchange of padded knuckles.

The brisk advance sale of seats points to a turnout of glove fans of sufficient proportions to pack the big town shed. In fact, a record-breaking mob is in prospect for the Tuesday show.

Final workouts by the leather-pushing gents are scheduled for this afternoon and again on Monday at the Business Men's gym on South Twelfth street. Fans will be privileged to give the battlers the once-over beginning at 3 p. m. each day, no admission to be collected at the door.

NEW MARRIAGE LAW DRIVES MANY TO OTHER STATES

Approximately 3,400 fewer marriages took place in Nebraska during 1923 than in the previous calendar year, as a result of five months' operation of the new law which is driving many couples beyond the state's borders to have the knot tied. The financial loss to merchants and other citizens involved in this wholesale matrimonia exodus cannot be accurately computed, but is a tremendous sum in the aggregate.

The falling off of 3,400 in the number of matrimonial events solemnized within the state last year does not tell the whole story. This happened within a period of only five months (the law not going into effect until August 3), and reversed what would otherwise have been a good gain in 1923 over 1922. If the decrease in five months could wipe out the natural increase in the other seven months and leave a net shortage of 3,400 what will be the experience in 1924 with the law in force the entire year?

Returns collected by the vital statistics office at the capitol show that, with four counties missing, the total number of marriages in Nebraska for 1923 was 8,845, while in 1922 the same counties reported 12,291 weddings. This is a decline of 3,446, or 28 per cent in the volume of business at cupid's altar in this state.

Except for this law, there would have been in the neighborhood of 13,000 home weddings last year, allowing a small ratio of increase over the preceding annum. That would have been more than 4,000 in excess of the number of nuptial ceremonials which actually took place within the state's boundaries. These 4,000 or more couple went elsewhere and spent their money outside Nebraska, except what it cost them for railroad fare or gasoline to make the trips, because they did not like the provisions of the "reform" statute which the last legislature inflicted upon the state.

Dissatisfaction Is General

It might be supposed that the counties lying next to the state border suffered the worst in this regard. But the vital statistics show that this was not the case. The falling off appears to be uniform throughout the state and fully as great in the interior counties as in those along the edges.

In Lancaster, for instance, there was a decrease of 35 per cent, from 989 to 616, in marriages during 1923; while in Douglas county, where anyone could cross the river to Council Bluffs by paying street car fare, the shrinkage was only 25 per cent, from 2,685 to 2,003. The decline in Douglas was less in proportion than for the state as a whole.

On the other hand, people living in Deuel county took advantage of their proximity to Colorado to emigrate thither for the purpose of being married. Only four weddings took place in Deuel during 1923, compared with 24 in the prior twelve month.

In Morrill county, the number of marriages in 1922 was 93, or not quite eight per month. During the first seven months last year the count was 58, however, only seven couples in all were united in Morrill county. In other words, the combined showing for five months did not equal what it had previously been in a single month.

Only Six Counties Gained.

Just six counties out of the 93 in Nebraska registered an increase in matrimonial functions last year. These were:

Garfield, 24, gained 2; Knox, 106, gained 8; Saline, 98, gained 11; Saunders, 140, gained 3; Sherman, 55, gained 15; Thomas, 12, gained 7.

Banner Blain, Box Butte, Perkins and Rock had exactly the same number of weddings, respectively, last year as they did the year befre.

In 78 counties the marriage figures decreased. Reports are not yet in from Holt, Logan, McPherson and Wheeler.

For every couple who went outside Nebraska to be married, a $2 fee was lost to some county judge's office for the issuance of the license. Where fees are not enough to pay the county judge's salary, the difference has to be made up out of money collected from the taxpayers.

Big Loss to Preachers' Wives

Ministers' wives over the state, who usually receive as "pin money" the fees paid by bridegrooms for having the ceremony performed, are poorer by some $15,000 or $20,000 than they would have been under normal conditions. The fee varies from $5 to $10 ordinarily, but sometimes a generous groom contributes more. Of course, some couples would have been married by county judges, to whom the law allows a fee of $3 for tying the nuptial knot, and a few would have gone to justices of the peace.

Miscellaneous expenditures by a pair going away from home to be married would hardly average less than $25, even where they bought no furniture at the pace visited.

In very many cases, however, they would take advantage of a trip to the outside city by going through its stores and picking out household furnishings to be shipped to them at their home addresses, which would represent additional loss to Nebraska tradesmen.

Jewery Bought Elsewhere.

As the president of the state jewelers' association pointed out a few days ago, wedding rings and other expensive jewelry are often bought by Nebraska brides and grooms in cities outside the state where they go to be married. If it were not for the obnoxious law, most of the couples would remain at home until after the wedding, at least, and the rings would be bought from there local dealers.

Herewith is the comparative showing by counties relative to marriages performed during the past two years:

JACOBY ESPOUSES UNICAMERAL BODY

Will Campaign In Every County Seat In State and Many Other Towns.

Reprimanded by Ashland Legislator for Classification Of Members.

"I'm going to speak for the one-house legislature in every county seat of Nebraska and forty or fifty other towns besides," declared I. W. Jacoby of Havelock upon his return Saturday evening from Waco, where he addressed a meeting of 100 or more citizens during the afternoon, upon that subject.

Mr. Jacoby reported that the Wahoo meeting, attended mainly by farmers, took very kindly to the plan of a single-chamber lawmaking body and that a number of those present volunteered to circulate petitions for the purpose of getting the proposition on the ballot.

A diversion occurred when L. G. Yochum of Ashland, one of Jacoby's democratic colleagues in the Nebraska house a year ago, got up and scored Jacoby for the circular which he recently issued classing Yochum and thirty-five other members as "reactionaries and stand-patters" who ought to be defeated for reelection. Jacoby claimed to be acting on authority of the legislative farm bloc, of which he was president, when he got out his manifesto classing the legislators in three groups.

In defending himself from Yochum's attack, Jacoby called on Representative Mitchell of Wahoo, democrat, to confirm the fact that he was authorized by the farm bloc, at its banquet near the close of the legislative session, to start off the next campaign for the election of men to the legislature who would support farmers' measures.

Mr. Yochum, however, had a letter from Ernest Peterson of Axtell, secretary of the farm bloc, whom Jacoby listed among the "reliable progressives," in which Peterson repudiated the Havelock man's classification. Yochum asserted that Jacoby himself should be beaten.

"It can't be did, replied Jacoby.

Mother of Slain Film Actress Bewildered by Shock of News

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 9. — In a darkened living room of her modest home at Walnut Springs, several miles south of here, stole in her grief—numbed and bewildered by the shock, Mrs. A. R. Lawson, mother of Louise Lawson, 24, music student and motion picture actress tonight was paying a mother's penalty in grief and tears for her "golden butterfly" daughter, murdered in her luxurious New York apartment.

Only the hundreds of messages of condolence pouring in from all parts of the country, from friends, relatives and strangers who knew only the brilliance of Miss Lawson's career or had heard the golden magic of her music, serve to assuage the sorrow.

With these, when seen at her home tonight, Mrs. Lawson held jealously in one hand the last letter she received from Louise — twenty hours before news of the murder reached the little home.

"Like all her other letters, she tells of nothing but her career, her success, her future," Mrs. Lawson said. "She seemed to have no particular men friends—at least she never mentioned any. I often wondered if she wouldn't soon find the right man and settle down in a home of her own. She had lots of admirers, I know, but she never told me of a sweetheart."

"I am afraid she — never confided in me."

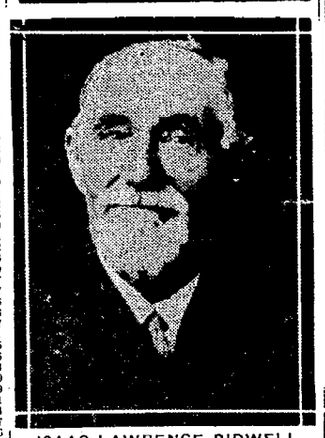

Mrs. Lawson was too much overcome to discuss the case at any length.

"She's dead. I can't believe it. My little girl," she murmured as if to herself. Then, smiling wistfully through tear-dimmed eyes:

Obituary

ISAAC LAWRENCE BIDWELL.

Isaac Lawrence Bidwell was born in England in 1833. For twenty-six years he was a sailor, for seventeen an employe of the Rock Island railroad, and for twenty-seven years a resident of Lincoln. During a long period he managed a farm. When he died at the home of his granddaughter at 1635 Van Dorn streets ta 9:35 p. m. February 6, 1924, he was ninety years, five months and eleven days old.

His wife died September 19, 1911, and one son and two daughters have also passed away. Living children are three daughters and one son: Mrs. Alma Fountain, Mrs. Harriett Kephart, Mrs. Effie Snavely and Lee Bidwell. Grandchildren who survive are: Grace Kirlin, Ruth Snavely, Jesse Fiddler, Ivy Fiddler, Elsie Fiddler, Opal Fiddler and Joy Shroyer. There is also a great grandhcild, Delhert Shroyer.—Contributed.

Mrs. Mary L. Lowrie.

The death of Mary L. Lowrie, widow of the Rev. N. S. Lowrie, formerly of 1025 South Fifteenth street, Lincoln, occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Donohue, in O'Neill, Tuesday morning, January 29.

Mrs. Lowrie since the death of her husband spent most of her time in California with her two doughters, Mrs. J. G. Cannom and Mrs. Jesse George.

About four years ago she suffered a stroke of paralysis and since that time had for the most part made her home with Mrs. Donohue at O'Neill.

She was laid at rest in Wyuka cemetery, February 1, in the family burying ground beside her husband. Rev. Carpenter, an old friend of the family, conducted the committal service. The pallbearers were from the First Presbyterian church of which she was a member.

She is survived by four daughters and three sons and several grandchildren. They are Mrs. Cannom, Chicago; Mrs. George, San Diego; Mrs. Hoover, Batavia, Java; Mrs. Donohue, O'Neill; Alfred Lowrie, Windom, Minn.; Rev. C. W. Lowrie, D. D., Detroit, Mich.; and Rev. W. J. Lowrie, Windom.

Mrs. Lowrie spent a long and very busy life—a life that was very largely given over to the service of others. It was her self sacrificing spirit that endeared her to so many friends and makes her memory blessed within the family circle.

She was born in Ontario county, New York, May 13, 1839. Came to Nebraska in 1885 and to Lincoln in 1900.

About People

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Nelsen entertained fifty guests at the Nelsen home, 3200 R street, February 2. The party was a "Days of '49" affair, and the guests appeared in costumes representing that period. The living room was decorated as a cabin in the gold rush days. An old fashioned dance with a "free lunch" was conducted in the basement.

International News Service.)

POMONA, Cal., Feb. 9.—While the "Main Street" folks of Pomona wondered on what necks the axe ofthe district attorney's office would fall next, the widespread investigation of "immorality," strip poker and liquor drinking "wild parties," involving high school youths, young girls and business men, several developments occurred tonight which provided new themes for fireside gossip regarding the "big scandal."

Two of the most important of these developments were:

1. George R. Tyler, an officer of the Pomona lodge of the Woodmen of the World, swore to a complaint charging William J. Gibbs, a Los Angeles entertainment booking agent, with taking a fair young dancer to a lodge "stag" night celebration of the Woodmen and having her perform in the nude.

2. Fifteen additional complaints charge youths and older men with contributing to the delinquency of Elsie and Alita Brunton, minor Pomona high school girls, were issued by Deputy District Attorney J. W. Joos in Los Angeles. It was announced that nine of those accused in fifteen complaints issued on Thursday have been taken into custody. Orville Wyatt, a high school boy, was arrested in Riverside, last night.

In filing his complaint against the entertainment booking agent, Tyler alleged that Gibbs was hired to put on a program at the lodge affair, held about ten nights ago, and brought his own company here from Los Angeles.

The nature dance, in which the artiste, who has performed many times in Los Angeles; was entirely unclothed, was a feature which had been announced, Tyler said. Some of the lodge men sat in startled amazement, Tyler explained, while a few were so overcome by the embarrassment of the occasion that they left the room.

Deputy District Attorney Joos would not reveal the names of any of the men or youths named in the contributing complaints issued today.

Piles Can Be Cured Without Surgery

An instructive book has been published by Dr. A. S. McCleary, the noted rectal specialist of Kansas City. This book tells how sufferers from Piles can be quickly and easily cured without the use of knife, scissors, "hot" iron, electricity or any other cutting or burning methods, without confinement to bed and no hospital bills to pay. The method has been a success for twenty-four years and in more than eight thousand cases. The book is sent postpaid free to persons afflicted with piles and other rectal troubles who clip this item and mail it with name and address to Dr. McCleary, 552 Parkview Sanitarium, Kansas City, Mo.—Advertisement.

NEBRASKA SCORES IN K. C. A. C. MEET

Locke and Weir Place In Indoor Track Competé At Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 9.—Classic trackmen from various sections of the country competed in the annual invitation meet of the K. C. A. C. tonight.

Both eastern and western schools, including the Notre Dame squad, and all members of the Missouri valley conference took part in the annual relay carnival.

Edwin, star flash of the Kansas Aggies, won the opening event, the 50-yard dash, from a field of sixty entries. He clipped the distance in 5 3-5 seconds. Costell, Missouri, was second and Locke, Nebraska third.

Ray Dodge defeated Ray Watson in a special 1,000 yard run. Both men ran under the colors of the Illinois Athletic club. Dodge's time was 2 minutes, 16 1-5 seconds.

Summary of Results.

50-yard low hurdle—Won by Simpson, Missouri, Gallagher, K. C. A. C., second; Keeble, Missouri, third. Time 6 1-5 seconds.

WESLEYAN LOSES BASKET THRILLER

Methodists Drop Contest to Morningside By Tight Score of 30-28.

(Special to The Star.)

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Feb. 9.—Morningside college defeated Nebraska Wesleyan here tonight in a North Central conference basketball game by the score of 30 to 28 in what was said to have been one of the most sensational games seen in the Maroon gymnasium in years.

The Wesleyan team got the lead early in the game and only some great basket-shooting by G. Rogers enabled Morningside to keep within striking distance of the invaders. The first half ended with the score of 16 to 15 in favor of Wesleyan.

In the second half Wesleyan forged to the front, only to have the Maroons make a great spurt and take the lead, never to relinquish it. Morningside had 30 points several moments before the end of the game when the visitors staged a spurt and came within two points of tying the score before the pistol came to the rescue of the tired Morningside team.

G. Rogers, starred with eight field goals, while Hurlburt, center for the losers, tossed eight goals and one free throw for a total of 17 points. The score:

WRESTLING TEAM HAS STIFF TEST

Husker Grapplers Meet Ames And Iowa U. In Next Two Weeks.

The University of Nebraska wrestling team has a pair of hard dual meets ahead for the next two weeks. The Cornhusker wrestlers, victors over Northwestern at Evanston and Kansas at Lawrence, will meet Iowa State college at Ames next Friday and University of Iowa at Lincoln Saturday, March 1.

The Cornhusker wrestlers had little trouble winning at Kansas, taking all but one of the matches. Hamsa, who replaced Highley in the heavyweight division, was the only Nebraskan to lose a match. He piled up a time advantage in the early stages of his bout with Hill of Kansas, but was thrown when the Jayhawker heavyweight clamped on a head scissors.

Dr. R. G. Clapp, in charge of the Cornhusker wrestlers, returned to Lincoln Saturday, the mat team remaining in Kansas City for K. C. A. C. indoor track meet.

Meets Ames Team Friday.

The Nebraska grapplers are expecting a hard meet at Ames next week. The Iowa State college team has always made a strong showing in the western intercollegiate competition but this year has a squad of new men. Wrestling, however, is a big sport at Ames, a squad of more than two hundred men turning out annually for the mat sport.

The dual meet with the University of Iowa, March 1, will be a maanee affair, the two teams meeting in the afternoon at the university armory.

Nebraska has beaten Iowa the past four years, but the Hawkeyes, with a veteran lineup, are reported to be confident of gaining revenge this year.

The University of Nebraska management plans to set aside a block of two hundred reserved ringside seats at the home meets this season, according to announcement made Saturday.

Griff Picks Harris As Senators' Pilot

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Stanley T. ("Bucky") Harris, star second baseman of the Washington baseball club, will manage the Senators during the 1924 season, Clark Griffiths announced tonight.

Harris joined the Senators in 1919 and has played regularly ever since.

Harris will manage the team from the field, joining Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb as playing managers. His contract, it was understood is for one year.

Griffith, in making known the new pilot, said:

"I have appointed Stanley Harris manger of the Washington baseball club. I have always wanted to name him, but have hesitated on account of being fearful it might affect his playing ability. I have overcome that objection, however, and have the fullest confidence that he can manage and still be the great second baseman that he has proved himself to be."

Brainard Five Wins Eleventh Game of Season

(Special to hTe Star.)

BRAINARD, Neb., Feb. 9.—The Brainard high school defeated the Seward Lutherans on the local court last night, 32 to 19.

The score at the end of the third quarter was 18 to 17 in favor of Brainard. The locals then started to hitting the basket, scoring seven field goals in the final period.

It was the eleventh win in fourteen starts for Brainard high.

Ball Player Balks When Wife Barred

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 9.—The reported agreement among National league clubs forbidding wives of players to accompany them on spring training trips promised a "show down" tonight in the case of Wilbur Cooper, Pittsburgh hurling "ace."

Although offered the same salary as last year, Cooper in a conference with Barney Dreyfuss, president, refused to sign unless the club paid his wife's expenses south, according to a statement from Dreyfuss' office tonight.

VETERANS OF RING CLASH IN NEWARK

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Two promising young battlers, who were preliminary boys on the "Bunker Hill" card, will take the title roles in a ring drama, "the good die young—but not the fighters," to be staged in Newark in the near future.

Signor Guiseppe Carrora and "Mishther" William J. Brenlin were practically matched today to fight 12 rounds to decide who is the best old man in the world. Terms of Newark promoters were accepte, but the dato has not been decided upon.

His venerable opponent is also better known in the ring as Jack Britton, age forty, former welterweight champion and the survivor of 500 stirring contests.

Dundee Made First Crack.

Dundee remarked recently that he couldn't find a good featherweight to fight, that he could beat all the junior lightweights, that Benny Leonard ran out of a fight with him last summer and that if he wanted to make any money this summer, he would have to fight Mickey Walker for the championship.

"How about Britton," Dundee was asked.

"Britton's a nice old fellow. He's kind a feeble now and it would be a shame to pick on him. I'll be old some day and I don't want the kids to be kicking me around," Dundee said.

Britton exploded when he heard it.

"If Dundee was a man's size, I would give him a good smacking. I'll never be too old to slap a little snapper like he is. He's just blowing off for his press agent. I'll fight him for a nickel," Britton said.

The match was then made.

Detroit Bids for Firpo.

DETROIT, Feb. 9. — Joe Sarno, Detroit matchmaker, today cabled Luis Firpo an offer to fight Jack Renault here in May. Sarno has hung up a purse of $200,000 for the bout, that sum to be divided between thefi ghters as they see fit. A syndicate of Detroit business men is backing Sarno. The bout, if arranged, will be held outdoors.

NEW MARRIAGE LAW DRIVES MANY TO OTHER STATES

Approximately 3,400 fewer marriages took place in Nebraska during 1923 than in the previous calendar year, as a result of five months' operation of the new law which is driving many couples beyond the state's borders to have the knot tied. The financial loss to merchants and other citizens involved in this wholesale matrimonia exodus cannot be accurately computed, but is a tremendous sum in the aggregate.

The falling off of 3,400 in the number of matrimonial events solemnized within the state last year does not tell the whole story. This happened within a period of only five months (the law not going into effect until August 3), and reversed what would otherwise have been a good gain in 1923 over 1922. If the decrease in five months could wipe out the natural increase in the other seven months and leave a net shortage of 3,400 what will be the experience in 1924 with the law in force the entire year?

Returns collected by the vital statistics office at the capitol show that, with four counties missing, the total number of marriages in Nebraska for 1923 was 8,845, while in 1922 the same counties reported 12,291 weddings. This is a decline of 3,446, or 28 per cent in the volume of business at cupid's altar in this state.

Except for this law, there would have been in the neighborhood of 13,000 home weddings last year, allowing a small ratio of increase over the preceding annum. That would have been more than 4,000 in excess of the number of nuptial ceremonials which actually took place within the state's boundaries. These 4,000 or more couple went elsewhere and spent their money outside Nebraska, except what it cost them for railroad fare or gasoline to make the trips, because they did not like the provisions of the "reform" statute which the last legislature inflicted upon the state.

Dissatisfaction Is General

It might be supposed that the counties lying next to the state border suffered the worst in this regard. But the vital statistics show that this was not the case. The falling off appears to be uniform throughout the state and fully as great in the interior counties as in those along the edges.

In Lancaster, for instance, there was a decrease of 35 per cent, from 989 to 616, in marriages during 1923; while in Douglas county, where anyone could cross the river to Council Bluffs by paying street car fare, the shrinkage was only 25 per cent, from 2,685 to 2,003. The decline in Douglas was less in proportion than for the state as a whole.

On the other hand, people living in Deuel county took advantage of their proximity to Colorado to emigrate thither for the purpose of being married. Only four weddings took place in Deuel during 1923, compared with 24 in the prior twelve month.

In Morrill county, the number of marriages in 1922 was 93, or not quite eight per month. During the first seven months last year the count was 58, however, only seven couples in all were united in Morrill county. In other words, the combined showing for five months did not equal what it had previously been in a single month.

Only Six Counties Gained.

Just six counties out of the 93 in Nebraska registered an increase in matrimonial functions last year. These were:

Garfield, 24, gained 2; Knox, 106, gained 8; Saline, 98, gained 11; Saunders, 140, gained 3; Sherman, 55, gained 15; Thomas, 12, gained 7.

Banner Blain, Box Butte, Perkins and Rock had exactly the same number of weddings, respectively, last year as they did the year befre.

In 78 counties the marriage figures decreased. Reports are not yet in from Holt, Logan, McPherson and Wheeler.

For every couple who went outside Nebraska to be married, a $2 fee was lost to some county judge's office for the issuance of the license. Where fees are not enough to pay the county judge's salary, the difference has to be made up out of money collected from the taxpayers.

Big Loss to Preachers' Wives

Ministers' wives over the state, who usually receive as "pin money" the fees paid by bridegrooms for having the ceremony performed, are poorer by some $15,000 or $20,000 than they would have been under normal conditions. The fee varies from $5 to $10 ordinarily, but sometimes a generous groom contributes more. Of course, some couples would have been married by county judges, to whom the aw allows a fee of $3 for tying the nuptial knot, and a few would have gone to justices of the peace.

Miscellaneous expenditures by a pair going away from home to be married would hardly average less than $25, even where they bought no furniture at the pace visited.

In very many cases, however, they would take advantage of a trip to the outside city by going through its stores and picking out household furnishings to be shipped to them at their home addresses, which would represent additional loss to Nebraska tradesmen.

Jewery Bought Elsewhere.

As the president of the state jewelers' association pointed out a few days ago, wedding rings and other expensive jewelry are often bought by Nebraska brides and grooms in cities outside the state where they go to be married. If it were not for the obnoxious law, most of the couples would remain at home until after the wedding, at least, and the rings would be bought from there local dealers.

Herewith is the comparative showing by counties relative to marriages performed during the past two years:

JACOBY ESPOUSES UNICAMERAL BODY

Will Campaign In Every County Seat In State and Many Other Towns.

Reprimanded by Ashland Legislator for Classification Of Members.

"I'm going to speak for the one-house legislature in every county seat of Nebraska and forty or fifty other towns besides," declared I. W. Jacoby of Havelock upon his return Saturday evening from Waco, where he addressed a meeting of 100 or more citizens during the afternoon, upon that subject.

Mr. Jacoby reported that the Wahoo meeting, attended mainly by farmers, took very kindly to the plan of a single-chamber lawmaking body and that a number of those present volunteered to circulate petitions for the purpose of getting the proposition on the ballot.

A diversion occurred when L. G. Yochum of Ashland, one of Jacoby's democratic colleagues in the Nebraska house a year ago, got up and scored Jacoby for the circular which he recently issued classing Yochum and thirty-five other members as "reactionaries and stand-patters" who ought to be defeated for reelection. Jacoby claimed to be acting on authority of the legislative farm bloc, of which he was president, when he got out his manifesto classing the legislators in three groups.

In defending himself from Yochum's attack, Jacoby called on Representative Mitchell of Wahoo, democrat, to confirm the fact that he was authorized by the farm bloc, at its banquet near the close of the legislative session, to start off the next campaign for the election of men to the legislature who would support farmers' measures.

Mr. Yochum, however, had a letter from Ernest Peterson of Axtell, secretary of the farm bloc, whom Jacoby listed among the "reliable progressives," in which Peterson repudiated the Havelock man's classification. Yochum asserted that Jacoby himself should be beaten.

"It can't be did, replied Jacoby.

Mother of Slain Film Actress Bewildered by Shock of News

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 9. — In a darkened living room of her modest home at Walnut Springs, several miles south of here, stoic in her grief—numbed and bewildered by the shock, Mrs. A. R. Lawson, mother of Louise Lawson, 24, music student and motion picture actress tonight was paying a mother's penalty in grief and tears for her "golden butterfly" daughter, murdered in her luxurious New York apartment.

Only the hundreds of messages of condolence pouring in from all parts of the country, from friends, relatives and strangers who knew only the brilliance of Miss Lawson's career or had heard the golden magic of her music, serve to assuage the sorrow.

With these, when seen at her home tonight, Mrs. Lawson held jealously in one hand the last letter she received from Louise — twenty hours before news of the murder reached the little home.

"Like all her other letters, she tells of nothing but her career, her success, her future," Mrs. Lawson said. "She seemed to have no particular men friends—at least she never mentioned any. I often wondered if she wouldn't soon find the right man and settle down in a home of her own. She had lots of admirers, I know, but she never told me of a sweetheart."

"I am afraid she — never confided in me."

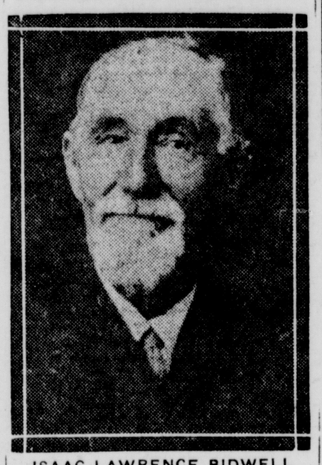

Mrs. Lawson was too much overcome to discuss the case at any length.

"She's dead. I can't believe it. My little girl," she murmured as if to herself. Then, smiling wistfully through tear-dimmed eyes:

ISAAC LAWRENCE BIDWELL.

Isac Lawrence Bidwell was born in England in 1833. For twenty-six years he was a sailor, for seventeen an employe of the Rock Island railroad, and for twenty-seven years a resident of Lincoln. During a long period he managed a farm. When he died at the home of his granddaughter at 1635 Van Dorn streets ta 9:35 p. m. February 6, 1924, he was ninety years, five months and eleven days old.

His wife died September 19, 1911, and one son and two daughters have also passed away. Living children are three daughters and one son: Mrs. Alma Fountain, Mrs. Harriett Kephart, Mrs. Effie Snavely and Lee Bidwell. Grandchildren who survive are: Grace Kirlin, Ruth Snavely, Jesse Fiddler, Ivy Fiddler, Elsie Fiddler, Opal iFddler and Joy Shroyer. There is also a great grandhcild, Delhert Shroyer.—Contributed.

Mrs. Mary L. Lowrie.

The death of Mary L. Lowrie, widow of the Rev. N. S. Lowrie, formerly of 1025 South Fifteenth street, Lincoln, occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Donohue, in O'Neill, Tuesday morning, January 29.

Mrs. Lowrie since the death of her husband spent most of her time in California with her two doughters, Mrs. J. G. Cannom and Mrs. Jesse George.

About four years ago she suffered a stroke of paralysis and since that time had for the most part made her home with Mrs. Donohue at O'Neill.

She was laid at rest in Wyuka cemetery, February 1, in the family burying ground beside her husband. Rev. Carpenter, an old friend of the family, conducted the committal service. The pallbearers were from the First Presbyterian church of which she was a member.

She is survived by four daughters and three sons and several grandchildren. They are Mrs. Cannom, Chicago; Mrs. George, San Diego; Mrs. Hoover, Batavia, Java; Mrs. Donohue, O'Neill; Alfred Lowrie, Windom, Minn.; Rev. C. W. Lowrie, D. D., Detroit, Mich,; and Rev. W. J. Lowrie, Windom.

Mrs. Lowrie spent a long and very busy life—a life that was very largely given over to the service of others. It was her self sacrificing spirit that endeared her to so many friends and makes her memory blessed within the family circle.

She was born in Ontario county, New York, May 13, 1839. Came to Nebraska in 1885 and to Lincoln in 1900.

About People

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Nelsen entertained fifty guests at the Nelsen home, 3200 R street, February 2. The party was a "Days of '49" affair, and the guests appeared in costumes representing that period. The living room was decorated as a cabin in the gold rush days. An old fashioned dance with a "free lunch" was conducted in the basement.

International News Service.)

POMONA, Cal., Feb. 9.—While the "Main Street" folks of Pomona wondered on what necks the axe ofthe district attorney's office would fall next, the widespread investigation of "immorality," strip poker and liquor drinking "wild parties," involving high school youths, young girls and business men, several developments occurred tonight which provided new themes for fireside gossip regarding the "big scandal."

Two of the most important of these developments were:

1. George R. Tyler, an officer of the Pomona lodge of the Woodmen of the World, swore to a complaint charging William J. Gibbs, a Los Angeles entertainment booking agent, with taking a fair young dancer to a lodge "stag" night celebration of the Woodmen and having her perform in the nude.

2. Fifteen additional complaints charge youths and older men with contributing to the delinquency of Elsie and Alita Brunton, minor Pomona high school girls, were issued by Deputy District Attorney J. W. Joos in Los Angeles. It was announced that nine of those accused in fifteen complaints issued on Thursday have been taken into custody. Orville Wyatt, a high school boy, was arrested in Riverside, last night.

In filing his complaint against the entertainment booking agent, Tyler alleged that Gibbs was hired to put on a program at the lodge affair, held about ten nights ago, and brought his own company here from Los Angeles.

The nature dance, in which the artiste, who has performed many times in Los Angeles, was entirely unclothed, was a feature which had been announced, Tyler said. Some of the lodge men sat in startled amazement, Tyler explained, while a few were so overcome by the embarrassment of the occasion that they left the room.

Deputy District Attorney Joos would not reveal the names of any of the men or youths named in the contributing complaints issued today.

Piles Can Be Cured Without Surgery

An instructive book has been published by Dr. A. S. McCleary, the noted rectal specialist of Kansas City. This book tells how sufferers from Piles can be quickly and easily cured without the use of knife, scissors, "hot" iron, electricity or any other cutting or burning methods, without confinement to bed and no hospital bills to pay. The method has been a success for twenty-four years and in more than eight thousand cases. The book is sent postpaid free to persons afflicted with piles and other rectal troubles who clip this item and mail it with name and address to Dr. McCleary, 562 Parkview Sanitarium, Kansas City, Mo.—Advertisement.

WESLEYAN LOSES BASKET THRILLER

Methodists Drop Contest to Morningside By Tight Score of 30-28.

(Special to The Star.)

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Feb. 9.—Morningside college defeated Nebraska Wesleyan here tonight in a North Central conference basketball game by the score of 30 to 28 in what was said to have been one of the most sensational games seen in the Maroon gymnasium in years.

The Wesleyan team got the lead early in the game and only some great basket-shooting by G. Rogers enabled Morningside to keep within striking distance of the invaders. The first half ended with the score of 16 to 15 in favor of Wesleyan.

In the second half Wesleyan forged to the front, only to have the Maroons make a great spurt and take the lead, never to relinquish it. Morningside had 30 points several moments before the end of the game when the visitors staged a spurt and came within two points of tying the score before the pistol came to the rescue of the tired Morningside team.

G. Rogers, starred with eight field goals, while Hurlburt, center for the losers, tossed eight goals and one free throw for a total of 17 points. The score:

WRESTLING TEAM HAS STIFF TEST

Husker Grapplers Meet Ames And Iowa U. In Next Two Weeks.

The University of Nebraska wrestling team has a pair of hard dual meets ahead for the next two weeks. The Cornhusker wrestlers, victors over Northwestern at Evanston and Kansas at Lawrence, will meet Iowa State college at Ames next Friday and University of Iowa at Lincoln Saturday, March 1.

The Cornhusker wrestlers had little trouble winning at Kansas, taking all but one of the matches. Hamsa, who replaced Highley in the heavyweight division, was the only Nebraskan to lose a match. He piled up a time advantage in the early stages of his bout with Hill of Kansas, but was thrown when the Jayhawker heavyweight clamped on a head scissors.

Dr. R. G. Clapp, in charge of the Cornhusker wrestlers, returned to Lincoln Saturday, the mat team remaining in Kansas City for K. C. A. C. indoor track meet.

Meets Ames Team Friday.

The Nebraska grapplers are expecting a hard meet at Ames next week. The Iowa State college team has always made a strong showing in the western intercollegiate competition but this year has a squad of new men. Wrestling, however, is a big sport at Ames, a squad of more than two hundred men turning out annually for the mat sport.

The dual meet with the University of Iowa, March 1, will be a matinee affair, the two teams meeting in the afternoon at the university armory.

Nebraska has beaten Iowa the past four years, but the Hawkeyes, with a veteran lineup, are reported to be confident of gaining revenge this year.

The University of Nebraska management plans to set aside a block of two hundred reserved ringside seats at the home meets this season, according to announcement made Saturday.

Griff Picks Harris As Senators' Pilot

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Stanley T. ("Bucky") Harris, star second baseman of the Washington baseball club, will manage the Senators during the 1924 season, Clark Griffiths announced tonight.

Harris joined the Senators in 1919 and has played regularly ever since.

Harris will manage the team from the field, joining Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb as playing managers. His contract, it was understood is for one year.

Griffith, in making known the new pilot, said:

"I have appointed Stanley Harris manager of the Washington baseball club. I have always wanted to name him, but have hesitated on account of being fearful it might affect his playing ability. I have overcome that objection, however, and have the fullest confidence that he can manage and still be the great second baseman that he has proved himself to be."

Ball Player Balks When Wife Barred

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 9.—The reported agreement among National league clubs forbidding wives of players to accompany them on spring training trips promised a "show down" tonight in the case of Wilbur Cooper, Pittsburgh hurling "ace."

Although offered the same salary as last year, Cooper in a conference with Barney Dreyfuss, president, refused to sign unless the club paid his wife's expenses south, according to a statement from Dreyfuss' office tonight.

VETERANS OF RING CLASH IN NEWARK

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Two promising young battlers, who were preliminary boys on the "Bunker Hill" card, will take the title roles in a ring drama, "the good die young—but not the fighters," to be staged in Newark in the near future.

Signor Guiseppe Carrora and "Mishther" William J. Brenlin were practically matched today to fight 12 rounds to decide who is the best old man in the world. Terms of Newark promoters were accepte, but the date has not been decided upon.

His venerable opponent is also better known in the ring as Jack Britton, age forty, former welterweight champion and the survivor of 500 stirring contests.

Dundee Made First Crack.

Dundee remarked recently that he couldn't find a good featherweight to fight, that he could beat all the junior lightweights, that Benny Leonard ran out of a fight with him last summer and that if he wanted to make any money this summer, he would have to fight Mickey Walker for the championship.

"How about Britton," Dundee was asked.

"Britton's a nice old fellow. He's kind a feeble now and it would be a shame to pick on him. I'll be old some day and I don't want the kids to be kicking me around," Dundee said.

Britton exploded when he heard it.

"If Dundee was a man's size, I would give him a good smacking. I'll never be too old to slap a little snapper like he is. He's just blowing off for his press agent. I'll fight him for a nickel," Britton said.

The match was then made.

Detroit Bids for Firpo.

DETROIT, Feb. 9. — Joe Sarno, Detroit matchmaker, today cabled Luis Firpo an offer to fight Jack Renault here in May. Sarno has hung up a purse of $200,000 for the bout, that sum to be divided between thefi ghters as they see fit. A syndicate of Detroit business men is backing Sarno. The bout, if arranged, will be held outdoors.

LINCOLN TOSSERS AGAIN DEFEATED

(Special to The Star.)

OMAHA, Neb., Feb 9.—The hitherto unbeaten Lincoln high quintet met its Waterloo when it faced Tech and Central on Omaha floors. The Tech team handed the Link aggregation a 20 to 15 trouncing Friday night and Central also polished off the capital city lads 26 to 18, Saturday afternoon.

Central's victory was a decisive one. Lincoln took the lead on Brown's basket soon after the tip-off, but Church and Marrow put the Purple ahead on a field goal and three free throws. The locals were threatened but once after that, when the Lincolnites crept to within a single tally of the Central five.

Then Coach Hill's basketeers again stepped out as Church, Fetterman and Marrow recovered from the Lincoln splurge. They repeatedly boosted the Central score to a safe lead and in the last few minutes used the stalling method to make safe a victory and avenge their own defeat by the Links some time ago. Marrow, as usual, was the high point-getter. He hit the net from nearly all angles for five baskets and the same number of free throws. Warde was the high Lincoln scorer with seven. The score:

CAR MAKER SAYS U. S. PROSPEROUS

Declares Nearly Million More Autos Bought In 1923 Than In 1922.

Motor Business Is Generally Considered Barometer Of Conditions.

BY HARRY M. JEWETT.
President Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company.

"With prosperity on every side of us we find the American public vainly seeking subjects over which verbal strife may be created.

"Everyone has started the present year better off in wordly goods than at any time in their past. The satisfied American citizen doesn't exist. Now we find ourselves in the midst of violent arguments on the taxes, farmer problems, presidential possibilities, European debts and the Volstead act, but you hear nothing said about prosperity. It is universally accepted by every class of Americans.

"It would be timely for someone to start talking about how really prosperous we are. Being in the automobile business, while the industry is generally taken as the business barometer by the present generation, I always think of national prosperity in terms of automobile sales.

Sales Increase Rapidly.

"We attribute the success of the Jewett during the past year to the automobile education of the public We tried to make it the best value for the money on the market The result of this effort was an increase of exactly 113 per cent in sales of this six cylinder motor car in 1923 over 1922.

"This is the policy of the Paige-Detriot company We expect that its continuance during the present year will make it possible for us to show a proportionate increase in the sales of our products in the present year over 1923. Our plant capacity has been tripled. A new Jewett plant has just been started in operation following a year spent in its construction We believe it is the most modern automobile factory of its kind in the world

Enlarge Plant Capacity.

"Our Paige and Jewett capacity is no wabout 650 daily. Adding to our production was caused by our belief in the continuance of American prosperity during the year and a better showing of world business conditions. Prosperous as we are, there is more money in circulation.

There was enough more last year to make possible the sale of nearly a million more motor cars than in 1922 Continuing the subject of prosperity in 1924, more people will accumulate the necessary funds with which to buy that necessity to their existence—the automobile.

"Women learning to drive cars creates another great market. Two cars are necessary to the household of the man of means when woman becomes an expert driver That they are gradually coming into their own in the motor car field is evidenced by the increase in purchase of automobiles by women in their own names

Women Buy More Cars.

"Our distribution department reports that 4 per cent of the Paiges and Jewetts sold in the United States last year were purchased by women Compare thi with the fraction of one per cent of the production of our company which women bought in 1922.

"Business firms have long since realized that a representative in a motor car is worth many on foot. Sales to this class of buyer have steadily increased with the nation-wide prosperity

"Who said the point of saturation has been reached? The recognized builders of real motor car values will continue turning out automobiles to supply the demand for years to come."

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND

Always Consider the Hudson When Hunting For Better Motor Car

Motorists have known the Hudson super-six for so long that there is little need to enlarge upon its qualities of performance and beauty, C. A. Lord of the Lord Auto company said, in speaking of the output of the Hudson company. The motoring world has come to its own conclusion that Hudson must always be reckoned when the fine car of the day are mentioned.

Mr. Lord continued:

"Since it has been brought out the super-six Hudson has continued with the same basic ideas in chassis construction. The car has been found fundamentally right. There have been continuous advancements, however and Hudson today is a more smoother car than ever before.

"This is the natural result of fifteen years of successful manufacturing

"Because Hudson is one of the very large producers of the automobile industry, it has been able to reduce its costs by a great number of volume economies. The car of today, while of the best material and standard of workmanship which Hudson has known, are sold at remarkably favorable prices.

"All cars are painted a characteristic Hudson blue. In the open cars, the upholstery if of fine hand-buffed leather. The closed types have textiles of fine, long-wearing qualities and the most appropriate patterns.

"The new coach will be found to be roomier in its comfort, and trimmer, lower, and more pleasing in its lines. It is believed that the appearance of Hudson cars will commend itself without discussion just as the chassis assures maximum performance, ability and long life"

Golf Breaks Down Nerves, But Game Grows By Leaps and Bounds

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

(Copyright 1924 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Anyone who regards golf as a neat and gaudy brain tonic can get a laugh—and a heckling—from Dr. Harold Dearden.

'Golf is a tragedy for those with disorganized or shattered nerves.

"Instead of being an aid to a nervous organism which does not function correctly, golf is the type of game which is likely to disarrange even the steadiest nervous system."

The eminent medic is correct—even if many golfers have views to the contrary.

Violent Nerve Explosion.

The history of golf in America is replete with instances where violent nervous explosions have come to those with normally steady nerves simply because they dubbed a shot or two.

It is an established fact that nothing can put a man so completely out of sorts, or cause him so much mental distress and agony, as failure on the links.

Men can suffer the ordinary slings and arrows of outrageous fortune with a smile; they can lose thousands of dollars in financial deals—or suffer defeat in business rivalry—and wear benign prefaces But who ever knew an ardent golfer who could lose a "croocial" hole and not register the ultimate in anger?

Plenty of Profanity.

It is generally accepted belief that more profanity—per inhabitant—is uttered on a golf course than in any other spot on the globe.

"The playing of golf," said Dr. Deardon, "creates a restriction of the nervous organism which is opposed to rest or relaxation"

And then he added that perhaps the only nerve benefit gained through golf came AFTER a player, in anger because of a dub shot, breaks his club

None can deny the strength of Dr. Dearden's argument that failure at golf can put even a phlegmatic temperament very much on the blink. That has been proven a thousand times and more. Men, calm and poised in all other things in life, have gone onto the links and made villians of the melodrama environs by their expressions of wild wrath and anger.

In Frenzied Rage.

They have broken their clubs—or thrown them to the ground in frenzied rage; they have made blue the ozone with their remarks; they have chipped huge sections out of sod; they have quarreled with their companions, and condemned and abused innocent little caddy boys.

As a wrecker of nerves and as a transformer of normal, evenly balanced humans to those of frenzied hours and frenzied deeds, golf knows no equal

And that's that.

But—and but again—

Golf is the fastest growing game in the world, and today in America, which knows legions of sports, golf probably ranks at the absolute crest in the matter of players.

What's the explanation?

A SURTAX RATE CHANGE CERTAIN

House Leaders Inform Coolidge Mellon Figure Faces Sure Defeat.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—It will be "physically impossible" to get the Mellon provision for a maximum surtax of 25 per cent through congress, President Coolidge was informed tonight by house leaders.

Representative Longworth, Ohio, house majority leader, and Representative Snell, New York, rules committee chairman, discussed the whole legislative situation in a long conference with the president and warned him the Mellon plan will be amended in this vital spot.

Mr. Coolidge has already served notice he would not agree to amendment of the Mellon plan in any vital particular.

Longworth told the president that the surtax rates would be somewhere between 25 and 40 per cent, with 35 per cent appearing the most likely compromise.

The legislative program as discussed at the conference, includes four major measures to be taken up in the following order:

Tax bills, immigration; Muscle shoals and the bonus. Adjournment of congress on June 1st is the leaders' plan, Longworth said.

Longworth said no railroad legislation had been introduced up till now but that some might come later and an effort would be made to get it in before June 1st.

About three and one-half or four weeks will be required to complete the tax bill, Longworth said. The principal fight will be over the surtax and after it has been decided upon, the remainder of the bill should be adopted easily, he predicted.

Immigration legislation must be cleared before June 30, Longworth pointed out, because the present law expires then. Unless an agreement can be reached it is proposed to continue the present law.

Lawyer In House Of David Suit to Serve Jail Term

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Feb. 9.—Attorney Walter M. Nelson, sentenced to thirty days in jail by Judge Harry B. Dingman for contempt of court during the "one grand jury" investigation of alleged immorality at the House of David colony here, appeared at the Berrien county jail here tonight to serve his sentence.

Nelson was released while his case was appealed to the Michigan supreme court. The appeal was denied.

State Chairman C. E. Sandall of the Johnson state organization were at Chicago a week ago, where they attended a meeting of state managers. Senator Johnson being present and advising with them.

Some additional pep will be injected into Johnson' fight in Nebraska during the present week by the filing of petitions to have his name placed on the republican primary ballot. Although the Coolidge forces were first to organize and have their campaign already under way, the Johnson people profess to be confident of their candidate's ability to carry the state, as he did four years ago.

There will be a complete ticket of delegates favorable to Johnson, in opposition to the Coolidge slate, Manager Harrison says.

University Notes

Charles E. Benson, A. M. '12, acting dean of the school of education at the University of Oklahoma during the absence of the dean on sabbatical leave, has been appointed professor of educational psychology in the school of education of the New York university. Dr. Benson has just published a volume on teacher training.

Seven students from the kindergarten-primary department of Teachers college have been appointed recently to teaching positions, for the remainder of the year, through the teachers' employment bureau upon recommendation of the department: Pauline Burkett, '26' Omaha, at Milford: Edith R. Tyler, '25, Omaha, at West Point: Lillian Bradstreet, Spencer, at McCook: Doris Bundy, '26, Trenton, at Lincoln; Frances Norton, '26, Thurston, at Grand Island; Verda Metzgar, '26, Springfield, at Lincoln, and Dorothy Van Vranken, '25, Lincoln, at Villisca, Iowa.

Selective breeding and careful feeding is the secret of success in poultry husbandry, says the agricultural extension service of the college of agriculture in summarizing the records of over three hundred flocks entered in the accredited farm-flock project at a cost per hen of $1.23 for feed; 141 White Wyandottes belonging to Mrs. Fred Woods of Pawnee City laid an average of 184.3 eggs at an average cost of $1.16. Mrs. Rudolps Stoltenburg's Barred Plymouth Rocks at Grand Island cost $2.12 per bird for feed, but they laid an average of 183.1 eggs and placed her flock of 150 birds third in the state. H. W. Lambrecht of Inavale, fed his White Leghorns $1.30 worth of feed and got an average of 153 eggs. Herman Schroeder of Lexington fed his 133 White Leghorns $1.43 and gathered an average of 182.9 eggs.

COTNER NOTES

The Fremont Cotner club, of which Miss Amy Rogers is president, entertained the students attending the Cotner-Midland game Monday night and sent a delegation of boosters for the return Midland game played in the Cotner gymnasium Friday night.

The regular monthly faculty dinner was held at the Grand hotel on Tuesday evening. Dean J. K. Shellenberger presented the paper of the evening on "Some Present Day Tendencies." A lively discussion by members of the faculty followed. Miss Norma Clark gave two violin selections with Miss Sorenson accompanying on the piano, which were very much appreciated.

Ray Hunt, '09, of East Orange, N. J., was installed as pastor of the First Christian church in Lincoln Sunday. Rev. Hunt succeeds H. H. Harmon, who took up the work of college endowments.

Bert Wilson '09 Cotner college was inaugurated as president of Eureka college February 6. An elaborate program was prepared for the day.

The educational department is enrolling more students in its classes of history than ever before. There are also more practice teachers than there are opportunities for placing them and the classes in psychology are the largest in the history of the school.

T. E. Mumford '22 of Aurora, Neb., has been called to Osceola high school to take up the work in the science department left vacant at the end of the first semester.

Miss Ruby Wilson, '22, industrial secretary of the Y. W. C. A. of Lincoln, led devotionals in chapel Thursday morning.

One of the most charming functions on the social calendar was the faculty reception to the students last Friday night. The arrangements were in the hands of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. cabinets. The rooms were made beautiful with ferns flowers and softly shaded lights. The receiving lines divided into groups, stationed in the different rooms with a host and hostess for each group. Punch was served from daintily appointed tables in the halls with Bertha Fishback, Dean Mayer, Ruth Winter and Clyde Gingles presiding. The hosts and hostesses were as follows:

General—Leslie Smith, Gladys Stephens.

Y. M. C. A. room—Edgar Little, Vena Clark.

Y. W. C. A. room—Paul Kraybill, Mildred Taylor.

Dean's rooms—Harold Cooper, Lois Boyer, Dillard Lessley. A short musical program added to the pleasure of the evening.

The lunch hour Sunday evening in the Woman's building was made enjoyable by a musical program given by Miss Florence Bower and readings by Miss Lois Boyer.

Field Secretary Lomax is back after a series of successful young people's conferences held throughout the Kansas territory.

A trio composed of the Misses Marion Kislingbury, Helen Palmer and Mary Creekpaum gave a musical program during the chapel hour Thursday, February 7. Mrs. Evabelle Long-Fuller, head of the voice department, sang a group of songs:

Star by Rogers.

Mighty Lak' a Rose—Nevin.

The Banjo Song—Homer.

The program was very much appreciated.

The home economics department under the direction of Prof. Lulu Harding Smith demonstrated before the Woman's club Tuesday. The result of the demonstration was a dainty breakfast which was served to the members of the club. Mrs. Mrs. Smith talked before the club on "Dietics." She spoke of the discovery of insulin used in diabetes. She also gave the classification of food for vitamins and calories. The girls putting on the demonstration were students in Mrs. Smith's department: Bertha Fishback, Rilla Williams, Helen Rowland, Margaret Cook, Thelma Weaver, Mary Dodrill and Myrtle Shull.

Wesleyan Affairs

Prof. F. M. Gregg will attend the meeting of the national educational association in Chicago the last of February.

The expression department will give a recital in expression hall of the White building Thursday evening, February 14 from 7 to 8 o'clock. The program will be as follows:

"Her Fleet Goes By"—Marie Smith.

"The Mansions"—Juno Loder.

"Immortal Youth"—Ruth Lang.

"Home, Sweet Home"—Virginia Hardin.

"Mrs. Climber Lislikes Notoriety"—Roma Harrington.

"A Visiting Peer."—Gladys Wardell.

Novel Debate to be Staged By Wireless From Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 9.—If your radio set can "pick up" Milwaukee, you will be able this week to hear one of the most novel debates ever conducted.

Daniel W. Hoan, mayor of Milwaukee, who refused to sign a message of condolence to the widow of former President Woodrow Wilson because he did not believe that "Woodrow Wilson was a great American,' will defend his stand in speeches broadcasted from radio stations here.

Louis M. Kotecki, city comptroller, simultaneously tonight announced he would "go to Chicago if necessary," to broadcast the "real facts" concerning Mayor Hoan's refusal to sign the message of condolence.

"Mr. Wilson did not keep his pledge to keep the United States out of war," Hoan explained when he objected to the city's official message to Mrs. Wilson and refused to sign it. "He was a party to the jailing of many American citizens, whose only crime was expression of their opinions. I have never and do not now agree with those who believe such actions are those of a 'great American'".

Many posts of the American Legion have registered their disapproval of Hoan's stand—some of them by radio to Milwaukee.

Hoan has replied by radio to his critics but will make a formal statement "to the air" either Sunday or Monday evening. Kotecki's reply will follow.

Denies Senate's Power.

Shortridge denied the senate had power to pass the resolution and urged that the proper way to punish Denby, "if any unlawful act can be proved against him," would be through impeachment.

"I do not believe that Secretary Denby signed those leases in defiance of the law," said Shortridge. "He may have been mistaken and he may not have properly construed the law nor understood his own powers, but I do not believe him guilty of defying the law.

Walsh bitterly condemned Denby and demanded that the senate go on record as repudiating all cabinet officers who were involved in the oil lease deals.

"The facts are that Denby leased valuable oil reserves contrary to the well known policy of congress," said Walsh. "This lease was unfair to the government and the transaction was shrouded in secrecy in which the secretary participated. The evidence disclosed the secretary never realized the importance of the transaction and when questioned in regard to it, showed a lamentable lack of information. In public statements, he has defended these leases and announced he would do it again. For these reasons, I personally demand his removal."

DEATH OF GIRL STILL MYSTERY

almost as it was on Friday morning when the screams of a colored maid aroused an apartment house to the facts of the murder.

But this is the construction on which Coughlin is working.

"Miss Lawson," he said tonight, "was murdered by a band of thieves of the Broadway cake-eater type. We know the type well. With their hair brushed straight back and side-burns, they prowl through the 'furious Forties' and the 'frivolous Fifties' ever on the lookout for young girls on whom they may prey.

"They seek the acquaintance of confidential assistants of men of position for what valuable knowledge they may obtain.

"They also mark the beauties who dazzle the sixty or seventy cabarets of the white light district with their glittering collections of jewels, gifts of many wealthy men.

Wore Many Jewels.

"Miss Lawson regularly wore jewels valued at about $25,000, including one $15,000 necklace which we know was the gift of an aged roue, whose sixty odd years were well disguised as forty by a skillful barber and tailor.

"Despite all the evidence that she was murdered for her jewels—which were taken, I am convinced that the robbery was incidental; that the real motive for the killing was an injudicious letter which so long as it was in Miss Lawson's possession remained a constant threat of blackmail or of scandal.

"The deed was done by members of the band of Broadway robbers, I am confident—but I believe it was done at the instigation of an elderly admirer of the girl."

It had been expected that men of millions, with whom the little theatrical girl was on friendly terms, will be questioned today. But so far as is known there was no effort to summon members of New York's financial circles.

"Big Men" Mentioned.

It was whispered about headquarters that some of the names were "so big" that consequences of giving any needless publicity might be serious.

Men in the case thus far have been:

"Gerhard M. Dahl," chairman of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit company and director of a score of great corporations, who came forward voluntarily and explained that he was a friend of the girl and of her parents and interested in her musical education.

The late Angier B. Duke, young tobacco millionaire. Miss Lawson was a member of his "yacht party" and was present when he was drowned.

Mr. "Herrmann," whom the police have been unable to find.

"The pest," a Texas boy so named by Miss Lawson herself when he was not able to understand that their boy and girl love affair had ended.

Name Not Known.

His name is not known to the police.

But these are only a few of the "men in the case."

As Peggy Tompkins, friend and next door neighbor said:

And unless some unexpected new turn is given the case, by identification of the slayers or discovery of a link that connects a wealthy admirer with the men who called at the luxurious four room apartment Friday morning and left the body of the Broadway beauty bound and gagged upon her bed, these men are destined to remain unknown.

Although the autopsy has not been completed, police today were positive that no drugs had been given the girl and that death was due entirely to strangulation. In all other respects, the case is an almost identical parallel to the death of "Dot King," who is now proved to have been a friend of Miss Lawson. The cases are so similar that it is considered possible the two killings were the work of the same gang.

may agree upon for United States senator. The national convention delegation, it is generally understood, will go uninstructed for president but with friendly leanings to Governor Bryan for the presidential nomination.

Prefers Bench Position.

Mr. Thompsn, in a statement issued at Grand Island, says he decided to withdraw as a candidate for national committeeman and become a candidate for supreme judge after receiving encouragement from members of all political parties to do so. His petitions will be put into circulation at once and filed in the near future.

The "little giant," as he is known among his political and personal friends, has been a practicing member of the bar in Hall county for more than thirty-five years. He has been nominated at different times by his party for governor and United States senator, and has served several times as democratic national committeeman and chairman of the state committee.

Since 1919 he has been a member of the state capitol commission, appointed by former Governor McKelvie as the single democratic member of that body under the former state administration. Whether he intends to resign from that body was not indicated. It is presumed, however, that if elected to the supreme bench he will give up his membership on the commission if he does not do so before.

The only other prospective candidates for supreme judge in the Fifth district are O. E. Shelburn of Alma and J. L. McPheely of Mindeh. Both are republicans. Judges of the supreme court, however, are nominated and elected on the nonpolitical ticket.

RECALL OF U. S. MARINES IS NEAR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Recall of United States marines from Santo Domingo is imminent, it was declared in official circles today.

Removal of the marines from Nicaragua and Santo Domingo has been contemplated for some time, it was said. Marine corps officers have been forming local guards and other military organizations to replace the marines.

Political upheavals and revolutions, common in Nicaragua a few years ago, have been entirely subdued.

It is felt that Santo Domingo has also reached a stability which warrants removal of the marines.

GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 9.

Grain turned up strongly at the close of today's short session, still reacting to bullish influences.

Delayed reports made it doubtful whether the snow had arrived in all parts of the wheat belt in time to protect winter sowing after the mild and unseasonable weather of last week.

Wheat closed ¾@1c higher; corn unchanged to ¾c up, and oats ¼c up to 1¼c off. Provisions were stronger in sympathy with grain.

CORN — Increased selling on the part of commission houses weakened the corn market today during the early dealings. Weather conditions, reported as more favorable for enlargement of the crop movement, had a bearish effect. Talk of liberal export business, however, helped to check declines. The opening, which ranged from ¼c lower to ¼c advance, with May 81⅝@81¾c, was followed by a moderate general setback. Wheat and oats were easier in sympathy with corn. After opening unchanged to ¼c higher, May $1.11⅝@1.11⅞ and July $1.11½, wheat under went something of a sag all around.

OATS—Oats started at a shade lower to a shade advance, May 49⅛@49¼c and held near to the initial range.

PROVISIONS—Provisions were steady in the absence of any aggressive selling.

Favor Increase of Woman's Club Dues In Hope of Greater Expansion in Activities

Mrs. W. W. Whitfield, president of the Lincoln Woman's club, sends the following statement regarding the reasons for raising the membership dues of the club from one dollar to three dollars a year.

"The Lincoln Woman's club was organized in 1894 with a membership of 251 and dues at that time were 50 cents. Three years later the membership was 575 and the dues were raised to $1. Six departments were organized at that time to stimulate intellectual and moral development, to promote good fellowship among its members and to strengthen by organization their individual effort for humanity.

"If it were not possible for a club of 25 members to exist on 50 cents thirty years ago, how can a club seven times that large fulfil its obligations and the demands made upon it today on $1 dues?

"It is evident that the club is now at the threshold of a period of its greatest influence and usefulness. Th echanged conditions affecting the women in business and public affairs impose upon our club somewhat new andenlarged responsibilities. It is desirable and essential that we be in a position to render the service that will b eexpected of us and progress in accordance with the growing opportunities and requirements.

"Until recently we were able to secure instructors for our departments without any cost to the club. Professors from the University of Nebraska gave their time gratis. They gave lectures or directed the course of study in the department. The musicians and lecturers of Lincoln, too, gave their service to the club. Now they have increased obligations and can no longer give us their time, so it necessitates drawing on our general fund to cover these expenses. This naturally decreases our yearly balance.

"With the organization of child welfare work and the Bible department we cannot make $1 cover all the added expense without calling on generosity of its members.

"In reviewing and analyzing the work of the club the past year wo find it would have been impossible to have accomplished so much without the cooperation of the board and club members. The writer has not lost sight of the original ideals upon which the club was founded and has tried to the best of her ability to "Carry on" the work suggested by the organizers of the club. We still have the original department with five others added. We sponsor and patronize all causes that are for the betterment of the city. The idea of those asking for an increase in dues is to maintain a woman's building adequate for its membership. We can not hope to build a club house on $3 membership. This is the work of the entire city."

MRS. W. W. WHITEFIELD,
President Lincoln Woman's club.

Says Dues Too Low.

Mrs. Alona C. Little, one of the active members of the Lincoln Woman's club and who has held various offices in the club, believes that the dues of the club should be raised from one dollar to three. Mrs. Little feels that the club is unable to meet its largest opportunities now and that increased dues will not cause a noticeable loss in membership. In her letter, Mrs. Little says:

"I have been following the arguments, pro and con, over the proposed raising of the Lincoln Woman's club dues.

"One objector says 'the dollar pays the legitimate expense of the club, and all benefactions should be provided for by the board when it makes up its annual budget."

"In the first place I can not see why only that required to make the wheels go 'round should be called 'legitimate expense.'

Believes in Expansion.

"Why exist at all if we can not reach out and beyond ourselves and do our share in the philanthropic, educational, and civic activities that broad minded club women the world over stand for? And if the support these objects call for is legitimate expense, why not provide a reasonable fee so that our board may have enough on which to make an annual budget in keeping with its desires and obligations?

"Then there would be no occasion for the criticism of another who objects to the 'passing of the hat,' even though it be to save an undernourished child, or to rummage sales, bazaars, and parties that the departments may contribute to the long dreamed of

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—It will be "physically impossible" to get the Mellon provision for a maximum surtax of 25 per cent through congress, President Coolidge was informed tonight by house leaders.

Representative Longworth, Ohio, house majority leader, and Representative Snell, New York, rules committee chairman, discussed the whole legislative situation in a long conference with the president and warned him the Mellon plan will be amended in this vital spot.

Mr. Coolidge has already served notice he would not agree to amendment of the Mellon plan in any vital particular.

Longworth told the president that the surtax rates would be somewhere between 25 and 40 per cent, with 35 per cent appearing the most likely compromise.

The legislative program as discussed at the conference, includes four major measures to be taken up in the following order:

Tax bills, immigration; Muscle shoals and the bonus. Adjournment of congress on June 1st is the leaders' plan, Longworth said.

Longworth said no railroad legislation had been introduced up till now but that some might come later and an effort would be made to get it in before June 1st.

About three and one-half or four weeks will be required to complete the tax bill, Longworth said. The principal fight will be over the surtax and after it has been decided upon, the remainder of the bill should be adopted easily, he predicted.

Immigration legislation must be cleared before June 30, Longworth pointed out, because the present law expires then. Unless an agreement can be reached it is proposed to continue the present law.

Lawyer In House Of David Suit to Serve Jail Term

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Feb. 9.—Attorney Walter M. Nelson, sentenced to thirty days in jail by Judge Harry B. Dingman for contempt of court during the "one grand jury" investigation of alleged immorality at the House of David colony here, appeared at the Berrien county jail here tonight to serve his sentence.

Nelson was released while his case was appealed to the Michigan supreme court. The appeal was denied.

State Chairman C. E. Sandall of the Johnson state organization were at Chicago a week ago, where they attended a meeting of state managers. Senator Johnson being present and advising with them.

Some additional pep will be injected into Johnson' fight in Nebraska during the present week by the filing of petitions to have his name placed on the republican primary ballot. Although the Coolidge forces were first to organize and have their campaign already under way, the Johnson people profess to be confident of their candidate's ability to carry the state, as he did four years ago.

There will be a complete ticket of delegates favorable to Johnson, in opposition to the Coolidge slate, Manager Harrison says.

University Notes

Charles E. Benson, A. M. '12, acting dean of the school of education at the University of Oklahoma during the absence of the dean on sabbatical leave, has been appointed professor of educational psychology in the school of education of the New York university. Dr. Benson has just published a volume on teacher training.

Seven students from the kindergarten-primary department of Teachers college have been appointed recently to teaching positions, for the remainder of the year, through the teachers' employment bureau upon recommendation of the department: Pauline Burkett, '26' Omaha, at Milford; Edith R. Tyler, '25, Omaha, at West Point; Lillian Bradstreet, Spencer, at McCook; Doris Bundy, '26, Trenton, at Lincoln; Frances Norton, '26, Thurston, at Grand Island; Verda Metzgar, '26, Springfield, at Lincoln, and Dorothy Van Vranken, '25, Lincoln, at Villisca, Iowa.

Selective breeding and careful feeding is the secret of success in poultry husbandry, says the agricultural extension service of the college of agriculture in summarizing the records of over three hundred flocks entered in the accredited farm-flock project at a cost per hen of $1.23 for feed; 141 White Wyandottes belonging to Mrs. Fred Woods of Pawnee City laid an average of 184.3 eggs at an average cost of $1.16. Mrs. Rudolps Stoltenburg's Barred Plymouth Rocks at Grand Island cost $2.12 per bird for feed, but they laid an average of 183.1 eggs and placed her flock of 150 birds third in the state. H. W. Lambrecht of Inavale, fed his White Leghorns $1.30 worth of feed and got an average of 183 eggs. Herman Schroeder of Lexington fed his 133 White Leghorns $1.43 and gathered an average of 182.9 eggs.

COTNER NOTES

The Fremont Cotner club, of which Miss Amy Rogers is president, entertained the students attending the Cotner-Midland game Monday night and sent a delegation of boosters for the return Midland game played in the Cotner gymnasium Friday night.

The regular monthly faculty dinner was held at the Grand hotel on Tuesday evening. Dean J. K. Shellenberger presented the paper of the evening on "Some Present Day Tendencies." A lively discussion by members of the faculty followed. Miss Norma Clark gave two violin selections with Miss Sorenson accompanying on the piano, which were very much appreciated.

Ray Hunt, '09, of East Orange, N. J., was installed as pastor of the First Christian church in Lincoln Sunday. Rev. Hunt succeeds H. H. Harmon, who took up the work of college endowments.

Bert Wilson '09 Cotner college was inaugurated as president of Eureka college February 6. An elaborate program was prepared for the day.

The educational department is enrolling more students in its classes of history than ever before. There are also more practice teachers than there are opportunities for placing them and the classes in psychology are the largest in the history of the school.

T. E. Mumford '22 of Aurora, Neb., has been called to Osceola high school to take up the work in the science department left vacant at the end of the first semester.

Miss Ruby Wilson, '22, industrial secretary of the Y. W. C. A. of Lincoln, led devotionals in chapel Thursday morning.

One of the most charming functions on the social calendar was the faculty reception to the students last Friday night. The arrangements were in the hands of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. cabinets. The rooms were made beautiful with ferns flowers and softly shaded lights. The receiving lines divided into groups, stationed in the different rooms with a host and hostess for each group. Punch was served from daintily appointed tables in the halls with Bertha Fishback, Dean Mayer, Ruth Winter and Clyde Gingles presiding. The hosts and hostesses were as follows:

General—Leslie Smith, Gladys Stephens.

Y. M. C. A. room—Edgar Little, Vena Clark.

Y. W. C. A. room—Paul Kraybill, Mildred Taylor.

Dean's rooms—Harold Cooper, Lois Boyer, Dillard Lessley. A short musical program added to the pleasure of the evening.

The lunch hour Sunday evening in the Woman's building was made enjoyable by a musical program given by Miss Florence Bower and readings by Miss Lois Boyer.

Field Secretary Lomax is back after a series of successful young people's conferences held throughout the Kansas territory.

A trio composed of the Misses Marion Kislingbury, Helen Palmer and Mary Creekpaum gave a musical program during the chapel hour Thursday, February 7. Mrs. Evabelle Long-Fuller, head of the voice department, sang a group of songs:

Star by Rogers.

Mighty Lak' a Rose—Nevin.

The Banjo Song—Homer.

The program was very much appreciated.

The home economics department under the direction of Prof. Lulu Harding Smith demonstrated before the Woman's club Tuesday. The result of the demonstration was a dainty breakfast which was served to the members of the club. Mrs. Mrs. Smith talked before the club on "Dietics." She spoke of the discovery of insulin used in diabetes. She also gave the classification of food for vitamins and calories. The girls putting on the demonstration were students in Mrs. Smith's department: Bertha Fishback, Rilla Williams, Helen Rowland, Margaret Cook, Thelma Weaver, Mary Dodrill and Myrtle Shull.

Wesleyan Affairs

Prof. F. M. Gregg will attend the meeting of the national educational association in Chicago the last of February.

The expression department will give a recital in expression hall of the White building Thursday evening, February 14 from 7 to 8 o'clock. The program will be as follows:

"Her Fleet Goes By"—Marie Smith.

"The Mansions"—Juno Loder.

"Immortal Youth"—Ruth Lang.

"Home, Sweet Home'—Virginia Hardin.

"Mrs. Climber Lislikes Notoriety"—Roma Harrington.

"A Visiting Peer."—Gladys Wardell.

Novel Debate to be Staged By Wireless From Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 9.—If your radio set can "pick up" Milwaukee, you will be able this week to hear one of the most novel debates ever conducted.

Daniel W. Hoan, mayor of Milwaukee, who refused to sign a message of condolence to the widow of former President Woodrow Wilson because he did not believe that "Woodrow Wilson was a great American,' will defend his stand in speeches broadcasted from radio stations here.

Louis M. Kotecki, city comptroller, simultaneously tonight announced he would "go to Chicago if necessary," to broadcast the "real facts" concerning Mayor Hoan's refusal to sign the message of condolence.

"Mr. Wilson did not keep his pledge to keep the United States out of war," Hoan explained when he objected to the city 's official message to Mrs. Wilson and refused to sign it. "He was a party to the jailing of many American citizens, whose only crime was expression of their opinions. I have never and do not now agree with those who believe such actions are those of a 'great American'".

Many posts of the American Legion have registered their disapproval of Hoan's stand—some of them by radio to Milwaukee.

Hoan has replied by radio to his critics but will make a formal statement "to the air" either Sunday or Monday evening. Kotecki's reply will follow.

Denies Senate's Power.

Shortridge denied the senate had power to pass the resolution and urged that the proper way to punish Denby, "if any unlawful act can be proved against him," would be through impeachment.

"I do not believe that Secretary Denby signed those leases in defiance of the law," said Shortridge. "He may have been mistaken and he may not have properly construed the law nor understood his own powers, but I do not believe him guilty of defying the law.

Walsh bitterly condemned Denby and demanded that the senate go on record as repudiating all cabinet officers who were involved in the oil lease deals.

"The facts are that Denby leased valuable oil reserves contrary to the well known policy of congress," said Walsh. "This lease was unfair to the government and the transaction was shrouded in secrecy in which the secretary participated. The evidence disclosed the secretary never realized the importance of the transaction and when questioned in regard to it, showed a lamentable lack of information. In public statements, he has defended these leases and announced he would do it again. For these reasons, I personally demand his removal."

DEATH OF GIRL STILL MYSTERY

almost as it was on Friday morning when the screams of a colored maid aroused an apartment housé to the facts of the murder.

But this is the construction on which Coughlin is working.

"Miss Lawson," he said tonight, "was murdered by a band of thieves of the Broadway cake-eater type! We know the type well. With their hair brushed straight back and side-burns, they prowl through the 'furious Forties' and the 'frivolous Fifties' ever on the lookout for young girls on whom they may prey.

"They seek the acquaintance of confidential assistants of men of position for what valuable knowledge they may obtain.

"They also mark the beauties who dazzle the sixty or seventy cabarets of the white light district with their glittering collections of jewels, gifts of many wealthy men.

Wore Many Jewels.

"Miss Lawson regularly wore jewels valued at about $25,000, including one $15,000 necklace which we know was the gift of an aged roue, whose sixty odd years were well disguised as forty by a skillful barber and tailor.

"Despite all the evidence that she was murdered for her jewels—which were taken, I am convinced that the robbery was incidental; that the real motive for the killing was an injudicious letter which so long as it was in Miss Lawson's possession remained a constant threat of blackmail or of scandal.

"The deed was done by members of the band of Broadway robbers, I am confident—but I believe it was done at the instigation of an elderly admirer of the girl."

It had been expected that men of millions, with whom the little theatrical girl was on friendly terms, will be questioned today. But so far as is known there was no effort to summon members of New York's financial circles.

"Big Men" Mentioned.

It was whispered about headquarters that some of the names were "so big" that consequences of giving any needless publicity might be serious.

Men in the case thus far have been:

"Gerhard M. Dahl," chairman of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit company and director of a score of great corporations, who came forward voluntarily and explained that he was a friend of the girl and of her parents and interested in her musical education.

The late Angier B. Duke, young tobacco millionaire. Miss Lawson was a member of his "yacht party" and was present when he was drowned.

Mr. "Herrmann," whom the police have been unable to find.

"The pest," a Texas boy so named by Miss Lawson herself when he was not able to understand that their boy and girl love affair had ended.

Name Not Known.

His name is not known to the police.

But these are only a few of the "men in the case."

As Peggy Tompkins, friend and next door neighbor said:

And unless some unexpected new turn is given the case, by identification of the slayers or discovery of a link that connects a wealthy admirer with the men who called at the luxurious four room apartment Friday morning and left the body of the Broadway beauty bound and gagged upon her bed, these men are destined to remain unknown.

Although the autopsy has not been completed, police today were positive that no drugs had been given the girl and that death was due entirely to strangulation. In all other respects, the case is an almost identical parallel to the death of "Dot King," who is now proved to have been a friend of Miss Lawson. The cases are so similar that it is considered possible the two killings were the work of the same gang.

may agree upon for United States senator. The national convention delegation, it is generally understood, will go uninstructed for president but with friendly leanings to Governor Bryan for the presidential nomination.

Prefers Bench Position.

Mr. Thompsn, in a statement issued at Grand Island, says he decided to withdraw as a candidate for national committeeman and become a candidate for supreme judge after receiving encouragement from members of all political parties to do so. His petitions will be put into circulation at once and filed in the near future.

The "little giant," as he is known among his political and personal friends, has been a practicing member of the bar in Hall county for more than thirty-five years. He has been nominated at different times by his party for governor and United States senator, and has served several times as democratic national committeeman and chairman of the state committee.

Since 1919 he has been a member of the state capitol commission, appointed by former Governor McKelvie as the single democratic member of that body under the former state administration. Whether he intends to resign from that body was not indicated. It is presumed, however, that if elected to the supreme bench he will give up his membership on the commission if he does not do so before.

The only other prospective candidates for supreme judge in the Fifth district are O. E. Shelburn of Alma and J. L. McPheely of Minden. Both are republicans. Judges of the supreme court, however, are nominated and elected on the nonpolitical ticket.

RECALL OF U. S. MARINES IS NEAR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Recall of United States marines from Santo Domingo is imminent, it was declared in official circles today.

Removal of the marines from Nicaragua and Santo Domingo has been contemplated for some time, it was said. Marine corps officers have been forming local guards and other military organizations to replace the marines.

Political upheavals and revolutions, common in Nicaragua a few years ago, have been entirely subdued.

It is felt that Santo Domingo has also reached a stability which warrants removal of the marines.

GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 9.

Grain turned up strongly at the close of today's short session, still reacting to bullish influences.

Delayed reports made it doubtful whether the snow had arriced in all parts of the wheat belt in time to protect winter sowing after the mild and unseasonable weather of last week.

Wheat closed ¾@1c higher; corn unchanged to ¼c up, and oats ¼c up to 1¼c off. Provisions were stronger in sympathy with grain.

CORN — Increased selling on the part of commission houses weakened the corn market today during the early dealings. Weather conditions, reported as more favorable for enlargement of the crop movement, had a bearish effect. Talk of liberal export business, however, helped to check declines. The opening, which ranged from ¼c lower to ¼c advance, with May $1⅛@$1⅛c, was followed by a moderate general setback. Wheat and oats were easier in sympathy with corn. After opening unchanged to ¼c higher, May $1.11⅜@1.11⅞ and July $1.11½, wheat under went something of a sag all around.

OATS—Oats started at a shade lower to a shade advance, May 49¾@49¾c and held near to the initial range

PROVISIONS—Provisions were steady in the absence of any aggressive selling.

NOTICE.

To all Creditors, Stockholders and other parties interested in the Bankers Automobile Insurance Company:

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF LANCASTER COUNTY, NEBRASKA.

Department of Trade and Commerce, Plaintiff. vs. Bankers Automobile Insurance Company, Defendant. } ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE.

On this 8th day of February, 1924, this cause came on for hearing upon the petition of the plaintiff Department of Trade and Commerce for authority to settle claims hereinafter described and the court being fully advised in the premises orders that cause be shown, if any there be, why said petition for authority to settle said claims be not granted as prayed for in the petitions filed by the plaintiff herein.

It is therefore ordered that any and all persons interested in the Bankers Automobile Insurance Company be and appear before the court on or before Monday, March 3, 1924, to show cause, if any, why the plaintiff should not be granted authority to settle the claims and actions as follows, to-wit:—

ACTIONS.

Gustav May vs. Bankers Automobile Insurance Company, $2000 and int.

Henry May vs. Bankers Automobile Insurance Company, $2500 and int.

The proposition of settlement of the above actions is on the basis of $75.00 per share on the stock held by each payable ten dollars per share in cash and the remainder as dividends are declared and final settlement to be made at the time of final liquidation of the company, without interest and without costs.

CLAIMS.

Claim of J. F. Boesinger, $2500 and interest.

Claim of F. J. Boesinger, $2500 and interest.

Claim of W. C. Lucke, $6250 and interest.

Claim of F. J. A. Hartwig, $2500 and interest.

Claim of John W. Fry, $1250 and interest.

The aforesaid claims to be settled on a basis of $40.00 per share, $10.00 of which is to be paid in cash and the remainder as dividends are paid and the balance at the final liquidation of the company without interest and without costs.

The proposal also includes an agreement to pay an amount in excess of $25.00 per share paid to the general stockholders in case the final liquidation exceeds $25.00 per share and contemplates a surrender of certificates of stock in each instance held by said parties.

It is further ordered that the above and foregoing order to show cause shall be published in the Sunday issue of the Lincoln State Journal and The Lincoln Daily Star in the issues of February 10, 17 and 24, 1924, directed to all creditors, stockholders or other persons interested in the Bankers Automobile Insurance Company.

W. M. MORNING,
Judge of District Court.

STERLING F. MUTZ,
Attorney for Plaintiff.

LIFE AND CHARACTER READING.

People born on this date unusually care too much for personal appearance and sometimes take great risks to secure for themselves the things they desire. They often bury themselves and their higher lives by means of a dogmatic materialism, and a routine of life which lead to a gloomy and useless life.

The governing sign of this date is Aquarius, the sign of the Water Bearer of the Zodiac, and the last sign of the Air Triplicity. The governing planets are Uranus and Saturn, and the birthstone is a sapphire.

If you are in trouble of any kind and are in a loss know where to go or how to proceed to straighten it out, go to The Star Want Ads. Watch them daily and profit by their lessons.

NOTICE.

To all Creditors, Stockholders and other parties interested in the Bankers Automobile Insurance Company:

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF LANCASTER COUNTY, NEBRASKA.

Department of Trade and Commerce, Plaintiff. vs. Bankers Automobile Insurance Company, Defendant. } ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE.

On this 8th day of February, 1924, this cause came on for hearing upon the petition of the plaintiff Department of Trade and Commerce for authority to settle claims hereinafter described and the court being fully advised in the premises orders that cause be shown, if any there be, why said petition for authority to settle said claims be not granted as prayed for in the petitions filed by the plaintiff herein.

It is therefore ordered that any and all persons interested in the Bankers Automobile Insurance Company be and appear before the court on or before Monday, March 3, 1924, to show cause, if any, why the plaintiff should not be granted authority to settle the claims and actions as follows, to-wit:—

ACTIONS.

Gustav May vs. Bankers Automobile Insurance Company, $2000 and int.

Henry May vs. Bankers Automobile Insurance Company, $2500 and int.

The proposition of settlement of the above actions is on the basis of $75.00 per share on the stock held by each payable ten dollars per share in cash and the remainder as dividends are declared and final settlement to be made at the time of final liquidation of the company, without interest and without costs.

CLAIMS.

Claim of J. F. Boesinger, $2500 and interest.

Claim of F. J. Boesinger, $1250 and interest.

Claim of W. C. Lucke, $6250 and interest.

Claim of F. J. A. Hartwig, $2500 and interest.

Claim of John W. Fry, $1250 and interest.

The aforesaid claims to be settled on a basis of $40.00 per share, $10.00 of which is to be paid in cash and the remainder as dividends are paid and the balance at the final liquidation of the company without interest and without costs.

The proposal also includes an agreement to pay an amount in excess of $25.00 per share paid to the general stockholders in case the final liquidation exceeds $25.00 per share and contemplates a surrender of certificates of stock in each instance held by said parties.

It is further ordered that the above and foregoing order to show cause shall be published in the Sunday issue of the Lincoln State Journal and The Lincoln Daily Star in the issues of February 10, 17 and 24, 1924, directed to all creditors, stockholders or other persons interested in the Bankers Automobile Insurance Company.

W. M. MORNING,
Judge of District Court.
STERLING F. MUTZ,
Attorney for Plaintiff.

LIFE AND CHARACTER READING.

People born on this date unusually care too much for personal appearance and sometimes take great risks to procure for themselves the things they desire. They often bury themselves and their higher lives by means of a dogmatic materialism, and a routine of habit which lead to a gloomy and useless life.

The governing sign of this date is Aquarius, the sign of the Water Bearer of the Zodiac and the last sign of the Air Triplicity. The governing planets are Uranus and Saturn, and the birthstone is a sapphire.

If you are in trouble of any kind and are at a loss to know where to go or how to proceed to straighten it out, go to The Star Want Ads. Watch them daily and profit by their lessons.

Cutting & Washington
Ackowledged the Le ader in Radio
Dr. Fulton Cutting and Mr. Bowden Washington were famous designers of radio equipment when the science was in its infancy. They built the first trouble-proof ship sets; planned U. S. naval equipment; apparatus for the French and Russian governments. And now, their great company is building Radio Receivers for the Home—simple, effective sets of the highest quality materials—equal of the best professional equipment.
CUTTING AND WASHINGTON stands supreme in the radio field. Years of experience designing Navy Radio equipment qualify them as the best. These instruments are backed by Schmoller & Mueller's 65 years of square dealing in Nebraska.

Entered the Auto Business in 1904 When Only 233 Cars In Nebraska.

Charles Shore, one of the oldest automobile dealers in Nebraska, in point of service, has become associated with the Lord Auto company as wholesale manager of southeastern Nebraska He has charge of the territory east of Seward county to the Missouri river, and from the Platte river south to the Kansas line

B C Butler, also with the Lord Auto company, has charge of the state west of Seward county

In speaking of his long experience in the automobile business Mr Shore said

I entered the automobile business in 1904 At that time there were but but 223 automobiles registered in the state of Nebraska. All of these were one cylinder cars This was not satisfactory to me so I wrote to the factory asking if they could not bring out a two-cylinder automobile

Ran a One-Lunger

"My reasons were, with my experience with a one cylinder car that I could run twice as fast with a two-cylinder car as I could with a motor with only one cylinder I believed that if I had two cylinders in a car it would have power enough to run up the hills, and I wouldn t have to walk

I finally found a two-cylinder car, which I bought and it was such an improvement over the old one-cylinder engine that I immediately wanted a four-cylinder car

After running it a while and selling a few hundred I saw an advertisement of a six We took the agency for that and it was far superior to anything I ever owned or sold

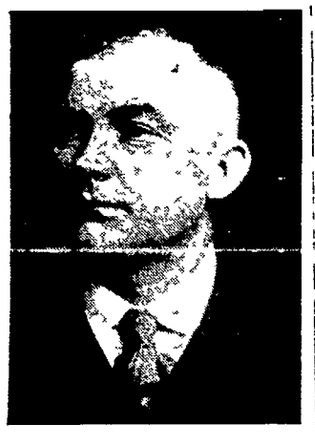

Veteran In Selling Game

'After associating myself with the Nebraska Buick company for several years I sold my interest there and thought I would retire from active business But like all other young men I found I fretted under these conditions and so after looking the field over I feel now like I have found my ideal cars ones I can recmend to my new and old time friends and can stand behind the guarantee which they carry

'The Lord Auto company for fifteen years were my hardest competitors and I now go with them knowing that they stand behind and guarantee every statement their salesmen make

BALLOON CORDS ARE PRACTICAL

Goodrich Rubber Company Announces Low Pressure Tires In Two Types.

Make Possible Use of New Style Casings Without Additional Costs.

A practical program for making the advantages of balloon cords at once available to the great bulk of car owners announced by the B F Goodrich Rubber company that is manufacturing two types of balloon tires

One type the full extent of ballooning, is designed for use on cars that have been adapted to the type either at the factory or by reducing the wheels to 20 or 21 inches

The other is for use on cars as they stand to supplant standard cord tires There is no need to change the wheels or make any other readjustments of a car

This will undoubtedly be interesting news to the car owners who are now asking themselves collectively and individually where does the balloon cord tire figure in my car? Is it a special equipment for a few, or can I use it, and what does it offer over standard cords?'

Answers Vital Questions.

The two types of Goodrich balloon cord tires are a practical answer to these questions

In other words, the practicability of the balloon tire is now chiefly a matter of adaptation to the automobile or probably more proper, the adaptation of the tire to the motor car

The one great drawback that concerns most car owners is that, in many cases where full balloon cords are used, a completed change of equipment to 20 or 21 inch wheels is necessary, and sometimes the mechanism of the car must be changed

The expense doing this is prohibitive to many It is only fair to say that the result does not always obtain the full benefits of balloon cords

The easy riding smoothness and efficiency, the comfort safety and ultimate economy it promises bid fair to bring about great changes in motor cars They add materially to the pleasure of motoring

It may be too early to accept such over-enthusiastic terms as 'revolutionary,' and "the greatest improvement in the history of the automobile but it has been and continues to be the most novel, the most interest-getting feature in automobile shows

Balloon tires are not as yet numerous enough to be a common sight, so that there is every reason to tell just what a balloon cord is.

Reduced to the simplest terms it is an oversize cord tire with fewer plies in it than in standard cords It is a larger tire in diameter, and a more flexible tire

Matter of Air Pressure

But the important differences between balloon and standard cords is the difference in inflation The balloon cord is ridden at much air pressure In fact, its best descriptive name is a low-air pressure tire

Where the air pressure of standard cords is maintained at from 60 to 65 pounds, and sometimes higher, balloon cords are inflated anywhere between 18 to 30 pounds, sometimes 40

The advantages of balloon cords are positive They add a new comfort and pleasure to motoring

It is plain to see why this is so The car rides literally on more air There is a greater cushion of air between the car and the bump road The super-flexibility of the tire yields to a rough roadway and obstacles

As the use of the extreme development of the balloon tire in many instances entails great expense, it is obvious that the comfort and efficiency of ballooned tires would be denied many motorists were it not for the additional type now available

As they can be applied directly without change to a car to supplant ordinary cords, any car owner may use them

If mud is allowed to remain on the varnished surface of the car for more than a day it is difficult to eradicate

Axles or rims that have become bent will cause the tires to suffer due to the fact that the wheel is not turning right

GOSSIP!

Balloon Cords

BALLOON Cords need a clear, frank presentation to the public.

The apparent novelty and promise of these tires have caught the imagination of close followers of the motor car.

Many are doubtless wondering how they will affect their cars and are confused regarding the two distinct types of balloon cords that are being advertised.

Among tire makers and car makers the position of the balloon cord is well understood.

The three principles underlying it—oversize, light flexible body, and low pressure inflation—have long been known to tire manufacturers, and employed by them.

The essential difference between standard and balloon cords is lower air pressure, and lighter body construction.

Where the standard cord carries from 60 to 65 pounds air pressure, sometimes higher, the balloon cord is inflated at from 20 to 40 pounds. In fact, they must always carry these low pressures to function with safety.

Where the number of plies in a large size standard cord is six, or eight, the balloon cord has but four.

Generally speaking, that portion of the tread which rests on the road (the contact area) expressed in square inches, will if multiplied by the pounds of air pressure inside the tire, give approximately the weight of the load the tire is carrying.

Following out this principle, if a 1000 pound load is to be carried on a regular standard cord, and only 20 square inches of contact with the ground is obtainable on account of the limit of the "give" (vertical deflection) of the tire, an air pressure of 50 pounds per square inch is needed to carry the load.

On the other hand, if the area of road contact can be increased without exceeding the proper degree of vertical deflection, much less air pressure is required inside the tire.

For instance, if the area of road contact is increased from 20 to 40 square inches, an air pressure of 25 pounds to the square inch will carry the 1000 pound load.

On account of greater sectional diameter, and more "give" in the tire, the balloon cord provides a greater area of road contact than the standard cord, hence it can carry the same load with less air pressure to the square inch inside the tire.

Thus a comparison of the balloon cord and standard cord resolves itself to a question of low-air pressure, or high-air pressure.

Each has well known virtues. Tire engineers have always realized the advantage of lower air pressure.

And much may be said for the low-air pressure, or balloon cord.

On account of its broad contact with the road, its flexibility, and low air pressure, it can conform readily to irregularities in the road — absorb bumps so to speak.

To ride smoothly over ruts, holes, projections, and bad stretches of road at an even speed without jolting and jarring is a pleasing picture to contemplate, and balloon cords make this possible to a definite degree.

The life of a car is greatly prolonged because of the reduced shocks and jars to the chassis.

The large area of road contact also gives balloon cords anti-skid, traction, and breaking power—features which are truly outstanding.

Where a luxurious comfort and special service are wanted, balloon cords are a sensible and compensating addition to a motor car.

Goodrich manufactures balloon cords in two types—those requiring wheel and rim changes, and those that are interchangeable with the present regular equipment.

Motorists who have cars equipped with standard tires, and who want the added advantages of low pressure tires, can purchase Goodrich balloon cords, and have no added expense except the new tires themselves.

The function of Goodrich has always been to supply tires to meet the needs of transportation, the newest needs as well as the old.

And much may be said for the low-air pressure, or balloon cord.

On account of its broad contact with the road, its flexibility, and low air pressure, it can conform readily to irregularities in the road — absorb bumps so to speak.

To ride smoothly over ruts, holes, projections, and bad stretches of road at an even speed without jolting and jarring is a pleasing picture to contemplate, and balloon cords make this possible to a definite degree.

The life of a car is greatly prolonged because of the reduced shocks and jars to the chassis.

The large area of road contact also gives balloon cords anti-skid, traction, and breaking power—features which are truly outstanding.

Where a luxurious comfort and special service are wanted, balloon cords are a sensible and compensating addition to a motor car.

Goodrich manufactures balloon cords in two types—those requiring wheel and rim changes, and those that are interchangeable with the present regular equipment.

Motorists who have cars equipped with standard tires, and who want the added advantages of low pressure tires, can purchase Goodrich balloon cords, and have no added expense except the new tires themselves.

The function of Goodrich has always been to supply tires to meet the needs of transportation, the newest needs as well as the old.

Marching Clubs with Flaming Torchlights Featured Political Campaigns Thirty Years Ago

No bunting, no costumes, no yelling.

Parade Days Are Over.

Gone are the days when the spirit of man responded to his favorite candidate through the mediums of parades, trips, clubs, marching. Gone are the days when men were openly pledged to one contestant through the appeal of torches and the blare of trumpets. Gone are the days when the side with the brightest "local color" persuaded the wavering soul.

Yes, the methods of the old days in elections have changed. The old glaring manner, depending upon torches and parades and emotional appeal, has given place to quieter, less flamboyant types of campaign. Some candidates don't "stump" the state or the country, some visit by a few select cities, and their supporters depend upon personal argument, rather than upon the mass appeal through stupendous rallies, very largely Subtlety and suggestion weren't common words a quarter of a century ago and men set out to win adherents by the easier way—bringing them openly into the fold before the public gaze, and keeping them there through that fact.

Early Campaign Riotous Eevnt.

Yet, there must have been a lot of fun in those days 'long about 'lection time, and campaigns were more riotous events than in this staid and cautious era.

Probably one of the most strongly contested presidential elections in Nebraska was the one of 1896, when the favorite son sought political honors against the former Ohio governor. Bryan was running on the free-silver platform and McKinley on a gold standard ticket. McKinley did not use the methods of his adherents in his campaign, but he was probably the only one in that year that did not pursue the most blatant and noticeable campaign methods.

Such methods were not inaugurated in that campaign, however. For years before this noisy type of campaigning had been used, but in that year it reached its height. Perhaps, from that time on that strident form of electioneering decreased, to be superseded by the more dignified, if less interesting, campaign methods of today.

About this time women had decided that they were about ready to emerge from the shackles that had bound them and to take their rightful place among the men. Not all felt that way, but the unrest that was to end in enfranchisement was working. They took an active part—active for that time—in the election, and they did make themselves known and that was something men had not realized—that the women could be seen in a political campaign—that they might be heard was of course beyond the wildest dreams of fancy.

Marching Clubs Formed.

Reminiscences of those days are colorful. A score of years from now our political campaigns won't make such lively stories. Their import may be as great, but the bright, joyous, stirring, thrilling side of campaign will be missing.

Political campaigns in the old days centered around the marching clubs. Some of them were "marching" through courtesy, for the members in some just walked, without time or regularity. Men felt the call of the typewriter copy book slogan, "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party"—and they did. In every hamlet, town, and city, the men joined marching clubs. Republicans, democrats, each had its clubs and no town was too insignificant to boast one.

Lincoln had several marching clubs. Pawnee had one of several hundred members—Ravenna, Wymore, Falls City, Omaha, Wahoo and dozens of others had such clubs. Men drilled regularly, depending upon the supply of drillmasters, or joined in the the procession in as good order as was possible.

And the parades they took part in—not only at home, but in most any town that would invite them. On the occasion of a big rally, all the marching club within any kind of distance would be invted to come and to take part in the preceding parade, and they came in full force. Several hundred strong, they would descend upon a town, prepared to do their share in electing their favorite. In Lincoln, for important rallies, clubs would come for a distance of eighty or ninety miles, swelling the Lincoln adherents by several thousands.

Travel in Special Train.

That they marched was not significant of the manner in which they arrived in the city—that name described the club only after arriving. Special trains were easy to get, the charge was small, $150 or $200, and it was a simple matter to get any where. Two or three clubs on the route would pile in, as many as could hang on—probably paying no fare or a very little one to defray some expense.

And such proud display as they made in the procession or occupying front seats at the rally! Some of the men wore red oilcloth capes, some blue, and some white. Fancy caps, with pertinent slogans, added to the festive appearance, and every man carried his kerosene torch, a can of kerosene on top of a staff, the can held upright by two prongs, and decorated with a finger-thick wick. Some of the clubs were called "flambeau" clubs, but one man who knew more than a little of these early campaigns says that he never saw a real flambeau in a parade, that the name came from those kerosene torches.

Here is a secret—the capes added a military touch to the gatherings—but they weren't all for effect and decoration—they kept the dripping oil from soiling one's Sunday suit.

Woman Prepared The Meals.

When the marching clubs were due to appear, particularly in the small towns, the women were recognized as being extremely useful. For a week ahead, the women were planning and preparing meals for the visitors. The food was donated by the upholders of the cause, ten chickens by one, five by another, a half dozen pies by a third, and each and every guest was served free meals, and the guests were in the hundreds sometimes. Deal tables were set up in the largest hall in the town and here the visitors were invited to eat—and who shall say that they did not.

Tired of being merely useful, some of the women decided to be as ornamental as their husbands. In a few of the towns, one of them being Wahoo, women's Ida McKinley clubs were organized. The women did not take a speaking part in the campaign, but they did take a moving part, and walked a good many miles for McKinley or for Bryan, as the democrats also had the clubs.

The Wahoo women wore skirts of broad red and white stripes—the suits of all the women were similar—blue capes dotted with silver stars, and little black visored caps, with the name on them. E E. Lyle was captain of the team and also drillmaster, for these women marched in military order. M. L. Ellsworth carried the banner with the words "Ida McKinley Club, Wahoo, Neb." upon it.

Almost a hundred strong was this club, and bring truly modern, the members who could not leave the children at home dressed them in the same style and took them along. This club marched in Lincoln, Fremont, Ashland, and several small towns in Saunders county for rallies. Being feminine, the members gave suppers and sociables to raise money for expenses. The club drilled once each week Mrs. E. E. Good and Mrs. Thomas Pickett of Lincoln are two former members of the club.

This was a most enthusiastic club, but there were other women's McKinley clubs in the state. The Republicans were said to have a gold collar about their neck, from their gold platform, and in one small town the women made large collars of gold paper to wear when marching. The Democratic women made similar collars from silver paper.

Those days were the days of the campaign button, also. A man, or a woman, was a pretty lax supporter of his belief, if he did not wear a picture of his candidate in his lapel or upon his coat. The republican adherents also wore tiny gold bugs, as they had been nicknamed "gold bugs" by their opponents.

The Torchlight Processions.

Parades were parades in those days. They were splendid spectacles as they marched down Main street or O street with the flickering light of the torches illuminating their faces and the gay costumes brightening the dull backgrounds. Two marshals in high hats and upon prancing steeds headed the parade, and they were followed by hundreds of marchers. Cheering or derisively shouting spectators lined the streets from the point of formation to the hall where the rally was to be held.

Nor were parades calm affairs. Every line or two of men had sky rockets and Roman candles and at advantageous moments they were set off, to the joy of the onlookers if to their danger. Other men were in charge of the red fires, and no Fourth of July was ever such a stirring spectacle as the sight of the marching men and women, reddened by the flares and moving beneath the bursting stars and bubbles overhead.

Those were great days!

One man remembers that in one small town the two opposing parties held rallies on the same nights. Both had all the marching clubs they could muster there and both had a parade. So small was the town that the parades had to pass in opposite directions on the same street at the same time. One parade sought to break up the other by setting off the fireworks one man carried—but he failed of his object for his action broke up both parades for a few moments.

One town boasted a club of young girls, something like the present girl cadets. They wore white dresses, trimmed in red and blue, and were properly drilled, so that they could execute intricate maneuvers. The politicians in this town took the girls to neighboring towns for rallies, sending them the short distances in wagons, in those pre-automobile days.

Floats a Big Feature.

The parade always had floats. For one parade, twenty-five floats were transported from one town to another by the marching clubs. For a campaign preceding the one of '96, a log cabin was taken from Pawnee to Falls City for a float. It was loaded on a flat car and shipped. For parade it was lighted with red lights, a live coon that had been captured was tied to the cabin, and a cider barrel placed by the front door.

One of the noisiest parades of that noisy year was here in Lincoln. One of the marching clubs, having a bright idea, collected the city's supply of tin cans. Each man dragged as many as he could get on one string over the brick pavement, successfully drowning out the cheers of the others and catcalls of the watchers.

Another favorite idea was to have as many bands in the parade as could be gotten in. Not mere bands in dark blue uniforms, but bands with the greatest number of brass buttons, the whitest or the brightest suits, the most imposing directors, and the loudest instruments. There were almost more bands than marchers.

Sky Rockets, Bands N'Everything.

Special trains, bands, sky rockets, parades, rallies—those characterized the campaigns of a quarter of a century ago. But they are vanishing, or have vanished, those little decorations of electioneering, and none knows quite when or where or how, or why, which is rather the most important of all.

The service was not paid for by campaign committees, and men found that it took too much time to follow the clubs from town to town. That was one suggestion for the disuse of the istentatious campaigning. It was rather laborious fun, too, for some one had to be responsible for the caps and the bands and the transportation and the torches—and perhaps the few to whom such labor always fall grew tired of the unrequited labor.

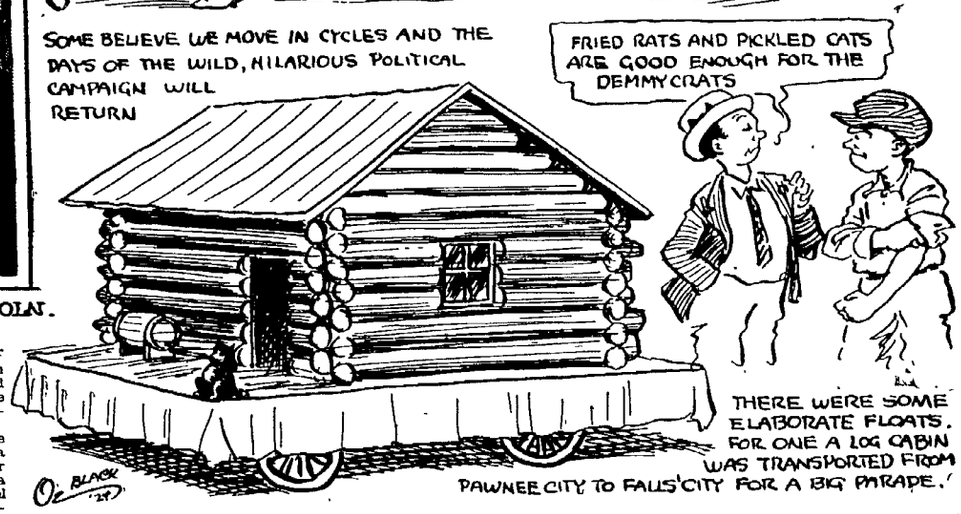

Others say the steady effort to break down party government is responsible for the change. Men do not work wholly for the party now, supporting its candidate regardless of his policies, but the personality is emphasized above party. Men don't come out for one faction, and when they do not, they can not enjoy the old style methods. When a man had marched in a parade, he did not have the courage to change his convictions, and he remained faithful to his party.

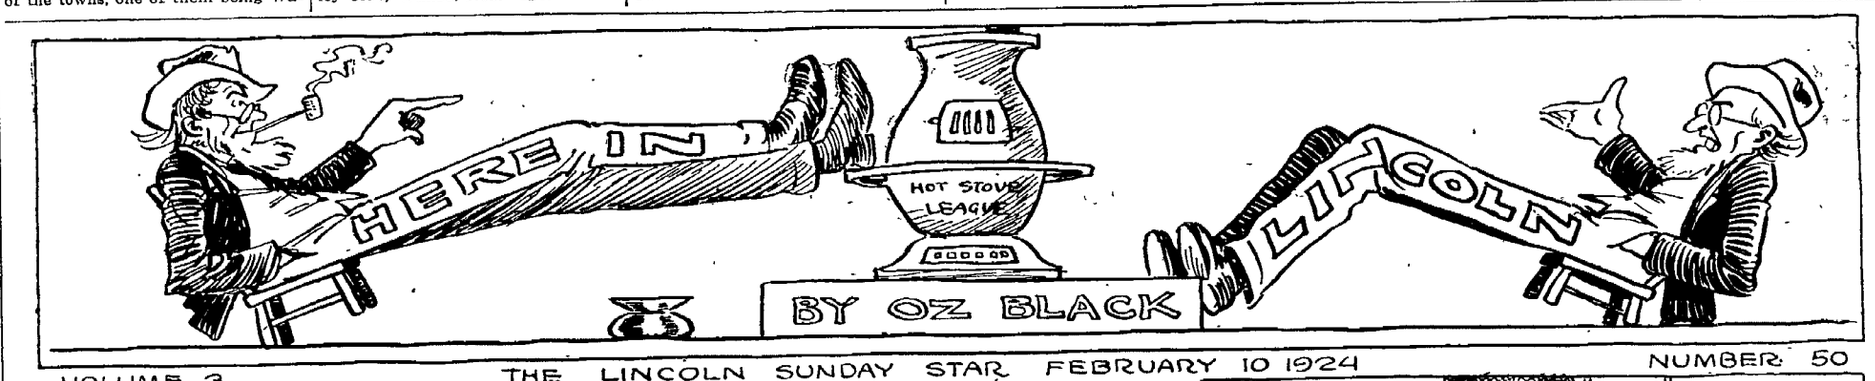

Some say that such political ideas go in cycles. The time will come when parades and Roman candles will be as much a part of our campaigns as they were twenty-five years ago. We are on the downward sweep of the cycle now, but some time it will go upward and the old style of politics will return.

Eastridge Club Directors Draft Plans to Make New Club Home Attractive Feature of Lincoln's Latest Addition to Golfdom

The directors of Eastridge club have been occupied the past three months developing ideas and plans for the club house, erection of which is to start as early in the spring as possible.

The actual work on the project has so far of necessity been confined to the golf course, and considerable more has been accomplished than is generally known. All of the fairways have been seeded and now are well covered with sod. The excessive rains in September did but little real damage, although there was some washing on two or three fairways. This has been mostly repaired, and with the sun and rains of spring, the grass should make very rapid growth. The grading, trapping and bunkering of the course have all been completed, and the only construction work remaining to be done in the spring consists of the seeding of the rough and the putting greens.

About one and one-half mile of pipe was used in the installation of the irrigating system. All that is needed to complete this is the addition of hose connections at the greens and tees, which will also be of sod, elevated and of large size, which will permit of only a part of the tee being in use at any time, thus helping materially to keep them in good playing condition.

The water supply has been found fully adequate and comes from the same source as the city water, which insures its permanency and quality. The well is six inches in diameter and the pump will provide a flow of fifty gallons per minute. The water will first be pumped into a cistern of thirty thousand gallons capacity, from which it will be taken to a pressure tank which will provide a working pressure on the system of about sixty pounds.

The pumping will be done by electric motors, and the Lincoln Traction company has already started the building of the transmission line to the club property. The pumps and motors will be housed in a cellar beneath the garage and tool house, which is 20x40 feet. The cellar installation secures quiet of operation, as well as security from danger of freezing. The same equipment will supply the house with water.

Club House of "Chalet Type."

The club house will be 36x68 feet in size and will be two full stories and basement. The style adopted is of Swiss origin, known as the "Chalet type," and has been selected because it is regarded as particularly adaptable to surroundings of this kind and lends itself readily to club purposes.

The Eastridge club house, erection of which will start early in the spring. The style adopted is of Swiss origin, known as the "Chalet type", and has been selected because it is regarded as particularly adaptable to the surroundings. It was designed by E. F. Kenny.

The basement will contain the professional's shop, the men's locker room with an initial equipment of two hundred steel lockers, the showers and the heating plant. The floor will be of concrete, and ample light and ventilation will be provided by windows on three sides. Entrance will be provided from both outside and inside the building.

The main floor will contain the kitchen and a small office, the balance of the space being used for one large room which will serve as a combined dining room and lounge, which can be cleared for dancing or other large gatherings. There will be a fireplace in each end. A broad porch on the east side, which will be the front of the building, will be reached by three wide mullioned double doors, and the entrance proper will be from a terrace on the west side, which will be reached also from three doors. These doors will be extra long to provide ample light and also reduce the necessity of windows. The interior will be finished in rustic style, stained in wood tones and appropriately furnished.

An Attractive Site For House.

The second floor will provide locker rooms for the women, as well as shower and tub baths, and a small card room and lounge, which can be used on occasion for smaller dinner parties. The second floor will be reached by a broad stair in the center of the east side, at the landing of which will be a balcony, providing a complete view of the golf course. On this floor also will be the living quarters of the professional, comprising a living-room, dining-room, kitchen, two bedrooms and bath. These quarters will be reached by a rustic stairway on the outside of the building, providing complete privacy for the professional and his family. The living-room in this apartment will permit a complete survey of the golf course at any moment.

The exterior of the building will be of weathered shingles laid with a wide exposure to the weather, which should prove soft and pleasing. It is felt that the building will be sufficient size to obviate the need of additions for several years and provide all the accommodations needed.

Ready Next Summer.

It is the plan of the club to have the course ready for play about the middle of the summer, and enough progress has already been made to give confidence that this can be done. Those who have inspected the course are unanimous in expressing their approval of the layout, and certain of the holes have been developed in such a way as to present interesting and difficult problems for the golfers. Particularly is this true of Nos. 3, 4, 11 and 16. No. 3 is the long hole—575 yards, and while it presents no particular difficulties through the fairway, the approach must be accurate and not too long. A water hazard will catch the overplayed shot, while the left of the green is out of bounds and the shot to the right finds itself in a bad ditch. No. 4 is 140 yards with the green guarded on all but the front side by deep traps. No. 11 requires a long pitch shot over a ditch and to an island green, but no shot save the short one is heavily penalized. No. 16 is an irregular shape and contour with deep trap front and back and difficult ditches and rough on each side. The course is 6,275 yards in length and it is hoped to develop it into one of the very best in this section.

The annual meeting of the Eastridge club will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m., at the Chamber of Commerce. The reports of the officers will be received, and a new board of directors chosen. Officers will be chosen from the board of directors.

The total membership of the Eastridge culb is now 231, including the 200 charter members. The charter membership is now full. In addition it is planned to increase the club membership by 200 regular members, making the total membership 400. Dues of charter and regular members are $50 a year. The regular membership fee is $150. In addition non-resident and student members will be accepted, the dues for which are $25 annually.

Nebraska Alumni To "Listen In" On Charter Day Program Broadcast From Campus Of Alma Mater

There is a greater day, however, than these little anniversaries. A day when all alumni remember their alma mater. University alumni are in all parts of the world, in the forty-eight states, the provinces, and the two score and more countries. Wherever they are, whatever they may be doing, on one day in the year tradition and memory of the university holds them.

That day is charter day, the anniversary of the day when the university was founded, February 15. Next Friday the university alumni wherever organized into clubs, will meet, and those who are scattered will stop and think of their alma mater.

Alumni Plan Meetings.

For a few hours, the great body of alumni will be as one. In the evening, the clubs will meet at one

The university is like a home.

We receive its privileges and protections for a varying number of years, accepting them, or not, as is the mood of the moment. We are given more than we give, far more.

It guides us, up to a certain point, and then it can go no further.

We go away from it. We neglect it, ignore it. Absorbed in our work, or play, we give it but a passing thought now and then. The "home folk" do not know our friends and our surroundings, are not so vitally interested in them, really, and we fall of interest in the old ones.

Yet, we never forget the university, any more than we forget the home.

Never do we quite lose sight of it. We may give it so little attention that it is scarcely discernible, but we have had it, and it shall always be a part of our consciousness. It has given us something, more or less intangible when one tries to set it forth in black and white, but something that has affected us materially.

And because it has, we never forget it.

University Holds Its Ties.

Octopus-like, the university winds its tentacles of tradition and memory around our lives, crushing thoughts of it into our mind and spirit. We may be in spots that have never heard of a university, but some idle thought, some passing fancy, and we remember.

Bulletins, catalogues, journals may never reach us, but we do not need such material reminders to remember university days.

Each of us has his own day, or days, on which those university hours are clearest—little private anniversaries, as it were, which bring back a class, a friend, a moment to rather bitter-sweet memory. Each one has a moment or two when remembrance transcends time, tide, and distance.

About fifteen hundred former students of the university are to have the privilege of taking part in the Charter Day exercises of the university, which are to be held next Friday evening. These students are scattered in many directions, but the radio is to bring them within hearing distance of the ceremonies by the simple act of "tuning in". Chancellor Samuel Avery of the university and Victor Smith of Omaha, president of the alumni association, are to make brief remarks over the radio.

You Cannot Hide Your Fat

Overfatness is the one misfortune you cannot hide from yourself or from those around you. If too thin, your dressmaker or tailor can supply the deficiencies, but the overfat carry a burden they can not conceal. There is one sure way to reduce your weight surely and quickly. The harmless Marmola Prescription, which changes the fatty tissues and fat producing foods to solid flesh and energy, helps the general health and digestion, permits you to eat substantial food, and leaves the skin clear and smooth. This famous prescription is now condensed into tablet form. Each tablet contains an exact dose of the same harmless ingredients that made the original prescription capable of reducing the overfat body steadily and easily without the slightest ill effects. Take but one tablet after each meal and at bedtime until the normal weight is reached and the bodily health completely restored. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets or send one dollar to the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., the price the world over, and you will receive enough to start you well on the road to slimness and happiness.—Advertisement.

Eastridge Club Directors Draft Plans to Make New Club Home
Attractive Feature of Lincoln's Latest Addition to Golfdom

The directors of Eastridge club have been occupied the past three months developing ideas and plans for the club house, erection of which is to start as early in the spring as possible.

The actual work on the project has so far of necessity been confined to the golf course, and considerable more has been accomplished than is generally known. All of the fairways have been seeded and now are well covered with sod. The excessive rains in September did but little real damage, although there was some washing on two or three fairways. This has been mostly repaired, and with the sun and rains of spring, the grass should make very rapid growth. The grading, trapping and bunkering of the course have all been completed, and the only construction work remaining to be done in the spring consists of the seeding of the rough and the putting greens.

About one and one-half mile of pipe was used in the installation of the irrigating system. All that is needed to complete this is the addition of hose connections at the greens and tees, which will also be of sod, elevated and of large size, which will permit of only a part of the tee being in use at any time, thus helping materially to keep them in good playing condition.

The water supply has been found fully adequate and comes from the same source as the city water, which insures its permanency and quality. The well is six inches in diameter and the pump will provide a flow of fifty gallons per minute. The water will first be pumped into a cistern of thirty thousand gallons capacity, from which it will be taken to a pressure tank which will provide a working pressure on the system of about sixty pounds.

The pumping will be done by electric motors, and the Lincoln Traction company has already started the building of the transmission line to the club property. The pumps and motors will be housed in a cellar beneath the garage and tool house, which is 20x40 feet. The cellar installation secures quiet of operation, as well as security from danger of freezing. The same equipment will supply the house with water.

Club House of "Chalet Type."

The club house will be 36x68 feet in size and will be two full stories and basement. The style adopted is of Swiss origin, known as the "Chalet type," and has been selected because it is regarded as particularly adaptable to surroundings of this kind and lends itself readily to club purposes.

The Eastridge club house, erection of which will start early in the spring. The style adopted is of Swiss origin, known as the "Chalet type", and has been selected because it is regarded as particularly adaptable to the surroundings. It was designed by E. F. Kenny.

The basement will contain the professional's shop, the men's locker room with an initial equipment of two hundred steel lockers, the showers and the heating plant. The floor will be of concrete, and ample light and ventilation will be provided by windows on three sides. Entrance will be provided from both outside and inside the building.

The main floor will contain the kitchen and a small office, the balance of the space being used for one large room which will serve as a combined dining room and lounge, which can be cleared for dancing or other large gatherings. There will be a fireplace in each end. A broad porch on the east side, which will be the front of the building, will be reached by three wide mullioned double doors, and the entrance proper will be from a terrace on the west side, which will be reached also from three doors. These doors will be extra long to provide ample light and also reduce the necessity of windows. The interior will be finished in rustic style, stained in wood tones and appropriately furnished.

An Attractive Site For House.

The second floor will provide locker rooms for the women, as well as shower and tub baths, and a small card room and lounge, which can be used on occasion for smaller dinner parties. The second floor will be reached by a broad stair in the center of the east side, at the landing of which will be a balcony, providing a complete view of the golf course. On this floor also will be the living quarters of the professional, comprising a living-room, dining-room, kitchen, two bedrooms and bath. These quarters will be reached by a rustic stairway on the outside of the building, providing complete privacy for the professional and his family. The living-room in this apartment will permit a complete survey of the golf course at any moment.

The exterior of the building will be of weathered shingles laid with a wide exposure to the weather, which should prove soft and pleasing. It is felt that the building will be sufficient size to obviate the need of additions for several years and provide all the accommodations needed.

Ready Next Summer.

It is the plan of the club to have the course ready for play about the middle of the summer, and enough progress has already been made to give confidence that this can be done. Those who have inspected the course are unanimous in expressing their approval of the layout, and certain of the holes have been developed in such a way as to present interesting and difficult problems for the golfers. Particularly is this true of Nos. 3, 4, 11 and 16. No. 3 is the long hole—575 yards, and while it presents no particular difficulties through the fairway, the approach must be accurate and not too long. A water hazard will catch the overplayed shot, while the left of the green is out of bounds and the shot to the right finds itself in a bad ditch. No. 4 is 140 yards with the green guarded on all but the front side by deep traps. No. 11 requires a long pitch shot over a ditch and to an island green, but no shot save the short one is heavily penalized. No. 16 is an irregular shape and contour with deep trap front and back and difficult ditches and rough on each side. The course is 6,275 yards in length and it is hoped to develop it into one of the very best in this section.

The annual meeting of the Eastridge club will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m., at the Chamber of Commerce. The reports of the officers will be received, and a new board of directors chosen. Officers will be chosen from the board of directors.

The total membership of the Eastridge culb is now 231, including the 200 charter members. The charter membership is now full. In addition it is planned to increase the club membership by 200 regular members, making the total membership 400. Dues of charter and regular members are $50 a year. The regular membership fee is $150. In addition non-resident and student members will be accepted, the dues for which are $25 annually.

There is a greater day, however, than these little anniversaries. A day when all alumni remember their alma mater. University alumni are in all parts of the world, in the forty-eight states, the provinces, and the two score and more countries, wherever they are, whatever they may be doing, on one day in the year tradition and memory of the university holds them.

That day is charter day, the anniversary of the day when the university was founded, February 15. Next Friday the university alumni wherever organized into clubs, will meet, and those who are scattered will stop and think of their alma mater.

Alumni Plan Meetings.

For a few hours, the great body of alumni will be as one. In the evening, the clubs will meet at one

THE "POOR MAN" WHO WOULD BE PRESIDENT

When William G. McAdoo retired from the cabinet as secretary of the treasury under the Wilson administration, it was generally understood he planned to re-engage in the practice of his profession.

Mr. McAdoo was not a rich man. He had had a brilliant career as an engineer, and as a lawyer. He had made a notable contribution through his services in both professions. But Mr. McAdoo had not piled up a great fortune, for as a young man he decided to actively engage in politics, and a political career generally does not spell riches. More frequently it is charged entirely on the debit side of the ledger. Mr. McAdoo's decision to return to the practice of law was a matter of necessity with him to replenish the rather slender fortune, which he had spent in the service of his country as a member of the president's cabinet, and in which capacity he rendered distinguished and valuable service.

In one particular, however, and in view of the letter which Mr. McAdoo sent Chairman Lenroot, of the senate oil investigating committee, it assumes an importance which cannot be lightly dismissed—the McAdoo case differs from many others. The former secretary of the treasury retired from the cabinet as a potential candidate for the democratic nomination for president. He had been the most formidable opponent of ex-Governor James Cox, who was selected as the party's standard-bearer at the San Francisco convention. The principal objections within the party raised to his candidacy at that time had been eliminated. And throughout the entire country the McAdoo boom for the democratic nomination in 1924 began to take definite shape and color, almost simultaneously with his retirement from official life. From the day that Mr. McAdoo left Washington, the devoted friends and followers of the former secretary of the treasury have been assiduously bending every effort to shape sentiment towards his nomination as the democratic standard-bearer in 1924.

That is the situation when in the midst of the astounding disclosures relating to the leasing of the Teapot Dome and Hill Top naval oil reserves, E. L. Doheny, California oil magnate, testified he paid the former firm with which Mr. McAdoo was associated $100,000 and the former secretary of the treasury $25,000 annually for two years to represent him in the Mexican oil matters.

* * *

There was no charge by Mr. Doheny, or anyone else connected with the whole miserable mess at Washington, that Mr. McAdoo had any connection with the subject matter under discussion. There was no charge that he had in any way conducted himself in a reprehensible manner. He had no finger in Teapot Dome or Hill Top leases; at all times his relation with Mr. Doheny and the oil interests was an honorable relationship to which any lawyer might point with pride as a testimonial of his capabilities, and to which he might devote his best efforts.

So on Friday of last week, Mr. McAdoo made the following answer in a letter to Chairman Lenroot of the committee:

"I indignantly protest against the whispered suggestions that I—and the others, lawyers and laymen, who helped in the Mexican enterprises of which Mr. Doheny is the head—share any taint of any kind. I deny that insinuation as monstrously unfair.

"What I have done was well within my rights as a lawyer. In representation of the Doheny company in Mexican matters, I never dealt in political influences, nor did I ask, promise, give or receive political favors or other favors. If my conduct in acting professionally in these matters is open to criticism, then no lawyer can take a cabinet office unless he can be rich enough to give up all professional employment in business when he comes out of office. I do not believe that any such standard is wise and proper. I believe that the spirit of fair play of the honest minded American people will not misunderstand my course in this matter, nor take their minds off of those who are guilty of betraying their trust as disclosed in this investigation."

Mr. McAdoo is correct, at least, in one surmise.

The American people will not be deceived by the clever smoke screen raised by one of the men, who profited most by leasing of the government oil reserves. Mr. McAdoo is not concerned or interested in the Teapot Dome inquiry, and even Mr. Doheny goes out of his way to make that plain to the committee. Why Mr. Doheny sought to take the American people into his confidence at this time as to the particular qualifications of Mr. McAdoo as a potential candidate for president is not altogether clear. The most plausible explanation seems to be that he is following the sly, old fox trick of mussing up the trail. In that he is doomed to failure.

* * *

The other question which Mr. McAdoo has now placed before the voters of America is not new.

When Mr. McAdoo, by reason of his "reduced circumstances, returned to the practice of law, he selected that particular branch of the profession which is the most remunerative. He became a corporation counsel. Now, it has been the political philosophy of the American people in the last two decades, particularly, that corporate interest runs counter to public interest. Mr. McAdoo is too intelligent and too astute a politician not to know this. And knowing of the efforts of his friends in his behalf to shape political sentiment to a friendly reception of his candidacy for president, he accepted employment with a great industry which on several occasions has been the subject of congressional inquiry.

The former secretary of the treasury had only to turn the pages of history of his own political party for precedent. It has been a matter of but a few years since Governor Haskell of Oklahoma, as treasurer of the democratic national committee, and in charge of the collection of campaign donations, was forced to retire from the committee because it was discovered that he had a connection with the Pierce-Waters Oil company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil.

In innumerable instances, some of which have claimed national attention, men have been forced to relinquish personal ambitions because their business connections, while constituting no reflecton on their personal integrity and honor, made them undesirable as candidates for public office.

Detached from the McAdoo case, because the former secretary of the treasury had given ample proof of his brilliance and ability before he ever entered politics, the American people have sickened on the practice of politicians in grabbing positions with great corporations at magnificent salaries on their retirement to private life. Admittedly many of them possess no other qualifications for the job than that they know the ropes, and are supposed to have acquired a certain amount of political prestige and influence. Every state in the union has seen the politicians step out from public office into the golden smiles of corporation associations. The knowledge and the prestige which they obtain in public service are commercialized in the employ of industry and business, whose interest may or may not be opposed to the public's welfare.

Possibly the old belief that the poorest lad in the country might sometime become president is only a myth. There are many evidences in America today that only the rich man can afford to hold public office. Irrespective of that situation, however, unless Mr. McAdoo, ingenious, brilliant and clever as he is, succeds in overturning tradition and political philosophy developed in the last quarter of a century—he has effectually eliminated himself from consideration as a presidential possibility.

THE LESSON OF RED CLOUD.

The experience of Red Cloud presents an object lesson which might be studied with profit by every Nebraska municipality or tax levying body. Three years ago Red Cloud elected its first woman mayor, Mary Peterson. At that time the city's lighting plant was carrying a debt of $45,000, besides $3,000 of overdue interest. The last of this entire debt has just been paid off.

Miss Peterson and her colleagues have shown what can be done when proper business methods are pursued. Instead of gathering taxes year after year for the purpose of paying interest to bond holders, they have made the levy a little higher for these three years and there are to be no future interest payments. They might have gone on year after year, as had their predecessors, feeding the ravenous interest bear, and in the end owe fully as much as they did at the beginning.

Red Cloud officials, however, chose a more enlightened course. The money which would have gone to the holders of bonds may now be placed in a depreciation and extension fund to take care of future needs of the plant, so that when the time comes for renewal or enlargement no bond issue will be necessary, nor will there be further interest payments. Instead, in the meantime the municipality may draw interest on this fund.

In most public affairs there is too much politics and too little real business. Municipal enterprises are handled in a manner that would not be thought of in the offices of successful private corporations or individuals. The main idea seems to be to get the money and use it, regardless of the future. Some Nebraska counties are still paying interest on refunding bonds issued and reissued as the result of subsidies voted to railroads in the day when Nebraska was new. As a matter of fact it was but a few years ago that Lancaster county paid off the last of such bonds.

It is a good thing to be able to get into debt, but it is a much better thing to be able to keep out of it. Bond issues become necessary at times, but not nearly so frequently as people are led to believe and by proper management interest charges may be stopped in practically every case much earlier than they are.

Look at Red Cloud.

THE DEMAND FOR LESS GOVERNMENT.

Nebraska furnished 16,469 of the signers of the gigantic petition recently filed with the house of representatives, asking congress to cut governmental expenses and thereby reduce taxes.

In all, 345,516 American farmers signed the petition. A million names might have been secured with comparatively little effort. In the state of Nebraska alone, thousands of farmers would have been glad to add their voice to the growing chorus in demand for a tax reduction.

It is the method of reducing governmental expenditures, which is of principal concern. One paragraph of the petition reads:

"Furthermore, the time has come to stop the gradual and steady intrusion of the government into private business. It is largely this expansion in new functions which has so enormously increased the cost of government. It is not worth what it costs; and while farmers have benefited somewhat by these activities, it has gone far enough. Governmental costs should be held down by refusing to establish any new bureaus or commissions, unless strictly self-supporting."

That is a correct analysis.

Not only the farmer but every industry and every business has suffered as a result of the enormous increase in government, and the subsequent rapid climb in governmental expenditures. The tax bill of the American people continues to run at the rate of $24,000,000 daily as against $8,000,000 daily in 1914. For every American family, the tax payments amount to $1 a day for every business day of the year, which means that what is paid in taxation fully equals the savings of the American family. Out of every hundred dollars earned in business, and by labor, $12 goes for the support of national, state, county, municipal and township governments.

America now has a burden of public debt hanging over her head of $32,000,000,000 in national, states, city and other public bonds. Until taxes are applied more generously towards reducing this debt, the government is pruned of its many useless and extravagant activities, industry and business in all fields of endeavor will continue to suffer from the very natural feeling of unrest and insecurity, which a huge debt, and mounting expenses, engender.

On the whole it is an encouraging picture which Howard-Moorhouse, Inc, of Chicago, hold out to the agricultural sections of America. James R. Howard, one of the members of the firm, was the first president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and has spent his entire life in agriculture. He is associated with H. W. Moorhouse, and L. M. Graves, for three years economist and statistician respectively of the same organization and Nat C. Murray, formerly statistician for the United States Department of Agriculture. Their analysis carries a degree of authority which makes it unusually interesting.

Two disastrous years and two years of improvement!

That is the situation confronting the rural population of America. From the record cash return of fourteen billions for the agricultural year of 1919, farm prosperity collapsed to a cash return of 7½ billions in 1921 That is a drop of 50 per cent in the money which the farmer received from the products of the farm, in 1922, the cash return from the farms aggregated 9 billions, while in 1923, it was 9½ billions. In two years therefore there was a recovery of approximately 2 billions of dollars. It is still 4½ billions short of the peak year, and 2 billions greater than the most distressing year.

"Income from crops toboggoned 54 per cent from the peak year. In the two years of recovery they have regained one-third of the loss. Live stock fell 50 per cent and has regained one-fourth of the decline. ANIMAL PRODUCTS, CONSISTING MAINLY OF DAIRY AND POULTRY OUTPUT HOLD THE RECORD FOR STABILITY. THE DECLINE WAS 25 PER CENT. TWO-THIRDS OF WHICH HAS BEEN RECOVERED. WHEAT HAS RETURNED LESS MONEY EVERY YEAR SINCE THE BREAK. IT IS THE ONLY IMPORTANT FARM PRODUCT WHICH HAS SHOWN NO REBOUND. CORN RANKS AS THE MOST VALUABLE SINGLE PRODUCT. AS A CASH PRODUCT, HOWEVER, IT IS BY NO MEANS FIRST. COTTON, DAIRY PRODUCTS, CATTLE, HOGS AND POULTRY PUT MORE MONEY DIRECTLY INTO THE FARMERS' POCKETBOOKS THAN CORN."

A determined campaign is now being launched in Nebraska to arouse more interest in dairying. The program does not necessarily call for a great increase in the number of dairy cows. It looks more particularly towards increasing the output of the dairy cows in the state by more careful feeding and better care. According to the analysis prepared by Mr. Howard and his associates, there can be no mistake in this, for the prices of dairy products, and poultry, have remained more stable than any single farm product. The cash returns in 1923 were only 4 per cent less than the record year of 1919—the greatest in the history of the dairy and poultry industry.

STEPHEN LEACOCK

Mr. Butt Lives For His Friends

A Man Who Tirelessly Sacrifices Himself to Advice and Assistance

It is the hallucination of Mr. Butt's life that he lives to do good. At whatever cost of time or trouble to himself, he does it. Whether people appear to desire it or not, he insists on helping them along.

His time, his company and his advice are at the service not only of those who, in the mere appearances of things, are not asking for them.

You may see the beaming face of Mr. Butt appear at the door of all those of his friends who are stricken with the minor troubles of life. Whenever Mr. Butt learns that any of his friends are moving house, buying furniture, selling furniture, looking for a maid, dismissing a maid, seeking a chauffeur, suing a plumber or buying a piano,—he is at their side in a moment.

So when I met him one night in the cloak room of the club putting on his raincoat and his galoshes with a peculiar beaming look on his face, I knew he was up to some sort of benevolence.

"Where are you off to?" I asked, for I knew he wanted to say it.

"I'm going out to see the Everleigh-Joneses,—you know them? No?—just come to the city, you know, moving into their new house, out on Seldom Avenue."

"But," I said, "that's away out in the suburbs, is it not, a mile or so beond the car tracks?"

"Something like that," answered Mr. Butt.

"And it's going on for ten o'clock and it's starting to rain——"

"Pooh, pooh," said Mr. Butt, cheerfully, adjusting his galoshes. "I never mind the rain,—does one good. As to their house. I've not been there yet but I can easily find it. I've a very simple system for finding a house at night by merely knocking at the doors in the neighborhood till I get it."

"Isn't it rather late to go there?" I protested.

"My dear fellow," said Mr. Butt, warmly, "I don't mind that a bit. The way I look at it is, here are these two young people, only married a few weeks, just moving into their new house, everything probably upside down, no one there but themselves, no one to cheer them up,"—he was wriggling into his raincoat as he spoke and working himself into a frenzy of benevolence,—"good gracious, I only learned at dinner time that they had come to town, or I'd have been out there days ago,—days ago——"

Mr. Butt Sets Forth.

And with that Mr. Butt went bursting forth into the rain, his face shining with good will under the streep lamps.

The next day I saw him again at the club at lunch time.

"Well," I asked, "did you find the Joneses?"

"I did," said Mr. Butt, "and by George I was glad that I'd gone—quite a lot of trouble to find the house (though I didn't mind that; I expected it)—had to knock at twenty houses at least to get it,—very dark and wet out there,—no street lights yet,—however I simply pounded at the doors until some one showed a light—at every house I called out the same things, 'Do you know where the Everleigh-Joneses live?' They didn't. 'All right,' I said, 'go back to bed. Don't bother to come down.'

"But I got to the right spot at last. I found the house all dark. Jones put his head out of an upper window. 'Hullo,' I called out; 'It's Butt.' 'I'm awfully sorry,'' he said, 'we've gone to bed.' 'My dear boy,' I called back, 'don't apologize at all. Throw me down the key and I'll wait while you dress. I don't mind a bit.'

"Just think of it," continued Mr. Butt, "those two poor souls going to bed at half past ten, through sheer dullness! By George, I was glad I'd come. 'Now then,' I said to myself, 'let's cheer them up a little, let's make things a little brighter here.'

"Well, down they came and we sat there on furniture cases and things and had a chat. Mrs. Jones wanted to make me some coffee. 'My dear girl,' I said (I knew them both when they were children) 'I absolutely refuse. Yet me make it. They protested. I insisted. I went at it,—kitchen all upset—had to open at least twenty tins to get the coffee. However, I made it at last. 'Now,' I said, 'drink it.' They said they had some an hour or so ago. 'Nonsense,' I said, 'drink it.'

"Well, we sat and chatted away till midnight. They were dull at first and I had to do all the talking. But I set myself to it. I can talk, you know, when I try. Presently about midnight they seemed to brighten up a little. Jones looked at his watch. 'By Jove,' he said, in an animated way, 'it's after midnight' I think he was pleased at the way the evening was going; after that we chatted away more comfortably. Every little while Jones would say, 'By Jove, it's half past twelve,' or 'it's one o'clock,' and so on.

"I took care, of course, not to stay too late. But when I left them I promised that I'd come back today to help straighten things up They protested, but I insisted."

Handy, Willing Mr. Butt.

That same day Mr. Butt went out to the suburbs and put the Joneses' furniture to rights.

"I worked all afternoon," he told me afterwards.—"hard at it with my coat off—got the pictures up first—they'd been trying to put them up by themselves in the morning. I had to take down every one of them—not a single one right,—'Down they come,' I said, and went at it with a will."

A few days later Mr. Butt gave me a further report. "Yes," he said, "the furniture is all unpacked and straightened out but I don't like it. There's a lot of it I don't quite like. I half feel like advising Jonesy to sell it and get some more. But I don't want to do that till I'm quite certain about it."

After that Mr. Butt seemed much occupied and I didn't see him at the club for some time.

"How about the Everleigh-Joneses?" I asked. "Are they comfortable in their new house?"

Mr. Butt shook his head. "It won't do," he said. "I was afraid of it from the first. I'm moving Jones in nearer to town. I've been out all morning looking for a apartment; when I get the right one I shall move him. I like an apartment far better than a house."

So the Joneses in due course of time were moved. After that Mr Butt was very busy selecting a piano, and advising them on wall paper and woodwork.

They were hardly settled in their new home when fresh trouble came to them.

"Have you heard about Everleigh-Jones?" said Mr. Butt one day with an anxious face.

"No," I answered.

"He's ill—some sort of fever—poor chap—been ill three days, and they never told me or sent for me—just like their grit—meant to fight it out alone. I'm going out there at once."

From day to day I had reports from Mr. Butt of the progress of Jones's illness.

"I sit with him every day," he said. "Poor chap,—he wa svery bad yesterday for a while,—mind wandered—quite delirious—I could hear him from the next room—seemed to think some one was hunting him—'Is that damn old fool gone,' I heard him say.

"I went in and soother him, 'There is no one here, my dear boy,' I said, 'no one, only Butt.' He turned over and groaned. Mrs. Jones begged me to leave him. 'You look quite used up,' shhe said. 'Go out into the open air.' 'My dear Mrs. Jones,' I said, 'what does it matter about me?"

"Yes," said Mr. Butt to me a few weeks later, "Jones is all right again now, but his illness has been a long hard pull. I haven't had an evening to myself since it began. But I'm paid, sir, now, mor ethan paid for anything I've done,—the gratitude of those two people—it's unbelievable—you ought to see it. Why do you know that dear little woman is so worried for fear that my strength has been overtaxed that she wants me to take a complete rest and go on a long trip somewhere—suggested first that I should go south.

"'My dear Mrs. Jones,' I said laughing, 'that's the one place I will not go. Heat is the one thing I can't stand.

"She wasn't nonplussed for a moment. 'Then go north,' she said. 'Go up to Canada, or better still go to Labrador,'—and in a minute that kind little woman was hunting up railway maps to see how far north I could get by rail. 'After that,' she said, 'you can go on snowshoes.' She's found that there's a steamer to Unalaska every spring and she wants me to run up there on one steamer and come back on the next.

Gratitude Of Friends.

"It must be very gratifying," I said.

"Oh, it is, it is," said Mr. Butt warmly. "It's well worth anything I do. It more than repays me. I'm alone in the world and my friends are all I have. I can't tell you how it goes to my heart when I think of all my friends, here in the club and in the town, always glad to see me, always protesting against my little kindnesses and yet never quite satisfied about anything unless they can get my advice and hear what I have to say.

"Take Jones for instance," he continued—"do you know, really now as a fact,—the hall porter assures me of it,—every time Everleigh-Jones enters the club here the first thing he does is to sing out, 'Is Mr. Butt in nthe club?' It warms me to think of it." Mr. Butt paused, one would have said there were tears in his eyes. But if so the kindly beam of his spectacles shone through them like the sun through April rain. He left me and passed into the cloak room.

He had just left the hall when a stranger entered, a narrow, meek man with a hunted face. He came in with a furtive step and looked about him apprehensively.

"Is Mr. Butt in the club?" he whispered to the hall porter.

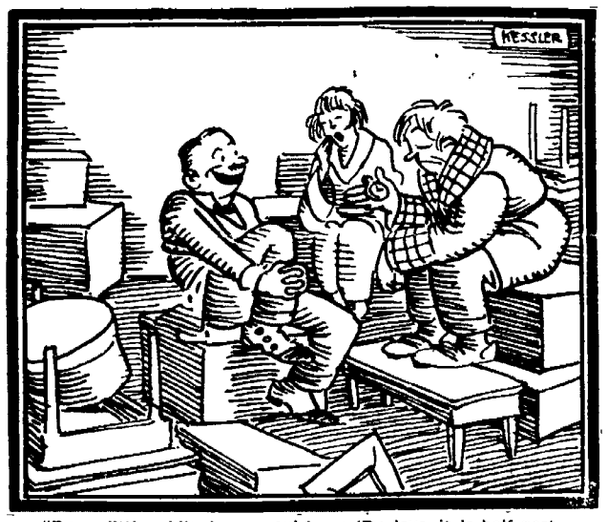

"Yes, sir, he's just gone into the cloak room, sir, shall I——"

But the man had turned and made a dive for the front door and had vanished.

"Who is that?" I asked.

"That's a new member, sir, Mr. Everleigh-Jones," said the hall porter.

Who or What Tossed the Planets Into Space

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.
Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

"What causes the orbits of the planets to be elipses instead of circles?—J. E. H, Somerville, Mass.

In answering this question it may be helpful if we first consider the relation of a circle to an ellipse. Many persons are astonished when told that a circle is only a particular case of an ellipse. That there is some close relationship between them must be evident to anyone who will cut a circle three or four inches in diameter out of cardboard and hold it at arm's length, viewing it first with its plane at right angles to the line of light, and then gradually turning it.

Its outline passes from a circle immediately into an ellipse, and the nearer its plane comes to being parallel to the line of sight the narrower the ellipse becomes. There are ovals which are not ellipses; but the outline of a circle when viewed in this way is a true ellipse.

The circle, the ellipse, the parabola and the hyperbola are all members of a family of curves called conic sections, because their shapes correspond with the outline of sections cut through a round-based cone, at different angles.

They are so related that a body travelling around a centre of gravitational attraction, as the planets travel around the sun, must not only move in one or the other of these curves, but the one that it actually does move in is determined by the velocity of the body and its mass, and distance when the motion begins With change of velocity the revolving body may alter its path from one kind of cone section curve to another. Comets often alter the shape of their paths because some planet slows them up or hastens them on.

In order that a body may travel in a circle around the centre of force, it is necessary that its velocity be constant (steady, unchanging) and that the centrifugal force or tendency to fly off on a tangent shall at all times exactly balance the centripetal force, or the central attraction. Either increase or decrease the velocity, and the body will hange its path from a circle to an ellipse. With decreased velocity the elliptical path would fall inside the circle, with a major axis as long as the circle's diameter. With increased velocity, the ellipse would have a major axis greater than the circle's diameter. If the increase is so much that the velocity exceeds the circular velocity multiplied by the square foot of 2, the path, or orbit, passes from the form of an ellipse to that of a parabola, and then the body, instead of continuing to go round and round the centre of force, would pass away to an infinite distance.

The square root of 2 is the decimal 1.414. The earth's velocity in its orbit is about 18¼ miles per second, nearly that which it would have if its orbit, instead of being slightly elliptical was a true circle. Suppose then, that the earth's velocity should be multiplied by 1.414, making it about 26.168 miles per second; this planet would thereupon be turned, as far as its orbit is concerned, into a large comet, traveling in a parabolic curve, and, unless saved by the interference of some big brother like Jupiter, it would have to say goodbye to the sun, and set its course away off through the interminable expanse of star-strewn space!

Let the velocity be still further increased, and another change would take place in the form of a hyperbola, the fourth kind of conic section curve, whose branches, like those of the parabola, never meet again, but unlike those of the parabola, continue forever to get wider and wider apart.

In all the calculations about the motions of the planets there is one thing which nobody pretends really to understand, and that is how the original motion that prevented them from falling straight into the sun was imparted.

There are some persons who would boldly declare that God, having decreed the law of central forces and created the sun, set his strength against gravitation and flung the planets like balls from his hand, taking delight in watching them obey the law by failing into their proper orbits. But the astronomer still tries to find out how and when it was done; and he will not be classed among sinners for his persistent curiosity.

Here and There

The Bok Inquisition.
(St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

Something must be done about this man Bok. He is a good deal more dangerous than the senators suspected, and heaven knows the senators did a pretty complete job of suspecting in this case. Bok knew that, too. But did it unnerve him? Was he ill at ease, or fidgety, or guiltly self-conscious when he appeared before the board of inquisition? Did he tremble at Reed's jovian glare? Was he confused by the indolent levity of Moses? Did he fret under Caraway's corkscrew questioning? Did he topple over in a dead faint when flailed by Greene's wrath?

The desperate truth might as well be told now as later. He was not awed. He wasn't even fussed. He was as smiling as a breeze, as unembarrassed as a hard-boiled egg. Such effrontery probably astounded the senators. It certainly played havoc with their plan of putting a cowering culprit on the griddle and chortling at his screams of pain.

Whatever unhappiness there was at the hearing the senators, not the witness, experienced it.

After all, though, what could be expected of a wretch who frankly wants to plunge the whole blooming world into a basin of peace and keep it there forever! If Bok had his way humanity would never again go through the agony and devastation and serried death of war. Such villiany and such a villain seems to be too much for our senators to comprehend, to say nothing about chastising.

Yes, something must be done about this man Bok, but the senators, evidently, are not the chaps to do it; they emerged from the first encounter, bleeding, as the poet remarked, at every pore.

Woodrow Wilson.

Calmly he sleeps—the champion of peace.
Locked in the embrace of a well earned shrine.
Doubt in his heart forever laid at rest
On to his God—to Paradise Divine.

Clear came the call—the voiceless sound of death
Angels afar their earthly vigil kept
Calling the soul that wavered near the brink
To bid farewell to those on earth who wept.

Will glory be his beyond this earthly vale?
For peace was his hope for many a struggling throng.
Stirred by such impulse that doth vanquished fear
A stewardship that knew no wrong.

Calm shall he sleep while time doth weave its span
Over the ages that are yet unsung
Apostle of a faith that stamps him God's good man

Friends should not anguish for his earth's release.
Their's but to glorify a life well spent
A God—like memory—A world of peace.

Nebraska's New Marriage Law.

OGALLALA, Neb., Feb. 9.

To the Editor of The Lincoln Star: The jewelers of Nebraska are determined to make e concentrated effort to have Nebraska's new marriage law repealed, at the next session of the legislature.

The repeal of the new marriage law will be one of the most widely discussed subjects which will come up before the Nebraska's Retail Jewelers' association, which convees at Grand Island, Neb., Feb. 18-19, and 20.

The jewelers will be join'd in their efforts, by the Hardware, Furniture and Clothing, and in fact, practically every state Mercantile organization.

The members of the Nebraska Retail Jewelers' association feel that the new marriage law is a very good law and that its intentions are perfectly alright; but, the law lacks what it was intended to accomplish, for the reason that about one-half of the marriages, which should be performed in this state are now performed in surrounding states and the couples return to Nebraska to live. It is estimated by the different state associations that the loss in business to the various merchants through this law has amounted to over $5,000,000 a year. This is based upon the number of Nebraska marriages which have been performed in neighboring states and the average amount spent by the couples outside of the home state. For instance, when a young couple is getting married they usually spend about $15 for a wedding ring; $100 for an engagement ring; $200 for clothes; a few dollars for flowers; $500 for furniture; $75 for a stove; $2 for marriage license; $15 to the minister and so on down the line. Thus it is that the county judge and the minister as well as the merchants are losing a great deal of money by the result of a law which our legislature had intended to be of benefit.

The merchants in Chadron, Neb., and other towns in the northern part of the state, report that almost every couples goes into Wyoming or South Dakota to be married. The same reports come from McCook and all along the southern part of the state. Sidney and Ogallala, report that the same is true in western Nebraska and the Omaha merchants, can prove that no one ever comes to Omaha to be married like they used to, but instead go on to Council Bluffs and spend their money for wedding gifts, clothing and household goods.

The merchants of Nebraska feel that the present Nebraska marriage law should be made a national law, which would equalize business in every state and would highly endorse any action by congress to that effect; but as it is now only effective in Nebraska it is doing more harm than good, to the young people and the merchants alike. For instance, there have been a great many cases where couples living in the central part of the state, wanted to get married and did not wish to wait ten days. The result was that the prospective groom took his small savings and his fiancee and bought two tickets to some other state and by the time he and his wife got back home they were "broke," and with nothing left to get a happy start in life. With a national law, instances similar to this would be averted. It is for this and many other reasons that the Nebraska Retail Jewelers' association feels that it is justified in asking the next Nebraska legislature to repeal the present marriage law.

Be Strong.

Be strong,
We are not here to play, to dream, to drift;
We have hard work to do, and loads to lift;
Shun not the struggle—face it; 'tis God's gift.
Be strong.
Say not, "The days are evil, Who's to blame?"
And fold the hands and acquiesce—Oh shame,
Stand up, speak out, and bravely, in God's name.
Be strong.
It matters not how deep intrenched the wrong,
How hard the battle goes, the day how long;
Faint not—fight on. Tomorrow comes the song.

Water Costs.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 9.—To the Editor of The Lincoln Star: Your issue recently contained a letter from Commissioner Schroder requesting those who are in favor of a larger and cheaper water supply for the city to submit their plans, so that they can be presented to the voters of the city at the spring election.

The commissioner must first furnish the information from his office that he has so far failed to supply. More than three weeks ago on the appearance in the press of his partial annual report showing that the department pumped 1,983,120,000 gallons of water that the department had also generated 6,286,770 K. W's. 3,504,352 of this went to pumping water. So far as the generating and pumping costs, the report was silent.

On reading the partial report the East Lincoln Civic league wrote a letter to the council asking the following questions.

1—How many tons of coal were used in the department last year, and cost of same per ton.

2.—How many thousand gallons of fuel oil were used during the same period and the cost of same.

3.—What is it costing per thousand gallons to pump the city water.

4.—What is it costing per K. W. to put current on the switchboard.

The letter stated that in former years the department published all of this information in its annual report. No doubt all that will be necessary is to copy the figures from the record. After patiently waiting ten days for the answer, imagine our surprise to receive it through the press and by letter, saying "The office is now at work on the report," "when completed it will be given to the public."

We, of the East Lincoln league, with others, are wondering why this delay. If the commissioner has the figures, what is his purpose in not submitting them at once.

If they have not yet completed them, is the public not entitled to know the reason why. And, if the commissioner doest not know the actual cost, how is he himself prepared to give this information to others.

The letter of the commissioner published in Wednesday evening's paper calls for an answer to another question. How many gallons per day are furnished the city for which there is no direct charge made by the water department.

When these facts are made known to the public they will be able to form a more intelligent opinion as to supplying cheaper water to the manufacturing concerns that employ labor.

His statement that the reduction of rates to the large consumers will cause an increase of rates to the small consumer, is without any foundation whatever.

The city has a generating capacity of 4,000 K. W.'s per hour which would make 35,040,000 K. W.'s in one year while the January report of this year shows that the department had generated only ,288,770 K. W.'s last year.

Its can readily be seen with all the machinery installed the coal automatically fed to the boiler, the crew of men paid for full time, all of the overhead charges are provided for, except a very small fraction of a per cent for wear and tear on the machinery and the addition of a lubricating oil, thus it will be seen that the only added cost to pump one or two million gallons more per day would be the only added cost oif fuel.

This will show how additional water for manufacturing can be sold cheap and yet, at a profit to the city without in any way interfering with the cost to the small consumer.

This city should supply such a water system of good pure water that a shortage should never occur, as every time the public is notified, to be sparing of the water it injures the reputation of our city, which is absolutely unnecessary if properly provided for.

When all the facts are made known to the public they will be better qualified to decide on what is best for the welfare of our beautiful vity.

Was Disappointed.

LINCOLN, Neb, Feb. 9.

To the Editor of The Lincoln Star: Arriving in Lincoln early Sunday morning and not leaving until evening and being a stranger in the city and after reading and hearing that our war-time president was nearer death's door, I felt that I wanted to go somewhere and hear encouraging words of faith and comfort for I felt as one personally bereaved and my party animosities were forgotten in the tragedy going on in Washington at that hour. Although, I regret to say, I rarely enter a church, I attended one. I do not recall just what the minister gave such a lengthy talk about. I do recall that he rebuked some small children very sharply for not paying strict attention to what he was saying.

Did I hear anything that I had hoped to hear? I did not. Not a word or a thought to show that the man in the pulpit had ever heard of a man by the name of Woodrow Wilson. He even avoided in his prayer 'a prayer for the sick and afflic' wherever they may be' as I thought is customary among preachers of the land

I came out of that church feeling —well, I won't say. READER.

Fines For Thrift.
(Nebraska City Press.)

Consider your tax system for a few moments, a method of collecting revenues that has been in vogue in every state in the Union since the Government was founded, with additions, alterations and repairs that have merely added insult to injury.

You buy a piece of property, a house for instance, and it is valued at, say, $5,000. Within the course of a few years you decide your domicile is not large enough, so you engage a carpenter, add a new front porch, a bath-room or a garage. You paint it and lay new walks, not forgetting a little ornament shrubbery.

Along comes the tax assessor. He sees your improvements, makes a note of it in the little black book and your new assessment valuation is $7,500 instead of $5,000. For your thrift you have been fined.

Across the street is a vacant lot, devoted to juvenile pastime, tin can culture and weeds. The owner bought it for $600, say, a few years ago and is holding it for the inevitable "rise," an increase in value which cannot come unless his neighbors, including you, show progress and a spirit of civic unselfishness through painting and remodeling their properties. His valuation remains practically unchanged because he has not added anything to the property, but you and your neighbors are pecunlarly penalized because you have shown thrift and improved your homes.

We fine men in Nebraska for becoming intoxicated, for selling liquor, for petty larceny, for exceeding the speed limit, for beating their children or neglecting their family responsibilities—and FOR IMPROVING THEIR HOMES!

Neglected Opportunity.
(Howells Journal.)

There is a wonderful amount of water power in Nebraska, the major portion of which is going to waste. The streams that are capable of turning endless factory wheels and generating electric current for light and power are flowing on unharnessed when they could be the means by which towns, cities and farms might be lighted from one end of the state to the other. It surely is an opportunity that should not longer be neglected.

Need New Start.
(Kearney Hub.)

Witnesses at the Salt Lake hearing before the federal fact-finding commission declare that reclamation under the government projects in western Nebraska and eastern Wyoming has been a failure. It is evident that a new start will have to be made, with extensions and numerous concessions, to prevent the ruin of hundreds of reclamation farmers.

THE "POOR MAN" WHO WOULD BE PRESIDENT

When William G. McAdoo retired from the cabinet as secretary of the treasury under the Wilson administration, it was generally understood he planned to re-engage in the practice of his profession.

Mr. McAdoo was not a rich man. He had had a brilliant career as an engineer, and as a lawyer. He had made a notable contribution through his services in both professions. But Mr. McAdoo had not piled up a great fortune, for as a young man he decided to actively engage in politics, and a political career generally does not spell riches. More frequently it is charged entirely on the debit side of the ledger. Mr. McAdoo's decision to return to the practice of law was a matter of necessity with him to replenish the rather slender fortune, which he had spent in the service of his country as a member of the president's cabinet, and in which capacity he rendered distinguished and valuable service.

In one particular, however, and in view of the letter which Mr. McAdoo sent Chairman Lenroot, of the senate oil investigating committee, it assumes an importance which cannot be lightly dismissed—the McAdoo case differs from many others. The former secretary of the treasury retired from the cabinet as a potential candidate for the democratic nomination for president. He had been the most formidable opponent of ex-Governor James Cox, who was selected as the party's standard-bearer at the San Francisco convention. The principal objections within the party raised to his candidacy at that time had been eliminated. And throughout the entire country the McAdoo boom for the democratic nomination in 1924 began to take definite shape and color, almost simultaneously with his retirement from official life. From the day that Mr. McAdoo left Washington, the devoted friends and followers of the former secretary of the treasury have been assiduously bending every effort to shape sentiment towards his nomination as the democratic standard bearer in 1924.

That is the situation when in the midst of the astounding disclosures relating to the leasing of the Teapot Dome and Hill Top naval oil reserves, E. L. Doheny, California oil magnate, testified he paid the former firm with which Mr. McAdoo was associated $100,000 and the former secretary of the treasury $25,000 annually for two years to represent him in the Mexican oil matters.

• • •

There was no charge by Mr. Doheny, or anyone else connected with the whole miserable mess at Washington, that Mr. McAdoo had any connection with the subject matter under discussion. There was no charge that he had in any way conducted himself in a reprehensible manner. He had no finger in Teapot Dome or Hill Top leases; at all times his relation with Mr. Doheny and the oil interests was an honorable relationship to which any lawyer might point with pride as a testimonial of his capabilities, and to which he might devote his best efforts.

So on Friday of last week, Mr. McAdoo made the following answer in a letter to Chairman Lenroot of the committee:

"I indignantly protest against the whispered suggestions that I—and the others, lawyers and laymen, who helped in the Mexican enterprises of which Mr. Doheny is the head—share any taint of any kind. I deny that insinuation as monstrously unfair.

"What I have done was well within my rights as a lawyer. In representation of the Doheny company in Mexican matters, I never dealt in political influences, nor did I ask, promise, give or receive political favors or other favors. If my conduct in acting professionally in these matters is open to criticism, then no lawyer can take a cabinet office unless he can be rich enough to give up all professional employment in business when he comes out of office. I do not believe that any such standard is wise and proper. I believe that the spirit of fair play of the honest minded American people will not misunderstand my course in this matter, nor take their minds off of those who are guilty of betraying their trust as disclosed in this investigation."

Mr. McAdoo is correct, at least, in one surmise.

The American people will not be deceived by the clever smoke screen raised by one of the men, who profited most by leasing of the government oil reserves. Mr. McAdoo is not concerned or interested in the Teapot Dome inquiry, and even Mr. Doheny goes out of his way to make that plain to the committee. Why Mr. Doheny sought to take the American people into his confidence at this time as to the particular qualifications of Mr. McAdoo as a potential candidate for president is not altogether clear. The most plausible explanation seems to be that he is following the sly, old fox trick of mussing up the trail. In that he is doomed to failure.

• • •

The other question which Mr. McAdoo has now placed before the voters of America is not new.

When Mr. McAdoo, by reason of his "reduced circumstances, returned to the practice of law, he selected that particular branch of the profession which is the most remunerative. He became a corporation counsel. Now, it has been the political philosophy of the American people in the last two decades, particularly, that corporate interest runs counter to public interest. Mr. McAdoo is too intelligent and too astute a politician not to know this. And knowing of the efforts of his friends in his behalf to shape political sentiment to a friendly reception of his candidacy for president, he accepted employment with a great industry which on several occasions has been the subject of congressional inquiry.

The former secretary of the treasury had only to turn the pages of history of his own political party for precedent. It has been a matter of but a few years since Governor Haskell of Oklahoma, as treasurer of the democratic national committee, and in charge of the collection of campaign donations, was forced to retire from the committee because it was discovered that he had a connection with the Pierce-Waters Oil company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil.

In innumerable instances, some of which have claimed national attention, men have been forced to relinquish personal ambitions because their business connections, while constituting no reflecton on their personal integrity and honor, made them undesirable as candidates for public office.

Detached from the McAdoo case, because the former secretary of the treasury had given ample proof of his brilliance and ability before he ever entered politics, the American people have sickened on the practice of politicians in grabbing positions with great corporations at magnificent salaries on their retirement to private life. Admttedly many of them possess no other qualifications for the job than that they know the ropes, and are supposed to have acquired a certain amount of political prestige and influence. Every state in the union has seen the politicians step out from public office into the golden smiles of corporation associations. The knowledge and the prestige which they obtain in public service are commercialized in the employ of industry and business, whose interest may or may not be opposed to the public's welfare.

Possibly the old belief that the poorest lad in the country might sometime become president is only a myth. There are many evidences in America today that only the rich man can afford to hold public office. Irrespective of that situation, however, unless Mr. McAdoo, ingenious, brilliant and clever as he is, suceeds in overturning tradition and political philosophy developed in the last quarter of a century—he has effectually eliminated himself from consideration as a presidential possibility.

THE LESSON OF RED CLOUD.

The experience of Red Cloud presents an object lesson which might be studied with profit by every Nebraska municipality or tax levying body. Three years ago Red Cloud elected its first woman mayor, Mary Peterson. At that time the city's lighting plant was carrying a debt of $45,000, besides $3,000 of overdue interest. The last of this entire debt has just been paid off.

Miss Peterson and her colleagues have shown what can be done when proper business methods are pursued. Instead of gathering taxes year after year for the purpose of paying interest to bond holders, they have made the levy a little higher for these three years and there are to be no future interest payments. They might have gone on year after year, as had their predecessors, feeding the ravenous interest bear, and in the end owe fully as much as they did at the beginning.

Red Cloud officials, however, chose a more enlightened course. The money which would have gone to the holders of bonds may now be placed in a depreciation and extension fund to take care of future needs of the plant, so that when the time comes for renewal or enlargement no bond issue will be necessary, nor will there be further interest payments. Instead, in the meantime the municipality may draw interest on this fund.

In most public affairs there is too much politics and too little real business. Municipal enterprises are handled in a manner that would not be thought of in the offices of successful private corporations or individuals. The main idea seems to be to get the money and use it, regardless of the future. Some Nebraska counties are still paying interest on refunding bonds issued and reissued as the result of subsidies voted to railroads in the day when Nebraska was new. As a matter of fact it was but a few years ago that Lancaster county paid off the last of such bonds.

It is a good thing to be able to get into debt, but it is a much better thing to be able to keep out of it. Bond issues become necessary at times, but not nearly so frequently as people are led to believe and by proper management interest charges may be stopped in practically every case much earlier than they are.

Look at Red Cloud.

THE DEMAND FOR LESS GOVERNMENT.

Nebraska furnished 16,469 of the signers of the gigantic petition recently filed with the house of representatives, asking congress to cut governmental expenses and thereby reduce taxes.

In all, 345,516 American farmers signed the petition.

A million names might have been secured with comparatively little effort. In the state of Nebraska alone, thousands of farmers would have been glad to add their voice to the growing chorus in demand for a tax reduction.

It is the method of reducing governmental expenditures, which is of principal concern. One paragraph of the petition reads:

"Furthermore, the time has come to stop the gradual and steady intrusion of the government into private business. It is largely this expansion in new functions which has so enormously increased the cost of government. It is not worth what it costs; and while farmers have benefited somewhat by these activities, it has gone far enough. Governmental costs should be held down by refusing to establish any new bureaus or commissions, unless strictly self-supporting."

That is a correct analysis.

Not only the farmer but every industry and every business has suffered as a result of the enormous increase in government, and the subsequent rapid climb in governmental expenditures. The tax bill of the American people continues to run at the rate of $24,000,000 daily as against $8,000,000 daily in 1914. For every American family, the tax payments amount to $1 a day for every business day of the year, which means that what is paid in taxation fully equals the savings of the American family. Out of every hundred dollars earned in business, and by labor, $12 goes for the support of national, state, county, municipal and township governments.

America now has a burden of public debt hanging over her head of $32,000,000,000 in national, states, city and other public bonds,. Until taxes are applied more generously towards reducing this debt, the government is pruned of its many useless and extravagant activities, industry and business in all fields of endeavor will continue to suffer from the very natural feeling of unrest and insecurity, which a huge debt, and mounting expenses, engender.

On the whole it is an encouraging picture which Howard-Moorhouse, Inc., of Chicago, hold out to the agricultural sections of America. James R. Howard, one of the members of the firm, was the first president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and has spent his entire life in agriculture. He is associated with H W. Moorhouse, and L. M. Graves, for three years economist and statistician respectively of the same organization and Nat C. Murray, formerly statistician for the United States Department of Agriculture. Their analysis carries a degree of authority which makes it unusually interesting.

Two disastrous years and two years of improvement!

That is the situation confronting the rural population of America. From the record cash return of fourteen billions for the agricultural year of 1919, farm prosperity collapsed to a cash return of 7½ billions in 1921 That is a drop of 50 per cent in the money which the farmer received from the products of the farm, in 1922, the cash return from the farms aggregated 9 billions, while in 1923, it was 9½ billions. In two years therefore there was a recovery of approximately 2 billions of dollars. It is still 4½ billions short of the peak year, and 2 billions greater than the most distressing year.

"Income from crops tobogganed 54 per cent from the peak year. In the two years of recovery they have regained one-third of the loss. Live stock fell 50 per cent and has regained one-fourth of the decline. ANIMAL PRODUCTS, CONSISTING MAINLY OF DAIRY AND POULTRY OUTPUT HOLD THE RECORD FOR STABILITY. THE DECLINE WAS 25 PER CENT. TWO-THIRDS OF WHICH HAS BEEN RECOVERED. WHEAT HAS RETURNED LESS MONEY EVERY YEAR SINCE THE BREAK. IT IS THE ONLY IMPORTANT FARM PRODUCT WHICH HAS SHOWN NO REBOUND. CORN RANKS AS THE MOST VALUABLE SINGLE PRODUCT. AS A CASH PRODUCT, HOWEVER, IT IS BY NO MEANS FIRST. COTTON, DAIRY PRODUCTS, CATTLE, HOGS AND POULTRY PUT MORE MONEY DIRECTLY INTO THE FARMERS' POCKETBOOKS THAN CORN."

A determined campaign is now being launched in Nebraska to arouse more interest in dairying. The program does not necessarily call for a great increase in the number of dairy cows. It looks more particularly towards increasing the output of the dairy cows in the state by more careful feeding and better care. According to the analysis prepared by Mr. Howard and his associates, there can be no mistake in this, for the prices of dairy products, and poultry, have remained more stable than any single farm product. The cash returns in 1923 were only 4 per cent less than the record year of 1919—the greatest in the history of the dairy and poultry industry.

STEPHEN LEACOCK

Mr. Butt Lives For His Friends

A Man Who Tirelessly Sacrifices Himself to Advice and Assistance

"Every little while Jones would say, 'By Jove, it is half past twelve,' or 'it's one o'clock,' and so on."

It is the hallucination of Mr. Butt's life that he lives to do good. At whatever cost of time or trouble to himself, he does it. Whether people appear to desire it or not, he insists on helping them along.

His time, his company and his advice are at the service not only of those who, in the mere appearances of things, are not asking for them.

You may see the beaming face of Mr. Butt appear at the door of all those of his friends who are stricken with the minor troubles of life. Whenever Mr. Butt learns that any of his friends are moving house, buying furniture, selling furniture, looking for a maid, dismissing a maid, seeking a chauffeur, suing a plumber or buying a piano,—he is at their side in a moment.

So when I met him one night in the cloak room of the club putting on his raincoat and his galoshes with a peculiar beaming look on his face, I knew he was up to some sort of benevolence.

"Where are you off to?" I asked, for I knew he wanted to say it.

"I'm going out to see the Everleigh-Joneses,—you know them? No?—just come to the city, you know, moving into their new house, out on Seldom Avenue."

"But," I said, "that's away out in the suburbs, is it not, a mile or so belond the car tracks?"

"Something like that," answered Mr. Butt.

"And it's going on for ten o'clock and it's starting to rain——"

"Pooh, pooh," said Mr. Butt, cheerfully, adjusting his galoshes. "I never mind the rain,—does one good. As to their house. I've not been there yet but I can easily find it. I've a very simple system for finding a house at night by merely knocking at the doors in the neighborhood till I get it."

"Isn't it rather late to go there?" I protested.

"My dear fellow," said Mr. Butt, warmly, "I don't mind that a bit. The way I look at it is, here are these two young people, only married a few weeks, just moving into their new house, everything probably upside down, no one there but themselves, no one to cheer them up,"—he was wriggling into his raincoat as he spoke and working himself into a frenzy of benevolence,—"good gracious, I only learned at dinner time that they had come to town, or I'd have been out there days ago,—days ago——"

Mr. Butt Sets Forth.

And with that Mr. Butt went bursting forth into the rain, his face shining with good will under the streep lamps.

The next day I saw him again at the club at lunch time.

"Well," I asked, "did you find the Joneses?"

"I did," said Mr. Butt, "and by George I was glad that I'd gone—quite a lot of trouble to find the house (though I didn't mind that; I expected it)—had to knock at twenty houses at least to get it,—very dark and wet out there,—no street lights yet,—however I simply pounded at the doors until some one showed a light—at every house I called out the same things, 'Do you know where the Everleigh-Joneses live?' They didn't. 'All right,' I said, 'go back to bed. Don't bother to come down."

"But I got to the right spot at last. I found the house all dark. Jones put his head out of an upper window. 'Hullo,' I called out; 'it's Butt.' 'I'm awfully sorry," he said, 'we've gone to bed.' 'My dear boy,' I called back, 'don't apologize at all. Throw me down the key and I'll wait while you dress. I don't mind a bit.'

"Just think of it," continued Mr. Butt, "those two poor souls going to bed at half past ten, through sheer dullness! By George, I was glad I'd come. 'Now then,' I said to myself, 'let's cheer them up a little, let's make things a little brighter here.'

"Well, down they came and we sat there on furniture cases and things and had a chat. Mrs. Jones wanted to make me some coffee. 'My dear girl,' I said (I knew them both when they were children) 'I absolutely refuse. Yet me make it. They protested. I insisted. I went at it,—kitchen all upset—had to open at least twenty tins to get the coffee. However, I made it at last. 'Now,' I said, 'drink it.' They said they had some an hour or so ago. 'Nonsense,' I said, 'drink it.'

"Well, we sat and chatted away till midnight. They were dull at first and I had to do all the talking. But I set myself to it. I can talk, you know, when I try. Presently about midnight they seemed to brighten up a little. Jones looked at his watch. 'By Jove,' he said, in an animated way, 'it's after midnight.' I think he was pleased at the way the evening was going; after that we chatted away more comfortably. Every little while Jones would say, 'By Jove, it's half past twelve,' or 'it's one o'clock,' and so on.

"I took care, of course, not to stay too late. But when I left them I promised that I'd come back today to help straighten things up. They protested, but I insisted."

Handy, Willing Mr. Butt.

That same day Mr. Butt went out to the suburbs and put the Joneses furniture to rights.

"I worked all afternoon," he told me afterwards,—"hard at it with my coat off—got the pictures up first—they'd been trying to put them up by themselves in the morning. I had to take down every one of them—not a single one right,—'Down they come,' I said, and went at it with a will."

A few days later Mr. Butt gave me a further report. "Yes," he said, "the furniture is all unpacked and straightened out but I don't like it. There's a lot of it I don't quite like. I half feel like advising Jones to sell it and get some more. But I don't want to do that till I'm quite certain about it."

After that Mr. Butt seemed much occupied and I didn't see him at the club for some time.

"How about the Everleigh-Joneses?" I asked. "Are they comfortable in their new house?"

Mr. Butt shook his head. "It won't do,' he said. "I was afraid of it from the first. I'm moving Jones in nearer to town. I've been out all morning looking for a apartmet; when I get the right one I shall move him. I like an apartment far better than a house."

So the Joneses in due course of time were moved. After that Mr. Butt was very busy selecting a piano, and advising them on wall paper and woodwork.

They were hardly settled in their new home when fresh trouble came to them.

"Have you heard about Everleigh-Jones?" said Mr. Butt one day with an anxious face.

"No," I answered.

"He's ill—some sort of fever—poor chap—been ill three days, and they never told me or sent for me—just like their grit—meant to fight it out alone. I'm going out there at once."

From day to day I had reports from Mr. Butt of the progress of Jones's illness.

"I sit with him every day," he said. "Poor chap,—he wa svery bad yesterday for a while,—mind wandered—quite delirious—I could hear him from the next room—seemed to think some one was hunting him—'Is that damn old fool gone,' I heard him say.

"I went in and soother him, 'There is no one here, my dear boy,' I said, 'no one, only Butt.' He turned over and groaned. Mrs. Jones begged me to leave him. 'You look quite used up,' shhe said. 'Go out into the open air.' 'My dear Mrs. Jones,' I said, 'what does it matter about me?"

"Yes," said Mr. Butt to me a few weeks later, "Jones is all right again now, but his illness has been a long hard pull. I haven't had an evening to myself since it began. But I'm paid, sir, now, mor ethan paid for anything I've done,—the gratitude of those two people—it's unbelievable—you ought to see it. Why do you know that dear little woman is so worried for fear that my strength has been overtaxed that she wants me to take a complete rest and go on a long trip somewhere—suggested first that I should go south.

"'My dear Mrs. Jones,' I said laughing, 'that's the one place I will not go. Heat is the one thing I can't stand.

"She wasn't nonplussed for a moment. 'Then go north,' she said. 'Go up to Canada, or better still go to Labrador,'—and in a minute that kind little woman was hunting up railway maps to see how far north I could get by rail. 'After that,' she said, 'you can go on snowshoes.' She's found that there's a steamer to Ungave every spring and she wants me to run up there on one steamer and come back on the next.

Gratitude Of Friends.

"It must be very gratifying," I said.

"Oh, it is ,it is," said Mr. Butt warmly. "It's well worth anything I do. It more than repays me. I'm alone in the world and my friends are all I have. I can't tell you how it goes to my heart when I think of all my friends, here in the club and in the town, always glad to see me, always protesting against my little kindnesses and yet never quite satisfied about anything unless they can get my advice and hear what I have to say.

"Take Jones for instance," he continued—"do you know, really now as a fact,—the hall porter assures me of it,—every time Everleigh-Jones enters the club here the first thing he does is to sing out, 'Is Mr. Butt i nthe club?' It warms me to think of it." Mr. Butt paused, one would have said there were tears in his eyes. But if so the kindly beam of his spectacles shone through them like the sun through April rain. He left me and passed into the cloak room.

He had just left the hall when a stranger entered, a narrow, meek man with a hunted face. He came in with a furtive step and looked about him apprehensively.

"Is Mr. Butt in the club?" he whispered to the hall porter.

"Yes, sir, he's just gone into the cloak room, sir, shall I——'

But the man had turned and made a dive for the front door and had vanished.

"Who is that?" I asked.

"That's a new member, sir. Mr. Everleigh-Jones," said the hall porter.

Who or What Tossed the Planets Into Space

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

"What causes the orbits of the planets to be elipses instead of circles?—J. E. H.,Somerville, Mass.

In answering this question it may be helpful if we first consider the relation of a circle to an ellipse. Many persons are astonished when told that a circle is only a particular case of an ellipse. That there is some close relationship between them must be evident to anyone who will cut a circle three or four inches in diameter out of cardboard and hold it at arm's length, viewing it first with its plane at right angles to the line of light, and then gradually turning it.

Its outline passes from a circle immediately into an ellipse, and the nearer its plane comes to being parallel to the line of sight the narrower the ellipse becomes. There are ovals which are not ellipses; but the outline of a circle when viewed in this way is a true ellipse.

The circle, the ellipse, the parabola and the hyperbola are all members of a family of curves called conic sections, because their shapes correspond with the outline of sections cut through a round-based cone, at different angles.

They are so related that a body travelling around a centre of gravitational attraction, as the planets travel around the sun, must not only move in one or the other of these curves, but the one that it actually does move in is determined by the velocity of the body and its mass, and distance when the motion begins. With change of velocity the revolving body may alter its path from one kind of cone section curve to another. Comets often alter the shape of their paths because some planet slows them up or hastens them on.

In order that a body may travel in a circle around the centre of force, it is necessary that its velocity be constant (steady, unchanging) and that the centrifugal force or tendency to fly off on a tangent shall at all times exactly balance the centripetal force, or the central attraction. Either increase or decrease the velocity, and the body will hange its path from a circle to an ellipse. With decreased velocity the elliptical path would fall inside the circle, with a major axis as long as the circle's diameter. With increased velocity, the ellipse would have a major axis greater than the circle's diameter. If the increase is so much that the velocity exceeds the circular velocity multiplied by the square foot of 2, the path, or orbit, passes from the form of an ellipse to that of a parabola, and then the body, instead of continuing to go round and round the centre of force, would pass away to an infinite distance.

The square root of 2 is the decimal 1.414. The earth's velocity in its orbit is about 18½ miles per second, nearly that which it would have if its orbit, instead of being slightly elliptical was a true circle. Suppose then, that the earth's velocity should be multiplied by 1.414, making it about 26.168 miles per second; this planet would thereupon be turned, as far as its orbit is concerned, into a large comet, traveling in a parabolic curve, and, unless saved by the interference of some big brother like Jupiter, it would have to say goodbye to the sun, and set its course away off through the interminable expanse of star-strewn space!

Let the velocity be still further increased, and another change would take place in the form of a hyperbola, the fourth kind of conic section curve, whose branches, like those of the parabola, never meet again, but unlike those of the parabola, continue forever to get wider and wider apart.

In all the calculations about the motions of the planets there is one thing which nobody pretends really to understand, and that is how the original motion that prevented them from falling straight into the sun was imparted.

There are some persons who would boldly declare that God, having decreed the law of central forces and created the sun, set his strength against gravitation and flung the planets like balls from his hand, taking delight in watching them obey the law by falling into their proper orbits. But the astronomer still tries to find out how and when it was done; and he will not be classed among sinners for his persistent curiosity.

Here and There

The Bok Inquisition.

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

Something must be done about this man Bok. He is a good deal more dangerous than the senators suspected, and heaven knows the senators did a pretty complete job of suspecting in this case. Bok knew that, too. But did it unnerve him? Was he ill at ease, or fidgety, or guiltly self-conscious when he appeared before the board of inquisition? Did he tremble at Reed's jovian glare? Was he confused by the indolent levity of Moses? Did he fret under Caraway's corkscrew questioning? Did he topple over in a dead faint when flailed by Greene's wrath?

The desperate truth might as well be told now as later. He was not awed. He wasn't even fussed. He was as smiling as a breeze, as unembarrassed as a hard-boiled egg. Such effrontery probably astounded the senators. It certainly played havoc with their plan of putting a cowering culprit on the griddle and chortling at his screams of pain.

Whatever unhappiness there was at the hearing the senators, not the witness, experienced it.

After all, though, what could be expected of a wretch who frankly wants to plunge the whole blooming world into a basin of peace and keep it there forever! If Bok had his way humanity would never again go through the agony and devastation and serried death of war. Such veiliany and such a villain seems to be too much for our senators to comprehend, to say nothing about chastising.

Yes, something must be done about this man Bok, but the senators, evidently, are not the chaps to do it; they emerged from the first encounter, bleeding, as the poet remarked, at every pore.

Nebraska's New Marriage Law.

OGALLALA, Neb., Feb. 9.

To the Editor of The Lincoln Star:

The jewelers of Nebraska are determined to make a concentrated effort to have Nebraska's new marriage law repealed, at the next session of the legislature.

The repeal of the new marriage law will be one of the most widely discussed subjects which will come up before the Nebraska's Retail Jewelers' association, which convees at Grand Island, Neb., Feb. 18-19, and 20.

The jewelers will be join d in their efforts, by the Hardware, Furniture and Clothing, and in fact, practically every state Mercantile organization.

The members of the Nebraska Retail Jewelers' association feel that the new marriage law is a very good law and that its intentions are perfectly alright; but, the law lacks what it was intended to accomplish, for the reason that about one-half of the marriages, which should be performed in this state are now performed in surrounding states and the couples return to Nebraska to live. It is estimated by the different state associations that the loss in business to the various merchants through this law has amounted to over $5,000,000 a year. This is based upon the number of Nebraska marriages which have been performed in neighboring states and the average amount spent by the couples outside of the home state. For instance, when a young couple is getting married they usually spend about $15 for a wedding ring; $100 for an engagement ring; $200 for clothes; a few dollars for flowers; $500 for furniture; $75 for a stove; $2 for marriage license; $15 to the minister and so on down the line. Thus it is that the county judge and the minister as well as the merchants are losing a great deal of money by the result of a law which our legislature had intended to be of benefit.

The merchants in Chadron, Neb., and other towns in the northern part of the state, report that almost every couples goes into Wyoming or South Dakota to be married. The same reports come from McCook and all along the southern part of the state. Sidney and Ogallala, report that the same is true in western Nebraska and the Omaha merchants, can prove that no one ever comes to Omaha to be married like they used to, but instead go on to Council Bluffs and spend their money for wedding gifts, clothing and household goods.

The merchants of Nebraska feel that the present Nebraska marriage law should be made a national law, which would equalize business in every state and would highly endorse any action by congress to that effect; but as it is now only effective in Nebraska it is doing more harm than good, to the young people and the merchants alike. For instance, there have been a great many cases where couples living in the central part of the state, wanted to get married and did not wish to wait ten days. The result was that the prospective groom took his small savings and his fiancee and bought two tickets to some other state and by the time he and his wife got back home they were "broke," and with nothing left to get a happy start in life. With a national law, instances similar to this would be averted. It is for this and many other reasons that the Nebraska Retail Jewelers' association feels that it is justified in asking the next Nebraska legislature to repeal the present marriage law.

Water Costs.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 9.—To the Editor of The Lincoln Star: Your issue recently contained a letter from Commissioner Schroder requesting those who are in favor of a larger and cheaper water supply for the city to submit their plans, so that they can be presented to the voters of the city at the spring election.

The commissioner must first furnish the information from his office that he has so far failed to supply. More than three weeks ago on the appearance in the press of his partial annual report showing that the department pumped 1,983,120,000 gallons of water that the department had also generated 6,286,770 K. W's. 3,504,352 of this went to pumping water. So far as the generating and pumping costs, the report was silent.

On reading the partial report the East Lincoln Civic league wrote a letter to the council asking the following questions.

1.—How many tons of coal were used in the department last year, and cost of same per ton.

2.—How many thousand gallons of fuel oil were used during the same period and the cost of same.

3.—What is it costing per thousand gallons to pump the city water.

4.—What is it costing per K. W. to put current on the switchboard.

The letter stated that in former years the department published all of this information in its annual report. No doubt all that will be necessary is to copy the figures from the record. After patiently waiting ten days for the answer, imagine our surprise to receive it through the press and by letter, saying "The office is now at work on the report," "when completed it will be given to the public."

We, of the East Lincoln league, with others, are wondering why this delay. If the commissioner has the figures, what is his purpose in not submitting them at once.

If they have not yet completed them, is the public not entitled to know the reason why. And, if the commissioner doest not know the actual cost, how is he himself prepared to give this information to others.

The letter of the commissioner published in Wednesday evening's paper calls for an answer to another question. How many gallons per day are furnished the city for which there is no direct charge made by the water department.

When these facts are made known to the public they will be able to form a more intelligent opinion as to supplying cheaper water to the manufacturing concerns that employ labor.

His statement that the reduction of rates to the large consumers will cause an increase of rates to the small consumer, is without any foundation whatever.

The city has a generating capacity of 4,000 K. W.'s per hour which would make 35,040,000 K. W.'s in one year while the January report of this year shows that the department had generated only ,288,770 K. W.'s last year.

Ite can readily be seen with all the machinery installed the coal automatically fed to the boiler, the crew of men paid for full time, all of the overhead charges are provided for, except a very small fraction of a per cent for wear and tear on the machinery and the addition of a lubricating oil, thus it will be seen that the only added cost to pump one or two million gallons more per day would be the only added cost oif fuel.

This will show how additional water for manufacturing can be sold cheap and yet, at a profit to the city without in any way interfering with the cost to the small consumer.

This city should supply such a water system of good pure water that a shortage should never occur, as every time the public is notified, to be sparing of the water it injures the reputation of our city, which is absolutely unnecessary if properly provided for.

When all the facts are made known to the public they will be better qualified to decide on what is best for the welfare of our beautiful vity.

EAST LINCOLN LEAGUE.
By JOSEPH BURNS.

Was Disappointed.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 9.

To the Editor of The Lincoln Star:

Arriving in Lincoln early Sunday morning and not leaving until evening and being a stranger in the city and after reading and hearing that our war-time president was nearer death's door, I felt that I wanted to go somewhere and hear encouraging words of faith and comfort for I felt as one personally bereaved and my party animosities were forgotten in the tragedy going on in Washington at that hour. Although, I regret to say, I rarely enter a church, I attended one. I do not recall just what the minister gave such a lengthy talk about. I do recall that he rebuked some small children very sharply for not paying strict atttention to what he was saying.

Did I hear anything that I had hoped to hear? I did not. Not a word or a thought to show that the man in the pulpit had ever heard of a man by the name of Woodrow Wilson. He even avoided in his prayer 'a prayer for the sick and afflicted wherever they may be' as I thought is customary among preachers of the land.

I came out of that church feeling—well, I won't say. READER.

Fines For Thrift.

(Nebraska City Press.)

Consider your tax system for a few moments, a method of collecting revenues that has been in vogue in every state in the Union since the Government was founded, with additions, alterations and repairs that have merely added insult to injury.

You buy a piece of property, a house for instance, and it is valued at, say, $5,000. Within the course of a few years you decide your domicile is not large enough, so you engage a carpenter, add a new front porch, a bath-room or a garage. You paint it and lay new walks, not forgetting a little ornament shrubbery.

Along comes the tax assessor. He sees your improvements, makes a note of it in the little black book and your new assessment valuation is $7,500 instead of $5,000. For your thrift you have been fined.

Across the street is a vacant lot, devoted to juvenile pastime, tin can culture and weeds. The owner bought it for $600, say, a few years ago and is holding it for the inevitable "rise," an increase in value which cannot come unless his neighbors, including you, show progress and a spirit of civic unselfishness through painting and remodeling their properties. His valuation remains practically unchanged because he has not added anything to the property, but you and your neighbors are pecuniarly penalized because you have shown thrift and improved your homes.

We fine men in Nebraska for becoming intoxicated, for selling liquor, for petty larceny, for exceeding the speed limit, for beating their children or neglecting their family responsibilities—and FOR IMPROVING THEIR HOMES!

Neglected Opportunity.

(Howells Journal.)

There is a wonderful amount of water power in Nebraska, the major portion of which is going to waste. The streams that are capable of turning endless factory wheels and generating electric current for light and power are flowing on unharnessed when they could be the means by which towns, cities and farms might be lighted from one end of the state to the other. It surely is an opportunity that should not longer be neglected.

Need New Start.

(Kearney Hub.)

Witnesses at the Salt Lake hearing before the federal fact-finding commission declare that reclamation under the government projects in western Nebraska and eastern Wyoming has been a failure. It is evident that a new start will have to be made, with extensions and numerous concessions, to prevent the ruin of hundreds of reclamation farmers.

Nebraskan, Who Has Lived 33 Years in Yukon Valley, Says Alaska Land of Wonderous Beauty

'Tis a land of sunshine and flowers.
Of ice and glistening snows.
A paradise God has made ours,
Where the cup of earth's beauty o'erflows.

'Tis a land where great mountains nestle
Rivers that flow, God knows where.
'Tis a land that bespeaks the celestial,
'Tis home—and I wish I were there.

BY J. MARR McGAFFIN.

That is Alaska and home as it is known to Joseph B. Quigley, former Nebraska man who has spent thirty-three years in that little known land of promise and who is now visiting in his native state for the first time since he entered the Yukon Valley in 1891.

He is now spending a few weeks in Lincoln with his cousin J. T Quigley, 1635 South Twenty-second street. He formerly lived in Surprise, Neb.

A tiny log cabin that nestles among the rugged foot hills of Mt. McKinley has been the home of Mr. and Mrs. Quigley for the past twenty years. Down the slope a few hundred yards is the opening of the gold and silver mine which Mr. Quigley has worked for a number of years, for he is a veteran prospector and miner, having gone into that land of fortunes before the Dawson and the famous Klondike gold rush.

"The ore which comes from that mine is worth from $150 to $200 a ton. Outside of Alaska that is considered a pretty good average.

Railroads Big Asset.

However, we have to ship the ore in order that the mineral may be obtained. Before the advent of the railroad it was necessary to haul the ore thirty miles over land to the Yukon river where it was taken to the states. But since the coming of the railroads we haul it ninety miles to the nearest station. Even though the haul is sixty miles farther the returns from the shipments come sooner. For instance, when it was sent by water it would sometimes be a year before we would get our pay, but by rail we hear of its value within ninety days."

Mr. Quigley was the discoverer of the Kantishna fields which for years yielded large returns from the placer mines. Later he prospected and discovered the quartz mines where he is now operating.

"How did I happen to go to Alaska?" Well when I was a boy I loved the great outdoors and at that time Alaska offered everything my heart could desire. I shipped from Seattle, Ore. and landed in Juneau, Alaska in 1891. I was alone at the time but soon picked up with an old prospector who was headed for the interior. He took me with him and we hired a little craft and went up the coast. Thence by land to the Yukon, down which we floated. We crossed the famous Chilcoot Pass when it was hardly known and from there went into the Kantishna country. From that time on I have remained in that district except for an outfitting trip once a year to Fairbanks."

Land of the Yukon.

"When Mrs. Quigley and I came out last summer it was the first time I had seen the coast in thirty years." The trip took five days and we had to hike ninety miles on foot with the team of huskies to carry the baggage. Lonesome? Well, yes at first. But now we are settled and are no more lonesome than you of the states with all your theaters and modern conveniences. At first we were practically the only human beings in that part of the country but now it is building up and we have next door neighbors within visiting distance.

"No the hiking was not so hard on us but we were certainly nervous wrecks when we reached the states. Of course we knew what to expect in the way of modern things for we had read of the wonderful things that were going on in the states and had seen them in moving pictures. But it was the noise! It was terrible! We had not expected that. It was nerve-wrecking. I though I would never live through it at first. It is also gloriously calm and still back home among those towering rugged mountains and peaceful valleys.

"Theaters? Yes we have them although not quite like some I have seen here. But Fairbanks has its moving picture shows. You are surprised? Well, most of the folks in the states are I find. That is what has been grating on my feelings ever since we arrived."

Alaska Misrepresented.

"Alaska has been misrepresented." It is loked upon here as a cold, ice bound, barren land when it really is a glorious land of continual warmth and sunshine, at least for half the year. And the long nights with their forty and sixty belows is more than made up for by the wonderous beauty of those snow-clad mountains, aflame with the twilight rays of a fading sun, during the other half."

Land of Lasting Twilight

"No it never gets really dark. In the winter we live in a continual twilight. It doesn't interfere with the work. In fact the greater part of the work on the mines is done in the winter months. The ground is frozen then and there is not so much danger of slides."

"The cold isn't as bad as it sounds either. I felt it more this afternoon when I came up town than I have when the thermometer registered 40 below back home. The air is dry there and the cold doesn't penetrate!

"But the wonder of Alaska is its summers. The 'land of the midnight sun' it has been called but even that picturesque phrase only begins to describe its real glory. Yes, it gets pretty warm, in fact hot.

"It isn't unusual for the mercury to touch the 90 or 100 degree above mark. It is a land of dreams for the farmer as sure as it has been for the miners. The vegetables grown in our own patch have anything surpassed that I have seen in the states. Celery, lettuce, tomatoes, strawberries, raspberries, potatoes and all the others are far from being luxuries in Alaska."

"I can see more varieties of wild flowers in a walk from the house to the mine than you can find here between New York and San Francisco. Until I went to Alaska I never knew there were so many wild flowers in the world. The for-get-me-nots, blue-bells and a kind of wild daisy are especially beautiful."

Many Fertile Valleys.

"Alaska as is represented here as being a barren land, its value lying only in its gold and silver deposits. This is very untrue. In the first place they do not realize the vastness of that north country and second they do not think of the great expanse of fertile valley land along the many rivers. Many of these valleys are from 80 to 100 miles wide. Every acre of that land is capable of producing from 30 to 40 bushels of wheat. Much of it is doing just that now. Of course with the scant railroad service it is difficult to get it out of the country so most of the grain is used for supplying the needs of the interior."

"Farming might be considered rather extensive around Fairbanks. There the farmers have consolidated and have built mills where the grain is turned into various food products. Probably the whole demand of that territory is supplied by those mills. Think of the possibilities if all the land were utilized and railroad facilities were such that the grain could be taken to the coast conveniently."

"The climate and the coolness of the nights of course delays the growth of the grain but it is seldom that a frost comes before harvest. Planting time is usually between the fourteenth and twenty-fourth of May and the harvests usually start about the first of September."

Dream of Aaskans.

"It is the dream of many Alaskans," said Mr. Quigley, "that that country will some day replace the states in supplying small grains to the Orient. The first part of that dream was realized when the first railroad was built. As we see it up there Alaska has a great advantage over the states in that the cost of transportation will be much less. With good railroad facilities it could be hauled to the seaports at a much less expense than it can be carried from the central states to Seattle where it is loaded on the ships bound for the Orient. There is nothing to hinder this dream coming true except that lack of confidence and realization of Alaska's true worth which seems to prevail here. That too will be overcome in time."

"The continual coal difficulties here are, however, a bon and an aid to Alaska. This country is not dependent on the mines to furnish the supply. The north land is literally made of coal. I have seen veins of coal not so far from my home that stand out like cliffs, 200 feet high. Again it is the lack of railroads that is holding back the development of these treasures.

"Even under the difficulties which it is mined and transported the best coal sells for $7 a ton on the coast. Think what could be done if the production were increased and better transportation facilities provided." But we are optimistic up there. The truth will out. Alaska will come into her own and the Klondike rush will be among the "mere mentions" compared to the one that will take place when it does."

Show Interest In the States.

"But even though you of the states show little interest in Alaska we have an intense interest in everything that you do. Even politics is attractive to us and though we do not have a direct vote, being still a territory, we discuss its developments with possibly as much fervor and enthusiasm as you do here. Often times we take straw votes on some of the big issues and decide the thing for ourselves.

"These straw votes are often taken more seriously than the right to vote is here." Alaska once had a hope of being a state in the near future but that has been dimmed and we have to be content with what we have and trust to an awakening the nation.

In speaking of some of the political difficulties which must be faced, Mr. Quigley pointed out that the territory's representation at Washington

WOMEN'S OLDEST HYGIENIC PROBLEM solved now in a New way ....scientifically

Exquisiteness Under Circumstances Once Considered Impossible

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Graduate Nurse

EIGHT in every ten women in the better walks of life have turned to a new way in personal hygiene. And have found comfort, daintiness and peace of mind impossible under old conditions.

This new way is called Kotex. And a test is offered you without charge. Simply mail the coupon below.

What Kotex Is

Kotex is a scientifically developed super-absorbent taking up 16 times its own weight. And absorbs instantly—retaining moisture against all fear of accident. It has 5 times the absorbency of ordinary cotton sanitary pads.

Then it is easily disposed of—a new feature every woman will appreciate.

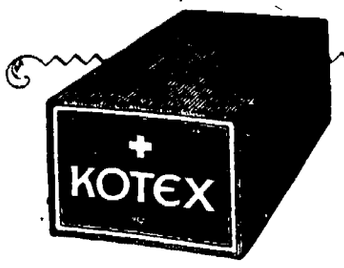

It is sold in all department and drug stores; two sizes—Kotex regular and Kotex-Super (extra thickness). Also in Kotex cabinets in rest rooms.

A Test Free

As a national hygienic measure, I have prevailed upon the Kotex laboratories to offer women, generally, a test package of Kotex without charge.

So I urge you to send me, personally, the coupon below. And I will send you, in plain, absolutely unmarked wrapper, a trial packet. Clip the coupon now before you forget.

Nebraskan, Who Has Lived 33 Years in Yukon Valley, Says Alaska Land of Wonderous Beauty

'Tis a land of sunshine and flowers.
Of ice and glistening snows;
A paradise God has made ours,
Where the cup of earth's beauty o'erflows.

'Tis a land where great mountains nestle
Rivers that flow, God knows where.
'Tis a land that bespeaks the celestial,
'Tis home—and I wish I were there.

BY J. MARR McGAFFIN.

That is Alaska and home as it is known to Joseph B. Quigley, former Nebraska man who has spent thirty-three years in that little known land of promise and who is now visiting in his native state for the first time since he entered the Yukon Valley in 1891.

He is now spending a few weeks in Lincoln with his cousin J. T. Quigley, 1635 South Twenty-second street. He formerly lived in Surprise, Neb.

A tiny log cabin that nestles among the rugged foot hills of Mt. McKinley has been the home of Mr. and Mrs. Quigley for the past twenty years. Down the slope a few hundred yards is the opening of the gold and silver mine which Mr. Quigley has worked for a number of years, for he is a veteran prospector and miner, having gone into that land of fortunes before the Dawson and the famous Klondike gold rush.

"The ore which comes from that mine is worth from $150 to $200 a ton. Outside of Alaska that is considered a pretty good average.

Railroads Big Asset.

However, we have to ship the ore in order that the mineral may be obtained. Before the advent of the railroad it was necessary to haul the ore thirty miles over land to the Yukon river where it was taken to the states. But since the coming of the railroads we haul it ninety miles to the nearest station. Even though the haul is sixty miles farther the returns from the shipments come sooner. For instance, when it was sent by water it would sometimes be a year before we would get our pay, but by rail we hear of its value within ninety days."

Mr. Quigley was the discoverer of the Kantishna fields which for years yielded large returns from the placer mines. Later he prospected and discovered the quartz mines where he is now operating.

"How did I happen to go to Alaska?" Well when I was a boy I loved the great outdoors and at that time Alaska offered everything my heart could desire. I shipped from Seattle, Ore. and landed in Juneau, Alaska in 1891. I was alone at the time but soon picked up with an old prospector who was headed for the interior. He took me with him and we hired a little craft and went up the coast. Thence by land to the Yukon, down which we floated. We crossed the famous Chilcoot Pass when it was hardly known and from there went into the Kantishna country. From that time on I have remained in that district except for an outfitting trip once a year to Fairbanks."

Land of the Yukon.

"When Mrs. Quigley and I came out last summer it was the first time I had seen the coast in thirty years." The trip took five days and we had to hike ninety miles on foot with the team of huskies to carry the baggage. Lonesome? Well, yes at first. But now we are settled and are no more lonesome than you of the states with all your theaters and modern conveniences. At first we were practically the only human beings in that part of the country but now it is building up and we have next door neighbors within visiting distance.

"No the hiking was not so hard on us but we were certainly nervous wrecks when we reached the states. Of course we knew what to expect in the way of medern things for we had read of the wonderful things that were going on in the states and had seen them in moving pictures. But it was the noise! It was terrible! We had not expected that. It was nerve-wrecking. I though I would never live through it at first. It is so gloriously calm and still back home among those towering rugged mountains and peaceful valleys.

"Theaters? Yes we have them although not quite like some I have seen here. But Fairbanks has its moving picture shows. You are surprised? Well, most of the folks in the states are I find. That is what has been grating on my feelings ever since we arrived."

Alaska Misrepresented.

"Alaska has been misrepresented!" It is loked upon here as a cold, ice bound, barren land when it really is a glorious land of continual warmth and sunshine, at least for half the year. And the long nights with their forty and sixty belows is more than made up for by the wonderous beauty of those snow-clad mountains, aflame with the twilight rays of a fading sun, during the other half."

Land of Lasting Twilight

"No it never gets really dark. In the winter we live in a continual twilight. It doesn't interfere with the work. In fact the greater part of the work on the mines is done in the winter months. The ground is frozen then and there is not so much danger of slides."

"The cold isn't as bad as it sounds either. I felt it more this afternoon when I came up town than I have when the thermometer registered 40 below back home. The air is dry there and the cold doesn't penetrate!

"But the wonder of Alaska is its summers. The 'land of the midnight sun' it has been called but even that picturesque phrase only begins to describe its real glory. Yes, it gets pretty warm, in fact hot.

"It isn't unusual for the mercury to touch the 90 or 100 degree above mark. It is a land of dreams for the farmer as sure as it has been for the miners. The vegetables grown in our own patch have anything surpassed that I have seen in the states. Celery, lettuce, tomatoes, strawberries, raspberries, potatoes and all the others are far from being luxuries in Alaska."

"I can see more varieties of wild flowers in a walk from the house to the mine than you can find here between New York and San Francisco. Until I went to Alaska I never knew there were so many wild flowers in the world. The for-get-me-nots, blue-bells and a kind of wild daisy are especially beautiful."

Many Fertile Valleys.

"Alaska as is represented here as being a barren land, its value lying only in its gold and silver deposits. This is very untrue. In the first place they do not realize the vastness of that north country and second they do not think of the great expanse of fertile valley land along the many rivers. Many of these valleys are from 80 to 100 mies wide. Every acre of that land is capable of producing from 30 to 40 bushels of wheat. Much of it is doing just that now. Of course with the scant railroad service it is difficult to get it out of the country so most of the grain is used for supplying the needs of the interior."

"Farming might be considered rather extensive around Fairbanks. There the farmers have consolidated and have built mills where the grain is turned into various food products. Probably the whole demand of that territory is supplied by those mills. Think of the possibilities if all the land were utilized and railroad facilities were such that the grain could be taken to the coast conveniently."

"The climate and the coolness of the nights of course delays the growth of the grain but it is seldom that a frost comes before harvest. Planting time is usually between the fourteenth and twenty-fourth of May and the harvests usually start about the first of September."

Dream of Aaskans.

"It is the dream of many Alaskans," said Mr. Quigley, "that that country will some day replace the states in supplying small grains to the Orient. The first part of that dream was realized when the first railroad was built. As we see it up there Alaska has a great advantage over the states in that the cost of transportation will be much less. With good railroad facilities it could be hauled to the seaports at a much less expense than it can be carried from the central states to Seattle where it is loaded on the ships bound for the Orient. There is nothing to hinder this dream coming true except that lack of confidence and realization of Alaska's true worth which seems to prevail here. That too will be overcome in time."

"The continual coal difficulties here are, however, a bon and an aid to Alaska. This country is not dependent on the mines to furnish the supply. The north land is literally made of coal. I have seen veins of coal not so far from my home that stand out like cliffs, 200 feet high. Again it is the lack of railroads that is holding back the development of these treasures.

"Even under the difficulties which it is mined and transported the best coal sells for $7 a ton on the coast. Think what could be done if the production were increased and better transportation facilities provided." But we are optimistic up there. The truth will out. Alaska will come into her own and the Klondike rush will be among the "mere mentions" compared to the one that will take place when it does."

Show Interest In the States.

"But even though you of the states show little interest in Alaska we have an intense interest in everything that you do. Even politics is attractive to us and though we do not have a direct vote, being still a territory, we discuss its developments with possibly as much fervor and enthusiasm as you do here. Often times we take straw votes on some of the big issues and decide the thing for ourselves.

"These straw votes are often taken more seriously than the right to vote is here." Alaska once had a hope of being a state in the near future but that has been dimmed and we have to be content with what we have and trust to an awakening the nation.

In speaking of some of the political difficulties which must be faced, Mr. Quigley pointed out that the territory's representation at Washington

Minerva's Mail

Take Your Troubles to Minerva

Is the dance hall a case of greed fostering and fattening on the social hunger of the young? Dare we judge the dance by its fruits, even as a tree is known? Do we "call evil good and good evil?" These and other pertinent questions are asked by "Ardent" in a letter today—Some splendid advice on how to avoid the rocks that wreck matrimony is given and a shockingly frivolous letter is discussed.

It Is To Think.

"Woe unto them that call evil good and good evil." So prophesied Isaiah many years ago, and so quoted our wise and always welcome contributor "Ardent" in a comprehensive letter today. Surely a modern interpretation of this sage prophecy causes all us worldlings to reflect seriously. And certainly the pat and pithy paragrams of "Ardent" give us serious thought also.

"If a tree is known by its fruit, shall not the dance and drink evil be known by the same?," she asks. Other thought-impelling high lights in her letter are:

"The loveability of an individual can never prove the righteousness of an idea."

"Peoople who charm and delight may have ideas hidden in the labyrinth of their minds utterly wrong and repellent."

"Worldliness and righteousness are never bed fellows and boon companions."

"Abraham Lincoln was not actuated by any such sordid, selfish motives as the 'personal liberty folks display."

But read the letter in its entirety and let us have more discussions, please.

Dear Minerva: I trust this sudden relapse to the use of a pen will not prove the annoyance to you that it is to me. It seems so tedious and slow, so unsatisfactory altogether; but I've worn out my ribbon, and typewriter ribbons don't grow on bushes out here in this snow-bound territory, where everything, as far as eye can see, is an expense of white—white earth melting into an equally white sky, with the horizon scarcely distinguishable.

I want to address a few belated remarks to Marie Louise, who reminds me of a Christmas cactus, blooming but once a year. She seemeth to meditate upon mine iniquities day and night. She heapeth her scorn upon mine head. She annoiteth me with the oil of animosity from the overflowing vials of her wrath. Her cup of indignation runneth over. She findeth delight in heaping the coals of criticism upon me in her sore displeasure. Surely her typewriter rageth. Incline thine ear unto my words, oh, Marie, and harken unto me. Methinks, like Shakespeare, thou speakest an infinite deal of nothing more than any man in all Venice; thy reasons are as two grains of wheat hid in two bushels of chaff; one must seek all day ere one finds them, and when found, they are not worth the search.

Hark ye, Marie. If you could prove that I was "pious and sanctimonious," a hypocrite, intolerant, or any of the rest of the things mine adversaries hurl against me—yea, even if you could prove that I was a chicken-thief, a bank robber, a bomb-thrower, or what not,—how could that affect the question at issue, which appears to be "personal liberty?"

Tell me I am a sinner, and I will not take issue with you. The Bible supports that contention. "For there is none righteous, no, not one, save Jesus only." "If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us." "If we say that we have not sinned we make him a liar, and his word is not in us." Sin hath dominion over every human being, and the thralldom lessens its intensity only when we become Christians, and even then the battle against sin must rage in us until we put off this earthly tabernacle. However, my own faults, vices, defects, imperfections, and shortcomings do not happen to be the issue. Calling attention to mine imperfections is like sending out a smoke screen to camouflage the real issue, which is ideas and ideals, their righteousness or their lack of harmony with Christian ideals.

Ideas may be altogether wrong, while the people who possess the idea may be both charming and loveable. The loveability of the individual can never prove the righteousness of an idea. Satan, you know, was very magnanimous when he offered Christ all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them if He would only fall down and worship him, but Jesus was influenced not a whit by the seeming magnanimity.

I have met lovely people, people my soul delighted in, and honored and trusted and admired—yet hidden away in the labyrinth of their mind were ideas that were utterly wrong and repellent when measured by the standard Christ gave us. Only a few mornings ago I met a man who impressed me as a sincere, earnest, well-conversation, pleasant and affable in manner, yet he had some ideas that were flat contradictions of scripture.

St. Paul recognized this battle of ideas, for he wrote to the Ephesians: "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spirited wickedness in high places."

Against wrong ideas and wrong ideals, and the weapon to be used was "the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." It seemeth to me this two-edged sword must have drawn blood from certain of the enemy, else they would not try to justify themselves by dodging the real issue. You have edified our souls with an enumeration of the sins of the "pious and sanctimonious." I once knew a young man, Marie, who would fly into a rage and beat his horse over the head because the horse refused to take the bit. I used to think he was something of a heathen, but since you have enlightened us as to the way piety manifests itself, I know now he must have been a very pious young man. Hitherto, I had been inclined to doubt his piety, as he never went to church or prayer-meeting, (though he went frequently enough to dances). Otherwise I might have told you that the brand of piety you mentioned bears about the same relation to righteousness that the anti-Volstead kind of liberty bears to true liberty, being in either case but a counterfeit of the genuine. If piety is manifested by the poisoning of the neighbor's dog, the beheading of their cats, and the beating horses to death, I know nothing about that kind of piety, and I hope it won't invade his neighborhood. It is my personal and private opinion, Marie, that some people don't know the difference between the kind of "personal liberty" contended for by the worshippers of that defunct old saint (?), John Barleycorn and the true liberty, which is "the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free." But if being held in bondage in galling chains of ignorance and helplessness by an injurious and degrading appetite is personal liberty you can have all or as much of it as Uncle Sam will permit, only I hope there will be a law providing for the sounding of your klaxon, so I can get out of your way and give you all the road.

I quite understand it is chiefly my views on dancing that excite your ire. But has it occurred to you that I am one of many, many thousands who hold these views? And do you not think you are overestimating my capability when you assume that one little unit of this world's teeming millions can so influence the rest of the mere expression of her opinion as to "Abridge and destroy other people's liberties?" It is to laugh; it is indeed, to laugh. But to call your little bluff:—I am sure and certain the law gives me the same right to denounce the dance that it gives youo to defend it. In airing my views I have not overstepped my rights by the fraction of an inch. Nor can the unreasonable charge of intolerance be proven, for I have never yet advocated the suppression of the right of anyone to the free expression of their individual opinion. If hating, having contempt for, or holding in derision those who hold opposing views is intolerance, then I dare to affirm that some of my opponents have exhibited no small degree of intolerance themselves, and the assumption of tolerance deceives no one. Nay more, loath as I am to add fuel to the fire, I maintain that I not only have a right to express my views, but there is no law which demands that I refrain from believing that worldliness and righteousness are never bed-fellows and boon companions. Have we not been told that no man can serve two masters without hating the one and loving the other?

It may be, Marie, that dancing-schools and dance-halls are indispensable features of our modern civilization, but I maintain their influence interferes with the growth of Christianity. It may be they are operated purely for unselfish and benevolent reasons, but I doubt it. It may be that the commercializing of social pleasures is not a case of greed fostering and fattening on the social hunger of the young, but I have my honest doubts about it. It may be that those who oppose the dance are "pious and sanctimonious hypocrites," but candidly, Marie, I doubt it. (Rather a queer sort of hypocrisy, I think, that comes out into the open and dares the scorn of those who differ.) And while I agree with you that one may find hypocrites in every church, I think there is fewer than is commonly believed, and the word is frequently overworked, especially by unqualified self-appointed judges, and many a charge of hypocrisy could not be sustained.

Regarding the "personal liberty" issue, it may be that those of John Barylcorn's adherents, who resist the law and shoot down the representatives of the law, are demonstrating the righteousness of their cause, sounding the "battle cry of freedom!" and fighting for liberty, but I am thrice a skeptic. Maybe they are "doing unto others as they would like others to do unto them," but I doubt it. Maybe they are "letting their lights so shine that others may see their good works and glorify the Father," but I doubt it.

Maybe I don't read my Bible right, but it seemes to me the "brother's keeper" idea was deeply entrenched in the minds of all the disciples of Jesus. Abraham Lincoln, the most loveable character in American history, was not actuated by any such sorbid, selfish motives as the "personal liberty" folk display. He waged a righteous warfare, not in behalf of himself, but to break the shackles that held the negro in slavery. The "brother's keeper" idea was a strong impelling force in the background. Lincoln was the prototype of prohibition, a later giant that struck off the chains that enslaved many. Yesterday, while reading the prophecies of Isaiah, I ran across a few verses that almost seemed as though the prophet was painting at present-day affairs in the moral world. He said: "Woe unto them that call evil good, and good for evil: that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet and sweet for ritter. Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own slight. Woe unto them that are mighty to drink wine, and men of strength to mingle strong drink; which justify the wicked for reward, and take away the righteousness of the righteous from him. Therefore, as the fire devoureth the stubble, and the flame consumeth the chaff, so their root shall be as rottenness, and their blossom shall go up as dust; because they have cast away the law of the Lord of hosts, and despised the word of the Holy One of Israel." I prithee, Marie, of whom speaketh the prophet thus? "Woe to them that call evil good and good evil." If a tree is known by its fruit, shall not the dance and the drink evil be known by the same? The stench of the one must have reached to the inner courts of High Heaven. The other may, for aught we know, also have a day of reckoning ahead, in the future. There is a diversity of opinion about the judgement day of latter. Being the lesser of two evils it will probably escape banishment, so cheer up, Marie.

But don't you think it is folly to declare these things are not evils, when the one had to be outlawed, and the other has constantly to be under regulatory rules and police supervision?—ARDENT.

Avoid the Rocks.

Dear Minerva: May I express myself through your columns and suggest to the married or unmarried men how I think the ship of matrimony may not go upon the rocks.

There are hundreds of homes which are rendered unhappy and in many senses miserable, because of the neglect and want which are due wholly to the selfishness and lack of consideration upon the part of the husband.

If you wish to preserve and perpetuate that which is the noblest and best in your life and your children you can only do so by making your home the center of your thought, and by making your loved ones the sharers of your purse and your pleasures.

If you wish them to live for your comfort and happiness, they have an equal right to expect you to live and sacrifice for their comfort and happiness.

Almost any promising bride can soon be made an ill-tempered wife, a discontented home-keeper and an indifferent mother by a nimprovident selfish, extravagant and neglectful husband.

In most instances ruined homes come principally from drink, idleness, bad temper, shiftlessness and thriftless habits, brutal husbands, slatternly wives and Christless living.

Do your duty faithfully to your wife and children, and then, if home and happiness are wrecked, the responsibility will not rest on you.

Be devoted. Keep up your courtship.

Remember the little attentions which gave you pleasure months and perhaps years ago simply because you knew they were a source of pleasure to the one whom you coveted as your bride and companion for life.

How can your wife love and respect you if you neglect and forsake?

During your courtship, the club, the society of others had to accept second place.

You preferred her company to that of all others.

If you are to her and she is to you what each should be, this preference of the one for the society and companionship of the other will continue throughout life.

Your home will be your club-house. No society, gilded hall with its lounging company, will be able to attract you from her or your home.

Now, we would not seem to indicate that the only proper place for husband is in the house—that he should not go out in the evenings for diversion, social fellowship or recreation.

Not at all. These things are often necessary for his health, the happiness and the well being of the wife as th ehusband. If he seeks diversion in the evenings, let it be where his wife may accompany him and share whatever benefits he enjoys.

If the family duties or the care of the children render it impossible for both to leave home at the same time, then manifestly it is the duty of the husband to divide the advantuges and the disadvantages with his wife, and if the husband has the true spirit, the privilege of frequently remaining at home to spend the evening with the children will afford more pleasures and more profit than can be secured elsewhere.

Last but not least you cannot afford to neglect the spiritual side of life, which is the highest and best of your three-fold nature. A Christian is the highest type of manhood and you owe it to your wife and children, as well as yourself and to your Master, to be satisfied nothing short short of this.

Just what does she mean by attractive men?

Most girls prefer a handsome man, but a great many of such men are wolves in sheep clothing.

I sympathize with you for I've been through the ordeal, but look again for the true Christian man for as I've said before it is the highest type of manhood.—HERSCHEL.

Not Worth While.

Dear Minerva: This is my first time to ask you for advice but I have read your mail for some time. I have been married for twelve years and we are about to separate as I don't see any other way. We have two children the youngest being six years old. While I care for the children I do not care to be a drudge of a housewife. I like to do things away from home. I do not like to cook or sew or wash dishes. My husband does make a very large salary and I am forced to give up the things which mean so much to me. About a year ago I secured a position with a concern which kept me down town late at night and I hired a girl to look after the children as my husband's work kept him away. He is a very strong-minded person and insisted on me quitting my job and doing my work at home. But if I did, Minevra, he would not be able to meet my demands and so I kept on working.

He says he would love me just the same if I didn't get a marcel when I needed it but I don't think he would for he does not flatter me like other men and these things help to make me attractive.

About six months ago I came in contact with a man about twenty years older than I but he is such a different kind of a man. He just keeps on admiring all my qualities and thinks I have a miserable life. He is married also but does not love his wife as he does me. She lives in another town. He is so attractive and such a good mixer. I have gone riding with him a number of times after work at night. Now my husband has become suspicious and accuses me of flirting with other men; also he says he had heard I was out with this other man and is going to find out if it is true. I don't know whether to tell him or not for it might cause trouble with this other man. Now what I want to know is what I am to do. Shall I go to my husband and tell him the truth, whether I gain or lose? Or shall I go on and not tell him I am afraid he does know or he wouldn't accuse me. Please answer me. — GYPSY QUEEN.

A. You are certainly—to use an expressive slang phrase—riding for a fall. You have listened to the flattery of men and it has turned your head so completely that you have lost all sight of the value of your husband's love and of your home. These things

DEAR READERS: This week has been so much fun for me! Among other things, I bought a hat and coat for a lady who wrote to say they were exactly what she wanted, and I bought some material for someone else to make a new spring dress. I haven't heard from her, but I'm sure she'll be pleased because it was such pretty goods. Let me do something for you. PATRICIA-ANN.

New and Interesting Favors at Ward-Warner's.

Approaching spring parties bring thoughts of favors and entertainment that are not old and time-worn. A great variety of favors and ideas for decorations for spring parties, announcement parties and banquets, may be had at the Ward-Warner Gift Shop. Very clever Oriental score pads make pretty prizes for the high score at Mah-Jongg parties. There is a new system for progressing in bridge called the Every-Player-Your-Partner System that is very attractive and is being shown at the Ward-Warner Gift Shop.

In the hairdressing parlor at Ben Simon's you'll find a complete line of transformations for remarkably low prices. They will be glad to talk to you about them.

Health of Families Depends on Housewife.

Isn't it rather overwhelming when we housewives realize that the health of our families depends entirely upon us? Ventilation, clean houses, clothing, and most important of all, healthful food, is dependent upon our judgment. A very important item of food is milk, for if it is not sanitary it can do unbounded harm. There is a dairy in Lincoln that prides itself on its sanitary milk and milk products, and that is Robert's Sanitary Dairy. You may rest assured that you are getting clean food if it comes from Roberts's.

Use Discrimination In Ordering Canned Food.

The successful hostess, who thinks of the happy guests who have enjoyed what they have just eaten, the fastidious housewife who won't buy anything but the best of everything for her table, and the careful mother who thinks of the health of her children, soon learn the dependable brands of canned goods. There are three brands which stamp the food they cover as excellent quality; they are Grainger, Nebia and Forest City brands. Tomorrow when you 'phone your order to your grocer, specify one of these brands and I know you'll be delighted with the flavor and quality of the food you get.

Did you try the large cans of fruit at the Grand Grocery? I did and they're fine. You'll be pleased, too. I'm sure.

Furs Work in Nicely With New Spring Shades

The well-dressed woman has not a conglomeration of colors to detract from her appearance, but endeavors to have her shoes, gloves, hat and furs, either of the same shade, or of blending colors, being careful that nothing clashes. This is the season when we can wear suits and collarettes with effect.

Roman Striped Scarfs And Fringed Squares Popular This Season.

Women of fashion are wearing Chinese, Spanish, Russian and plain fringed squares and the Roman striped scarfs which show that we are not so far from the days of the shawl and the bonnet. The Spanish "mantons" are much in demand in Havana, and there are plenty to be had, but the price is usually prohibitive, because the fringe is so heavy that many of the wraps weigh as much as a fur coat.

Delicious Candy at The Sugar Bowl.

Angel Food Taffy made from the purest butter, cream and sugar is handled exclusively at the Sugar Bowl. Delicious light and dark chocolates, bitter whip and all standard flavors in chocolates may be found there also. Try some.

This is a Secret.

This secret is like a lunch of onions—don't breath it to a soul! But the lady next door asked if I knew why the clerks all laughed when she told them, as she was buying a set of Mah-Jongg, that she didn't want to be partial, so she'd like to look at a set of Pa-Jongg, too.

Excellent Values in Spring Dresses at Simon's

The novelty velour in plaids and checks, and the hair-line and pin stripes in suit and dress material are shown in such interesting styles and clever lines at Ben Simon & Son's that you are sure to find just what you want. The prices are only $19.50 and $24.50 too!

Right along with the bobbed-hair fad came the habit of standing in a letter S posture. Physical culture cranks who groan aloud whenever they see these deformed creatures will be happy to know that the advent of the tailored suit this spring has already increased the corset demand and production so much that we almost have hopes of seeing a good-looking figure once in a while. Those sunken-in bulged-out spectacles—aren't some of them awful.

They Are Wearing--

White crepe dresses with separate or scarf collars, one or both ends having three wide bands of color, this sometimes repeated on the skirt. Adaptations of a Callot model.

A good many white cotton boucle suits.

An occasional, but very occasional, print.

White gloves, short ones, with full or gauntlet cuff with sleeveless dresses.

Shawls of all types, wolen peasant ones, Roman silks, Spanish, Chinese, and lace.

Quilted, small patterned, cotton coats.

Fur bordered and collared three-quarter coats.

Bright red Bangkoks.

Smart Spring Hats At Sternberg's.

The spring season opens with a variety of shades, and they may all be foun dat Sternberg's in the cleverest little shapes and styles! And they are for very moderate prices, too. There's peacock green, cowboy tan, brick dust, Ching blue, maize.—go try them on.

Excellent Marcels At Marcel Shoppe.

If you have had Mrs. D. B. Cooney of the Marcel Shoppe, 251 Fraternity Building, or one of her expert assistants marcel wave your hair, you can realize the great difference between the kinky washboard effect and the soft natural appearance produced when it is correctly waved as it is done in this shoppe. Call B-3505 for appointment, and be sure of such results.

New Styles In Shoes At the Newark Store.

Here's a store that doesn't carry a shoe for more than $3.50 in price, and they have every style you can call for. Their new spring shoes are attractive, the biege and light tan sandals, and their patent colonials being favorites. Have you tried them?

Mannish Styles Characterize Spring Tailored Suits.

Patch pockets are giving way to inset pockets jetted like a man's lounge coat, or arranged with a shaped top, the pocket in this instance being a vertical one. The tailored suits, which are good this spring, are running more on two or three-button models, with very long lapels and severely tailored collar. Mannish coats are most popular, raglan sleeves being favored.

Pale Tints For Spring Hosiery.

Evening stockings in novelty tones, such as blush and mauve are seen, proving that nude and tan shades in paler tints are smart for spring hosiery. Flesh and rose beige are very neat, we are told.

Hips Tightly Girdled.

Fashion decrees that the silhouette should be fairly long, usually girdled tightly about the hips, with slightly circular skirt of supple materials, except in the case of the straight casaques, which are richly embroidered and posed over a plain skirt.

Sport dresses and suits in wide fabric varieties are very good. Los Angeles shops emphasize the vogue of high colored cloths and buttons, although white is used extensively in frocks.

A new color tea rose! Doesn't it just sound delicious? It is a dainty shade for silg lingerie. And did you kno wthat laces on Bohemian order strike a new note in our beautifully designed lingerie? Tinted laces and nets offer a world of possibilities in creating beautiful things that women love' The new gown neckline is a narrow neckline. Watch for these features in your next purchases.

I Spent $100,000

To find these ways to youth and beauty

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My mother was rich and ambitious. She went wit me to search the world for the greatest beauty helps in existence. They cost us a fortune and many years of time. But they made me a famous beauty. I became the rage. And now, at the age of 62, they keep me a beauty still.

I have seen those same helps bring to many plain girls multiplied attractions. To some they brought careers of beauty. I have seen them bring to countless women decades of added youth. So now I have placed these matchless helps at my woman's call. And I am doing my best to urge women to employ them.

You need but four

I found 32 great beauty helps. But French experts combined them in four preparations. So these results came very easy to me.

One is a super-clay. Not like the crude and muddy clays you read about today. This clay is white, refined and dainty. It has been perfected by 20 years of scientific study. I call it my White Youth Clay. Before I found it, I never knew one-tenth what clay could do.

Clay is a beauty essential. It purges the skin of all that clogs or mars it. It creates a rosy glow. It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. It has brought to millions new complexions. But my White Youth Clay vastly excels the old types. The cost is 50 cents and $1.

My Youth Cream

My Youth Cream combines both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best French experts know to foster the fine texture of the skin.

I use it afterthe clay. Also as a night cream, also daytimes as a powder base. I am never without it, to whiten, soften, feed and smooth the skin. I have never known another cold cream to bring comparable results. My Youth Cream costs 60 cents.

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser which does what nothing else can do. The greatest beauty experts now employ this formula, but they charge for it a price which few can pay.

Facial Youth contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. It simply cleans to the depths, then departs. All the refuse, grime and dirt go with it. No other method cleans the skin like Facial Youth. The cost is 75c.

My Wonderful hair

Millions of women envy my hair. It is thick, silky and luxuriant. I have never had dandruff or falling hair, never a touch of gray.

The reason lies in my Hair Youth. I apply it daily with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. It removes the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It stimulates and fertilizes. You will be amazed to see how hair thrives when the scalp is kept in shape.

My Hair Youth costs 50 cents and $1 with eye dropper. The results come quickly. I hope you will learn what it means to your hair.

To those four products I owe my beauty and my youth. Now all druggists and toilet counters supply them to all who want like results. For the sake of all you prize most, go learn what they can do. Edna Wallace Hopper, 526 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.—Advertisement.

Take Your Troubles to Minerva

Is the dance hall a case of greed fostering and fattening on the social hunger of the young? Dare we judge the dance by its fruits, even as a tree is known? Do we "call evil good and good evil?" These and other pertinent questions are asked by "Ardent" in a letter today—Some splendid advice on how to avoid the rocks that wreck matrimony is given and a shockingly frivolous letter is discussed.

It Is To Think.

"Woe unto them that call evil good and good evil." So prophesied Isaiah many years ago, and so quoted our wise and always welcome contributor "Ardent" in a comprehensive letter today. Surely a modern interpretation of this sage prophecy causes all us worldlings to reflect seriously. And certainly the pat and pithy paragrams of "Ardent" give us serious thought also.

"If a tree is known by its fruit, shall not the dance and drink evil be known by the same?," she asks. Other thought-impelling high lights in her letter are:

"The loveability of an individual can never prove the righteousness of an idea."

"Peoople who charm and delight may have ideas hidden in the labyrinth of their minds utterly wrong and repellent."

"Worldliness and righteousness are never bed fellows and boon companions."

"Abraham Lincoln was not actuated by any such sordid, selfish motives as the 'personal liberty folks display."

But read the letter in its entirety and let us have more discussions, please.

Dear Minerva: I trust this sudden relapse to the use of a pen will not prove the annoyance to you that it is to me. It seems so tedious and slow, so unsatisfactory altogether; but I've worn out my ribbon, and typewriter ribbons don't grow on bushes out here in this snow-bound territory, where everything, as far as eye can see, is an expense of white—white earth melting into an equally white sky, with the horizon scarcely distinguishable.

I want to address a few belated remarks to Marie Louise, who reminds me of a Christmas cactus, blooming but once a year. She seemeth to meditate upon mine iniquities day and night. She heapeth her scorn upon mine head. She annoiteth me with the oil of animosity from the overflowing vials of her wrath. Her cup of indignation runneth over. She findeth delight in heaping the coals of criticism upon me in her sore displeasure. Surely her typewriter rageth. Incline thine ear unto my words, oh, Marie, and harken unto me. Methinks, like Shakespeare,, thou speakest an infinite deal of nothing more than any man in all Venice; thy reasons are as two grains of wheat hid in two bushels of chaff; one must seek all day ere one finds them, and when found, they are not worth the search.

Hark ye, Marie. If you could prove that I was "pious and sanctimonious," a hypocrite, intolerant, or any of the rest of the things mine adversaries hurl against me—yea, even if you could prove that I was a chicken-thief, a bank robber, a bomb-thrower, or what not,—how could that affect the question at issue, which appears to be "personal liberty?"

Tell me I am a sinner, and I will not take issue with you. The Bible supports that contention. "For there is none righteous, no, not one, save Jesus only." "If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us." "If we say that we have not sinned we make him a liar, and his word is not in us." Sin hath dominion over every human being, and the thralldom lessens its intensity only when we become Christians, and even then the battle against sin must rage in us until we put off this earthly tabernacle. However, my own faults, vices, defects, imperfections, and shortcomings do not happen to be the issue. Calling attention to mine imperfections is like sending out a smoke screen to camouflage the real issue, which is ideas and ideals, their righteousness or their lack of harmony with Christian ideals.

Ideas may be altogether wrong, while the people who possess the idea may be both charming and loveable. The loveability of the individual can never prove the righteousness of an idea. Satan, you know, was very magnanimous when he offered Christ all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them if He would only fall down and worship him, but Jesus was influenced not a whit by the seeming magnanimity.

I have met lovely people, people my soul delighted in, and honored and trusted and admired—yet hidden away in the labyrinth of their mind were ideas that were utterly wrong and repellent when measured by the standard Christ gave us. Only a few mornings ago I met a man who impressed me as a sincere, earnest, well-conversation, pleasant and affable in manner, yet he had some ideas that were flat contradictions of scripture.

St. Paul recognized this battle of ideas, for he wrote to the Ephesians: "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spirited wickedness in high places."

Against wrong ideas and wrong ideals, and the weapon to be used was "the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." It seemeth to me this two-edged sword must have drawn blood from certain of the enemy, else they would not try to justify themselves by dodging the real issue. You have edified our souls with an enumeration of the sins of the "pious and sanctimonious." I once knew a young man, Marie, who would fly into a rage and beat his horse over the head because the horse refused to take the bit. I used to think he was something of a heathen, but since you have enlightened us as to the way piety manifests itself, I know now he must have been a very pious young man. Hitherto, I had been inclined to doubt his piety, as he never went to church or prayer-meeting, (though he went frequently enough to dances). Otherwise I might have told you that the brand of piety you mentioned bears about the same relation to righteousness that the anti-Volstead kind of liberty bears to true liberty, being in either case but a counterfeit of the genuine. If piety is manifested by the poisoning of the neighbor's dog, the beheading of their cats, and the beating horses to death, I know nothing about that kind of piety, and I hope it won't invade his neighborhood. It is my personal and private opinion, Marie, that some people don't know the difference between the kind of "personal liberty" contended for by the worshippers of that defunct old saint (?), John Barleycorn and the true liberty, which is "the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free." But if being held in bondage in galling chains of ignorance and helplessness by an injurious and degrading appetite is personal liberty you can have all or as much of it as Uncle Sam will permit, only I hope there will be a law providing for the sounding of your klaxon, so I can get out of your way and give you all the road.

I quite understand it is chiefly my views on dancing that excite your ire. But has it occurred to you that I am one of many, many thousands who hold these views? And do you not think you are overestimating my capability when you assume that one little unit of this world's teeming millions can so influence the rest of the mere expression of her opinion as to "Abridge and destroy other people's liberties?" It is to laugh; it is indeed, to laugh. But to call your little bluff:—I am sure and certain the law gives me the same right to denounce the dance that it gives youo to defend it. In airing my views I have not overstepped my rights by the fraction of an inch. Nor can the unreasonable charge of intolerance be proven, for I have never yet advocated the suppression of the right of anyone to the free expression of their individual opinion. If hating, having contempt for, or holding in derision those who hold opposing views is intolerance, then I dare to affirm that some of my opponents have exhibited no small degree of intolerance themselves, and the assumption of tolerance deceives no one. Nay more, loath as I am to add fuel to the fire, I maintain that I not only have a right to express my views, but there is no law which demands that I refrain from believing that worldliness and righteousness are never bed-fellows and boon companions. Have we not been told that no man can serve two masters without hating the one and loving the other?

It may be, Marie, that dancing-schools and dance-halls are indispensable features of our modern civilization, but I maintain their influence interferes with the growth of Christianity. It may be they are operated purely for unselfish and benevolent reasons, but I doubt it. It may be that the commercializing of social pleasures is not a case of greed fostering and fattening on the social hunger of the young, but I have my honest doubts about it. It may be that those who oppose the dance are "pious and sanctimonious hypocrites," but candidly, Marie, I doubt it. (Rather a queer sort of hypocrisy, I think, that comes out into the open and dares the scorn of those who differ.) And while I agree with you that one may find hypocrites in every church, I think there is fewer than is commonly believed, and the word is frequently overworked, especially by unqualified self-appointed judges, and many a charge of hypocrisy could not be sustained.

Regarding the "personal liberty" issue, it may be that those of John Baryelcorn's adherents, who resist the law and shoot down the representatives of the law, are demonstrating the righteousness of their cause, sounding the "battle cry of freedom," and fighting for liberty, but I am thrice a skeptic. Maybe they are "doing unto others as they would like others to do unto them," but I doubt it. Maybe they are "letting their lights so shine that others may see their good works and glorify the Father," but I doubt it.

Maybe I don't read my Bible right, but it seems to me the "brother's keeper" idea was deeply entrenched in the minds of all the disciples of Jesus. Abraham Lincoln, the most loveable character in American history, was not actuated by any such sorbid, selfish motives as the "personal liberty" folk display. He waged a righteous warfare, not in behalf of himself, but to break the shackles that held the negro in slavery. The "brother's keeper" idea was a strong impelling force in the background. Lincoln was the prototype of prohibition, a later giant that struck off the chains that enslaved many. Yesterday, while reading the prophecies of Isaiah, I ran across a few verses that almost seemed as though the prophet was pointing at present-day affairs in the moral world. He said: "Woe unto them that call evil good, and good for evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet and sweet for ritter. Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight. Woe unto them that are mighty to drink wine, and men of strength to mingle strong drink; which justify the wicked for reward, and take away the righteousness of the righteous from him. Therefore, as the fire devoureth the stubble, and the flame consumeth the chaff, so their root shall be as rottenness, and their blossom shall go up as dust; because they have cast away the law of the Lord of hosts, and despised the word of the Holy One of Israel." I prithee, Marie, of whom speaketh the prophet thus? "Woe to them that call evil good and good evil." If a tree is known by its fruit, shall not the dance and the drink evil be known by the same? The stench of the one must have reached to the inner courts of High Heaven. The other may, for aught we know, also have a day of reckoning ahead, in the future. There is a diversity of opinion about the judgement day of latter. Being the lesser of two evils it will probably escape banishment, so cheer up, Marie.

But don't you think it is folly to declare these things are not evils, when the one had to be outlawed, and the other has constantly to be under regulatory rules and police supervision?—ARDENT.

Avoid the Rocks.

Dear Minerva: May I express myself through your columns and suggest to the married or unmarried men how I think the ship of matrimony may not go upon the rocks.

There are hundreds of homes which are rendered unhappy and in many senses miserable, because of the neglect and want which are due wholly to the selfishness and lack of consideration upon the part of the husband.

He is so attractive and such a good mixer. I have gone riding with him a number of times after work at night. Now my husband has become suspicious and accuses me of flirting with other men, also he says he had heard I was out with this other man and is going to find out if it is true. I don't know whether to tell him or not for it might cause trouble with this other man. Now what I want to know is what I am to do. Shall I go to my husband and tell him the truth, whether I gain or lose? Or shall I go on and not tell him I am afraid he does know or he wouldn't accuse me. Please answer me. — GYPSY QUEEN.

A. You are certainly—to use an expressive slang phrase—riding for a fall. You have listened to the flattery of men and it has turned your head so completely that you have lost all sight of the value of your husband's love and of your home. These things

Through The Shops WITH Patricia Ann

DEAR READERS: This week has been so much fun for me! Among other things, I bought a hat and coat for a lady who wrote to say they were exactly what she wanted, and I bought some material for someone else to make a new spring dress. I haven't heard from her, but I'm sure she'll be pleased because it was such pretty goods. Let me do something for you.
PATRICIA-ANN.

New and Interesting Favors at Ward-Warner's.

Approaching spring parties bring thoughts of favors and entertainment that are not old and time-worn. A great variety of favors and ideas for decorations for spring parties, announcement parties and banquets, may be had at the Ward-Warner Gift Shop. Very clever Oriental score pads make pretty prizes for the high score at Mah-Jongg parties. There is a new system for progressing in bridge called the Every-Player-Your-Partner System that is very attractive and is being shown at the Ward-Warner Gift Shop.

In the hairdressing parlor at Ben Simon's you'll find a complete line of transformations for remarkably low prices. They will be glad to talk to you about them.

Health of Families Depends on Housewife.

Isn't it rather overwhelming when we housewives realize that the health of our families depends entirely upon us? Ventilation, clean houses, clothing, and most important of all, healthful food, is dependent upon our judgment. A very important item of food is milk, for if it is not sanitary it can do unbounded harm. There is a dairy in Lincoln that prides itself on its sanitary milk and milk products, and that is Robert's Sanitary Dairy. You may rest assured that you are getting clean food if it comes from Roberts's.

Use Discrimination In Ordering Canned Food.

The successful hostess, who thinks of the happy guests who have enjoyed what they have just eaten, the fastidious housewife who won't buy anything but the best of everything for her table, and the careful mother who thinks of the health of her children, soon learn the dependable brands of canned goods. There are three brands which stamp the food they cover as excellent quality; they are Grainger, Nebia and Forest City brands. Tomorrow when you 'phone your order to your grocer, specify one of these brands and I know you'll be delighted with the flavor and quality of the food you get.

Did you try the large cans of fruit at the Grand Grocery? I did and they're fine. You'll be pleased, too. I'm sure.

Furs Work in Nicely With New Spring Shades

The well-dressed woman has not a conglomeration of colors to detract from her appearance, but endeavors to have her shoes, gloves, hat and furs, either of the same shade, or of blending colors, being careful that nothing clashes. This is the season when we can wear suits and collarettes with effect.

Roman Striped Scarfs And Fringed Squares Popular This Season.

Women of fashion are wearing Chinese, Spanish, Russian and plain fringed squares and the Roman striped scarfs which show that we are not so far from the days of the shawl and the bonnet. The Spanish "mantons" are much in demand in Havana, and there are plenty to be had, but the price is usually prohibitive, because the fringe is so heavy that many of the wraps weigh as much as a fur coat.

Delicious Candy at The Sugar Bowl.

Angel Food Taffy made from the purest butter, cream and sugar is handled exclusively at the Sugar Bowl. Delicious light and dark chocolates, bitter whip and all standard flavors in chocolates may be found there also. Try some.

This is a Secret.

This secret is like a lunch of onions—don't breath it to a soul! But the lady next door asked if I knew why the clerks all laughed when she told them, as she was buying a set of Mah-Jongg, that she didn't want to be partial, so she'd like to look at a set of Pa-Jongg, too.

Excellent Values in Spring Dresses at Simon's

The novelty velour in plaids and checks, and the hair-line and pin stripes in suit and dress material are shown in such interesting styles and clever lines at Ben Simon & Son's that you are sure to find just what you want. The prices are only $19.50 and $24.50 too!

Right along with the bobbed-hair fad came the habit of standing in a letter S posture. Physical culture cranks who groan aloud whenever they see these deformed creatures will be happy to know that the advent of the tailored suit this spring has already increased the corset demand and production so much that we almost have hopes of seeing a good-looking figure once in a while. These sunken-in bulged-out spectacles—aren't some of them awful.

They Are Wearing--

White crepe dresses with separate or scarf collars, one or both ends having three wide bands of color, this sometimes repeated on the skirt. Adaptations of a Callot model.

A good many white cotton boucle suits.

An occasional, but very occasional, print.

White gloves, short ones, with full or gauntlet cuff with sleeveless dresses.

Shawls of all types, wolen peasant ones, Roman silks, Spanish, Chinese, and lace.

Quilted, small patterned, cotton coats.

Fur bordered and collared three-quarter coats.

Bright red Bangkoks.

Smart Spring Hats At Sternberg's.

The spring season opens with a variety of shades, and they may all be foun dat Sternberg's in the cleverest little shapes and styles! And they are for very moderate prices, too. There's peacock green, cowboy tan, brick dust, Ching blue, maize.—go try them on.

Excellent Marcels At Marcel Shoppe.

If you have had Mrs. D. B. Cooney of the Marcel Shoppe, 251 Fraternity Building, or one of her expert assistants marcel wave your hair, you can realize the great difference between the kinky washboard effect and the soft natural appearance produced when it is correctly waved as it is done in this shoppe. Call B-3505 for appointment, and be sure of such results.

New Styles In Shoes At the Newark Store.

Here's a store that doesn't carry a shoe for more than $3.50 in price, and they have every style you can call for. Their new spring shoes are attractive, the biege and light tan sandals, and their patent colonials being favorites. Have you tried them?

Mannish Styles Characterize Spring Tailored Suits.

Patch pockets are giving way to inset pockets jetted like a man's lounge coat, or arranged with a shaped top, the pocket in this instance being a vertical one. The tailored suits, which are good this spring, are running more on two or three-button models, with very long lapels and severely tailored collar. Mannish coats are most popular, ragian sleeves being favored.

Pale Tints For Spring Hosiery.

Evening stockings in novelty tones, such as blush and mauve are seen, proving that nude and tan shades in paler tints are smart for spring hosiery. Flesh and rose beige are very neat, we are told.

Hips Tightly Girdled.

Fashion decrees that the silhouette should be fairly long, usually girdled tightly about the hips, with slightly circular skirt of supple materials, except in the case of the straight casaques, which are richly embroidered and posed over a plain skirt.

Sport dresses and suits in wide fabric varieties are very good. Los Angeles shops emphasize the vogue of high colored cloths and buttons, although white is used extensively in frocks.

A new color tea rose! Doesn't it just sound delicious? It is a dainty shade for silg lingerie. And did you kno wthat laces on Bohemian order strike a new note in our beautifully designed lingerie? Tinted laces and nets offer a world of possibilities in creating beautiful things that women love' The new gown neckline is a narrow neckline. Watch for these features in your next purchases.

I Spent $100,000

To find these ways to youth and beauty

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My mother was rich and ambitious. She went wit me to search the world for the greatest beauty helps in existence. They cost us a fortune and many years of time. But they made me a famous beauty. I became the rage. And now, at the age of 62, they keep me a beauty still.

I have seen those same helps bring to many plain girls multiplied attractions. To some they brought careers of beauty. I have seen them bring to countless women decades of added youth. So now I have placed these matchless helps at vry woman's call. And I am doing my best to urge women to employ them.

You need but four

I found 32 great beauty helps. But French experts combined them in four preparations. So these results came very easy to me.

One is a super-clay. Not like the crude and muddy clays you read about today. This clay is white, refined and dainty. It has been perfected by 20 years of scientific study. I call it my White Youth Clay. Before I found it, I never knew one-tenth what clay could do.

Clay is a beauty essential. It purges the skin of all that clogs or mars it. It creates a rosy glow. It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. It has brought to millions new complexions. But my White Youth Clay vastly excels the old types. The cost is 50 cents and $1.

My Youth Cream

My Youth Cream combines both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best French experts know to foster the fine texture of the skin.

I use it after the clay. Also as a night cream, also daytimes as a powder base. I am never without it, to whiten, soften, feed and smooth the skin. I have never known another cold cream to bring comparable results. My Youth Cream costs 60 cents.

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser which does what nothing else can do. The greatest beauty experts now employ this formula, but they charge for it a price which few can pay.

Facial Youth contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. It simply cleans to the depths, then departs. All the refuse, grime and dirt go with it. No other method cleans the skin like Facial Youth. The cost is 75c.

My Wonderful hair

Millions of women envy my hair. It is thick, silky and luxuriant. I have never had dandruff or falling hair, never a touch of gray.

The reason lies in my Hair Youth. I apply it daily with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. It removes the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It stimulates and fertilizes. You will be amazed to see how hair thrives when the scalp is kept in shape.

My Hair Youth costs 50 cents and $1 with eye dropper. The results come quickly. I hope you will learn what it means to your hair.

To those four products I owe my beauty and my youth. Now all druggists and toilet counters supply them to all who want like results. For the sake of all you prize most, go learn what they can do. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.—Advertisement.

Society Plans Busy Week With Coming of St. Valentine's Day

The approach of St. Valentine's day is the incentive for many attractive affairs and society bids fair to have a busy week.

Many of the dancing clubs are planning parties for the coming week and there are to be dinner dances, fancy dress dances, supper dances, formal dances and informal dances for society is dancing.

The February party of the Monday Night club will be tomorrow night at the Country club when club members and their guests will be entertained at a dinner dance. Mr. and Mrs. W B. Waugh, club members, will come from Fairbury for the affair and Mr. and Mrs. W. B Romans will have as their guests, Mr. and Mrs Eugene Holland of Omaha and Mr. and Mrs. Dee Hansen of Fairburg.

The St. Valentine dinner dance of the Cotillion club which will be the last of the series of four dinner dances given each season by the Cotillion club will be Thursday evening at the Country club. Dr. and Mrs Harry Flansburg and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Proudfit will be the leaders of the cotillion. Mr. and Mrs Holland will also attend this dinner dance and Mr and Mrs Chauncey Abbott jr., of Omaha will be out-of-town guests.

The Saturday Night club is arranging an elaborate affair for Wednesday evening at the Lincoln hotel The ball room will have a circus setting and the guests will come in costume appropriate to the setting. There will be stunts and fancy dances for club members will contribute to the circus program Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock. Fifty couples will attend and from out-of-town will be Mr and Mrs Thomas Burtch of Omaha, who will be the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Ludwick, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Smith head of the committe which is composed of Messrs and Mesdames O. J. Junge, J. E. Whitney, C L. Carper, R B Wilcox and Lute Morse.

Monday evening the Paul Neyron club will have a dance, also at the Lincoln hotel and on this occasion something a little extra in the way of a surprise is being planned The same evening the Merimyx club will entertain at a dance at the Rosewilde. Messrs. and Mesdames. H. M. Wentz, Edward O. Miller, Edward Krepps and Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Capek, are in charge of the arrangements.

The Tuesday Night club will have a fancy dress party on Tuesday evening at Rosewilde and the guests will come in clown costume The committee for this affair includes Mesdames. A. A. Tanner, N. S. Babson, G. W. Hassett and J. T. McGreer.

The Terpsichorean club will also have a costume party this week. It will be a fancy dress dance on Saturday evening at Rosewilde, and Mrs Walter Ludwig is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Society will turn out in force Wednesday evening to hear Rachmaninoff at the auditorium. Several particularly interesting attractions at the Orpheum theatre will draw their share of patronage, and on Monday evening the Msuical Art club will have its annual evening affair at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Rosborough.

Society—we say again—will have a busy week.

Weidman Comes To the Orpheum In Dancing Act

A special feature on the program to be presented by Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn and the Denishawn dancers when they appear at the Orpheum for one performance on Thursday, February 14, will be a solo by Lincoln's dancing star, Charles Weidman, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Weidman of 1029 R street.

The special dance which this young expert will present is "Dance America," showing the young American in the kind of play he likes best.

When the company appeared in Baltimore young Weidman made a great hit with the audience, in fact he "stopped the show." The Baltimore Sun said "Charles Weidman almost broke up the show last night with his rendition of "Dance American."

At Portland, Maine, the Express and Advertiser said "An American," a sketch, danced by Charles Weidman, showing the American youth at his typical pastimes of baseball, cocktails and courtships was a novelty hit, one of the mirth provoking numbers of the evening and done with the irrepressibly saucy charm that is Mr. Weidman's priceless possession." The St. Louis Post Dispatch said, "of the suceeding items, the most enjoyed was the "Dance American," done by Charles Weidman."

Charles Weidman's career has been one of rapid progress. After several years of intensive study at the Denishawn school under the personal tutorage of Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn, he was given a part in the traveling company. His success has been so marked that he now is considered one of the best exponents of the Denishawn art. His genal personality has won many new friends in all parts of the country and his many old friends will be glad of this opportunity to see Mr. Weidman in some of his best parts.

Weddings

HOGUE-BOUCHER

The marriage of Miss Mabel Hogue, daughter of Mrs. Ella Hogue, 3220 W street, and Warren Boucher will take place Wednesday, February 20, at Vine Congregational church at 3 o'clock. The wedding will be very simple and only members of the family and close friends will be present. They will be at home in Greenwood.

On Thursday evening, Miss Fay Sherwin will entertain at a valentine party at her home, 2818 T street.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs W. M. Leonard announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Louise to John Brown Frazier, jr., Norfolk, Va., and Washington, D. C., son of Chaplain and Mrs John Brown Frazier of Norfolk and Washington.

Parties of the Week

Phi Kappa Psi entertained Friday evening at a dinner dance, the dinner served at the chapter house, where red and green streamers, with flowers and attractive table appointments were used in decoration. Mrs. R. S. Morton and Mrs. L. M. Van Decar were chaperones at the chapter house. Ninety couples attended the affair, and moved after dinner to the Lincoln hotel for dancing. Streamers of red and green, with a large electrically-lighted "N" was hung on one wall, with the fraternity crest opposite it. Unusual lighting effects were obtained by spotlights during the dancing. Punch was served in the ballroom, and ices and cake in the garden room where a pianist and an accordion-player furnished entertainment during and after the intermission. Ivory fans were the favors for the ladies. Chaperones included Miss Winifred Hyde, Miss Amanda Heppner, Mr and Mrs. Carl Shaffer, Dean and Mrs. Philo M. Buck, Major and Mrs. Sidney Erickson, and Prof. and Mrs. Earl S. Fullbrook.

Mrs. N. C. Holman, jr., and Mrs. Pearl Brown entertained at a bridge luncheon Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Leonard Wells, at the Woodburn. The twenty-two guests were seated at one large table, where red roses brought out the valentine color scheme. A three-course luncheon was served. Red candy hearts helped to carry out the valentine motif during the afternoon at cards.

Honoring Mrs. H. Coe Dalyrymple, formerly Miss Frances Ochsner, whose marriage took place last Sunday, Mrs. Charles James entertained at luncheon Thursday at her home, 1945 South Sixteenth street. Covers were placed for twelve at one large table which was centered with a bowl of red roses. The place cards and nut cups carried out the valentine motif. Mrs. A. Taylor of Portland, Ore., and Mrs. N. Ochsner of Sutton, a sister of Mrs. James, were out of town guests. The afternoon was spent informally.

Miss Frances Virgil entertained eight couples at a party at her home, 1617 Q street, Monday evening. The evening was spent in playing cards and dancing. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. C. Coes served a luncheon late in the evening.

Thirty couples attended the dancing party Tuesday evening given by the members of the Fifty-Fifty club. Miss H. Alice Howell, Miss Amanda Heppner, Miss Helen Burkett, Dr. E. A. Frech, and Dr. H. H. Waite were among the guests. Sandwiches and coffee were served during the intermission.

Brahms—Sapphic Ode.
Schumann—Widmung.
Percy Pitt—Love is a Dream.
Leonia—When He Comes Home.
Rogers—The Last Song.
Madame Gilderoy Scott, contralto.
Margaret Malowney, accompanist.
Godard—Berceuse from Jocelyn.
Beethoven—Minuet in G.
Elizabeth Hamman, violin.
Margaret Malowney, accompanist.
Caldara—Come Raggio di Sol.
Purcell—Hymphs and Shepherds.
Abt—Cuckoo Shall I Grow Old.
Bertha Aydelotte, soprano.
Alice Sorenson, accompanist.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ankeny entertained twelve guests at 7 o'clock dinner Wednesday evening at their home, 1843 South Twenty-fourth street, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wells. The patriotic idea of Lincoln's birthday was carried out in the decorations, with a miniature log cabin for the centerpiece, and a rail fence around the table. Red, white, and blue candles were used on the tables. At bridge after dinner, high score went to Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Smith, and the guest prize was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Wells.

Complimenting Mrs. Earl A Perry, formerly of Minneapolis, who has come to Lincoln to make her home, Miss Hazel Ritchey entertained at tea yesterday afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock at her home, 310 South Fifteenth street. The guests were active and alumnae Kappa chapter, University School of Music, and Upsilon chapter, Nebraska Wesleyan, of Sigma Alpha Iota, of which the guest of honor is a member, and the patoresses of Kappa chapter. An attractive color motif of lavender and yellow was carried out in the rooms with jonquils and pussy willows. Jonquils and lavender tapers in crystal holders were used on the tea table.

Fifty guests called during the afternoon and were introduced by Miss Beulah Cobb and Mrs. Helen Turley invited the guests into the dining room. Miss Marguerite Klinker and Mrs. Roy Wall poured during the first hour and Mrs. Parvin Witte and Mrs. H. R. Esterbrook for the second hour. Musical numbers were given by each of the chapters invited.

Mrs. Perry will be a charming addition to Lincoln musical circles. She is a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, where she was a member of Sigma Alpha Iota. After her marriage, Mrs. Perry moved to Minneapolis, and she has been president of the alumnae association of the sorority there.

About one hundred guests attended the valentine party given Thursday evening by Mrs. E. M. Crannell at her home, 2402 Calumet avenue. Mrs. Frank Gilmore, Mrs. H. C. Williams, and Mrs. H. E. Crable assisted the hostess in receiving. Decorations were carried in the valentine colors with red hearts, cupids, streamers, red-shaded candles and red carnations. Mrs. Frank Gilmore arranged the program which included a song by Frank Carroll; a piano duet by Mrs. H. E. Crable and Miss Lois Gillispie; a song by Dr. H. C. Williams; comic sketch by F. L. Hetrick and Henry Brauer; a saxophone solo by D. E. Goggard; a song by Miss Huth; a song by Pantier; and a duet by Miss Gillespie and Mrs. Crable. Refreshments were served in valentine boxes, in which lunch was packed for two, and on a valentine inside each a lady's name was written. Mrs. Alma Phipps, Mrs. Queenie Bishop, Mrs. J. H. Miller, and Mrs. Lillian Smith assisted the hostess in serving.

Mrs. Ivan Devoe entertained at a linen shower yesterday afternoon for Miss Ruth Towner, a bride of the week, at her home in the Lei Lau Fari apartments. Twelve guests were present and the afternoon was spent informally. Luncheon was served at the close of the afternoon and heart-shaped boxes of candy were at each place. Each guest brought a recipe and copied it into a recipe book.

Edwin Morris was surprised Monday evening at his home, 3128 R street, by twenty-four friends in honor of his twenty-first birthday. The decorations and favors were suggestive of valentine's day. Favors for the dances were corsages and boutonnieres, and caps and valentine lollypops. Supper favors for the girls were heart shaped satin sachets and valentine powder puffs.

Miss Inez Westering entertained at a valentine luncheon Saturday at her home, 1801 South Twenty-fourth street, for twenty high school girl friends. The decorations were in hearts and cupids, both in the rooms and for the luncheon. Luncheon was served at small tables, on each of which was a large red heart, topped with a large kewpie and two small ones. The place cards were also of heart and kewpie design. The favors were fancy bags filled with valentine candies.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Raymond entertained eleven guests at dinner Tuesday evening at their home. Spring flowers were used for the centerpiece of the large table. The evening was spent at Mah-Jongg.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown were host and hostess at dinner Friday evening at their home, 1448 B street, when they entertained twenty-four guests. A color motif of pink and gold was used in decorating and the tables were centered with pink blossoms. The after dinner hours were spent with bridge, and favors were won by Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Howard.

Mrs. Art Hagstrom was hostess at an afternoon bridge on Wednesday in honor of her sister, Miss Margaret Ernst. The decorations were suggestive of the valentine season and the later part of the afternoon a luncheon was served. The prizes were presented to Miss Ernst and Mrs. P. R. Chevalier.

Social Clubs

The South Lincoln Golden Rod club met Wednesday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. K. S. J. Hohlen, 1970 Harwood street. At five hundred, Mrs. E. Schaus and Charles Fritz won high scores. A two-course luncheon was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held February 20 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Koop, 2335 South Sixteenth street.

Mrs. Guy Tou Velle, 1620 C street, was hostess Wednesday at 1 o'clock luncheon to the members of the D'Accord club. Red and white were used in decorations both at the table and through the house, with the valentine motif. Mrs. W. A. Gray and Mrs. W. L. Hamilton took prizes at cards. The club will meet in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Gray, 1609 South Twenty-seventh street.

Axtell club members met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ed Parshall, 2236 South Thirteenth street. The valentine idea was carried out in the two-course luncheon, when red candy hearts and decorated napkins used the color scheme. Mrs. Robert Campbell, 3149 R street, will entertain club members March 6.

Mrs. E. G. Schaumberg was hostess Wednesday to the Wednesday Luncheon club, which met at the University club for luncheon and bridge. Mrs. Harry Letton is hostess for next week.

Mrs. Guy K. Green, 2225 South Fourteenth street, entertained the members of the Wiki Wiki club Tuesday at her home, at a 1 o'clock luncheon. An electric lamp with a red shade formed the centerpiece, and red candles, with red nutcups bearing white cupids carried out the valentine color scheme. Mrs. J. J. Lowry of Kansas City, Mrs. B. J. McCarthy, and Mrs. M. T. Caster were guests. At cards in the afternoon, the high score went to Mrs. F. M. Hogan. Mrs. C. E. Williams will be hostess at the next meeting, to be held in two weeks at her home, 1220 D street.

The Twilight Five Hundred club met Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Kavanaugh. Five tables were placed for cards at which Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Schneider won first prize, with guest honors going to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Vandenburg. Mrs. Ernest Maschell, Walter Stuart, and Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Maggi were other guests. A midnight dinner was served by the hostess after the game. Mrs. M. Mahaney will be hostess to the club at the University club, February 21.

Mrs. W. E. Hagerty, 1136 Peach street, was hostess Tuesday to the members of La Belle Fa club at a 1 o'clock luncheon at her home. A crepe paper basket tied with tulle, and holding sweetpeas in pink and lavender formed the centerpiece. Nut cups and candles in crystal holders at the ends of the table carried out the color scheme. Mrs. George Hinman, Mrs. C. E. Dickson, and Mrs. Mabel Hinman were guests, the last taking the guest prize. The club prizes went to Mrs. James Reid and Mrs. E. E. Maddox. The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. A. E. Bishop, 1508 Washington street.

Mrs. Alvin Cowell, 3226 Orchard street, was hostess Tuesday to fourteen members of the H. E. O. club. After the business session, the afternoon was spent socially. The meeting was the occasion of the annual club valentine box, and the idea was carried out in the decorations. In a valentine game, Mrs. R. Cameron and Mrs. G. Shank won the prizes. The valentine suggestions were carried out also in the luncheon served late in the afternoon. Mrs. V. Cowell, 3259 Orchard street, will entertain the club in two weeks at her home.

The Merry Makers were entertained Saturday evening by Miss Edna Hewit at her home, 1929 C street. Miss Ruth Denison was a guest of the evening. The club will hold its annual dinner at the Lincoln hotel Saturday at 6:30 o'clock.

Golden Glow club met at the home of Miss Henrietta Bastron, 800 C street Tuesday evening. Plans for a valentine party to be held Thursday evening at the home of Miss Lydia Eltel, 820 C street, were made. The next regular meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Miss Ether Drieth, 1800 South Eighth street.

Forty-three couples attended the dancing party of the Allens club at the Rosewilde Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. eLonard Kline were the guests. Valentines were given to the ladies a sfavors. Committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Phil Conley, Mrs O. M. Parke, Mrs. Fred Sturm, and Mrs. J. H. Gelhaar. The next party will be a costume affair, and will be held in two weeks. Mrs. Earl Anderson is chairman for this affair.

Mrs. Alfred Illingworth, 2236 Bradfield drive, entertained the members of the Tri C. club at her home Friday afternoon. Valentine colors were used in the decorations and a program of songs and readings was given. The red-and-white motif was also carried out in the luncheon at the close of the afternoon. Assisting Mrs. Illingworth were Mrs. Ed Westering and Mrs. C. C. Cartney. The members of the club will meet in two weeks at the home of Mrs. R. A. Murray, 1225 H street, and will entertain their husbands Friday evening at a dinner to be given at the home of Dr. and Mr. E. W. Rowe, 2828 Stratford ave.

Red Rose dancing club gave a party Thursday evening at the Glass Acres for twenty-four couples. Mr. and Mrs. J. Schnell were guests. In the decorations, red hearts and cyclamen were used to carry out the valentine idea. A balloon dance and everal favor dance were the pecial feature of the evening. The committee choen to plan the next party consisted of A. Gallup, E. Wormer and B. Gaddas. Refreshments of punch and wafers were served.

The Stormy Night club met Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Kimmer, 1042 F street. Bridge was played and high scores were made by Mrs. O. A. Gronquist and George Griffin. Supper was served late in the evening and the decoration were suggestive of St. Valentine's day. The club will meet in two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wolford.

Mrs. E. L. Wigton, 1109 North Twenty-fourth street, entertained the members of the Ladyslipper club Friday at 1 o'clock luncheon. Red sweet peas and nut cups and place cards in the same color carried out the valentine idea in the decorations at the one large table where the guests were seated. At bridge after the luncheon, the prize went to Mrs. Emil Boehmer, with consolation to Mrs. Otto Nelson. The club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. R. W. Reynolds, 2324 O street.

Good Time club met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. A. Wyman, 2620 R street. Guests of the organization were Mrs. Pearl Brown, Mrs. G. C. Cutts, and Miss Bessie L. Reed. Refreshments were served after the bridge kame. The club will meet in two weeks at the home of Mrs. G. L. Barr, 2805 Randolph street.

Mrs. E. M. Franklin, 627 South Thirteenth street, entertained the members of the Mystic bridge club Friday afternoon at her home. Decorations carried out the valentine idea. Mrs. A. E. Strayer was the guest of the club. At cards, Mrs. E. F. Troupe won high score, Mrs. C. O. Chilson, 1345 E street, will be hostess at the next meeting, to be held in two weeks.

Seward-Lincoln club met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Guy Ellis, 1726 Lake street. Girls Organize A Cadet Corps

Inspired by the natty appearance and snappy work of the Hastings Girls cadet corps which appeared in Lincoln in the fall a group of Lincoln girls shortly afterward began the organization of a corps. The organization has been completed and within the next few weeks will make its appearance in all the glory of spick and span new uniforms. It is known as the Lincoln Cadet corps.

Mrs. Clarence Stewart is president of the corps and Miss Sarah Steele is secretary and treasurer. It is limited in number to forty and its membership is now thirty-nine. That leaves one vacancy which will be filled with a girl bugler. Applicants are now interviewed and their names placed on a waiting list to be added when vacancies occur. The girls have been drilling since the latter part of November on Thursday evenings at the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall under the command of Harry Goeglein, captain, and Foster Weyland and Clarence Stewart, first lieutenants. The object of the organization is for recreation, to promote friendship and improve health and education.

The uniforms are an expense and the girls are handling the financial part of it themselves. Entertainments have been given to add a bit to the Fund and on Friday evening of this week a benefit dance will be given at Rosewilde. The uniforms are patterned after those of the officers of the university cadet corps in grey and with Sam Brown belt. It is hoped that capes may be ordered later when they have recovered from the blow of the initial expense.

Society Plans Busy Week With Coming of St. Valentine's Day

The approach of St. Valentine's day is the incentive for many attractive affairs and society bids fair to have a busy week.

Many of the dancing clubs are planning parties for the coming week and there are to be dinner dances, fancy dress dances, supper dances, formal dances and informal dances for society is dancing.

The February party of the Monday Night club will be tomorrow night at the Country club when club members and their guests will be entertained at a dinner dance. Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Waugh, club members, will come from Fairbury for the affair and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Romans will have as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Holland of Omaha and Mr. and Mrs. Dee Hansen of Fairburg.

The St. Valentine dinner dance of the Cotillion club which will be the last of the series of four dinner dances given each season by the Cotillion club will be Thursday evening at the Country club. Dr. and Mrs. Harry Flansburg and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Proudfit will be the leaders of the cotillion. Mr. and Mrs. Holland will also attend this dinner dance and Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Abbott jr., of Omaha will be out-of-town guests.

The Saturday Night club is arranging an elaborate affair for Wednesday evening at the Lincoln hotel. The ball room will have a circus setting and the guests will come in costume appropriate to the setting. There will be stunts and fancy dances for club members will contribute to the circus program. Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock. Fifty couples will attend and from out-of-town will be Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burtch of Omaha, who will be the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Ludwick, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Smith head of the committte which is composed of Messrs. and Mesdames O. J. Junge, J. E. Whitney, C. L. Carper, R. B. Wilcox and Lute Morse.

Monday evening the Paul Neyron club will have a dance, also at the Lincoln hotel and on this occasion something a little extra in the way of a surprise is being planned. The same evening the Merimyx club will entertain at a dance at the Rosewilde Messrs. and Mesdames. H. M. Wentz, Edward O. Miller, Edward Krepps and Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Capek, are in charge of the arrangements.

The Tuesday Night club will have a fancy dress party on Tuesday evening at Rosewilde and the guests will come in clown costume. The committee for this affair includes Mesdames. A. A. Tanner, N. S. Babson, G. W. Hassett and J. T. McGreer.

The Terpsichorean club will also have a costume party this week. It will be a fancy dress dance on Saturday evening at Rosewilde, and Mrs. Walter Ludwig is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Society will turn out in force Wednesday evening to hear Rachmaninoff at the auditorium. Several particularly interesting attractions at the Orpheum theatre will draw their share of patronage, and on Monday evening the Msuical Art club will have its annual evening affair at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Rosborough.

Society—we say again—will have a busy week.

Weidman Comes To the Orpheum In Dancing Act

A special feature on the program to be presented by Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn and the Denishawn dancers when they appear at the Orpheum for one performance on Thursday, February 14, will be a solo by Lincoln's dancing star, Charles Weidman, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Weidman of 1029 R street.

The special dance which this young expert will present is "Dance America," showing the young American in the kind of play he likes best.

When the company appeared in Baltimore young Weidman made a great hit with the audience, in fact he "stopped the show." The Baltimore Sun said "Charles Weidman almost broke up the show last night with his rendition of "Dance American."

At Portland, Maine, the Express and Advertiser said "An American," a sketch, danced by Charles Weidman, showing the American youth at his typical pastimes of baseball, cocktails and courtships was a novelty hit, one of the mirth provoking numbers of the evening and done with the irrepressibly saucy charm that is Mr. Weidman's priceless possession." The St. Louis Post Dispatch said, "of the suceeding items, the most enjoyed was the "Dance American," done by Charles Weidman."

Charles Weidman's career has been one of rapid progress. After several years of intensive study at the Denishawn school under the personal tutorage of Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn, he was given a part in the traveling company. His success has been so marked that he now is considered one of the best exponents of the Denishawn art. His genal personality has won many new friends in all parts of the country and his many old friends will be glad of this opportunity to see Mr. Weidman in some of his best parts.

Weddings

HOGUE-BOUCHER

The marriage of Miss Mabel Hogue, daughter of Mrs. Ella Hogue, 3220 W street, and Warren Boucher will take place Wednesday, February 20, at Vine Congregational church at 3 o'clock. The wedding will be very simple and only members of the family and close friends will be present. They will be at home in Greenwood.

On Thursday evening, Miss Fay Sherwin will entertain at a valentine party at her home, 2818 T street.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Leonard announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Louise to John Brown Frazier, jr., Norfolk, Va., and Washington, D. C., son of Chaplain and Mrs. John Brown Frazier of Norfolk and Washington.

Parties of the Week

Phi Kappa Psi entertained Friday evening at a dinner dance, the dinner served at the chapter house, where red and green streamers, with flowers and attractive table appointments were used in decoration. Mrs. R. S. Morton and Mrs. L. M. Van Decar were chaperones at the chapter house. Ninety couples attended the affair, and moved after dinner to the Lincoln hotel for dancing. Streamers of red and green, with a large electrically-lighted "N" was hung on one wall, with the fraternity crest opposite it. Unusual lighting effects were obtained by spotlights during the dancing. Punch was served in the ballroom, and ices and cake in the garden room where a pianist and an accordion-player furnished entertainment during and after the intermission. Ivory fans were the favors for the ladies. Chaperones included Miss Winifred Hyde, Miss Amanda Heppner, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shaffer, Dean and Mrs. Philo M. Buck, Major and Mrs. Sidney Erickson, and Prof. and Mrs. Earl S. Fullbrook.

Mrs. N. C. Holman, jr., and Mrs. Pearl Brown entertained at a bridge luncheon Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Leonard Wells, at the Woodburn. The twenty-two guests were seated at one large table, where red roses brought out the valentine color scheme. A three-course luncheon was served. Red candy hearts helped to carry out the valentine motif during the afternoon at cards.

Honoring Mrs. H. Coe Dalyrymple, formerly Miss Frances Ochsner, whose marriage took place last Sunday, Mrs. Charles James entertained at luncheon Thursday at her home, 1945 South Sixteenth street. Covers were placed for twelve at one large table which was centered with a bowl of red roses. The place cards and nut cups carried out the valentine motif. Mrs. A. Taylor of Portland, Ore., and Mrs. N. Ochsner of Sutton, a sister of Mrs. James, were out of town guests. The afternoon was spent informally.

Miss Frances Virgil entertained eight couples at a party at her home, 1617 Q street, Monday evening. The evening was spent in playing cards and dancing. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. C. Coes served a luncheon late in the evening.

Thirty couples attended the dancing party Tuesday evening given by the members of the Fifty-Fifty club. Miss H. Alice Howell, Miss Amanda Heppner, Miss Helen Burkett, Dr. E. A. Frech, and Dr. H. H. Waite were among the guests. Sandwiches and coffee were served during the intermission.

Brahms—Sapphic Ode.
Schumann—Widmung.
Percy Pitt—Love is a Dream.
Leonia—When He Comes Home.

Bertha Aydelotte, soprano.
Alice Sorenson, accompanist.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ankeny entertained twelve guests at 7 o'clock dinner Wednesday evening at their home, 1843 South Twenty-fourth street, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wells. The patriotic idea of Lincoln's birthday was carried out in the decorations, with a miniature log cabin for the centerpiece, and a rail fence around the table. Red, white, and blue candles were used on the tables. At bridge after dinner, high score went to Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Smith, and the guest prize was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Wells.

Complimenting Mrs. Earl A. Perry, formerly of Minneapolis, who has come to Lincoln to make her home, Miss Hazel Ritchey entertained at tea yesterday afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock at her home, 310 South Fifteenth street. The guests were active and alumnae Kappa chapter, University School of Music, and Upsilon chapter, Nebraska Wesleyan, of Sigma Alpha Iota, of which the guest of honor is a member, and the patoresses of Kappa chapter. An attractive color motif of lavender and yellow was carried out in the rooms with jonquils and pussy willows. Jonquils and lavender tapers in crystal holders were used on the tea table.

Fifty guests called during the afternoon and were introduced by Miss Beulah Cobb and Mrs. Helen Turley invited the guests into the dining room. Miss Marguerite Klinker and Mrs. Roy Wall poured during the first hour and Mrs. Parvin Witte and Mrs. H. R. Esterbrook for the second hour. Musical numbers were given by each of the chapters invited.

Mrs. Perry will be a charming addition to Lincoln musical circles. She is a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, where she was a member of Sigma Alpha Iota. After her marriage, Mrs. Perry moved to Minneapolis, and she has been president of the alumnae association of the sorority there.

About one hundred guests attended the valentine party given Thursday evening by Mrs. E. M. Crannell at her home, 2402 Calumet avenue. Mrs. Frank Gilmore, Mrs. H. C. Williams, and Mrs. H. E. Crable assisted the hostess in receiving. Decorations were carried in the valentine colors with red hearts, cupids, streamers, red-shaded candles and red carnations. Mrs. Frank Gilmore arranged the program which included a song by Frank Carroll; a piano duet by Mrs. H. E. Crable and Miss Lois Gillispie; a song by Dr. H. C. Williams; comic sketch by F. L. Hetrick and Henry Brauer; a saxophone solo by D. E. Goggard; a song by Miss Huth; a song by Pantier; and a duet by Miss Gillespie and Mrs. Crable. Refreshments were served in valentine boxes, in which lunch was packed for two, and on a valentine inside each a lady's name was written. Mrs. Alma Phipps, Mrs. Queenie Bishop, Mrs. J. H. Miller, and Mrs. Lillian Smith assisted the hostess in serving.

Mrs. Ivan Devoe entertained at a linen shower yesterday afternoon for Miss Ruth Towner, a bride of the week, at her home in the Lei Lau Farl apartments. Twelve guests were present and the afternoon was spent informally. Luncheon was served at the close of the afternoon and heart-shaped boxes of candy were at each place. Each guest brought a recipe and copied it into a recipe book.

Edwin Morris was surprised Monday evening at his home, 3123 R street, by twenty-four friends in honor of his twenty-first birthday. The decorations and favors were suggestive of valentine's day. Favors for the dances were corsages and boutonnieres, and caps and valentine lollypops. Supper favors for the girls were heart shaped satin sachets and valentine powder puffs.

Miss Inez Westering entertained at a valentine luncheon Saturday at her home, 1801 South Twenty-fourth street, for twenty high school girl friends. The decorations were in hearts and cupids, both in the rooms and for the luncheon. Luncheon was served at small tables, on each of which was a large red heart, topped with a large kewpie and two small ones. The place cards were also of heart and kewpie design. The favors were fancy bags filled with valentine candies.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Raymond entertained eleven guests at dinner Tuesday evening at their home. Spring flowers were used for the centerpiece of the large table. The evening was spent at Mah-Jongg.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown were host and hostess at dinner Friday evening at their home, 1448 B street, when they entertained twenty-four guests. A color motif of pink and gold was used in decorating and the tables were centered with pink blossoms. The after dinner hours were spent with bridge, and favors were won by Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Howard.

Mrs. Art Hagstrom was hostess at an afternoon bridge on Wednesday in honor of her sister, Miss Margaret Ernst. The decorations were suggestive of the valentine season and the later part of the afternoon a luncheon was served. The prizes were presented to Miss Ernst and Mrs. P. R. Chevalier.

Girls Organize A Cadet Corps

Inspired by the natty appearance and snappy work of the Hastings Girls cadet corps which appeared in Lincoln in the fall a group of Lincoln girls shortly afterward began the organization of a corps. The organization has been completed and within the next few weeks will make its appearance in all the glory of spick and span new uniforms. It is known as the Lincoln Cadet corps.

Mrs. Clarence Stewart is president of the corps and Miss Sarah Steele is secretary and treasurer. It is limited in number to forty and its membership is now thirty-nine. That leaves one vacancy which will be filled with a girl bugler. Applicants are now interviewed and their names placed on a waiting list to be added when vacancies occur. The girls have been drilling since the latter part of November on Thursday evenings at the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall under the command of Harry Goegleln, captain, and Foster Weyland and Clarence Stewart, first lieutenants. The object of the organization is for recreation, to promote friendship and improve health and education.

The uniforms are an expense and the girls are handling the financial part of it themselves. Entertainments have been given to add a bit to the Fund and on Friday evening of this week a benefit dance will be given at Rosewilde. The uniforms are patterned after those of the officers of the university cadet corps in grey and with Sam Brown belt. It is hoped that capes may be ordered later when they have recovered from the blow of the initial expense.

Camp Fire Notes

Registering for camp is order of the day for all camp fire girls from now on. Since the camp rally Friday night when the camp folders were given out and the girls were reminded once again of what a wonderful place camp is, the registrations have been coming in. Some camps will register 100 per cent.

There are many new exhibits at the camp fire office to greet the casual visitor. Chief and foremost among them is, of course, the new private office of Miss Duncan. Then there is also the second edition of the camp fire paper which is now called "The Fagots." The name "The Seven Fagots" was suggested by Clarice Larson of Tanda camp fire. The reporters' club decided to shorten the name to "The Fagots."

There will be a special meeting of the camp fire chorus Wednesday, at the First Baptist church at 4 o'clock, to learn more of the camp fire songs in parts, in preparation for the birthday celebration. This will help girls who are working for the chorus honor to get it sooner than they had expected.

Miss Edith Henry, guardian of Witawentin camp of Havelock, has been awarded a national Uta honor for decoration. She designed some very clever local and special honors for her girls which national office considered worthy of this honor.

The Aowakiya camp held a business meeting at the home of Jean Rathburn, February 5. Plans were made for a hike in the near future.

Here the shopper will find distinctive things, personally selected Things which are artistic, and at the same time, not without utilitarian value, The best in China, Silver-plate, Crystal, Lamps and Art-wares, all gathered together on one floor, thus making it comfortable and convenient for you to make a selection, while you are impressed constantly with the reasonableness of the prices.

Pictures and Frames

Framed Pictures
Fancy a stranger walking in. The impression he gets of your home decides the impression he gets of you—of your refinement, your good taste. And pictures, more perhaps than anything else, can make a home. Lovely pictures on your walls—hung in harmony with each other and with the arrangement of your furniture—create a charming and beautiful room, the kind of room a decorator would pronounce perfect. And noted decorators now tell us that pictures do dominate the home decoration.

Wooden Plaques
(Hand Carved)
These wall plaques are ideal for home decoration and very popular as Wedding Gifts, Anniversary Gifts, Valentines, etc.: In such well known numbers as The Blue Boy, Baby Stuart, Age of Innocence, Madonna of the Chair, and Ave-Marie Also line of beautiful Italian Plaques made by best Italian artists, priced from $3.00 to $25.00.

Mother's Day
We no longer think of one certain day as "Mother's Day" Every day is "Mother's Day" and the pretty custom now is to give Mother some on Your Birthday.

Framed Mottoes
are much in demand. The sentiment expressed in these are beautiful indeed. With their soft pastell colorings and frames to match, they are truly art objects, and make the dearest Valentines ever.

Camp Fire Notes

Registering for camp is order of the day for all camp fire girls from now on. Since the camp rally Friday night when the camp folders were given out and the girls were reminded once again of what a wonderful place camp is, the registrations have been coming in. Some camps will register 100 per cent.

There are many new exhibits at the camp fire office to greet the casual visitor. Chief and foremost among them is, of course, the new private office of Miss Duncan. Then there is also the second edition of the camp fire paper which is now called "The Fagots." The name "The Seven Fagots" was suggested by Clarice Larson of Tanda camp fire. The reporters' club decided to shorten the name to "The Fagots."

There will be a special meeting of the camp fire chorus Wednesday, at the First Baptist church at 4 o'clock, to learn more of the camp fire songs in parts, in preparation for the birthday celebration. This will help girls who are working for the chorus honor to get it sooner than they had expected.

Miss Edith Henry, guardian of Witawentin camp of Havelock, has been awarded a national Uta honor for decoration. She designed some very clever local and special honors for her girls which national office considered worthy of this honor.

The Aowaklya camp held a business meeting at the home of Jean Rathburn, February 5. Plans were made for a hike in the near future.

Wedding Gifts

Here the shopper will find distinctive things, personally selected Things which are artistic, and at the same time, not without utilitarian value. The best in China, Silver-plate, Crystal, Lamps and Artwares, all gathered together on one floor, thus making it comfortable and convenient for you to make a selection, while you are impressed constantly with the reasonableness of the prices.

Framed Pictures

Fancy a stranger walking in. The impression he gets of your home decides the impression he gets of you—of your refinement, your good taste. And pictures, more perhaps than anything else, can make a home. Lovely pictures on your walls—hung in harmony with each other and with the arrangement of your furniture—create a charming and beautiful room, the kind of room a decorator would pronounce perfect. And noted decorators now tell us that pictures do dominate the home decoration.

Wooden Plaques
(Hand Carved)

These wall plaques are ideal for home decoration and very popular as Wedding Gifts, Anniversary Gifts, Valentines, etc.; In such well known numbers as The Blue Boy, Baby Stuart, Age of Innocence, Madonna of the Chair, and Ave-Marie. Also line of beautiful Italian Plaques made by best Italian artists, priced from $3.00 to $25.00.

Mother's Day

We no longer think of one certain day as "Mother's Day." Every day is "Mother's Day" and the pretty custom now is to give Mother some on Your Birthday.

Framed Mottoes

are much in demand. The sentiment expressed in these are beautiful indeed. With their soft pastell colorings and frames to match, they are truly art objects, and make the dearest Valentines ever.

Aldesa camp met Wednesday, February 6 with Ruth Jenkins. The girls earned a new camp fire honor by learning to wrap correctly three kinds of packages.

Witonohi camp gave a birthday party for their guardian, Bee Jackson, Saturday. The color scheme was pink and white carried out in the candles, ice-cream and candy. Monday the camp met with their president, Marjory Hyde. They planned a dinner for February 18. Bobbie Rhodes, Frances Berry and Dorothy Jean Thorson are the committee in charge. The girls also planned a patriotic ceremonial for February 22.

Eluto camp of the First Baptist church met at the church Saturday afternoon, February 9 at 3:30 for a ceremonial meeting at which the girls' mothers were the guests of honor. The candles of work, health, and love were lit by Anna Gray, Barbara Hall and Virginia Larson. Elizabeth Gayle repeated the ode to the fire. Honor beads were awarded to all but three of the girls and Cornelia Gant, Theodosia Summers, Elizabeth Gayle, Virginia Larson, Norma Harvey and Mary Letitia Pollard were given the rank of woodgatherers.

The three camp fires of Whittier junior high school met altogether Thursday afternoon at the school and held a charade contest. Keola camp won the contest.

Girls' Reserve Corner

The Teahcers college high school girls had an interesting club meeting at the Y. W C. A. on last Wednesday afternoon. Miss Clara Palafax talked to the girls about the customs of the people in the Philippines. She wore a very charming dress which showed the styles of party dresses over there. After the talk the girls enjoyed looking at the annual put out by the University high school of Manila.

The girls of the club were in charge of the assembly program at Teachers college high school on Thursday morning. Irene Moore, president of the club presided and gave a short talk. The following program was given: piano solo by Mildred Elboura, violin solo, Anita Johnson, accompanied by Mary Field, and a limirick drill by Mabel Wallen, Marie Law, Irene Moore, accompanied by Miss Zilpha Baker. The club programs for the year were given the girls on Friday. The next meeting will be February 13.

Student club of Lincoln high school will meet on next Tuesday afternoon in room 330. The program will be a patriotic one, and tribute will be paid to famous men of history. Ruth Clendenin will preside at the meeting. Frances Bolton will sing.

At the meeting of Jane Addams Triangle at Whittier school, Dorothy McKenzie was elected president. The other officers elected were Marie Swartzman, secretary, and Thelma Williams, treasurer. Miss Lila Wyman is to be the advisor for this triangle.

The other two triangles of Whittier school met Thursday. Plans for the coming semester were discussed. Each club decided to invite some new girls to join their triangles. Next Thursday the election of officers of Grace Coppock triangle and Joan of Arc triangle will take place. The girls plan to have a Valentine mail box at the next club meeting which comes on February 14.

Grace Dodge triangle entertained at a very pretty party on Saturday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. The decorations were in keeping with Valentine day. Each member of the triangle brought a guest. The afternoon was spent at games and a program was given by members of the triangle. A luncheon was served late in the afternoon by a committee composed of Drinanelle Waldo, Ona Jorgenson and Lois Durggins.

The Alice Freeman Palmer triangle of Twenty-sixth and O street school is entertaining at a valentine party at the Y. W. C. A. on Monday afternoon. At this time they will hold a candle lighting ceremony in honor of eight new members. This triangle has been having a drive for new members and they have been most successful.

The girl reserve triangle at Park school has taken in a large number of new members. A splendid valentine party is being planned by this triangle. It is to be held on next Saturday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. from 2:30 until 5:00 o'clock.

Next Sunday, February 17, at 4 o'clock the girl reserves are to be in charge of vespers at the Y. W. C. A. Girls are workiig hard on the dramatization and tableaux that are to be given. Every girl who ha earned her first forty honors should turn in her list to the girl reserve office before Thursday of next week. At the vesper service the honor certificates are to be given out. The vesper service is to be in charge of the girl reserves and older folks who are interested are invited to attend.

Doane College Notes

Phi Sigma Tau sorority held their annual mid-year banquet, February 2, at the parlors of the First Congregational church. This was in the form of a Spanish party. Rose-nut cups, hand-painted place-cards representing gay senors, senoritas, Spanish fans and sombreros, feather in the shape of hair ornaments for the girls and pens for the men, and bright colored menus made the tables attractive. The banquet room was lined with white lattice work over which were twined vines of many colored flowers. The Jensen Trio of Lincoln, furnished Spanish music during the evening. Little Alice Cave sang "The Rosebud" song and gave to each guest a red rose. Later in the evening a Spanish play, "Margareta," was given by the members of the sorority. Out of town guests and alumni members present at this occasion were: Misses Alice Anderson, '23, Waverly, Neb.; Genevra Rough Wilson, Crete; Louise Mathews, Ashland; Beth Mickle, '22, Tecumseh; Hilda Straube, '23, Wilber, and Lois Norris, '23, Avoca; Messrs. E. Norris, Avoca; R. Van Pelt, '20, Lincoln, and R. A. Johnston, '22, Fremont.

Kappa Phi Theta sorority entertained the faculty of the college and the other men's and women's societies at a formal reception in Gaylord hall parlor, February 1. Those in the receiving line were Miss Irene Spencer, '25, Cody, Wyo.; Mrs. John N. Bennett, Dean Myrtle LeCompte, and Miss Luella M. Carter. A program was given of violin solos by P. B. Taylor, musical readings by Miss Mary-Ellen Inglish of the dramatic art department, and vocal solos by Director C. V. Kettering. The members of the sorority presented an original play. Miss Irene Spencer represented the Tiger Lily, or Doane, and the other members had parts as flowers in the flower garden of life. Little Miss Martha Whalen was the butterfly attendant. Miss Mildred Kraemer of Grafton, a former member of Kappa Phi Theta, was an out of town guest.

Miss Mildred Cass '21, of Columbia university, has been assisting recently in the offices of the Bok peace plan of New York city.

The Value of Charcoal

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when properly prepared and taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, and after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges; they are composed of the finest Willow charcoal powdered to extreme finest, then compressed in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being sweetened to be smooth and palatable.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on he contrary, great benefit.

Many physicians advise Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges to patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat. They are also believed to greatly benefit the liver. These lozenges cost but thirty cents a box; your name and address to F. A. Stuart Co., 1 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich. You get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets.—Advertisement.

GIVES A PARTY

Erlene Mar Troxel is the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erle Troxel, 1123 Huff street. On Tuesday afternoon, she called up six of her little friends and invited them to the birthday party. Red and white were used in table decorations, and each child was given a red rose filled with white candy, and a Valentine, as favors.

SECOND BIRTHDAY

Little Mary Helen Creedan, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Creedan, 1547 C street, was two years old Wednesday, January 30.

BIIRTHDAY DINNER

Betty Elaine Fosbury celebrated her third birthday January 30 with a dinner given for her at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Fosbury, 2068 South Sixteenth street. The decorations were suggestive of St. Valentine's day and the table was centered with a white birthday cake topped with three pink candles and a cupid dressed in pink. Betty's grandparents and great grandparents were present for the occasion.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Betty Ann Carey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. B. Carey, 3001 T street, celebrated her fifth birthday Saturday afternoon by entertaining ten little girl friends. The afternoon was spent in games, and the guests were seated at one large table for luncheon. Hearts and a birthday cake with five red candles formed the decorations. Red caps were the favors.

Girls' Reserve Corner

The Teahcers college high school girls had an interesting club meeting at the Y. W C. A. on last Wednesday afternoon. Miss Clara Palafax talked to the girls about the customs of the people in the Philippines. She wore a very charming dress which showed the styles of party dresses over there. After the talk the girls enjoyed looking at the annual put out by the University high school of Manila.

The girls of the club were in charge of the assembly program at Teachers college high school on Thursday morning. Irene Moore, president of the club presided and gave a short talk. The following program was given: piano solo by Mildred Elboura, violin solo, Anita Johnson, accompanied by Mary Field, and a limirick drill by Mabel Wallen, Marie Law, Irene Moore, accompanied by Miss Zilpha Baker The club programs for the year were given the girls on Friday. The next meeting will be February 13.

The Value of Charcoal

Few People Know How Useful It is In Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when properly prepared and taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach a nd intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, and after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges; they are composed of the finest Willow charcoal powdered to extreme finest, then compressed in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being sweetened to be smooth and palatable.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on he contrary, great benefit.

Many physicians advise Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges to patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat. They are also believed to greatly benefit the liver. These lozenges cost but thirty cents a box your name and address to F. A. Stuart Co., 1 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich You get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets.—Advertisement.

Erlene Mar Troxel is the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erle Troxel, 1123 Huff street. On Tuesday afternoon, she called up six of her little friends and invited them to the birthday party. Red and white were used in table decorations, and each child was given a red rose filled with white candy, and a Valentine, as favors.

SECOND BIRTHDAY

Little Mary Helen Creedan, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Creedan, 1547 C street, was two years old Wednesday, January 30.

BIIRTHDAY DINNER

Betty Elaine Fosbury celebrated her third birthday January 30 with a dinner given for her at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Fosbury, 2068 South Sixteenth street. The decorations were suggestive of St. Valentine's day and the table was centered with a white birthday cake topped with three pink candles and a cupid dressed in pink. Betty's grandparents and great grandparents were present for the occasion.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Betty Ann Carey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. B. Carey, 3001 T street, celebrated her fifth birthday Saturday afternoon by entertaining ten little girl friends. The afternoon was spent in games, and the guests were seated at one large table for luncheon. Hearts and a birthday cake with five red candles formed the decorations. Red caps were the favors.

Doane College Notes

Phi Sigma Tau sorority held their annual mid-year banquet, February 2, at the parlors of the First Congregational church. This was in the form of a Spanish party. Rose-nut cups ,hand-painted place-cards representing gay senors, senoritas, Spanish fans and sombreros, feather in the shape of hair ornaments for the girls and pens for the men, and bright colored menus made the tables attractive. The banquet room was lined with white lattice work over which were twined vines of many colored flowers. The Jensen Trio of Lincoln, furnished Spanish music during the evening. Little Alice Cave sang "The Rosebud" song and gave to each guest a red rose. Later in the evening a Spanish play, "Margareta," was given by the members of the sorority. Out of town guests and alumni members present at this occasion were: Misses Alice Anderson, '23, Waverly, Neb.; Genevra Rough Wilson, Crete; Louise Mathews, Ashland; Beth Mickle, '22, Tecumseh; Hilda Straube, '23, Wilber, and Lois Norris, '23, Avoca; Messrs. E. Norris, Avoca; R. Van Pelt, '20, Lincoln, and R. A. Johnston, '22, Fremont.

Kappa Phi Theta sorority entertained the faculty of the college and the other men's and women's societies at a formal reception in Gaylord hall parlor, February 1. Those in the receiving line were Miss Irene Spencer, '25, Cody, Wyo.; Mrs. John N. Bennett, Dean Myrtle LeCompte, and Miss Luella M. Carter. A program was given of violin solos by P. B. Taylor, musical readings by Miss Mary-Ellen Inglish of the dramatic art department, and vocal solos by Director C. V. Kettering. The members of the sorority presented an original play. Miss Irene Spencer represented the Tiger Lily, or Doane, and the other members had parts as flowers in the flower garden of life. Little Miss Martha Whalen was the butterfly attendant. Miss Mildred Kraemer of Grafton, a former member of Kappa Phi Theta, was an out of town guest.

Miss Mildred Cass '21, of Columbia university, has been assisting recently in the offices of the Bok peace plan of New York city.

PARLIAMENTARY LAW FOR WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY MRS. JOHN SLAKER.

Committees.

In all but very small organizations it is desirable to apportion certain portions of the work to small groups with instructions either to act for the body or to procure certain information and report. These groups are called committees; they are divided into standing and special. Standing committees are usually appointed for a year; sometimes for two years if the club elects its officers biennially. A special committee is appointed for aparticular purpose and when it is accomplished, it is automatically dismissed.

Most clubs have several standing committees required by their by-laws, such as finance, civic, house and courtesy. The by-laws should state plainly the duties of each, for a committee can do only the things that it is particularly instructed to do, not all that it is not forbidden to do.

The by-laws should prescribe the manner in which committees shall be chosen. It is a general custom to allow the incoming president to appoint all standing committees, subject to the approval of the executive board; in this case the appointive power designates what member of a committee shall act as chairman. Special committees are usually created by a main motion. If the motion carries the chair should say: "How shall this committee be appointed?" This can be done by nominations from the floor or the president may be instructed to appoint.

Executive boards, boards of managers or boards of directors are standing committees; their duties are important and responsible, frequently they transact the greater part of the business of an organization, but they are held by the same limitations and are as subject to the will of the assembly as the humblest committee.

The chairman of a committee calls the meetings. Standing committees usually hold regular meetings at stated intervals. they are at liberty to adopt such rules for their own guidance as they may need so that they do not conflict with the constitution and by-laws of the parent body. Unless otherwise ruled, a quorum for a committee is a majority of its members; the committe cannot change this rule for itself.

Procedure in a committee meeting is similar to that of a club meeting but less formal; minutes should be kept by some one appointed for the purpose. Standing committees should report when the character of their duties requires it. Special committees should report when their task is accomplished. The report may be signed by all the members or by the chairman for the members but it should be the expression of the group in session, not the result of separate interviews or of telephone converstaions.

If the committees report contains merely statements of facts no action need follow its reception, but if it contains recommendations or resolutions the chairman should immediately move its adoption.

Questions and Answers.

Q. May an executive appoint standing committee or other that has not been named in the by-laws or authorized by avote of the society? A.—No.

Q. If the president and president-elect should both attend the district convention who would serve on the nominating committee? A. The president.

Q. Should the minutes of the executive board be read at the general club meeting? A. They should not. The minutes are the property of the body whose deeds they record. The board must report to the general club at the times stated in the club's by-laws and these reports will be compiled from the board's offilcal record, but the record itself is the property of the board and not of the parent body.

Q. Our by-laws provide for non-resident guests only. We would like to amend so as to permit members to bring resident guests. Would this conflict with a state by-law? If not please suggest the form of amendment. A. Each club is at liberty to decide for itself all such local matters as guest privileges. I would suggest the following: "Each member may bring out of town visitors to the club at any time and shall be entitled to — resident guests during the club year."

Perfection in Trifles

A COLLAR that climbs, a sleeve that twists or a skirt that hikes, teaches one that "a frock on the rack is not a frock on the back."

No garment is admitted here until it has passed a most critical examination for cut, fit and trim.

REAPPOINTED EXAMINER

Miss Jennie Higgins, R. N., of Lincoln, who was in 1920 appointed a member of the Nebraska board of nurse examiners, has recently been re-appointed to this position by Dr. J. D. Case, superintendent of the department of health and welfare. One of Miss Higgins' duties is to inspect all Nebraska hospitals, which conduct accredited schools of nursing.

University Notes

The employment bureau of the university Y. M. C. A. found work for thirty-six students in January. Twenty-one of them are now regularly employed for the remainder of the college year. Fewer odd jobs were to be held this month because of the weather conditions, reports Bennett S. Martin, secretary of the bureau.

A six-weeks' series of discussion groups, sponsored by the university young men's and young women's Christian associations, was begun Monday afternoon in the conference room of the Temple under the leadership of Edith Olds, '24, Lincoln, on the topic, "The Christian Ideal and Racial Relations." These groups are open to students of the university.

Alumni of the University of Nebraska through the world will observe the fifty-fifth "birthday" of the institution on charter day, February 15, and tune in their radio sets on the program of music and addresses prepared by the alumni association. Alumni clubs are to hold their meetings on that evening, elect officers and transact other business. From the university radio station will be broadcast selections by the university glee club, the university band, and the varsity quartet, an address by Chancellor Avery, a review of the 1923 football season, and an address by Victor B. Smith, A. B. '11, Omaha, president of the alumni association, and words of greetings from "old timers" on the faculty. Alumni in many cities have arranged special programs to celebrate the founding of the university.

That the college of engineering of the university will participate in the comprehensive study begun by the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education at its recent meeting at the University of Michigan is one of the developments reported by Dean O. J. Ferguson. Colleges from Maine to Texas sent sixty-five delegates who discussed the proposed five-year program for engineering colleges. To meet the progressive demands of changing civilization the society has begun investigation of educational conditions—needs, shortcomings and relation to industry. Engineering schools will co-operate by investigating their own status. Students will be classified with respect to early training and college preparatory work, and data will be collected showing their college history and placement and development in the industrial field. The college of engineering plans to compile information concerning its alumni.

President Richards of Lehigh university, formerly dean of the college of engineering of the university, stressed the importance of experiment station work along the lines suggested by President Richards. The value of such a plant is four-fold; stimulation of men in scientific investigation; training of investigators; production of data of industrial significance; and the publication of results. Foremost among these points, President Richards placed the production and development of men.

"Bovine Tuberculosis," by Dr. L. Van Es, chairman of the department of animal pathology and hygiene of the college of agriculture, will soon be published by the agricultural experiment station. This bulletin of nearly a hundred pages of reading matter and illustrations will be circular 23.

Ninety bushels of corn an acre in eastern Uebraska, 70 bushels in central Nebraska, and 50 bushels in western Nebraska are the goals set by the Nebraska Crop association in their new project—the 10-acre corn-yield contest which they are encouraging through the state through the extension service of the college of agriculture. Rules and entry blanks are being mailed to the county extension agents from the office of Secretary Paul Stewart at the college. The divisions of the state are set along the boundary lines between Holt and Antelope at the north, south to the Platte, jogging to the line between Polk and Butler counties, and then south to the state line. The other division starts at the north on the east line of Cherry county and drops straight to the south side of Dawson county, where it jogs east to the east lines of Gosper and Furnas counties. Ten acres are the minimum in this profect. Contestants ranking highest in each region and the highest scoring individual in each county having five or more entries will be given medals by the Crop Growers association. Cash premiums and "Recognition of Achievement" certificates will also be awarded.

Carl D. Jackson of New York will appear before the students and faculty of the University of Nebraska at a convocation Thursday, February 14, to discuss the subject of "Regulation". Mr. Jackson, a practicing attorney, was for about six years chairman of the Wisconsin state railway commission, during which time he became a national figure in the field utility regulation. During his last year as chairman, he was president of the National Association of State Railway and Utility commissioners. Mr. Jackson was one of the chief figures in presenting the subject and in securing the plan for co-operation between the interstate commerce commission and the state railway and public utility commissions. He has originated a plan for the handling of depreciation of public utility property and has published pamphlets upon the subject, as well as appearing in public addresses before engineering societies and bar associations throughout the country He is nationally known and considered an authority upon the subject of regulation and state control of utilities and public resources. Mr. Jackson is at present acting in an advisory capacity to the National Gas association and the National Ligth association in legal matters. His many appearances before the interstate commerce commission on behalf of the states and their several regulatory bodies have been of great benefit in coordinating the work of these bodies, as well as in securing a closer cooperation in rate and service matters.

Prof. Louise Pound of the department of English has been invited to give courses in a "national summer school" from June 9 to July 18 in Utah, as one of a faculty of twenty specialists drawn from Harvard, Columbia, John Hopkins and elsewhere.

Prof. F. D. Barker of the department of zoology illustrated his address on "Malaria" before the zoological seminar Wednesday in Nebraska hall by two reels of moving pictures. Malaria, as explained by Dr. Barker, causes yearly the death of thousands of persons. One of the romances of science is bound up in the discovery of the malarial organism with its development and transmission by the mosquito.

Prof. Roy E. Cochran of the department of history will speak on "Community Ethics" at a meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association of Bethany, February 12. Professor Cochran will also speak at the Grace Memorial church, Lincoln, on "Washington, the Man, Statesman, and Warrior," February 10, and on "Lincoln, an American Statesman," February 17.

REAPPOINTED EXAMINER

Miss Jennie Higgins, R. N., of Lincoln, who was in 1920 appointed a member of the Nebraska board of nurse examiners, has recently been re-appointed to this position by Dr. J. D. Case, superintendent of the department of health and welfare. One of Miss Higgnis' duties is to inspect all Nebraska hospitals, which conduct accredited schools of nursing.

University Notes

The employment bureau of the university Y. M. C. A. found work for thirty-six students in January. Twenty-one of them are now regularly employed for the remainder of the college year. Fewer odd jobs were to be held this month because of the weather conditions, reports Bennett S. Martin, secretary of the bureau.

A six-weeks' series of discussion groups, sponsored by the university young men's and young women's Chirstian associations, was begun Monday afternoon in the conference room of the Temple under the leadership of Edith Olds, '24, Lincoln, on the topic, "The Christian Ideal and Racial Relations." These groups are open to students of the university.

Alumni of the University of Nebraska through the world will observe the fifty-fifth "birthday" of the institution on charter day, February 15, and tune in their radio sets on the program of music and addresses prepared by the alumni association. Alumni clubs are to hold their meetings on that evening, elect officers and transact other business. From the university radio station will be broadcast selections by the university glee club, the university band, and the varsity quartet, an address by Chancellor Avery, a review of the 1923 football season, and an address by Victor B. Smith, A. B. '11, Omaha, president of the alumni association, and words of greetings from "old timers" on the faculty. Alumni in many cities have arranged special programs to celebrate the founding of the university.

That the college of engineering of the university will participate in the comprehensive study begun by the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education at its recent meeting at the University of Michigan is one of the developments reported by Dean O. J. Ferguson. Colleges from Maine to Texas sent sixty-five delegates who discussed the proposed five-year program for engineering colleges. To meet the progressive demands of changing civilization the society has begun investigation of educational conditions—needs, shortcomings and relation to industry. Engineering schools will co-operate by investigating their own status. Students will be classified with respect to early training and college preparatory work, and data will be collected showing their college history and placement and development in the industrial field. The college of engineering plans to compile information concerning its alumni.

President Richards of Lehigh university, formerly dean of the college of engineering of the university, stressed the importance of experiment station work along the lines suggested by President Richards. The value of such a plant is four-fold; stimulation of men in scientific investigation; training of investigators; production of data of industrial significance; and the publication of results. Foremost among these points, President Richards placed the production and development of men.

"Bovine Tuberculosis," by Dr. L. Van Es, chairman of the department of animal pathology and hygiene of the college of agriculture, will soon be published by the agricultural experiment station. This bulletin of nearly a hundred pages of reading matter and illustrations will be circular 23.

Ninety bushels of corn an acre in eastern Uebraska, 70 bushels in central Nebraska, and 50 bushels in western Nebraska are the goals set by the Nebraska Crop association in their new project—the 10-acre cornyield contest which they are encouraging through the state through the extension service of the college of agriculture. Rules and entry blanks are being mailed to the county extension agents from the office of Secretary Paul Stewart at the college. The divisions of the state are set along the boundary lines between Holt and Antelope at the north, south to the Platte, jogging to the line between Polk and Butler counties, and then south to the state line. The other division starts at the north on the east line of Cherry county and drops straight to the south side of Dawson county, where it jogs east to the east lines of Gosper and Furnas counties. Ten acres are the minimum in this profect. Contestants ranking highest in each region and the highest scoring individual in each county having five or more entries will be given medals by the Crop Growers association. Cash premiums and "Recognition of Achievement" certificates will also be awarded.

Carl D. Jackson of New York will appear before the students and faculty of the University of Nebraska at a convocation Thursday, February 14, to discuss the subject of "Regulation". Mr. Jackson, a practicing attorney, was for about six years chairman of the Wisconsin state railway commission, during which time he became a national figure in the field utility regulation. During his last year as chairman, he was president of the National Association of State Railway and Utility commissioners. Mr. Jackson was one of the chief figures in presenting the subject and in securing the plan for co-operation between the interstate commerce commission and the state railway and public utility commissions. He has originated a plan for the handling of depreciation of public utility property and has published pamphlets upon the subject, as well as appearing in public addresses before engineering societies and bar associations throughout the country. He is nationally known and considered an authority upon the subject of regulation and state control of utilities and public resources. Mr. Jackson is at present acting in an advisory capacity to the National Gas association and the National Ligth association in legal matters. His many appearances before the interstate commerce commission on behalf of the states and their several regulatory bodies have been of great benefit in coordinating the work of these bodies, as well as in securing a closer cooperation in rate and service matters.

Prof. Louise Pound of the department of English has been invited to give courses in a "national summer school" from June 9 to July 18 in Utah, as one of a faculty of twenty specialists drawn from Harvard, Columbia, John Hopkins and elsewhere.

Prof. F. D. Barker of the department of zoology illustrated his address on "Malaria" before the zoological seminar Wednesday in Nebraska hall by two reels of moving pictures. Malaria, as explained by Dr. Barker, causes yearly the death of thousands of persons. One of the romances of science is bound up in the discovery of the malarial organism with its development and transmission by the mosquito.

Prof. Roy E. Cochran of the department of history will speak on "Community Ethics" at a meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association of Bethany, February 12. Professor Cochran will also speak at the Grace Memorial church, Lincoln, on "Washington, the Man, Statesman, and Warrior," February 10, and on "Lincoln, an American Statesman," February 17.

The following interesting story is told of the origin of the negro spiritual—Steal Away to Jesus.

In this instance the negroes of a southern plantation (on the banks of the Red river) were for a time allowed to go across to the opposite side to a mission which a northern missionary had set up in order to teach the negroes about Christ. These negroes had such a good time that they talked all day in the fields about it. So much so that the master of the plantation became suspicious of their learning things other than religion. This point being decided in the master's mind he refused to allow them to go again. But the negroes could not forget the new inspiration caused by the missionary's teachings and they vowed that they would find a method of attending these meetings. The leader of the group of negroes thought out a secret method of informing the other slaves as to which night they would go in secret across the river. So he whispered to the slave nearest him, "Steal away." The word was passed on until every slave knew what was to take place in the thought that they would again hear the wonderful stories of Jesus. That the spoken word was soon incorporated into a melody and was sung quite openly all day in the field in such a way that the master never guessed what was in their minds.

Peter C. Lutkin, dean of the school of music of Northwestern university, was a campus visitor February 6 at Nebraska Wesleyan university.

The dean addressed the students at chapel briefly. He said, "The fine arts are much neglected. We give enormous attention to the development of the mind as such. We seek to develop the soul through a study of morals and ethical conduct. We have regarded art as the expression of the beautiful, but the essential part of art is its nobility. Every man should strive for nobility.

"It is possible to live a happy and interesting life with little money. Art is a part of life. It is not luxury Next to religion, art is the greatest gift to the sons of man. Art made Europe great. Its cathedrals and art galleries drew travellers to Europe. In America we have caught the idea of fine architeure. Once no artist could make a living in Chicago, but now there is an art school of 3,000 students, the largest in the world. Many artists also now live in Chicago.

"Music has its ideas. In spoken argument we hear only one side at a time, but the musician expresses the whole range of emotions in a composition while several speak at once. No capacity of mankind is more complicated. Logic is back of music. At least have respect for art. Whatever art capacity or appreciation one has should be cultivated."

Dean Rosborough of the university school of music accompanied Dean Lutkin on his visit to Wesleyan. Dean F. A. Alabaster called the students' attention to the fact that the university hymnal contains numerous compositions written by Dean Lutkin.

CIVICS DEPARTMENT HEARS OF SCHOOL TAXING PROBLEM.

Mrs. Cora F. Warner Spoke Monday afternoon before the civics department of the Lincoln Woman's club on "Is it consistent for the Lincoln school board to ask for an increase of taxes when there is a demand for a decrease of state and national taxes?" Mrs. Warner said that different taxes were paid in different ways, that fifty per cent of the government taxes are paid indirectly, such as war taxes, and also county taxes, such as automobile and marriage licenses.

Mrs. Warner said that in the last two years the only tax reductions were school taxes. She also said that we need more money for the schools because the number of school children increases at the rate of 452 each year, that more children remain through the high school now, and that new buildings had become imperative.

The last legislature was asked for a levy so that as property values increase the schools might benefit, but the schools received but a flat sum of $1,200,000. Because of the delinquent taxes of the last four years, in which the schools share, the accumulated deficits will amount to $254,000 by July 1.

In high school the cost per pupil is $118, the speaker said, and in elementary school, including junior high, the cost is $84. The high school piano, stadium, and other things are not paid from the taxes. Much special work of the schools is also financed by outside effort.

In this instance the negroes of a southern plantation (on the banks of the Red river) were for a time allowed to go across to the opposite side to a mission which a northern missionary had set up in order to teach the negroes about Christ. These negroes had such a good time that they talked all day in the fields about it. So much so that the master of the plantation became suspicious of their learning things other than religion. This point being decided in the master's mind he refused to allow them to go again. But the negroes could not forget the new inspiration caused by the missionary's teachings and they vowed that they would find a method of attending these meetings. The leader of the group of negroes thought out a secret method of informing the other slaves as to which night they would go in secret across the river. So he whispered to the slave nearest him, "Steal away." The word was passed on until every slave knew what was to take place in the thought that they would again hear the wonderful stories of Jesus. That the spoken word was soon incorporated into a melody and was sung quite openly all day in the field in such a way that the master never guessed what was in their minds.

Peter C. Lutkin, dean of the school of music of Northwestern university, was a campus visitor February 6 at Nebraska Wesleyan university.

The dean addressed the students at chapel briefly. He said, "The fine arts are much neglected. We give enormous attention to the development of the mind as such. We seek to develop the soul through a study of morals and ethical conduct. We have regarded art as the expression of the beautiful, but the essential part of art is its nobility. Every man should strive for nobility.

"It is possible to live a happy and interesting life with little money. Art is a part of life. It is not luxury Next to religion, art is the greatest gift to the sons of man. Art made Europe great. Its cathedrals and art galleries drew travellers to Europe. In America we have caught the idea of fine architeure. Once no artist could make a living in Chicago, but now there is an art school of 3,000 students, the largest in the world. Many artists also now live in Chicago.

"Music has its ideas. In spoken argument we hear only one side at a time, but the musician expresses the whole range of emotions in a composition while several speak at once. No capacity of mankind is more complicated. Logic is back of music. At least have respect for art. Whatever art capacity or appreciation one has should be cultivated."

Dean Rosborough of the university school of music accompanied Dean Lutkin on his visit to Wesleyan. Dean F. A. Alabaster called the students' attention to the fact that the university hymnal contains numerous compositions written by Dean Lutkin.

Mrs. S. L. Kier and Mrs. Ralph Johnston gave a report of the juvenile court work for the month. The decorations in the dining room and the refreshments were suggestive of valentine's day. The third grade mothers and teachers were the hostesses and 180 were present.

CIVICS DEPARTMENT HEARS OF SCHOOL TAXING PROBLEM.

Mrs. Cora F. Warner Spoke Monday afternoon before the civics department of the Lincoln Woman's club on "Is it consistent for the Lincoln school board to ask for an increase of taxes when there is a demand for a decrease of state and national taxes?" Mrs. Warner said that different taxes were paid in different ways, that fifty per cent of the government taxes are paid indirectly, such as war taxes, and also county taxes, such as automobile and marriage licenses.

Mrs. Warner said that in the last two years the only tax reductions were school taxes. She also said that we need more money for the schools because the number of school children increases at the rate of 452 each year, that more children remain through the high school now, and that new buildings had become imperative.

The last legislature was asked for a levy so that as property values increase the schools might benefit, but the schools received but a flat sum of $1,200,000. Because of the delinquent taxes of the last four years, in which the schools share, the accumulated deficits will amount to $254,000 by July 1.

In high school the cost per pupil is $118, the speaker said, and in elementary school, including junior high, the cost is $84. The high school piano, stadium, and other things are not paid from the taxes. Much special work of the schools is also financed by outside effort.

Unusually Good Entertainment at the Lyric, Rialto & Colonial All This Week.

At the Lyric, Jackie Coogan will be seen in his greatest success "Circus Days," adapted from James Otis' celebrated circus story "Toby Tyler;" a stirring human interest story replete with joys and sorrows, laughter and tears. All features are embellished with interesting and amusing short subjects and good music.

"The Way of a Man" Coming to the Liberty for Three Days, Starting Thursday Matinee.

The swiftest romance, drama and action story of pioneer American life, "The Way of a Man," from the genius pen of Emerson Hough who wrote "The Covered Wagon" and "North of 36" will be presented as an extra added attraction at the Liberty the last half of this week.

"The Chronicles of America," First of the Series at the Liberty the First Half of This Week.

The Yale University Press presents "The Chronicles of America," the first authentic and dramatic films visualizing the making of our great nation. It took eight years to plan and produce these pictures. Over two million dollars will be spent on production. Every costume, set, and article is true-to-fact, proved and reproved by hundreds of research experts. Every event pictured is absolutely authentic and correct, vouched for by famous authorities. Each film has the seal of approval of Yale University Press, attesting to the faithful fidelity and truth of the action and settings. "Vincennes" will be the first epoch presented at the Liberty.

It is seldom that the people of Lincoln are offered so many high class attractions at the Orpheum in one week. "Blossom Time" will appear Monday and Tuesday nights only; "Wild Flower" Wednesday matinee and night; and Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn and the Denishawn dancers Thursday night only. All the above attractions have received unstinted praise from the press everywhere. The advanced sale for all shows is large. To avoid disappointment all reservations for seats should be called or paid for by one p. m. the day of the show.

"Blossom Time" at the Orpheum Monday and Tuesday Night.

Exquisite "Blossom Time," that altogether charming operetta or musical comedy, will be seen at the Orpheum theatre, Monday and Tuesday night, February 11 and 12.

Those who have seen "Blossom Time" will want to see it again, and those who have never seen it should not miss its numerous unusual allurements, not the least of which is its lovely musical score taken almost entirely from the songs and other master works of Franz Schubert. Messrs. Shubert are bringing the splendid singing company which has delighted theatregoers everywhere this beautiful and extraordinary play with music has been seen including such players as Joseph Mendelsohn, Elizabeth Gergely, Viola Beechwood, Ada Howard, Madja St. Clair, Shep Camp, Patrick Kelly, William Nettum, Jack Keller, Frank Horn, Elsie Duffield, Walter Armin, Sol Mansfield, Robert Long, George Adams, Robert Callahan, Marie Bantes, Flo Keely, Thomas A. Hart, and Hatty Martin.

"Wildflower at the Orpheum Wednesday Matinee and Night.

"Wildflower," (The "Bambalina" Show), flying the banner of Arthur Hammerstein, and described as a musical play in three acts, in which Eva Olivotti, the well known prima donna, sings the title role, will be the attraction at the Orpheum, Wednesday matinee and night, February 13.

Conclusive proof of good entertainment is provided in the announcement that the famous Hammerstein combination of authors, Otto Harbach, Oscar Hammerstein, 2nd, Herbert Stothart and Vincent Youmans, are identified respectively with the book, the lyrics and the music.

To "Wildflower," Harbach and the younger Hammerstein have given a plot of tangible proportions, which vibrates with animated vigor and spontaneous freshness. One laugh-provoking situation follows so closely on another that they virtually tread on one another's heels.

Messrs. Stothart and Youmans have doled out for the score of "Wildflower" enough song hits to stock three ordinary musical comedies. Some of the most popular numbers are "Bambalina," "Wildflower" and "April Blossoms."

In addition to Miss Olivotti, the Broadway cast includes Bobby Bernard, Carrie Reynolds, Paul Donah, Adele Kellar, Cliff Heckinger, Allan H. Fagan, Charles Burrows, the dancing team of Dempsey and Wood, a host of gifted specialty artists and a large and attractive chorus.

Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn and the Denishawn Dancers at the Orpheum Thursday Night.

Music will play a prominent part in the performance to be given by Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn and the Denishawn Dancers at the Orpheum, Thursday night, February 14. Such famous composers as Beethoven, Chopin, Brahms, Liszt, Granados, Jonas, Moszkowski and Levitak will be represented and the accompaniments will be supplied by a quartet led by Louis Horst at the piano and including J. Froling, violin; Augusto Scalzi, flute and Peter Kleyenberg, cello, all artists of the highest distinction who have been connected with other important symphonic organizations in the past.

"The Unwanted Child" at the Orpheum Friday and Saturday Matinee and Night.

A drama of life from every angle, "The Unwanted Child," will be the attraction at the Orpheum, February 15 and 16, for four performances starting Friday matinee with daily matinees for ladies only, at which a lecture will be delivered on unwanted babies. No one under sixteen will be admitted to any performance. The penalties which are exacted of mothers and of their unwanted babies do not conform to the modern ideas of justice and club women in all parts of the country are realizing this to such an extent that movements have been started in many communities to solve the problem that they believe should have been solved long ago. "The Unwanted Child is an interesting powerful play in four acts and tells the whole pitiful story in all its details.

A Boquet of Vaudeville Novelties Opens at the Liberty Monday Matinee.

The bill at the Liberty for the first half of the week is varied enough to please all. The original comedy stars Rice and Cady, an inimitable team of comedians, will present their laugh provoking skit, "Am I Right;" the Three Original Blanks, a trio of European entertainers, will be seen in a most amazing exhibition of juggling; Clara Keating and Harry Ross, a duo of versatile youngsters, presenting "The Younger Generation;" the Three Ander Sisters, a trio of charmingly pretty and clever young women who present a most novel offering consisting of singing and dancing; Prince Leo, a beautiful equine entertainer, will cause much wonderment because of the marvelous way in which he works. The last chapter of "Ruth of the Range," and the first episode of "The Way of a Man," completes a big program.

Strand Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Priscilla Dean, the dynamic dramatic actress whose high rank as a screen star is based on such successes as "Outside the Law," "Conflict" and "The Flame of Life," comes to the Strand theatre in a new underworld story, "White Tiger," in which she was directed by the same man who guided "Outside the Law," Tod Browning. "White Tiger" is the story of three experts in high class crime who came from London to America to steal millions from the backs of society matrons. Wallace Berry, Raymond Griffith and Matt Moore support Dean.

Answers to Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—Kindly give me the address, color of hair and eyes, height and weight of "My Favorite, Ruth Roland.' Thank you I hope I may come again. Yours sincerely—QUESTION MARK.

Ruth Roland may be reached at 605 South Norton Ave., Ruth Roland Studio, Los Angeles, Calif. She has reddish brown hair and violet eyes. She weighs 122 and is five feet four inches tall, so she doesn't have to worry about counting the calories Please come again, whenever you feel like writing.

Dear Movie Editor—Please send me the height, age, color of hair and eyes, addresses and the names of the latest pictures of Barbara La Marr, Douglas Fairbanks, Marion Davies and Nita Naldi, and Billie Sullivan, who seems to be my favorite since I saw him in "The Leather Pushers."

Sincerely yours—AN INTERESTED MOVIE FAN,, Havelock, Neb.

Barbara LaMarr has the leading feminine role in "The Eternal City." Her hair and eyes are dark, and she's five feet six inches tall and twenty-six years old. Address her in care of Associated First National, Hollywood

Mr. Fairbanks has completed "The Thief of Bagdad." He is forty, and has dark hair and eyes. He's about five ten in height and may be addressed in care of Douglas Fairbanks company, Hollywood, Calif Marion Davies is a blonde, twenty-six years old and five feet four and one-half inches tall. Address her in care of Cosmopolitan, New York City. She will do Janice Meredith" next. Nita Naldi is five feet eight inches tall, and had dark hair and green eyes. She's twenty-five years old and gets her mail in care of Famous Players—Lasky, Hollywood, Cal.

Billie Sullivan is hazy on the age question. He is five feet seven and one-half inches tall and has brown hair and blue eyes. Address him at 340 West Fifty-sixth street, New York. I have now new picture of him. "Every Day Love,' is Nita's latest release.

Dear Movie Editor—I have been waiting a long time to write, and have stored up many questions, so here goes. Is Colleen Moore married, and if she is, to whom? Is Pola Negri and Charlie Chaplin married yet? I have heard many times they were going to be. Please tell me the addresses of the following: Leatrice Joy, Lila Lee, Nita Naldi, Barbara, LaMarr, Mae Bush, Hope Hampton, Mable Normand, Lois Wilson and Colleen Moore.

How old are Sunshine Sammy and Farina, the two members of "Our Gang." Thanking you for all the trouble, I remain—FULL OF QUESTIONS, Wymore, Neb.

Dear Movie Editor—I am a new fan, wishing if possible for you to answer some questions, that is if there can be any space given to me. About three years ago, if my recollection is right, I saw a serial picture entitled, "The Mystery Ship." I am interested in that picture and would like to know something about it. If you remember, or have on an old file anything relating to this picture, I wish you would please answer the following questions: Under what film company was it produced, and where was it made? What was the cast for this particular picture? Who was the author for it? Do you think this picture will ever be shown on the screen again? I saw it so long ago so I don't remember much about it.

Also, could you spare enough space to tell me something about the entering of photoplay on the screen? Hoping that I will see this in print, I remain—A MOVIE LOVER, Osceola, Neb

Welcome to our department. We don't seem to have many fans in Osceola. "The Mystery Ship" was a Universal special released in 1918. Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber had the title roles in the production, which was a series of two reel episodes, rather than a real serial. The series were filmed at Universal City, Cal., but I don't have the name of the author, nor a more complete cast. Among the episodes were: "The Line of Death," "The Rain of Fire," "The Underground," "Hidden Hands," "The Black Mask," and several others.

Regarding the photoplay, or scenario, if the author of the story is of the staff of the studio, his scenario may be in continuity or scene-by-scene form, but if he is an outsider or amateur, the script must be in full detailed-synopsis form. At least that is the most acceptable form for most companies. Some companies merely want the story of the plot, and then a brief synopsis is all that is necessary.

Goldwyne Studios, Culver City, Cal. Strong modern dramas and comedy dramas for male and female leads.

R. C. Studios, 870 Gower street, Hollywood, Cal. Dramas or comedy dramas.

It is well to keep a copy of your work when submitting manuscripts, and also to enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope for their return.

Screen Siftings

Plays The Lead — Mrs. Alice Chapin, the American actress who has been one of the leading figures on the stage of England for the past twenty-five years, plays one of the leading roles in William De Mille's Paramount production, "Icebound." She was born in New Hampshire and grew up among the type of families represented in the picture.

Burned In Fire Scene. — Eileen Sedgwick, who is co-starring with William Desmond in "The Riddle Rider," is recovering from the effect of burns she received while staging a fire scene for the picture. Miss Sedgwick received severe burns on the shoulders, right arm and hands, and also lost part of her blond tresses in the accident.

Francis X. as Villain.—Of special interest to fans, is the announcement that Francis X. Bushman has been chosen to play the role of Messala, opposite George Walsh as Ben Hur in the screen production of "Ben Hur" which Goldwyn is making under the direction of Charles Brabin. This is the first picture in which Mr. Bushman has appeared in any except the stellar role and also the first time he has played the villain in a piece. He was one of the earliest stars of the screen, and has been starring in vaudeville for the past three years with his wife, Beverly Bayne.

Other members of the cast of "Ben Hur" chosen to date are Gertrude Olmsted, who will play Esther, the leading feminine role; Kathleen Key, who plays Tirzan, sister of Ben Hur and Carmen Meyers as Iras. Gertrude Olmsted and Kathleen Key are both beauty contest winners.

The company will leave soon for Italy, where the picture will be filmed.

"Shadow of East."—Frank Mayo, who recently played the leading role in George Archainbaud's production of "The Shadow of the East" for Fox, is again working under Mr. Archainbaud's direction in "The Plunderer." Evelyn Brent is the leading lady in the production, and Tom Santschi has the heavy role. Eddie Phillips and Peggy Shaw are other members of the cast.

Boy Scout Comedy.—Johnnie Fox, Jr. the kid star recently signed by Educational Comedies, is now working in his first picture for that company under the direction of Arvid Gillstrom. It is a boy scout comedy and is called "About Face." Arthur Rankin, of "Fighting Blood" series, is a member of the cast also.

To Portray George Washington—Arthur Dewey, an actor of long stage experience, has been chosen to portray the role of George Washington in "American," which D. W. Griffith is making. Mr. Dewey was selected because he had the most perfect physical resemblance to Washington of any of the hundred actors interviewed for the role.

Dance Originator In Movies. — Aurelio Coccia, originator of the Paris Apache dance on the American stage, makes his motion picture debut with Gloria Swanson in "The Humming Bird," which Sidney Olcott produced. Coccia plays the role of Bosque, an apache, and does the dance which made him famous throughout the United States, with Miss Swanson in the picture.

Story of Pacific. — Leatrice Joy, supported by Percy Marmont and Adolph Menjou, is now working under the direction of John Griffith Wray on a story by C. Gardner Sullivan. The working title of the picture is "Against the Rules." It is a story of a forgotten island in the South Pacific, and is adapted from Frank Adams magazine article of the same name.

A Tarkington Story. — Eleanor Boardman has the role of Mary Vertrees in "The Turmoil," a Booth Tarkington story which Hobart Henley is making for Universal. George Hackathorne plays "Bibbs" and Emmett Corrigan is the "Old Man Sheridan" on the screen. Pauline Garon and Eileen Percy are also members of the cast.

Charles Ogle Chosen.—Charles Ogle has been chosen by Cecil B. De Mille for the principal character part in "Triumph" his next Paramount production, adapted from May Edginton's story.

"Cytherea." — George Fitzmaurice and Samuel Goldwyn have commenced the screen production of Joseph Hergesheimer's "Cytherea" at the Biograph studio in New York. Alma Rubens has the leading rol and Constance Bennett, daughter of Richard Bennet, the well known actor, has an important part in the production.

"True as Steel."—Rupert Hughes has added Norman Kerry, who played leading roles in "The Hunchback" and "Merry-Go-Round" to his cast of 'True as Steel." Among the other brilliant names in the cast are Huntley Gordon, who played with Gloria Swanson in "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," Aileen Pringle, Cleo Madison, and Louis Paine, former stage favorite, and husband of Mrs. Leslie Carter. Mr. Hughes originally wrote the story in short story form for a magazine. It deals with the problems of a woman in business.

"The Arizona Express." — Dell Knott, prominent character actor, and brother to Lydia Knott, has been added to the cast of Tom Buckingham's production, "The Arizona Express," which is being made at the William Fox studio. Pauline Starks has the leading feminine role in the picture, and Anne Cornwall is the "flapper."

University Notes

Rev. Charles S. Braden, Evans A. Worthley, A. M. '13, and Miss Muriel Day, Methodist life-service team from Chicago, will be guests of the Methodist students of the university, February 24, 25 and 26. Sunday they will speak to Bible class and Epworth leagues; Monday noon they will speak at an all-Methodist luncheon; and Monday and Tuesday they complete their program by interviewing students who desire to go into full-time Christian service. Dr. Harry Huntington, Methodist student pastor, will arrange the interviews. Mr. Worthley was Methodist student pastor of the university from 1913 to 1918, when he went into war work. He was in charge of Y. M. C. A. work with the American naval aviation station in Ireland from 1918-1919. Since then he has served as university pastor at Cornell, and later was director of vocational counsel of the commission on life service. Miss Day represents the Women's Home Missionary society on the commission, and has been for several years national field secretary and student secretary. Teachers are needed in the industrial homes and schools established by the commission. Settlements, deaconess homes, orphanages and homes for working and delinquent girls are among the institutions ministering to the immigrant children and the poor. Mr. Braden has been engaged in educational work in Bolivia and Chile since graduation from Baker university and the Unio nTheological seminary in New York. In Chile he was president of the theological seminary and editor of the Chile Christian Advocate — both interdenominational enterprises.

Dr. Charles Fordyce, chairman of the department of educational measurements and research, addressed the Platte Valley Ministerial association at Fremont Monday on "The Psychology of the Adolescent." He spoke to the ladies of the Second Presbyterian church of Lincoln Friday evening on "The Function of the Home and the Church in the Guidance of Youth."

Extension service publications including United States farmers' bulletins applicable to Nebraska, may be got from the college of agriculture of the university on agronomy, animal husbandry, dairy husbandry, engineering, netomology, home economics, horticulture, poultry husbandry and rural economics. The list includes eighty-four bulletins furnished to residents of Nebraska through the cooperation of the United States department of agriculture; twenty-six extension publications dealing with various phases of poultry husbandry; eight publications from the experiment station of the college on stock care and disease prevention; twenty-four extension circulars on live stock; eight station circulars; twenty-five station bulletins on stock-raising and agriculture, and six bulletins describing research work in grain-raising. County agents are supplied with the titles of these publications which are furnished without cost by the college of agriculture.

Prof. E F. Schramm of the department of geology will give an illustrated lecture on "Oil Shales of Wyoming" at the regular monthly meeting of the University of Nebraska chapter of Sigma Xi, honorary scientific investigation society, in the general lecture room of Bessey hall, February 12, at 8 o'clock. Professor Schramm will discuss the results of his research on the oil shales of Wyoming, and will also briefly outline the work which has been done on the oil shales of Colorado and Utah. Non-members of the society are welcome.

G. W. Rosenlof, instructor in the history and principles of education, Teachers' college, spoke on "The Teachers' Task" at the monthly dinner Wednesday evening of the Workers Conference of the First Plymouth Congregational Sabbath school.

Louise W. Mears, A M '12, of the department of geography of the Milwaukee State Normal school, has compiled, and published "Studies in Local Geography, No. 1," describing the Milwaukee lake shore region. She has also published a pamphlet entitled "Review Questions in Mathematical Geography."

The THEATERS

(Advertisement.)

Unusually Good Entertainment at the Lyric, Rialto & Colonial All This Week.

At the Lyric, Jackie Coogan will be seen in his greatest success "Circus Days," adapted from James Otis' celebrated circus story "Toby Tyler;" at the Rialto, Ponjola," an amazing story of a woman who lived like a man with Anna Q. Nilsson, James Kirkwood and Tully Marshall; at the Colonial, "On the Banks of the Wabash," a stirring human interest story replete with joys and sorrows, laughter and tears. All features are embellished with interesting and amusing short subjects and good music.

"The Way of a Man" Coming to the Liberty for Three Days, Starting Thursday Matinee.

The swiftest romance, drama and action story of pioneer American life, "The Way of a Man," from the genius pen of Emerson Hough who wrote "The Covered Wagon" and "North of 36" will be presented as an extra added attraction at the Liberty the last half of this week.

"The Chronicles of America," First of the Series at the Liberty the First Half of This Week.

The Yale University Press presents "The Chronicles of America," the first authentic and dramatic films visualizing the making of our great nation. It took eight years to plan and produce these pictures. Over two million dollars will be spent on production. Every costume, set, and article is true-to-fact, proved and reproved by hundreds of research experts. Every event pictured is absolutely authentic and correct, vouched for by famous authorities. Each film has the seal of approval of Yale University Press, attesting to the faithful fidelity and truth of the action and settings. "Vincennes" will be the first epoch presented at the Liberty.

It is seldom that the people of Lincoln are offered so many high class attractions at the Orpheum in one week. "Blossom Time" will appear Monday and Tuesday nights only; "Wild Flower" Wednesday matinee and night; and Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn and the Denishawn dancers Thursday night only. All the above attractions have received unstinted praise from the press everywhere. The advanced sale for all shows is large. To avoid disappointment all reservations for seats should be called or paid for by one p. m. the day of the show.

"Blossom Time" at the Orpheum Monday and Tuesday Night.

Exquisite "Blossom Time," that altogether charming operetta or musical comedy, will be seen at the Orpheum theatre, Monday and Tuesday night, February 11 and 12.

Those who have seen "Blossom Time" will want to see it again, and those who have never seen it should not miss its numerous unusual allurements, not the least of which is its lovely musical score taken almost entirely from the songs and other master works of Franz Schubert. Messrs. Shubert are bringing the splendid singing company which has delighted theatregoers everywhere this beautiful and extraordinary play with music has been seen including such players as Joseph Mendelsohn, Elizabeth Gergely, Viola Beechwood, Ada Howard, Madja St. Clair, Shep Camp, Patrick Kelly, William Nettum, Jack Keller, Frank Horn, Elsie Duffield, Walter Armin, Sol Mansfield, Robert Long, George Adams, Robert Callahan, Marie Bantes, Flo Keely, Thomas A. Hart, and Hatty Martin.

"Wildflower at the Orpheum Wednesday Matinee and Night.

"Wildflower," (The "Bambalina" Show), flying the banner of Arthur Hammerstein, and described as a musical play in three acts, in which Eva Olivotti, the well known prima donna, sings the title role, will be the attraction at the Orpheum, Wednesday matinee and night, February 13.

Conclusive proof of good entertainment is provided in the announcement that the famous Hammerstein combination of authors, Otto Harbach, Oscar Hammerstein, 2nd, Herbert Stothart and Vincent Youmans, are identified respectively with the book, the lyrics and the music.

To "Wildflower," Harbach and the younger Hammerstein have given a plot of tangible proportions, which vibrates with animated vigor and spontaneous freshness. One laugh-provoking situation follows so closely on another that they virtually tread on one another's heels.

Messrs. Stothart and Youmans have doled out for the score of "Wildflower" enough song hits to stock three ordinary musical comedies. Some of the most popular numbers are "Bambalina," "Wildflower" and "April Blossoms."

In addition to Miss Olivotti, the Broadway cast includes Bobby Bernard, Carrie Reynolds, Paul Donah, Adele Kellar, Cliff Heckinger, Allan H. Fagan, Charles Burrows, the dancing team of Dempsey and Wood, a host of gifted specialty artists and a large and attractive chorus.

Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn and the Denishawn Dancers at the Orpheum Thursday Night.

Music will play a prominent part in the performance to be given by Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn and the Denishawn Dancers at the Orpheum, Thursday night, February 14. Such famous composers as Beethoven, Chopin, Brahms, Liszt, Granados, Jonas, Moszkowski and Levitak will be represented and the accompaniments will be supplied by a quartet led by Louis Horst at the piano and including J. Froling, violin; Augusto Scalzi, flute and Peter Kleyenberg, cello, all artists of the highest distinction who have been connected with other important symphonic organizations in the past.

"The Unwanted Child" at the Orpheum Friday and Saturday Matinee and Night.

A drama of life from every angle, "The Unwanted Child," will be the attraction at the Orpheum, February 15 and 16, for four performances starting Friday matinee with daily matinees for ladies only, at which a lecture will be delivered on unwanted babies. No one under sixteen will be admitted to any performance. The penalties which are exacted of mothers and of their unwanted babies do not conform to the modern ideas of justice and club women in all parts of the country are realizing this to such an extent that movements have been started in many communities to solve the problem that they believe should have been solved long ago. "The Unwanted Child is an interesting powerful play in four acts and tells the whole pitiful story in all its details.

A Boquet of Vaudeville Novelties Opens at the Liberty Monday Matinee.

The bill at the Liberty for the first half of the week is varied enough to please all. The original comedy stars, Rice and Cady, an inimitable team of comedians, will present their laugh provoking skit, "Am I Right;" the Three Original Blanks, a trio of European entertainers, will be seen in a most amazing exhibition of juggling; Clara Keating and Harry Ross, a duo of versatile youngsters, presenting "The Younger Generation;" the Three Ander Sisters, a trio of charmingly pretty and clever young women who present a most novel offering consisting of singing and dancing; Prince Leo, a beautiful equine entertainer, will cause much wonderment because of the marvelous way in which he works. The last chapter of "Ruth of the Range," and the first episode of "The Way of a Man," completes a big program.

Strand Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Priscilla Dean, the dynamic dramatic actress whose high rank as a screen star is based on such successes as "Outside the Law," "Conflict" and "The Flame of Life," comes to the Strand theatre in a new underworld story, "White Tiger," in which she was directed by the same man who guided "Outside the Law," Tod Browning. "White Tiger" is the story of three experts in high class crime who came from London to America to steal millions from the backs of society matrons. Wallace Berry, Raymond Griffith and Matt Moore support Dean.

Answers to Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—Kindly give me the address, color of hair and eyes, height and weight of "My Favorite, Ruth Roland.' Thank you I hope I may come again. Yours sincerely—QUESTION MARK.

Ruth Roland may be reached at 605 South Norton Ave., Ruth Roland Studio, Los Angeles, Calif. She has reddish brown hair and violet eyes. She weighs 122 and is five feet four inches tall, so she doesn't have to worry about counting the calories. Please come again, whenever you feel like writing.

Dear Movie Editor—Please send me the height, age, color of hair and eyes, addresses and the names of the latest pictures of Barbara La Marr, Douglas Fairbanks, Marion Davies and Nita Naldi, and Billie Sullivan, who seems to be my favorite since I saw him in "The Leather Pushers."

Sincerely yours—AN INTERESTED MOVIE FAN,, Havelock, Neb.

Barbara LaMarr has the leading feminine role in "The Eternal City." Her hair and eyes are dark, and she's five feet six inches tall and twenty-six years old. Address her in care of Associated First National, Hollywood.

Dear Movie Editor—I am a new fan, wishing if possible for you to answer some questions, that is if there can be any space given to me. About three years ago, if my recollection is right, I saw a serial picture entitled, "The Mystery Ship." I am interested in that picture and would like to know something about it. If you remember, or have on an old file anything relating to this picture, I wish you would please answer the following questions: Under what film company was it produced, and where was it made? What was the cast for this particular picture? Who was the author for it? Do you think this picture will ever be shown on the screen again? I saw it so long ago so I don't remember much about it.

Also, could you spare enough space to tell me something about the entering of photoplay on the screen? Hoping that I will see this in print, I remain—A MOVIE LOVER, Osceola, Neb.

Charles Ogle Chosen.—Charles Ogle has been chosen by Cecil B. De Mille for the principal character part in "Triumph" his next Paramount production, adapted from May Edginton's story.

"Cytherea." — George Fitzmaurice and Samuel Goldwyn have commenced the screen production of Joseph Hergesheimer's "Cytherea" at the Biograph studio in New York. Alma Rubens has the leading rol and Constance Bennett, daughter of Richard Bennet, the well known actor, has an important part in the production.

"True as Steel"—Rupert Hughes has added Norman Kerry, who played leading roles in "The Hunchback" and "Merry-Go-Round" to his cast of "True as Steel." Among the other brilliant names in the cast are Huntley Gordon, who played with Gloria Swanson in "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," Aileen Pringle, Cleo Madison, and Louis Paine, former stage favorite, and husband of Mrs. Leslie Carter. Mr. Hughes originally wrote the story in short story form for a magazine. It deals with the problems of a woman in business.

"The Arizona Express." — Dell Knott, prominent character actor, and brother to Lydia Knott, has been added to the cast of Tom Buckingham's production, "The Arizona Express," which is being made at the William Fox studio. Pauline Starks has the leading feminine role in the picture, and Anne Cornwall is the "flapper."

University Notes

Rev. Charles S. Braden, Evans A. Worthley, A. M. '13, and Miss Muriel Day, Methodist life-service team from Chicago, will be guests of the Methodist students of the university, February 24, 25 and 26. Sunday they will speak to Bible class and Epworth leagues; Monday noon they will speak at an all-Methodist luncheon; and Monday and Tuesday they complete their program by interviewing students who desire to go into full-time Christian service. Dr. Harry Huntington, Methodist student pastor, will arrange the interviews. Mr. Worthley was Methodist student pastor of the university from 1913 to 1918, when he went into war work. He was in charge of Y. M. C. A. work with the American naval aviation station in Ireland from 1918-1919. Since then he has served as university pastor at Cornell, and later was director of vocational counsel of the commission on life service. Miss Day represents the Women's Home Missionary society on the commission, and has been for several years national field secretary and student secretary. Teachers are needed in the industrial homes and schools established by the commission. Settlements, deaconess homes, orphanages and homes for working and delinquent girls are among the institutions ministering to the immigrant children and the poor. Mr. Braden has been engaged in educational work in Bolivia and Chile since graduation from Baker university and the Unio nTheological seminary in New York. In Chile he was president of the theological seminary and editor of the Chile Christian Advocate — both interdenominational enterprises.

Dr. Charles Fordyce, chairman of the department of educational measurements and research, addressed the Platte Valley Ministerial association at Fremont Monday on "The Psychology of the Adolescent." He spoke to the ladies of the Second Presbyterian church of Lincoln Friday evening on "The Function of the Home and the Church in the Guidance of Youth."

Extension service publications including United States farmers' bulletins applicable to Nebraska, may be got from the college of agriculture of the university on agronomy, animal husbandry, dairy husbandry, engineering, netomology, home economics, horticulture, poultry husbandry and rural economics. The list includes eighty-four bulletins furnished to residents of Nebraska through the cooperation of the United States department of agriculture; twenty-six extension publications dealing with various phases of poultry husbandry; eight publications from the experiment station of the college on stock care and disease prevention; twenty-four extension circulars on live stock; eight station circulars; twenty-five station bulletins on stock-raising and agriculture, and six bulletins describing research work in grain-raising. County agents are supplied with the titles of these publications which are furnished without cost by the college of agriculture.

Prof. E. F. Schramm of the department of geology will give an illustrated lecture on "Oil Shales of Wyoming" at the regular monthly meeting of the University of Nebraska chapter of Sigma Xi, honorary scientific investigation society, in the general lecture room of Bessey hall, February 12, at 8 o'clock. Professor Schramm will discuss the results of his research on the oil shales of Wyoming, and will also briefly outline the work which has been done on the oil shales of Colorado and Utah. Non-members of the society are welcome.

G. W. Rosenlof, instructor in the history and principles of education, Teachers' college, spoke on "The Teachers' Task" at the monthly dinner Wednesday evening of the Workers Conference of the First Plymouth Congregational Sabbath school.

Louise W. Mears, A. M. '12, of the department of geography of the Milwaukee State Normal school, has compiled, and published "Studies in Local Geography, No. 1," describing the Milwaukee lake shore region. She has also published a pamphlet entitled "Review Questions in Mathematical Geography."

ANSWERS TO Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—Today I went to see Douglas Fairbanks, jr. in "Stephen Steps Out." You were perfectly right that he is much more like Wallace Reid, and I really admire him and his manly manner. I remember that you told one of the fans about that. Douglas jr. did very well in his first picture. Sometime ago somebody wrote and said that Douglas, jr. got one thousand dollars to be discharged from Laskys because they were disappointed in him. It must be a mistake for he has proved that he could act. What is his new picture? Don't you think he goes and visits with his dad? I wonder what he thinks of his step-mother, Mary Pickford Fairbanks.

Have you seen "Souls for Sale" at the Colonial, and it thrilled me to see the beautiful homes and Hollywood life. It is a fine example of the motion picture life. How old is Eleanor Boardman?

Will you tell me how old Claire Windsor, is, and to whom she was married? I think she is the most beautiful among the movie actresses. Where did she go to make a new picture?

What did the stars and actors express when their salaries were cut? I heard that too many movie-struck boys and girls rushed to Hollywood to seek work in the movies and that both "Y" have to help them return home. I know that a few wealthy folks coming from the extreme east were admitted to the movies, although they had no experience. Why do the companies not discard them and let others who have a hard time traveling to Hollywood have some chances. Some well-known people are likely admitted to that. They had an easy time to get in. I am very much disgusted with it, and my ideas is that they should let others have better chances.

A friend of mine who had been visiting in Hollywood said that Pola Negri's eyese were homely. I have a good word about Conrad Nagel. He is a real Christian and attends a church every Sunday and Wednesday, acting as an usher. He was said to be just good looking. Thank you in advance. Yours sincerely—MELVIN.

I'm glad to hear from you again, and also glad that you liked Doug, jr. He's such a good looking, clean cut youngster, I thought you would like him. He is not working on any picture at present. It is rumored that his mother insists upon telling the directors how they should make his pictures, and naturally that doesn't make much of a hit. He's a great admirer of his famous father, but wants to get by on his own merits, rather than as the son of Douglas Fairbanks. I don't see how he could help but like Mary.

Eleanor Boardman is twenty-five. Claire Windsor was born in 1897. Her name was Bowes. She went to Algeria to appear in "A Son of the Sahara," which is being filmed there.

I think the majority of stars who had their salaries cut, were glad of a chance to work, even with reduced pay, because many of them were "laid off" entirely. It is very true that the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. of Hollywood are kept busy in finding work for the boys and girls who go to Hollywood with no means, seeking employment in the movies, only to be disappointed. A great many of them prefer to do almost anything in Hollywood rather than return to their homes as failures. The secretary of the Hollywood Studio club, the Y. W. C. A. of movieland, says that her principal task is to disillusion women and girls about movies and to try to keep them away from Hollywood. She also provides decent surroundings and clubs for girls who have positions in the movies and are away from their homes and friends, and earn just enough to keep them from starving. The wealthy people are able to get in the movies, because they have the wardrobes taht are required, and also the means to keep going with until they can find employment in the movies. Many of them, who are well known in the social world, are asked to appear as "extras" because their names add prestige to the cast. You do not hear of many of them becoming stars, however. Their names might appear in one or two pictures, and then sink into oblivion.

Dear Sir or Madam: I am enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope. Please tell me whether Gloria Swanson is a blonde or brunette. We have had quite a discussion of this weighty problem and seek the correct solution.

Thanking you for your trouble, I am, yours very truly—R. M., Winner, S. D.

Gloria Swanson is more brunette than blonde, since she has dark hair and blue eyes, but the question might be more amicably settled by saying she is not a decided brunette, and certainly could not be called a blonde.

Dear Movie Editor—Can you tell me the date that the Rialto opened? Have you the casts for "Poppy" which was the first picture they showed, and "The Valley of the Giants?"

Please give me the year of birth for each of the following: Leatrice Joy, Pola Negri, Mary Philbin and Raymond Griffith.

If you have scenes from pictures I would appreciate it very much if you would send me one from any of Leatrice Joy's whenever you can.

Thank you very much—ANOTHER FAN.

I can't give you the exact date that the Rialto opened, but it was around 1917. It was formerly known as the Majestim. "Poppy" was released in 1917 with Norma Talmadge as the star, but I don't have the complete cast for the picture.

The cast for "The Valley of the Giants" is: "Bryce Cardigan," Wallace Reid; "Shirley Sumner," Grace Darmond; "Buck Ogilvy," Will Brunton; "Cardigan," Charles Ogle; "Mrs. Cardigan," Alice Taafe; "Col. Pennigton," Ralph Lewis; "Moira McTavish," Richard Cummings; "Marcelle," Virginia Foltz; Mayor Poundstone," Ogden Crane; "Mrs. Poundstone," Lillian Mason; "Henry Poundstone," Speed Hansen.

Leatrice Joy was born in 1897, and Pola Negri, 1898. Mary Philbin was born in 1905 and Raymond Griffith was born in 1890.

I'm sorry that I have no pictures at present of either scenes or stars.

Dear Movie Editor—I have written several times before and have been well satisfied with my answers, so will ask some more questions. How old are the following: Jean Acker, Marion Davies, Dorothy and Lillian Gish? Is Jean Acker married again? I think she is a doll What color hair and eyes has Conway Tearle? He surely does play his parts well. I saw "Souls for Sale." I thought Frank Mayo played his part splendidly. How old is he? How will I get some pictures of the stars? Yours Truly—THELMA.

Jean Acker is twenty-seven and was reported engaged to a French count, or some titled foreign gentleman, but have never heard of their marriage. Marion Davies is twenty-six. Dorothy Gish is also twenty-six and Lillian is two years her senior.

Mr. Tearle has dark hair and eyes. He is considered the highest salaried leading man on the screen, which must mean that he is among the best.

Frank Mayo is thirty-eight. If you will write directly to the players and enclose a quarter for postage, they will be glad to send you their photograph—at least most of them will They hire secretaries to answer their fans' mail and send out pictures.

Dear Movie Editor—I have been very interested in your page for sometime past, although not an ardent movie fan.

My hobby happens to be my fondness for animals, especially dogs. Do you like them? I am wondering if you can tell me if there is any picture that features animals, especially dogs, as the sole actors in the play, and the names of some, and whether any are being made at the present time, etc.

If you have the information, would like to know the names, history, etc. of the leading dogs at present on the screen. I learn, by reading your page, that you do not answer letters personally, although one would be appreciated very much, so will sign off thusly—W. L. C.

I'm very fond of the clever dogs in the movies, but I'll have to admit that I have very little love for "mongrels" or dogs that bark at night. I don't know that there has ever been many pictures featuring just dogs without some human characters in the plot, but there have been many pictures in which dogs were the featured players, such as "The Silent Call," "Brawn of the North" and "The Love Master," in which Strongheart, the Belgium police dog is featured. He is one of the best known dog stars of the screen, and is sponsored by Laurence Trimble and Jane Murfin. His heroine in the movies is Lady Jule, a beautiful white dog.

Brownie, known as "The Century Wonder Dog," was a puppy about to be drowned when Charles Gee, his owner and trainer, rescued him. He is part bull terrier and part fox terrier. His salary is $300 a week, and it was Brownie who helped make Baby Peggy famous.

"Peter the Great," the police dog which won the cnamplonship in the field trials for best trained police dogs, is a Christie comedy star. He is owned and trained by Ed Faust, who comes of a long line of police dog trainers in Germany. Peter made his first motion picture appearance with Baby Peggy in the wolf role in "Little Red Riding Hood" He is one of the principal comedians in "Aggravating Papa," a new Christie comedy in which he shares stellar honors with Jimmie Adams.

Then we have Buck, the thoroughbred St. Bernard, who played an important part in "The Call of the Wild." He is of reddish brown, smooth coated variety, and was trained by Lou Treesh. Hal Roach purchased him and trained him especially for the Call of the Wild." There are many other well known dogs of the screen. There is Teddy, whose salary is $275 a week, Buddy, with a salary of $250 a week, Cameo, and Pal, each of which get $200 a week for their talent.

are priceless, while the flattery of a man may be purchased so very cheaply. Any woman who cares to so cheapen herself can bedeck herself by marcels and cosmetics, don a come-hither look and have all the adventures in the way of masculine followings and flattery that she desires.

But what does it bring her? Excitement, surely. Insults, probably. Disgrace, eventually. And loss of her finer instincts, of the respect of good people, of valuable friendships and connections, and in most cases, the loss of home and husband.

Your husband is well within his rights and the bonds of good, common sense to demand that you quit work and stay home with your babies. What if it does mean a few marcels less, or giving up marcels altogether. You can keep your hair attractive by your own efforts if you will take the time.

You are being utterly shallow, foolish and vain. You are placing such a superficial thing as a marcel above your duties and responsibilities to your children, home and husband. You are placing the excitement which flattery gives above the deep, everlasting happiness which the love of a good man and the happiness of a well-ordered home can bring.

For shame, woman. Choose before it is too late the big, true, honest life.

NEBRASKA ALUMNI TO "LISTEN IN"

hour. They will transact their business, have their social hour, and the members will reminisce upon the days of used to be. Other pursuits will engage them for the day, but in the evennig they will celebrate the fifty-fifth birthday anniversary of the university.

Those who can be in groups will remember largely "what we did" in some year or another. Theirs will be subordinated to that more fascinating history, the deeds of those who made it a university. The prowess of the class of something or other, seen through the haze of years, will be vastly more intriguing than the pursuits of the institution itself.

Those who are denied the privilege of a club celebration will view the day from another angle. They will remember the crumbly, tottering old U hall that was "the university" in its first trembly little days. They will see the growth from that building, which shall ever be the human, vital center of the university, to the nearly two score buildings of today.

Grads Widely Scattered.

They will think how those first scattered students were but the nucleus of five or six thousand of today. They will recall the advance in opportunities offered the student, the increased culture of the years, the ever widening sphere of its offerings. And as they remember the university, as they are in China, Courland, or Alaska, they will see a college that has grown, is growing, and will continue to grow.

Never more octopus-like is the university than it will be next Friday night. Through that Aladdin genil, the radio, the alumni for several hundred miles are to centered around the main charter day program at the university. They may live in eastern Colorado, or in the vicinage of Chicago, or near Minneapolis, or half way between Kansas City and St. Louis, but they may take part in the charter day program—if they but "listen in" on the evening atmosphere.

A program of talks and music will be broadcast from the university radio station, WFAV, at a 275 metre length, at 8:30 Friday evening, February 15. Any one within a radius of five hundred miles or a little more may receive this program. If possible, a similar program will be broadcast from station WOAW, the Woodman of the World station, in Omaha. The Woodman station is the most powerful one in Nebraska, and the program from there can be picked up at greater distances.

Chancellor Will Speak.

The program will be opened with a half hour program by the university band, under the direction of William T. Quick. The band has a personnel of sixty musicians this year, and will make an excellent beginning for the radio program. This will be followed by a group of selections by the university glee culb, which is directed by Dean Parvin Witte of Wesleyan university. Victor Smith of Omaha, president of the alumni association, will give an address of greeting to the alumni and will urge alumni support of the university.

After another number by the band, Chancellor Samuel Avery will speak. Chancellor Avery will briefly review the year's work in the university and will outline the needs of the school. The glee club will sing again, then telegrams of greeting from one club to another will be read. The program will close with another numbiner by the glee club.

It is estimated that between 1,400 and 1,500 alumni will be reached by this program, and many more will hear the charter day exercises. If it is possible to broadcast from the Omaha station. Fourteen hundred alumni will, for an hour or so, be in direct touch with the university, which they may not have seen for years, and they can not forget it quite so easily again.

Among the clubs that will meet that night are the Nebraska clubs in Washington, D. C., Chicago, Indianapolis, Sioux City, Detroit, St. Louis, Helena, Mont., Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Seattle, Spokane, and Sheridan, Wyo. The clubs in the state from which responses have been received are the Box Butte alumni club at Alliance, the Custer county club at Broken Bow, the Fillmore county club at Geneva, the Frontier county club at Curtis, the Red Willow county club at McCook, and the Scotts Bluff county club at Scottsbluff.

ALASKA LAND OF OF GREAT BEAUTY

was not such that the needs of the country can be taken care of properly. "Alaska includes a lot of ground and all sections of it possess certain peculiarities. The needs of the northwestern parts are often entirely unlike those of the southeastern parts. A bit of legislation may be of benefit to one section and work a great hardship on another. For this reason we have been seeking permission to have a representative to care for each of these. That would practically mean the cutting of Alaska in two and there would be two territories where there is now one. But everyone would be better satisfied."

"Is there lawlessness and disorder there?" "Well, I should say there is more since the country has civil government than there was in the early days when every man made his own laws. Then, men were quicker with the gun and readier with the rope and crime did not go long unpunished. Now he pays a light penalty for the misdemeanor which doesn't bother him much and does it again."

Enforce Prohibition Strictly.

"However, prohibition is enforced more strictly in Alaska than it is here in the states. The federal officers keep a sharp eye open and it isn't hard to detect a moonshiner from the supplies he buys. The litte corn that is shipped in to Alaska is mostly for stock feed. When a man buys more than his horses need the agents have a pretty good "tip" that he is making corn mash with it. They trail him down and usually find him operating a still."

Kantishna is the present home of th Quigleys. Th population of that vicinity varies from 60 to 100 inhabitants, they say. In the early days the nearest neighbor was often a day's hiking distance away.

Got Mail Once a Year.

"At first I only received my mail about once a year. Sometimes a traveler would come through and I would get it oftener if I was lucky. We get it fairly regular now." I remember, once a friend of mine here in the states subscribed to a daily paper to be sent to me at Kantishna. He wrote me a letter telling me what he had done. Well, I got the letter and with it 162 issues of the paper."

Mr. and Mrs. Quigley are planning to return to their home in the spring. "We have made our home there and are too well satisfied to ever think of making it anywhere else."

The Wesleyan psychological journal club has charge of the Epworth league meeting Sunday in the First M. E. church of University Place.

Wesleyan Affairs

Bishop Theodore S. Henderson of the Detroit area of the Methodist Episcopal church will conduct meetings from March 9 to 16 in University Place. His services will be shared by the University and First M. E. church. The campus meetings will be held in the morning and the church in the evening. The period will serve as the week of prayer for the university. The Detroit area has existed for about seven years as a separate Episcopal district and has through this time been directed by Bishop Henderson. More than 20,000 families are included in the episcopacy.

The Nebraska state student volunteer union conference will meet February 15, 16 and 17 at Wesleyan. Students and faculty members will attend from all the colleges and universities in the state. It is hoped to have a number of international leaders present and workers from the fields.

Prof. Rose B. Clark of the teachers' college will also attend the N. E. A. meeting in Chicago. Her manuscript on project geography has been accepted for publication.

Enforce Prohibition Strictly.

"However, prohibition is enforced more strictly in Alaska than it is here in the states. The federal officers keep a sharp eye open and it isn't hard to detect a moonshiner from the supplies he buys. The litte corn that is shipped in to Alaska is mostly for stock feed. When a man buys more than his horses need the agents have a pretty good "tip" that he is making corn mash with it. They trail him down and usually find him operating a still."

Kantishna is the present home of th Quigleys. Th population of that vicinity varies from 60 to 100 inhabitants, they say. In the early days the nearest neighbor was often a day's hiking distance away.

Got Mail Once a Year.

"At first I only received my mail about once a year. Sometimes a traveler would come through and I would get it oftener if I was lucky. We get it fairly regular now." I remember, once a friend of mine here in the states subscribed to a daily paper to be sent to me at Kantishna. He wrote me a letter telling me what he had done. Well, I got the letter and with it 162 issues of the paper."

Mr. and Mrs. Quigley are planning to return to their home in the spring. "We have made our home there and are too well satisfied to ever think of making it anywhere else."

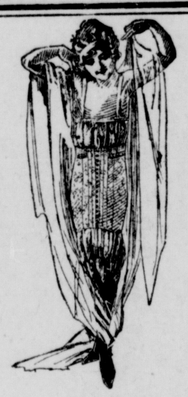

The Wesleyan psychological journal club has charge of the Epworth league meeting Sunday in the First M. E. church of University Place.

Wesleyan Affairs

Bishop Theodore S. Henderson of the Detroit area of the Methodist Episcopal church will conduct meetings from March 9 to 16 in University Place. His services will be shared by the University and First M. E. church. The campus meetings will be held in the morning and the church in the evening. This period will serve as the week of prayer for the university. The Detroit area has existed for about seven years as a separate Episcopal district and has through this time been directed by Bishop Henderson. More than 20,000 families are included in the espiscopacy.

The Nebraska state student volunteer union conference will meet February 15, 16 and 17 at Wesleyan. Students and faculty members will attend from all the colleges and universities in the state. It is hoped to have a number of international leaders present and workers from the fields.

Prof. Rose B. Clark of the teachers' college will also attend the N. E. A. meeting in Chicago. Her manuscript on project geography has been accepted for publication.

A Brilliant Array of Styles

Announcing Spring 1924

As usual our buyers were first in the east to study the styles, to enable us to be first in Lincoln to present to the discriminating women of this community the earliest and most authentic clothes creations for the spring season just ahead. Every department buyer was fortunate to secure "the cream of the best to be had in the world fashion center." Our New York buying connections helps us to get prices and merchandise that other stores cannot duplicate.

Here under one roof you will find the accepted masterpieces of the world of fashion for spring, you will find them perfect in tailoring, lavish in style, unsurpassingly good in fabric and material. Come and learn what's what for spring, we can only give you a meager description in print.
